Community Patent

The European Council held in Lisbon in March 2000 called for the creation of a Community patent system to address existing shortcomings in the legal protection for inventions, thus giving an incentive for investments in research and development and contributing to the competitiveness of the economy as a whole. In the wake of the Lisbon European Council, the Commission put forward on 1 August 2000 a proposal for a Council regulation on the Community patent [COM(2000) 412 final].

The effective entry into operation of the Community patent system requires the adoption of this regulation by the Council and of subsequent implementing regulations to be adopted in comitology procedure.

In the framework of the creation of a unitary Community patent, two Commission proposals have also been presented on December 2003 on the establishment of a Community patent jurisdiction.

Community Patent

On 1 August 2000, the Commission proposed the creation of a Community patent by way of an EC Regulation (PDF, 134 KB).

Discussions in the Council have resulted in a Common Political Approach dated 3.3.2003 laying down the compromises achieved on four critical issues (jurisdiction, languages and costs, role of national patent offices and distribution of fees).

The latest Proposal for a Council Regulation on the Community patent is dated 8.3.2004 (document 7119/04).

In addition, on 23.12.2003, the Commission published its proposals for the Community Patent Court:

- Proposal for a Council Decision establishing the Community Patent Court and concerning appeals before the Court of First Instance - COM\(2003\) 828 final

Once the Community Patent Regulation has been adopted, it will be necessary to revise the EPC in order to accommodate the Community patent and enable the European Community to become party to the EPC. The latest Council Proposal for amendments to the EPC is dated 19.11.2003 (document 15088/03).

In January 2006, the Commission launched a public consultation on how future action in patent policy could best take account of stakeholders' needs. The Questionnaire on the patent system in Europe published on that occasion by the Commission focuses on three major issues:

- the Community patent,
- how the existing European patent system could be improved in the near future and
- possible areas for harmonisation.

The EPO's reply to the Questionnaire has been made public.

The consultation process has brought renewed attention to projects which have been suffering from the deadlock of the years 2004-2005 as well as new momentum to the arduous endeavour of reforming patent law in Europe. On 12.7.2006, the Commission hosted an open hearing in Brussels. The stated aim of the hearing is to initiate a second phase of the consultation, at the end of which the Commission will present its views on the future patent policy in Europe.

FUTURE PATENT POLICY IN EUROPE

PUBLIC HEARING – 12 JULY 2006

European Commission
"Charlemagne" Room S3
Rue de la Loi 170
Brussels

REPORT

On July 12, DG Internal Market and Services held its public hearing on the future patent policy in Europe.

The hearing encountered the same vivid interest as the preceding written phase of the consultation. Prior to the debate, DG Internal Market published a document containing succinct preliminary results of the 2515 responses it received, which also set out issues to be discussed. The hearing was based on those findings and its structure mirrored that of the questionnaire.

The debate kicked off with a welcome speech by Mr Thierry Stoll, Acting Director General of DG MARKT. Next, Mr Erik Nooteboom, Head of the Industrial Property Unit presented preliminary findings of the Commission's consultation. Next, Mr Giuseppe Gargani, President of the Legal Affairs Committee of the European Parliament, introduced the session on the Community Patent in a much welcomed address where he expressed his support for a Community Patent based on a simple linguistic regime. Professor Michal Du Vall of the Uniwersytet Jagiellonski of Cracow then provided an unorthodox lively introduction to the session on Basic Principles of Patent Law.

The afternoon session kicked off with a speech by Ms Marja-Leena Rinkineva on behalf of the Finnish Presidency, followed by the introduction of the session on EPLA by Mr Vincenzo Scordamaglia, Honorary Director General of the EU Council. He retraced the lengthy saga of the development of a patent jurisdiction in Europe and pleaded for the much awaited adoption of such a jurisdiction.

In total, 39 pre-selected stakeholders spoke on during allocated 5 minute slots and divided among the four sessions of the debate. At the end of the hearing, additional time was devoted to an open debate where 22 participants intervened in 3 minute on any issue of concern.

The afternoon session included a speech made by the President of the European Patent Office, Professor Alain Pompidou, followed by a presentation of the preliminary results of a study commissioned by DG MARKT on the economic and social value of patents.

The hearing ended with a speech by Commissioner McCreevy where he announced the follow-up to this consultation. The speech is available at: <http://europa.eu/rapid/pressReleasesAction.do?reference=SPEECH/06/453&format=HTML&aged=0&language=EN&guiLanguage=en>

The lists of intervening participants and all the speeches and presentations made during the debate are available for download on the DG Markt's website: http://ec.europa.eu/internal_market/indprop/patent/hearing_en.htm.

RESUME

Debate No 1: Basic principles of the patent system: 6 interventions

There was general consensus that the current system should be improved and that a clear IP policy for Europe should be implemented.

The most highlighted issues were: quality of the patents, legal certainty and predictability of the system in order to enhance and maintain the competitiveness of the EU. The importance of access to the patent system was emphasized.

There was general support to maintain the EPO as the centre of the system with the support of national patent offices and the Commission. Duplication of work among the patent offices should be reduced as much as possible.

The representative of a consumer, health care and education association raised some concerns regarding the ethical framework. It was argued, in particular that: patents on life, patents on human bodies "as such" or its parts "as such" should be rejected. The issue of patents for diagnosis was a further topic.

Some proposals on alternative dispute resolution like mediation or arbitration were made and examples of current practices in WIPO were pointed out.

One university representative suggested the introduction of a grace period.

Debate No 2: Harmonisation and mutual recognition: 6 interventions

All participants agreed on the importance of substantive patent law harmonization and that it is de facto achieved at EU level by the European Patent Convention (EPC). Although some substantive issues were identified as not yet harmonised (computer implemented inventions (CII), trivial patents and ethic-related issues), there is agreement that no Directive on patent harmonization is needed. Also, some mentioned the importance of the Agreement on Trade-related aspects of intellectual property rights Treaty (TRIPS) with respect to harmonisation.

The idea of mutual recognition was widely rejected, perceived as a threat for the current "well functioning" grant system and not feasible given significant differences in experience and expertise among national patent offices.

Some stated that the aim of the national patent offices (NPOs) should be to reach the same level of quality as delivered by the EPO (guidelines or soft-law could help harmonise national standards). In this respect, some rejected the idea of an EPO "certificate of quality" since it would increase its current workload. Also, issues of training and of work carried out by patent examiners, as well as education exercise on patents vis-à-vis the general public, were raised.

The importance of a future mutual recognition among trilateral offices (EPO, USPTO and JPO) was highlighted. For that purpose, a Substantive Patent Harmonization Treaty (SPLT) is seen as helpful.

Other proposals: need for quick actions to fulfil the Lisbon agenda; further coordination between the Commission-DG MARKT and EPO, the Commission should start negotiating EPLA and the European Community should accede to the EPC.

Debate No 3: Community Patent

Most participants in the debate supported the concept of a Community patent, however "not at any price".

SME interests claimed that a Community patent in line with the 3d of March 2003 Council compromise was too costly for them. However, it was also suggested to provide for the grant of patents in "the SME's own language" combined with translations of the claims in all other Community languages. Some research institutions proposed to provide for an "English only" language regime.

Various industry and Member States representatives considered that a Community framework for patents is a priority and called for a compromise package. One participant suggested in case that all efforts failed for achieving a package deal to pursue COMPAT by virtue of enhanced co-operation of certain Member States. One speaker, whilst wholeheartedly supporting EPLA, suggested abandoning COMPAT all together.

Consumers' representatives asked for the carrying out of "independent studies" concerning the issues addressed in the consultation and suggested a patent system involving remuneration rights instead of restricted acts.

Other issues of concern in this debate were trivial patents, patent quality and the need for promoting interoperability.

Debate No 4: Jurisdiction

The majority of participants favoured changes to the current patent litigation regime to prevent conflicting interpretations in multi-jurisdictional cases. To succeed, the following features were identified: simple and rapid procedures, simplicity of access (proximity to courts), legal clarity and predictability through a certain level of centralization, reasonable costs, specialised judges and an appropriate language regime.

Some participants pleaded for the development of alternative dispute resolution, such as arbitration and mediation, as providing rapid and less costly solutions that could be helpful, in particular to SMEs.

The majority of participants supported the draft European Patent Litigation Agreement (EPLA). The main reason for the support is the right balance between simple access to courts (regional divisions) and legal certainty through centralization (second instance) that draft EPLA is seen to achieve. Participants also describe the language regime as appropriate and welcome its specialised (technical) judges who would guarantee high quality decisions (high quality patents). The necessity for a uniform set of rules of procedure was stressed. It was stated that an EPLA court was always needed, independently of a COMPAT court, in order to deal with the European bundle patents.

Concerns relating to the draft EPLA centre on costs and the independence of judges. Some participants pointed out that EPLA would force plaintiffs that might otherwise have gone for litigation in only one country, to bear the costs under EPLA, which were two to three times higher than those incurred by litigation in one country (example Germany or France). In practice, only a small percentage of cases actually involve multi-jurisdictional litigation. It was stressed that the higher costs would make it harder for SMEs to enforce their patents and also to defend themselves. A further concern was raised that under EPLA the administration would control the judiciary and that judges would not be independent but taking the same decisions as the EPO (e.g. with regard to software patents). They would be appointed and re-appointed by the same people running the EPO and could hold positions at the EPO at the same time as being judges.

A number of participants stated that an EPLA court and a COMPAT court could function side-by-side, while at least one participant felt that, ultimately, there should be just one patent litigation system in Europe.

At least one intervening participant suggested that a patent litigation system should be modelled on the existing system of Community trade mark courts with national, specialised courts dealing with patent litigation.

Final Open Debate

Many participants stressed the fact that the daily life of SMEs should be better taken into account by the patent system:

- in relation to cost, which can kill innovation;
- in relation to their ability to understand and use the patent system (assistance services).

Other points made: the importance of quality of patents; lack of competitiveness of Europe on the global stage; the need for an easier access for inventors; the need to increase public awareness; the fact that the introduction of exceptions would destroy the economic incentive; the fact that patents are harmful for open standards (need for a clear definition of these standards by the Commission); and the importance of the separation of powers.

Community Patent:

The majority of speakers were in favour of a Community Patent, but opposed to the 2003 common political approach.

Opinions diverged on the language regime: some favoured a one-language (or at least a very limited number of languages) approach, while others considered that such an approach would be discriminatory and would make access to information regarding technology difficult (translations should be put on the web).

Concerning the jurisdictional aspects, several speakers stressed the importance of technically educated judges and of regional chambers at first instance level.

Some speakers supported FICPI's proposal (i.e. COMPAT not necessarily in all MS and a jurisdiction system inspired by the trademark and design system). Several speakers pointed to the fact that COMPAT and EPLA can coexist and that there should be a synergy between them.

EPLA:

The majority of participants were in favour of EPLA (centralisation makes Europe one of the big players on the global stage). Some of them considered that this is THE way forward and that it should be implemented as soon as possible with the involvement of the European Community. Other stakeholders suggested that the EU be part of the EPC and accept the London Protocol and EPLA.

Some pointed to the following features of EPLA: practical and pragmatic agreement, clear procedural rules, optional character, high quality decisions, experienced courts, lower costs than actually foreseen by EPO (States should cover some of the costs).

Harmonisation and Mutual Recognition

While a participant expressed its opposition to both options, another one stressed the need for a harmonisation concerning the breeders' exemption (plant varieties).

Community patent - the proposals before the Council in May 2004 – frequently asked questions

What is the main difference between the compromise text of the Regulation before the Competitiveness Council and the Commission's original proposal?

The Presidency text of the Community patent regulation takes on board the common political approach agreed by the Council in March 2003, in particular the requirement that translations of the claims of the patent be filed in all Community languages for the patent to be valid (unless states renounce the requirement for their official languages). The Commission's original text foresaw that the patent be valid as granted by the European Patent Office in one of the three EPO languages (English, French and German), with translations of the claims in the other two languages published for information.

How will the Community patent relate to existing systems?

The Community patent (Compat) system will exist alongside patents for individual Member States available through the European Patent Office or national patent offices. Applicants will be able to choose what kind of patent they end up with for any particular invention, whether a unitary Community patent covering the whole of the EU, or individual patents for separate EU Member States.

Won't the Compat be compulsory for applicants to the EPO?

Not at all. The European patent application will automatically designate individual states as well as the EU, but the applicant can choose which designations to keep or remove. Any application which still has the EU designated at the time of grant will be a Community patent. If the EU is designated along with its Member States, the unitary EU designation will prevail and the patent will be a Community patent. But after grant the patent holder can still opt for the Community patent to be converted to patents for individual EU Member States under certain conditions.

Won't the Compat system destroy the existing European and national systems?

It will be for applicants to decide which route to patent protection suits them best. There will be different aspects which are advantageous in each case. If one or other route becomes less viable because it does not meet the needs of applicants, then stakeholders will need to decide what action to take.

So what are the differences between a Compat and existing patents?

The main differences relate to the unitary nature of the Community patent, the different translation requirements and maintenance arrangements, with the possibility of corresponding cost savings, and the litigation of disputes before a single Community court instead of in potentially several individual Member States.

What is the significance of the unitary nature of the Compat?

The Compat is a unitary Community-wide intellectual property right (like the Community trade mark or the Community design). It applies with the same effect in the whole territory of the Community, and may only be declared invalid for the whole territory of the Community. Existing patents apply only to individual national territories and can only be invalidated for the state concerned, without directly affecting the equivalent patent in another state. Moreover the Compat will also be managed as a single patent. There will only be one single Community patent register and a Community patent will be annually renewed by paying one single renewal fee, instead of maintaining and paying renewal fees for a number of patents in different MS.

How will costs differ for a Compat?

Costs for the Compat after grant will differ from national patents in relation to translations and maintenance:

- The applicant will be responsible for obtaining translations of the claims of the patent into all EU official languages and filing these at the EPO except for any languages where states have renounced the translation requirement. A simple comparison suggests these costs should be less than the existing translation costs for an average European patent (see http://europa.eu.int/comm/internal_market/en/indprop/patent/docs/2003-03-patent-costs_en.pdf)
- The annual renewal fees for maintenance of the patent will be payable in a single sum to the European Patent Office, rather than to individual national offices as required for national patents. They will amount to not more than the combined annual renewal fees for an average European patent covering say eight states, and could be less. The exact level will have to be decided nearer the time that Community patents will become available.

Taking both these aspects into account, calculations show that the Community patent will cost no more than a European patent covering five states. This would represent a cost saving to around two-thirds (68%) of all applicants for European patents – at least 30000 granted patents each year. For full EU coverage the Community patent would cost only 50% of a European patent for the 25 individual member states – a saving of at least €30000 per patent over 10 years.

On costs, is this a realistic comparison with current practice?

Some companies may prefer to use the system of individual patents so that they can choose in which states to obtain or maintain patent protection. Different firms may protect their inventions in only a few Member States. They may have no need to protect their invention in other Member States if there is no demand or no competition there, or if they have assured market leadership by other means. For them a Community patent may not offer significant cost savings. However if they wanted coverage for more than five states, or access to Community-wide litigation, they could achieve this with a Community patent for little extra cost.

Won't European patents be much cheaper with the London Agreement than the Community patent will be?

The London Agreement¹ is not yet in force. Under the terms of the Agreement, states who become party to it will give up some of their translation requirements for national patents obtained through the European patent system. So if it comes into force it will offer some savings on patents for the states concerned. This could mean that the average European patent for eight states becomes closer in cost to current calculations for the EU-wide Community patent. However the Community patent would still offer cost savings to applicants requiring patent protection for more than around eight states - some 40% of applicants for a European patent – in other words at least 20000 granted patents each year. Even if the London Agreement came into force for all twenty five EU states, the end result would not be any less translation than is required for a Community patent. Under both regimes translations of the claims will be required unless a state renounces that requirement. So while the translation costs might be similar for coverage of 25 states, the maintenance costs would be fixed for the Community patent, leading to a cost saving of some €30000 over patents for all the individual EU MS.

But isn't the Commission preventing application of the London Agreement?

The London Agreement is open to the member states of the European Patent Organisation, and it is for them to decide whether or not to proceed with ratification or accession. But its entry into force is dependent on eight states becoming party including the UK, France and Germany. So far none of the ten original signatory states has ratified, and only one other state has acceded.

So when will we be able to apply for Compats?

Not for a few years yet. That is because among other steps there has to be a Diplomatic Conference to revise the European Patent Convention, under which the EPO would grant Compats. That Diplomatic Conference could take place in 2005. Then a sufficient number of states together with the European Community have to become party to the new version of the Convention to bring it into force. This requires states to pass new national legislation to implement the revised Convention.

What other legislative steps are required?

First of all the Council of the EU needs to adopt the Regulation establishing the Community patent. This has been under discussion since autumn 2000. Once this has been adopted, implementing regulations can then be taken forward, including rules setting out the annual renewal fees for maintenance of the Community patent. A separate series of negotiations will set up the Community patent court (CPC) and the patent appeal chamber at the Court of First Instance on the basis of the proposals adopted by the Commission in December 2003. The Court should be in place by 2010.

Why do we need a Community patent court? Why can't national courts rule?

In fact national courts will deal with some matters relating to the Community patent even after 2010 – particularly questions of ownership, contractual terms or matters relating to the patent as an item of property. But as far as the scope of the patent is concerned, only a single Community jurisdiction can guarantee a consistency of approach and offer legal certainty to right holders and their competitors. So the CPC will rule on infringement and validity questions.

What happens before 2010 when the CPC is to be set up?

During that transition period, MS will designate competent national courts which will have the same jurisdiction as the Community patent court will. However given the steps to be taken before Community patents become available, it is unlikely that many will be subject of litigation before 2010.

How can the Community patent court be as good as the best national courts?

The judges will have to have a high level of legal expertise in patent law, and they will have access to specific technical knowledge provided by the Assistant Rapporteurs. They will be appointed by the Council, on the recommendations of an advisory committee. So it will be up to the Council to ensure that the right team of judges is appointed. And more generally it will be up to the Council to adopt the instruments setting up specific arrangements for the establishment and operation of the court, on the basis of the Commission's proposals adopted last December. The judges will then be responsible for proposing the court's specific rules of procedure for approval by the Council.

Won't it be expensive for litigants to use the Court?

The Court will be funded from the EU budget. The Commission has proposed that parties should contribute a fair share to the costs incurred by their private party litigation. Court fees will need to strike the right balance between the principle of fair access to justice and an adequate contribution by the parties for the services rendered by the Community Patent Court. Legal aid will be provided for parties unable to meet those costs. This means that the Community patent court cannot be expected to be self-financing.

What is the role of patent attorneys before the Community patent jurisdiction?

European Patent Attorneys will enjoy the right to appear before the Community Patent Court and the appeal chamber of the Court of First Instance and speak on behalf of their client. When they appear before the Community patent jurisdiction they shall enjoy the rights and immunities necessary for the independent exercise of their duties. However, the right to represent a party is reserved to the lawyer.

But why can't patent attorneys have the same rights they do at the EPO?

Although patent attorneys have full right of representation before the EPO Boards of Appeal and Boards of Opposition, these specialist bodies are not comparable to national or Community courts. In many national courts patent attorneys do not at present have full rights of representation. However in order to address this issue the Commission has proposed that European patent attorneys may take part in court proceedings and speak before the Community Patent Court and the appeal chamber of the Court of First Instance.

Why should infringers be able to rely on inaccuracies in translations?

Under the existing system, legislation in most states provides that if the translation of the patent into their official language is narrower in scope than the patent granted by the EPO, then third parties can rely on the translation (Article 70 EPC). This means that they can continue indefinitely to carry out activities which would infringe the granted patent in its original language, if they do not infringe the patent as translated. They do not need authorisation of the owner of the patent, nor are they liable to make any payment. In contrast the Community patent system aims to minimise differences in interpretation of the unitary Community patent while allowing some limited relief for infringers who were genuinely misled by an inaccurate translation.

Won't translation problems make it difficult to obtain injunctions?

There is no question of allowing translation deficiencies to prevent the owner of a patent from asserting his rights. Just as at present in patent cases, an alleged infringer may offer various defences, including the ground that the translation of the patent is not accurate. The court dealing with interim measures would normally be expected to take an initial view of all the arguments put forward and act accordingly. But if the court is not satisfied with the defence then there would be no reason for it to delay the grant of an urgent injunction.

What is the proposed language regime before the Community Patent Court?

The language of proceedings is principally determined by reference to the domicile of the defendant in the EU. The defendant must be able to participate in proceedings in his own language. However the court will have access to translation and interpretation facilities as required to ensure that all parties and the judges can participate in the proceedings. Nothing should prevent the parties, if they so wish, from using a Community language which permits direct communication with the judges.

Does the proposed Community patent regulation really rule out arbitration between parties?

No. The regulation allows parties to choose arbitration as a way to resolve a dispute between them, subject to Member States' national rules on arbitration. What arbitration cannot do is to invalidate or officially declare the patent invalid. Only the European Patent Office (in opposition proceedings) and the Community patent court can rule on the validity of the Community patent.

Subject : PREPARATION OF THE MEETING OF THE COUNCIL ON 11 MARCH 2004
- Community patent
= Proposal for a Council Regulation on the Community patent

1. Building on the common political approach of 3 March 2003 (doc. 7159/03) and the further progress achieved thereafter, notably in the context of the meeting of the Competitiveness Council of 26/27 November 2003, the Presidency herewith submits in Annex I to this Note a draft text of the Regulation which reflects the situation following the November Council, with two issues remaining unsolved: the length of the period in Article 24a (3) and the legal effects of the translations of the claims as reflected in Articles 24c and 24d. The changes to the text which was the basis for the deliberations of the November Council (doc. 15086/03) are reflected in the attached Presidency text in the following Articles: 24a (3), 24c, 24d and 62. These changes are suggested in a continuing effort to find compromise solutions to the remaining outstanding issues regarding the compulsory translations of the Community patent and the effects of incorrect translations.

2. As an alternative approach to solving the issue of the effects of the translations of the claims, the Presidency submits in Annex II to this Note a draft "New concept Article" which, together with suggested new recitals, is meant to replace Articles 24c and 24d as well as Articles 11(3a) and 44(3a) in Annex I. The Presidency considers that this alternative approach offers a pragmatic solution to the issues at stake, fully consistent with the unitary character of the Community patent and the need for legal certainty.

Proposal for a COUNCIL REGULATION
on the Community patent
(Text with EEA relevance)

THE COUNCIL OF THE EUROPEAN UNION,

Having regard to the Treaty establishing the European Community, and in particular Article 308 thereof,

Having regard to the proposal from the Commission¹,

Having regard to the opinion of the European Parliament²,

Having regard to the opinion of the European Economic and Social Committee³,

Whereas:

- (1) The activities of the Community include the establishment of an internal market characterised by the abolition of obstacles to the free movement of goods and the creation of a system ensuring that competition in the internal market is not distorted. The creation of the legal conditions enabling undertakings to adapt their activities in manufacturing and distributing products to a Community dimension helps to attain these objectives. A patent to which uniform protection is given and which produces uniform effects throughout the Community should feature amongst the legal instruments which undertakings have at their disposal.
- (2) The Munich Convention on the Grant of European Patents of 5 October 1973 (hereinafter referred to as the "Munich Convention") established the European Patent Office (EPO) and entrusted it with the task of granting European patents. The expertise offered by the European Patent Office should therefore be used in the granting of the Community patent.

³ OJ C 155, 29.5.2001, p. 80.

- (2a) The European Patent Office will play a central role in the administration of Community Patents and will alone be responsible for examination of applications and the grant of Community Patents. All national patent offices will have an important role to play, inter alia advising potential applicants for Community Patents, receiving applications and forwarding them to the EPO, disseminating patent information and advising SMEs. National Patent Offices will be compensated for these activities.
- (2b) Applications for Community Patents can be filed with the National Patent Office of a Member State in its working language(s). Applicants will remain free to present their patent applications directly to the EPO. They may also request that their applications be fully processed by the EPO. On behalf of the EPO and at the request of the applicant, National Patent Offices of Member States having an official language other than the three official languages of the EPO may carry out any task up to and including novelty searches in their respective language(s). National Patent Offices of Member States having as their official language one of the three EPO languages, which have experience of cooperation with the EPO and which need to maintain a critical mass may, if they so wish, carry out search work on behalf of the EPO. The relationship between National Patent Offices carrying out these tasks and the EPO will be based on partnership agreements, containing inter alia common criteria for quality assurance. These criteria (covering documentation, staff training and qualifications and working tools) would aim to guarantee a comparable quality and uniformity of the Community Patent. The implementation of these partnership agreements, i.e. the compliance with these objective quality standards, will be subject to independent periodic review. National patent offices will be compensated for the searches that they carry.
- (2c) The Community Patent system will include a safeguard clause according to which the Council, acting on a proposal from the Commission after consultation with the EPO, can agree to extend the involvement of any National Patent Offices in search activities to meet any severe problems of capacity in delivering Community Patents. Such arrangements must not lead to any reduction of quality of the Community Patent.

- (3) The accession of the Community to the Munich Convention will enable the Community to be included in the Convention system as a territory for which a unitary patent can be granted. The Community can, therefore, limit this Regulation in particular to the creation of the law applicable to the Community patent once granted.
- (3a) The Office should also be entrusted with the task of administering the Community patent, for example, as regards the collection of fees, the distribution of annual fees to national patent offices on the basis of a distribution key to be decided unanimously by the Council and management of the Community Patent Register. It is also appropriate to give the Office a number of other tasks relating to a Community patent, for example, limitation of the patent on application by the holder or recording the surrender or lapse of the patent. In carrying out the tasks of administering the Community patent, the Office will, while respecting Community law, as an organ of the European Patent Organisation apply the provisions of the Munich Convention. The review of decisions taken by the Office will be governed by the Munich Convention.
- (4) Community patent law applicable to the Community patent should not replace the laws of the Member States on patents, nor European patent law as established by the Munich Convention. It would not in fact appear to be justified to require undertakings to apply for registration of their patents as Community patents, since national patents and European patents continue to be necessary for those undertakings which do not want protection of their inventions at Community level. This Regulation should therefore be without prejudice to the right of the Member States to grant national patents.
- (4a) The substantive law applicable to the Community patent, for example as regards patentability, the extent of patent protection, limitation of the effects of the patent and the exhaustion of rights, must follow the same principles as the existing Community legislation with respect to national patents.

- (5) The objective of an affordable Community patent militates in favour of a patent that is valid throughout the Community in the language in which it was granted under the Munich Convention, subject, however, to the obligation on the applicant to submit a translation of all the claims into all the official Community languages. Thus, the language regime for the Community Patent will, up to grant, be the same as the one provided for in the European Patent Convention. This means that the applicant has to present a complete application document in one of the three official languages of the EPO as well as, at the time of grant of the patent, a translation of the claims into the two other EPO languages. However, where the applicant files the application in a non-EPO language and provides a translation into one of the EPO languages, the cost of that translation will be borne by the system ("mutualisation of costs"). For reasons of legal certainty - in particular in connection with actions or claims for damages - non-discrimination and dissemination of patented technology, the applicant must, at the time of grant of the patent, file a translation of all claims into all official Community languages except if a Member State renounces the translation into its official language. The translations will be filed with the EPO and the costs borne by the applicant, who decides on the number and the length of claims to be included in the patent application, thereby having an influence on the cost of translations.
- (5a) The renewal fee for a Community Patent must not exceed the level of the corresponding renewal fees for an average European Patent and will be progressive throughout the life of the Community Patent. The level of procedural fees for processing an application for a Community Patent will be the same regardless of where the application is filed and where the novelty search is carried out (EPO or national patent office). The level of fees will be related to costs for handling the Community Patent and must not lead to any indirect subsidy of national patent offices.
- (5b) Renewal fees for Community Patents will be payable to the European Patent Office, which will keep 50 percent to cover its costs, including the costs of searches carried out by National Patent Offices. The remaining 50 percent will be distributed among the National Patent Offices of the Community Member States in accordance with a distribution key, which will be decided unanimously by the Council.

- (6) Any negative effects of a monopoly created by a Community patent should be prevented through a system of compulsory licences. This is without prejudice to the application of Community competition law by the Commission or national authorities. However, the Community Patent Court should be entrusted with the grant of compulsory licences in situations not falling under Community competition law.
- (7) As Community patents are Community titles the Community jurisdiction should have the power to decide matters affecting their validity. The jurisdictional system of the Community Patent will be based on the principles of a unitary Court for the Community Patent, securing uniformity of the jurisprudence, high quality of working, proximity to the users and potential users and low operating cost. For reasons of legal certainty, all legal actions relating to certain aspects of the Community patent should come under the jurisdiction of one court, and the decisions of that court should be enforceable throughout the Community. Exclusive jurisdiction for a certain category of actions and applications relating to a Community patent, and in particular for actions relating to infringement and validity, should therefore be given to the Court of Justice of the European Communities. Jurisdiction shall reside in the first instance in the Community Patent Court (CPC) created by the decision taken pursuant to Article 225a of the Treaty and, on appeal, in the Court of First Instance. The Court of Justice may make a decision in last resort, subject to the conditions provided for in Article 62 of the Statute of the Court of Justice. This judicial system must be in place and operational by January 2010 at the latest. Until that time, it is necessary to provide for a transitional period during which disputes for which the Community courts are competent shall be heard by the national courts. Once the final judicial system is operational, the Commission shall publish in the Official Journal of the European Union the date on which it shall be applicable. The final system shall apply to actions and applications initiated after that date, whereas individual actions initiated prior to that date before the national courts shall continue to be heard by the national courts.

- (7a) The seat of the Community Patent Court shall be at the Court of First Instance. The judges shall be appointed on the basis of their expertise and taking into account their linguistic skills. The Community Patent Court may hold hearings in Member States other than that in which its seat is located.
- (7b) The judges shall be appointed by a unanimous decision of the Council for a fixed term. The candidates for appointment must have an established high level of legal expertise in patent law. Technical experts will assist the judges throughout the handling of the case.
- (7c) The Community Patent Court will conduct the proceedings in the official language of the Member State where the defendant is domiciled, or in one of them to be chosen by the defendant, where in a Member State there are two or more official languages. At the request of the parties and with the consent of the CPC, any official EU language can be chosen as language of proceedings. The CPC may, in accordance with the rules of procedure, hear parties in person and witnesses in an EU official language other than the language of proceedings. In that case translations and interpretation into the language of the proceedings from another official EU language should be provided.
- (7d) The Community Patent Court shall be established at the latest by 1 January 2010. Until then each Member State shall designate a limited number of national courts to have jurisdiction in the actions and claims related to the Community Patents.

- (8) The court ruling on infringement and validity should also be able to rule on penalties and compensation for damage on the basis of common rules. Those powers are without prejudice to the powers to apply any rules on criminal liability and unfair competition provided for under the Member States' national law.
- (9) In accordance with the principles of subsidiarity and proportionality as set out in Article 5 of the Treaty, the objectives of the proposed action, in particular the creation of a unitary right with effect throughout the Community, can be achieved only by the Community. This Regulation confines itself to the minimum required in order to achieve those objectives and does not go beyond what is necessary for that purpose.
- (10) Since the measures necessary for implementing this Regulation are measures of general scope within the meaning of Article 2 of Council Decision 1999/468/EC of 28 June 1999 laying down the procedures for the exercise of implementing powers conferred on the Commission⁴, they should be adopted in accordance with the regulatory procedure laid down in Article 5 of that Decision,

HAS ADOPTED THIS REGULATION:

CHAPTER I

GENERAL PROVISIONS

Article 1

Community patent law

This Regulation establishes a Community law on patents. This law shall apply to all patents designating the Community granted by the European Patent Office (hereinafter referred to as "the Office") under the provisions of the European Patent Convention of 5 October 1973 (hereinafter referred to as the "Munich Convention") and to all applications for a European patent in which the Community is designated.

For the purposes of this Regulation, such patents shall be considered to be Community patents and the term "application for a Community patent" shall mean an application for a European patent designating the Community.

Article 2

Community patent

1. The Community patent shall have a unitary character. It shall have equal effect throughout the Community and may only be granted, transferred, declared invalid or lapse in respect of the whole of the Community.

2. The Community patent shall have an autonomous character. It shall be subject only to the provisions of this Regulation and to the general principles of Community law. However, the provisions of this Regulation shall not exclude the application of Community competition law, nor of the law of Member States with regard to criminal liability, unfair competition and mergers, nor of the provisions of the Munich Convention to the extent that they are not covered by this Regulation.

2a. to 4. Deleted.

Article 3

Application to the sea and submarine areas and to space

1. This Regulation shall also apply to the sea and submarine areas adjacent to a Member State's territory in which that Member State exercises sovereign rights or jurisdiction in accordance with international law.
2. This Regulation shall apply to inventions created or used in outer space, including on celestial bodies or on spacecraft, which are under the jurisdiction and control of one or more Member States in accordance with international law.

CHAPTER II

PATENT LAW

SECTION 1

RIGHT TO THE PATENT

Right to the Community patent

1. The right to the Community patent shall belong to the inventor or his successor in title.
2. If the inventor is an employee, the right to the Community patent shall be determined in accordance with the law of the State in which the employee is mainly employed; if the State in which the employee is mainly employed cannot be determined, the law to be applied shall be that of the State in which the employer has his place of business to which the employee is attached.

3. If two or more persons have made an invention independently of each other, the right to the Community patent shall belong to the person whose Community patent application has the earliest date of filing or, where applicable, the earliest date of priority. This provision shall apply only if the first Community patent application has been published under Article 93 of the Munich Convention.

Article 5

Claiming the right to the Community patent

1. If the Community patent has been granted to a person who is not entitled to it under Article 4(1) and (2), the person entitled to it under that article may, without prejudice to any other right or remedy which may be open to him, claim to have the patent transferred to him.
2. Where a person is entitled to only part of the Community patent, that person may, in accordance with paragraph 1, claim to be made a joint proprietor.
3. Legal proceedings in respect of the rights referred to in paragraphs 1 and 2 may be instituted only within a period of three years after the date on which the Community Patent Bulletin, referred to in Article 57, publishes the grant of the Community patent. This provision shall not apply if the proprietor of the patent knew, at the time of the grant or of the acquisition of the patent, that he was not entitled to the patent.
4. The fact that legal proceedings have been instituted shall be entered in the Register of Community Patents referred to in Article 56. The final decision in the legal proceedings or any withdrawal thereof shall also be entered.

Article 6

Effect of change of proprietorship of the Community patent

1. Where there is a complete change of proprietorship of a Community patent as a result of legal proceedings referred to in Article 5, licences and other rights shall lapse upon the registration of the person entitled to the patent in the Register of Community Patents referred to in Article 56.

2. If, before the institution of legal proceedings has been registered,
 - (a) the proprietor of the patent has used the invention within the territory of the Community or made effective and serious preparations to do so,
or

 - (b) a licensee of the patent has obtained his licence and has used the invention within the territory of the Community or made effective and serious preparations to do so, he may continue such use provided that he requests a non-exclusive licence of the patent from the new proprietor whose name is entered in the Register of Community Patents. Such request must be made within the period prescribed in the implementing regulations. The licence shall be granted for a reasonable period and upon reasonable terms.

3. Paragraph 2 shall not apply if the proprietor of the patent or the licensee was acting in bad faith at the time when he began to use the invention or to make preparations to do so.

SECTION 2
EFFECTS OF THE COMMUNITY PATENT AND THE COMMUNITY PATENT APPLICATION

Article 7

Prohibition of direct use of the invention

The Community patent shall confer on its proprietor the right to prevent all third parties not having his consent

- (a) from making, offering, putting on the market or using the product which is the subject-matter of the patent, or importing or stocking the product for these purposes;
- (b) from using the process which is the subject-matter of the patent or, when the third party knows, or it is obvious in the circumstances, that the use of the process is prohibited without the consent of the proprietor of the patent, from offering the process for use within the Community;
- (c) from offering, putting on the market or using a product obtained directly by a process which is the subject-matter of the patent, or importing or stocking the product for these purposes.

Article 8

Prohibition of indirect use of the invention

1. In addition to the right conferred pursuant to Article 7, the Community patent shall confer on its proprietor the right to prevent all third parties not having his consent from supplying or offering to supply within the Community to a person, other than one entitled to exploit the patented invention, with means, relating to an essential element of that invention, for putting it into effect therein, when the third party knows, or it is obvious in the circumstances, that these means are suitable and intended for putting that invention into effect.

2. Paragraph 1 shall not apply when the means are staple commercial products, except when the third party induces the person supplied to commit acts prohibited by Article 7.
3. Persons performing the acts referred to in Article 9(a) (b) and (c) shall not be considered to be parties entitled to exploit the invention within the meaning of paragraph 1.

Article 8a

Deleted

Article 9

Limitation of the effects of the Community patent

The rights conferred by the Community patent shall not extend to:

- (a) acts done privately and for non-commercial purposes;
- (b) acts done for experimental purposes relating to the subject-matter of the patented invention;
- (b.1) acts carried out solely for the purpose of conducting tests and trials in accordance with Article 13 of Directive 2001/82/EC or Article 10 of Directive 2001/83/EC in respect of any patent covering the reference product within the meaning of either of the said Directives;
- (c) the extemporaneous preparation for individual cases in a pharmacy of a medicine in accordance with a medical prescription nor acts concerning the medicine so prepared;

- (d) the use on board vessels of countries other than Member States of the patented invention, in the body of the vessel, in the machinery, tackle, gear and other accessories, when such vessels temporarily or accidentally enter the waters of Member States, provided that the invention is used there exclusively for the needs of the vessel;
- (e) the use of the patented invention in the construction or operation of aircraft or land vehicles or other means of transport of non-member States, or of accessories to such aircraft or land vehicles, when these temporarily or accidentally enter the territory of Member States;
- (f) the acts specified in Article 27 of the Convention on International Civil Aviation of 7 December 1944, where these acts concern the aircraft of a country other than a Member State;
- (g) the use by a farmer of the product of his crop for propagation or multiplication on his own holding, provided that the reproductive vegetable material was sold or otherwise commercialised by the holder of the patent or with his consent to the farmer, for agricultural purposes. The scope and the detailed methods of this use are laid down in Article 14 of Regulation (EC) No. 2100/94;
- (h) the use by a farmer of protected livestock for farming purposes, on condition that the breeding animals or other animal reproductive material was sold or otherwise commercialised to the farmer by the holder of the patent or with his consent. Such use includes the provision of the animal or other animal reproductive material for the purposes of his agricultural activity, but not the sale as part of or for the purpose of commercial reproductive activity;
- (i) the acts allowed pursuant to Articles 5 and 6 of Directive 91/250/EEC on the legal protection of computer programs by copyright, in particular, by its provisions on decompilation and interoperability;
- (j) the acts allowed pursuant to Article 10 of Directive 98/44/EC on the legal protection of biotechnological inventions.

Article 9a

Government use

Any provision in the law of a Member State allowing non-commercial use of national patents by or for the government may be applied to Community patents, but only to the extent that the use is necessary for essential defence or national security. The patentee should be informed as soon as reasonably possible about the act and be compensated in respect of the act by the government concerned. Any dispute as to whether a Community patent has been used as provided for in this Article or over the amount of compensation shall be decided by the national courts of the Member State concerned.

Article 10

Community exhaustion of the rights conferred by the Community patent

The rights conferred by the Community patent shall not extend to acts concerning the product covered by that patent which are carried out within the territories of the Member States after that product has been put on the market in the Community by the proprietor of the patent or with his consent, unless there are legitimate grounds for the proprietor to oppose further commercialisation of the product.

Article 11

Rights conferred by the Community patent application after publication

1. Compensation reasonable in the circumstances may be claimed from a third party who, in the period between the date of publication of a Community patent application and the date of publication of the mention of the grant of the Community patent, has made any use of the invention which, after that period, would be prohibited by virtue of the Community patent.

2. In determining the reasonable compensation, the courts shall take into account all relevant aspects, such as the economic consequences to the injured party of the use made of the invention, as well as the undeserved profits made by the person using the invention and the behaviour and the good or bad faith of the parties. The compensation shall not be punitive.

3. For the purposes of paragraph 2, a person using the invention who has his residence or principal place of business in a Member State whose official language, which is also an official language of the Community, is not the language in which the patent application was published, is presumed not to have known nor to have had reasonable grounds for knowing that the use made of the invention would be prohibited by virtue of the Community patent after grant. In such a situation, reasonable compensation shall be due only for the period from the time when he is notified of a translation of the patent claims in the official language of the Member State of his residence or principal place of business.

- 3a The applicant for the patent is not entitled to compensation to the extent that, due to an inaccurate translation of the patent claims which has been notified in accordance with paragraph 3, the person using the invention did not know and did not have any reasonable grounds to know that the use would be prohibited by virtue of the Community patent after grant.

4. Where the Member State referred to in paragraph 3 has two or more official languages which are also official languages of the Community, the person using the invention shall be entitled to notification in the official language of his choice.

Article 12

Right based on prior use of the invention

1. A Community patent may not be invoked against a person who, in good faith and for business purposes, had used the invention in the Community or had made effective and serious preparations for such use before the filing date or, where priority has been claimed, the priority date of the application on the basis of which the patent is granted (hereinafter referred to as "the prior user"); the prior user shall have the right, for business purposes, to continue the use in question or to use the invention as planned during the preparations.
2. The right of the prior user may not be transferred either during the user's lifetime or following his death other than with the user's undertaking or that part of the undertaking in which the use or the preparations for use took place.

Article 13

Process patents: burden of proof

1. If the subject-matter of a Community patent is a process for obtaining a new product, the same product when produced without the consent of the proprietor shall, in the absence of proof to the contrary, be deemed to have been obtained by the patented process.
2. The reversal of the burden of proof provided for in paragraph 1 shall apply equally where there is a strong likelihood that the same product was obtained by the process and the holder of the Community patent has not been able, despite reasonable efforts, to determine what procedure has actually been used.
3. In adducing proof to the contrary, the legitimate interests of the defendant in protecting his manufacturing and trade secrets shall be taken into account.

SECTION 3
THE COMMUNITY PATENT AS AN OBJECT OF PROPERTY

Article 14

Dealing with the Community patent as a national patent

1. Unless otherwise specified in Articles 15 to 24, the Community patent as an object of property shall be dealt with in its entirety, and for the whole of the Community, as a national patent of the Member State in which, according to the Register of Community Patents provided for by Article 56:
 - (a) the applicant for the patent had his residence or place of business on the date of filing of the Community patent application;
 - (b) where subparagraph (a) does not apply, the applicant had an establishment on that date.
 - (c) Deleted.

In all other cases, the Member State referred to shall be that in which the European Patent Organisation has its seat.

2. If two or more persons are mentioned in the Register of Community Patents as joint applicants, the first subparagraph of paragraph 1 shall apply to the joint applicant first mentioned. If this is not possible, the first subparagraph of paragraph 1 shall apply to the joint applicants next mentioned in order of entry. Where the first subparagraph of paragraph 1 does not apply to any of the joint applicants, the second subparagraph of paragraph 1 shall apply.
3. Deleted.

Article 15

Transfer

1. The transfer of the Community patent shall be made in writing and shall require the signature of the parties to the contract, except when it is a result of a judgement; otherwise it shall be void. The transfer shall be registered in the Register of Community Patents.
2. Subject to Article 6(1), a transfer shall not affect rights acquired by third parties before the date of transfer.
3. A transfer shall, to the extent to which it is verified by the documents set out in the implementing regulations referred to in Article 59, have effect vis-à-vis third parties only after entry in the Register of Community Patents referred to in Article 56. Nevertheless, a transfer, before it is so entered, shall have effect vis-à-vis third parties who have acquired rights after the date of the transfer but who knew of the transfer on the date on which the rights were acquired.

Article 16

Rights in rem

1. The Community patent may, independently of the undertaking, be given as security or be the subject of rights in rem.
2. At the request of one of the parties, the rights referred to in paragraph 1 shall be entered in the Register of Community Patents referred to in Article 56 and published in the Community Patent Bulletin referred to in Article 57.

Article 17

Levy of execution

1. The Community patent may be levied in execution.
2. At the request of one of the parties, the levy of execution shall be entered in the Register of Community Patents referred to in Article 56 of this Regulation and published in the Community Patent Bulletin referred to in Article 57.

Article 18

Insolvency proceedings

1. The only insolvency proceedings in which a Community patent may be involved shall be those opened in the Member State within the territory of which the centre of a debtor's main interests is situated.
2. In the case of joint proprietorship of a Community patent, paragraph 1 shall apply to the share of the joint proprietor.
3. Where a Community patent is involved in insolvency proceedings, on request of the competent national authority an entry to this effect shall be made in the Register of Community Patents referred to in Article 56 and published in the Community Patent Bulletin referred to in Article 57.

Article 19

Contractual licensing

1. The Community patent may be licensed in whole or in part for the whole or part of the Community. A licence may be exclusive or non-exclusive.
2. The rights conferred by the Community patent may be invoked against a licensee who breaches any restriction in the licensing contract.

3. Article 15(2) and (3) shall apply to the grant or transfer of a licence in respect of a Community patent.

Article 20

Licences of right

1. The proprietor of a Community patent may file a written statement with the Office that he is prepared to allow any person to use the invention as a licensee in return for appropriate compensation. In that case, the renewal fees for the Community patent which fall due after receipt of the statement shall be reduced; the amount of the reduction shall be fixed in the rules relating to fees referred to in Article 60. Where there is a complete change of proprietorship of the patent as a result of legal proceedings under Article 5, the statement shall be deemed withdrawn on the date of entry of the name of the person entitled to the patent in the Register of Community Patents.
2. The statement may be withdrawn at any time by a written communication to this effect to the Office, provided that no-one has yet informed the proprietor of the patent of his intention to use the invention. Such withdrawal shall take effect from the date of receipt of that communication by the Office. The amount by which the renewal fees were reduced shall be paid within one month after withdrawal; Article 25(2) shall apply, but the six-month period shall start upon expiry of the above period.
3. The statement may not be filed while an exclusive licence is recorded in the Register of Community Patents or a request for the recording of such a licence is before the Office.
4. On the basis of the statement, any person shall be entitled to use the invention as a licensee under the conditions laid down in the implementing regulations referred to in Article 59. A licence obtained under the terms of this Article shall, for the purposes of this Regulation, be treated as a contractual licence.

5. On written request by one of the parties, the Community Patent Court shall determine the appropriate compensation referred to in paragraph 1 or review it if circumstances have arisen or become known which render the compensation determined obviously inappropriate.
6. No request for recording an exclusive licence in the Register of Community Patents shall be admissible after the statement has been filed, unless it is withdrawn or deemed withdrawn.
7. The Member States may not grant licences of right in respect of a Community patent.

Article 21

Grant of compulsory licences

1. The Community Patent Court may grant a compulsory licence for lack or insufficiency of exploitation of a Community patent to any person filing an application four years or later after the patent application was filed and three years or later after the patent was granted if the patent proprietor has not exploited the patent in the Community on reasonable terms or has not made effective and serious preparations to do so, unless he provides legitimate reasons to justify his inaction. In determining the lack or insufficiency of exploitation of the patent, no distinction shall be made between products originating within the Community and imported products.
2. On request, the Community Patent Court may grant a compulsory licence in respect of a first patent to the proprietor of a national or Community patent or to the proprietor of a plant variety right who cannot use his patent (second patent) or his national or Community plant variety right without infringing a Community patent (first patent), provided that the invention or new plant variety claimed in the second patent or plant variety right involves an important technical advance of considerable economic significance in relation to the invention claimed in the first patent. In the case of a compulsory licence in respect of a dependent patent or plant variety right, the owner of the first patent shall be entitled to a cross-licence on reasonable terms to use the patented invention or protected plant variety.

A licence or exploitation set out in paragraphs 1 and 2 may be granted only if the proposed user has made efforts to obtain authorisation from the patent holder on reasonable commercial terms and conditions, and if such efforts have not been successful within a reasonable period of time. However, the authority granting the licence may derogate from this condition in the situations set out in paragraph 3a. In these situations, the right holder shall be informed as soon as reasonably possible.
6. The detailed rules of application and the procedures to be used for applying the principles set out in this Article shall be laid down in the relevant instruments.

1. Legal acts referred to in Articles 16 to 22 concerning a Community patent shall have effects vis-à-vis third parties in all the Member States only after entry in the Register of Community Patents. Nevertheless, such an act, before it is so entered, shall have effect vis-à-vis third parties who have acquired rights concerning the patent after the date of that act but who knew of the act at the date on which the rights were acquired.
2. Paragraph 1 shall not apply in the case of a person who acquires the Community patent or a right concerning the Community patent by way of transfer of the whole of the undertaking or by any other universal succession.

Article 24

1. Articles 9a, 14 to 19 and Article 21(3) to (6), and Article 22 shall apply to the application for a Community patent, whereby it is understood that all references to the Community Patent Register include references to the European Patent Register provided for by the Munich Convention.
2. The rights acquired by third parties in respect of a Community patent application referred to in paragraph 1 shall continue to be effective with regard to the Community patent granted upon that application.

CHAPTER IIa
COMPULSORY TRANSLATIONS OF THE COMMUNITY PATENT

Article 24a

Compulsory translations of the Community patent

1. When the patent is granted, the applicant shall file a translation of all the claims into all the official languages of the Community, unless all Member States which have a given language as their official language or one of their official languages agree to dispense with a translation into that language. The translation shall be filed, at the choice of the applicant, either directly with the Office or via the national patent office of a Member State which makes such provision and which has as its official language or one of its official languages the language of the translation.

Where the translation is filed directly with the Office, the Office shall immediately make it available to the national patent offices of the Member States and to the public by publishing it on its Internet database.

Where the translation is filed via a national patent office, that office shall immediately transmit the translation to the Office, which shall make it available to the national patent offices of the other Member States and to the public by publishing it on its Internet database.

2. The decision of one or more Member States referred to in paragraph 1 to dispense with a translation must be communicated to the Commission in a statement, which it shall publish in the Official Journal of the European Union.
3. For the purposes of paragraph 1, if the translations into Community languages other than those required for the granting of the patent under the provisions of the Munich Convention are produced and filed at the Office within a maximum of nine months⁵ of the granting of

The holder of the patent may, by a request filed with the Office within the time limit laid down in Article 24a(3) and under the conditions specified by the provisions of the Munich Convention, opt for the Community Patent to be converted into a European patent designating one or more Member States.

Article 24c

Effects of inaccurate translations

1. Notwithstanding paragraph 3a of Article 44, an alleged infringer, who in good faith is using or has made effective and serious preparations for using the invention the use of which would not constitute infringement of the patent under the translation referred to in Articles 24a or Article 58 but constitutes infringement according to the language in which the patent was granted, may, in the Member State in the official language of which the inaccurate translation is provided, continue, subject to payment of adequate compensation, the use in question for business purposes within the territory of the Member State concerned, for thirty months from the moment at which a corrected translation has either been notified to him or made available to the public in accordance with the said Articles. This right may not be transferred. Article 10 is not applicable.

2. Where the Member State referred to in paragraph 1 has two or more official languages which are also official languages of the Community, paragraph 1 shall apply to the alleged infringer for the official language of his choice.

Article 24d

Status of the translations

The translations referred to in Articles 24a and 58, which have been carried out by a person authorized under the law of a Member State, shall be deemed in the Community to be in conformity with the original, until proved to the contrary. The presumption can at any time be refuted through a presentation of the original text.

SECTION 1
RENEWAL AND LAPSE

Article 25

Renewal fees

1. Annual renewal fees in respect of Community patents shall be paid to the Office in accordance with the implementing regulations referred to in Article 60. These fees shall be due in respect of the years following the year in which the Community Patent Bulletin referred to in Article 57 mentions the grant of the Community patent.
2. When a renewal fee has not been paid on or before the due date, the fee may be validly paid within six months of that date, provided that an additional fee is paid at the same time.
3. Any renewal fee in respect of a Community patent falling due within two months after the publication of the mention of the grant of the Community patent shall be deemed to have been validly paid if it is paid within the period mentioned in paragraph 2. No additional fee shall be charged in this case.

Article 26

Surrender

1. The Community patent may be surrendered only in its entirety.
2. Surrender must be declared in writing to the Office by the proprietor of the patent. It shall not have effect until it is entered in the Register of Community Patents.
3. Surrender shall be entered in the Register of Community Patents only with the agreement of any third party who has a right in rem recorded in the Register or in respect of whom there is an entry in the Register pursuant to Article 5(4), first sentence. If a licence is recorded in the Register, surrender shall be entered only if the proprietor of the patent proves that he has previously informed the licensee of his intention to surrender; this entry shall be made on expiry of the period laid down in the implementing regulations referred to in Article 59, and in accordance with the provisions of the Munich Convention.

Article 27

Lapse

1. The Community patent shall lapse:
 - (a) 20 years after the date of filing of the application;
 - (b) if the proprietor of the patent surrenders it in accordance with Article 26;
 - (c) if a renewal fee and any additional fee have not been paid in due time.
2. The lapse of a patent for failure to pay a renewal fee and any additional fee within the due period shall be deemed to have occurred on the date on which the renewal fee was due.

3. The Office shall record the lapse of the Community patent in accordance with the provisions of the Munich Convention.

Article 27a

Restitutio in integrum

1. The holder of a Community patent who, despite being able to demonstrate that he took all due care under the circumstances, was unable to meet an Office deadline, shall, on request, have his rights restored if the failure to meet the deadline directly resulted, by virtue of the provisions of this Regulation, in the loss of a right or of an avenue of appeal to the Office. The processes of restitutio in integrum laid down in the Munich Convention shall apply.
2. Where the holder of a patent has his rights restored, he may not invoke his rights vis-à-vis a third party who, acting in good faith, began to exploit, or to make effective and serious preparations to exploit in the Community an invention covered by a Community patent during the period between the loss of the right referred to in paragraph 1 and the publication of notification of the restoration of that right.

SECTION 2

INVALIDITY AND LIMITATION OF THE COMMUNITY PATENT

1. The Community patent may be declared invalid only on the grounds that:
 - (a) the subject-matter of the patent is not patentable according to Articles 52 to 57 of the Munich Convention;

- (b) the patent does not disclose the invention in a manner sufficiently clear and complete for it to be carried out by a person skilled in the art;
 - (c) the subject-matter of the patent extends beyond the content of the patent application as filed, or, if the patent was granted on a divisional application or on a new application filed in accordance with Article 61 of the Munich Convention, beyond the content of the earlier application as filed;
 - (d) the protection conferred by the patent has been extended;
 - (e) the proprietor of the patent is not entitled under Article 4(1) and (2) of this Regulation;
 - (f) the subject-matter of the patent is not new having regard to the content of a national patent application or of a national patent made public in a Member State on the date of filing or later or, where priority has been claimed, the date of priority of the Community patent, but with a filing date or priority date before that date.
2. If the grounds for invalidity affect the patent only partially, invalidity shall be pronounced in the form of a corresponding limitation of the patent. The limitation may be effected in the form of an amendment to the claims.
 3. In the processes before the courts referred to in Article 30 concerning the validity of the Community patent, the holder of the patent shall be entitled to limit the patent by modifying the claims. The limited patent shall then be the basis for the process.

Article 29

Effects of invalidity

1. The Community patent shall be deemed not to have had, from the outset, the effects specified in this Regulation, to the extent that the patent has been declared invalid either in whole or in part.
2. The retroactive effect of the invalidity of the patent shall not affect:
 - (a) any decision on infringement which has acquired the authority of res judicata and been enforced prior to the invalidity decision;
 - (b) any contract concluded prior to the invalidity decision, in so far as it has been performed before that decision. However, repayment, to an extent justified by the circumstances, of sums paid under the relevant contract may be claimed on grounds of equity.

Article 29a

Request for limitation

At the request of the holder of a patent, lodged with the Office, the Community patent may be subject to limitation in the form of an amendment to the claims. The provisions of the Munich Convention relating to the request for limitation shall apply.

However, the holder of an exclusive licence may bring such proceedings if the proprietor of the Community patent, after formal notice, does not himself bring infringement proceedings within an appropriate period.
3. The proprietor of the patent shall be entitled to intervene in infringement proceedings brought by the licensee under paragraph 2.
4. A licensee shall, for the purpose of obtaining compensation for damage suffered by him, be entitled to intervene in infringement proceedings brought by the proprietor under paragraph 2.

Article 34

Action for declaration of non-infringement

1. Any person may bring proceedings against the patent proprietor or the beneficiary of an exclusive licence in order to apply for a decision that the economic activity he is exercising or exercised, or making effective preparations to exercise or envisaging exercising does not affect the rights referred to in Articles 7, 8 and 19.

In determining the appropriate damages, the courts shall take into account all relevant aspects, such as the economic consequences to the injured party of the infringement, as well as the undeserved profits made by the infringer and the behaviour and the good or bad faith of the parties. The damages shall not be punitive.
3. For the purposes of paragraph 2, an alleged infringer who has his residence or principal place of business in a Member State whose official language, which is also an official language of the Community, is not the language in which the patent was granted or in which a translation of the patent claims has been made public in accordance with Article 24a or Article 58, is presumed not to have known nor to have had reasonable grounds for knowing that he was infringing the patent. In this situation, the Protocol on the jurisdiction, recognition and enforcement of judgments in respect of the right to the grant of a European patent annexed to the Munich Convention shall apply.

Article 51

Obligations of the national court

1. A national court hearing an action or application referred to in Article 30 shall declare of its own motion that it has no jurisdiction, except in the case of Article 9a.

Validity may only be contested by a counterclaim for a declaration of invalidity. Where a national patent granted in a Member State relates to an invention for which a Community patent has been granted to the same inventor or to his successor in title with the same date of filing, or, if priority has been claimed, with the same date of priority, that national patent shall be ineffective to the extent that it covers the same invention for the same territory as the Community patent, from the date on which:
 - (a) the period for filing an opposition to the decision of the Office to grant a Community patent has expired without any opposition being filed;
 - (b) the opposition proceedings are concluded with a decision to maintain the Community patent;or

- (c) the national patent is granted, where this date is subsequent to the date referred to in point (a) or (b), as the case may be.
2. The subsequent lapse or invalidity of the Community patent shall not affect the provisions of paragraph 1.
 3. Each Member State may prescribe the procedure whereby the effect of the national patent is determined to have been lost in whole or, where appropriate, in part. It may also prescribe that the loss of effect shall apply from the outset.
 4. Simultaneous protection by a Community patent or Community patent application and a national patent or national patent application shall exist prior to the date applicable under paragraph 1.

CHAPTER VI
FINAL PROVISIONS

Article 56

Register of Community Patents

The Office shall keep a Register of Community Patents, which shall contain those particulars whose registration is provided for by this Regulation. The Register shall be open to public inspection.

Article 57

Community Patent Bulletin

The Office shall periodically publish a Community Patent Bulletin. It shall contain entries made in the Register of Community Patents, as well as other particulars whose publication is prescribed by this Regulation or by the implementing regulation.

Article 58

Optional translations

The proprietor of the patent shall have the option of producing and filing a translation of his patent in several or all of the official languages of the Member States which are official languages of the Community. Such translations may be filed with the Office, or with a National Patent Office of a Member State if that Member State's law so permits. National Patent Offices shall transmit a copy of such translations to the Office. The Register of Community Patents shall contain a mention of the filing of such translations. Those translations shall be made available to the public by the National Patent Offices and the Office by publishing them on their Internet databases.

Article 59

Implementing regulation

1. The rules implementing this Regulation shall be adopted in an implementing regulation.
2. The implementing regulation shall be adopted and amended in accordance with the procedure laid down in Article 61(2).

Article 60

Rules relating to fees

1. The rules relating to fees shall determine the annual renewal fees, including additional fees, the amounts of the fees and the ways in which they are to be paid.
- 1a. Fifty per cent of the income from renewal fees shall be distributed among the central industrial property offices of the Member States in accordance with a distribution key mentioned in the rules relating to fees. The distribution key will be based on a basket of fair, equitable and relevant criteria. Such criteria should reflect patent activities and the size of the market. In addition, considering the role to be played by National Patent Offices, a balancing factor should also be applied where Member States have a disproportionately low level of patent activities. On the basis of these criteria the Member States' share shall be adjusted periodically to current figures.
2. The rules relating to fees shall be adopted and amended in accordance with the procedure referred to in Article 61(2). However, the distribution key referred to in paragraph 1a shall be adopted and amended by the Council of the European Union acting unanimously.

Article 61

Establishment of a committee and procedure for the adoption of the implementing regulations

1. The Commission shall be assisted by a committee, the Committee for issues relating to fees and to the rules for the implementation of the Regulation on the Community patent, composed of representatives of the Member States and chaired by the representative of the Commission.
2. Where reference is made to this paragraph, the regulatory procedure laid down in Article 5 of Decision 1999/468/EC shall apply, in compliance with Article 7 thereof.
3. The period provided for in Article 5(6) of Decision 1999/468/EC shall be three months.

Article 62

Report on the implementation of this Regulation

Not later than five years from the date on which the first patent designating the Community is granted, the Commission shall present to the Council a report on the operation of the Community patent system and where necessary make appropriate proposals for amending this Regulation. The report shall include assessments of quality and consistency, the deadlines required for decisions, the time limit for the filing of translations of claims and the costs incurred by inventors. Subsequent reports on the operation of the Community patent system shall be presented by the Commission every five years.

Article 63

Entry into force

1. This Regulation shall enter into force on the sixtieth day following that of its publication in the Official Journal of the European Union.
2. Applications for a Community patent may be filed with the Office from the date laid down in a Commission Decision in accordance with the procedure referred to in Article 61(2).

This Regulation shall be binding in its entirety and directly applicable in all Member States.

New concept Article

Effects of translations

- (1) In applying the provisions of Articles 42, 43 and 44 to cases involving an alleged infringer who has his residence or principal place of business in a Member State, the Community courts referred to in Article 30 shall, at the request of the alleged infringer, take into account any discrepancies which arise between the text of the patent as granted and the translation filed in the official language of that Member State or, in the case where that Member State has more than one official language, the official language relied on by the alleged infringer.
- (2) The courts shall take into account, in particular,
 - (a) whether the alleged infringer can prove that he did not know and, having acted in accordance with best business practice, had no reasonable grounds for knowing that any activity he was undertaking or preparing to undertake would infringe an existing patent or patent application, and
 - (b) whether the discrepancies between the translation and the text of the patent as granted had a significant effect on his activity.
- (3) On the basis of their findings, the courts may mitigate the award of compensation or damages and may in addition, allow the alleged infringer to continue use of the invention within the Member State concerned for a period of up to two years on payment of reasonable compensation to the right holder.
- (4) Paragraphs 1 to 3 shall apply mutatis mutandis where the Community courts referred to in Article 30 apply the provisions of Article 11.

New recitals

(5aa) (between 5 and 5a)

Some Member States have systems for authorised translators which may offer applicants and patent proprietors greater security against possible inaccuracies in the translation of their patents. However no applicant or proprietor is obliged to use such an authorised translator, and no Member State is required to introduce such a system. Moreover the principles of freedom to provide services and freedom of establishment as enshrined in Articles 43 and 49 of the Treaty should be upheld.

(8a) It is important for the protection of the legitimate interests of third parties that the court ruling on infringement and validity can take into account discrepancies between the translation of a patent and the original text, where these have a significant effect on the activities of an alleged infringer. At the same time, it is expected as a principle of best business practice that commercial operators will have access to the information and assistance available through national patent offices and other sources of advice, and will be encouraged to make informed business decisions by taking account of existing patents and patent applications which may be relevant to their activities. This will lead to an increased awareness of the availability and use of patents, thereby helping to foster investment in innovation and research.

(8b) As the courts ruling on infringement and validity will be able to take into account all the circumstances of the case, including translation discrepancies, they may decide that in a particular case the award of compensation or damages shall be reduced to zero or a nominal amount, and similarly that reasonable compensation due on continued use of an invention may amount to zero or a nominal amount.

(8c) In the case where a court allows an alleged infringer to continue use of the invention, the principle of Community exhaustion cannot apply to goods produced through such use because they will not be products which have been put on the market by the proprietor or with his consent. The goods may therefore not be commercialised outside the Member State in question. Furthermore it is inherent in the court's decision to allow the infringer to continue such use that the permission extends only to the alleged infringer and not to other persons.

Industrial property: Commission proposes establishing Community Patent Court

Industrial property: Commission proposes establishing Community Patent Court

The European Commission has presented proposals for two Council Decisions establishing a Community Patent jurisdiction, under the aegis of the European Court of Justice, to allow the resolution of disputes within the future Community Patent system, in particular those on infringements and on the validity of Community Patents. Under the proposals, the jurisdiction of the Court of Justice would be exercised by a new Community Patent Court. The new system would mean that judgements over Community Patent rights would be effective throughout the EU, avoiding the expense, inconvenience and confusion that can occur when judgements in several different national courts are required.

Internal Market Commissioner Frits Bolkestein said: "To maximise the benefits of the Community Patent, we need a single Community Patent Court, under the ultimate jurisdiction of the European Court of Justice, so that disputes are judged with EU-wide effect. I am confident the Council will adopt the necessary decisions quickly, as broad agreement in principle was already reached at the March Competitiveness Council. But of course, setting up the jurisdictional arrangements without finalising adoption of the Community Patent Regulation itself is about as useful as a new pair of skis in the desert. So above all I hope the Council will agree on the final points of detail on the Community Patent still at issue and adopt the Regulation. Europe's companies have been crying out for too long for access to pan-European patent protection at reasonable cost with minimum red-tape and maximum legal certainty."

The first proposal presented by the Commission would confer on the Court of Justice formal jurisdiction concerning certain disputes over Community Patents, in particular those concerning alleged infringements of patents and challenges to the validity of patents. The second proposal would establish the Community Patent Court, whose seven judges would be appointed by the Council of Ministers, to exercise the Court of Justice's jurisdiction on its behalf. It also sets up a specialised chamber within the Court of First Instance to hear appeals against the Community Patent Court's judgements. In exceptional cases, a decision of the Court of First Instance could be subject to review by the Court of Justice.

Disputes on national patents or on European Patents granted by the European Patent Office with effect for individual Member States are decided by the courts of the respective Member States. This means that bringing an action for infringement of a patent or contesting the validity of a patent may require bringing actions in a number of Member States, with all the difficulties and expense that entails. It is also possible that courts in different Member States may interpret patent law differently and reach incompatible verdicts.

To provide a less wasteful and costly system, the Community Patent Court would operate according to a single set of procedural rules, with a uniform case law and with costs affordable for users and in particular for SMEs. Thus, the jurisdiction regime proposed would ensure that disputes over Community Patent rights were judged with EU-wide effect by a single centralised and specialised court. That would provide legal certainty for the protection of inventions throughout the Union.

Background

The legal basis for the establishment of the Community Patent jurisdiction was introduced into the EC Treaty by the Treaty of Nice (Article 229a of the EC Treaty for the conferral of jurisdiction on the Court and Article 225a of the EC Treaty for the establishment of the Community Patent Court).

The creation of the Community Patent system itself aims to make it cheaper and easier to protect new inventions in all EU Member States, with a single procedure. It will thus remove a competitive handicap suffered by Europe's innovators and stimulate investment in research and development. The Commission tabled its proposal for a Regulation setting up the Community Patent in July 2000 (see IP/00/714 and MEMO/00/41). In March 2003, the Council finally reached a broad political agreement on the main thrust of the proposal (see MEMO/03/47). After detailed work by a Council working group, the Competitiveness Council, very close to an agreement on the outstanding issues at its meeting November 2003 meeting (see MEMO/03/245) nevertheless failed to agree on the length of the period under which translations of claims can be filed. The Irish Presidency now intends to bring the matter back before the Council as soon as possible so that the entire Regulation can be finalised.

EXPLANATORY MEMORANDUM

1. BACKGROUND

In the Community, patent protection has long been provided for in two ways, neither of which is based on a Community instrument: National patents are granted by national patent offices on the basis of legislation of the respective Member State. The protection conferred is limited to the territory of that Member State and in case of dispute the patent right has to be enforced before the competent national courts. European patents are granted by the European Patent Office established by the Convention on the Grant of European Patents (European Patent Convention) of 5 October 1973 providing for substantive patent law and a single procedure of grant. Once granted, the European patent confers protection on the territory of those Contracting States which are designated by the right holder. Whereas the harmonised patent law of the European Patent Convention is essentially limited to the phase up to the grant of the European patent, its effects are determined according to the respective national patent law of each designated Contracting State. In case of dispute, litigation must also take place before the competent national courts. This situation, where the patent right is only granted in or with effect for individual Member States of the European Union including for the right holder the risk to be forced to enter into multiple litigation in a number of Member States on the same patent issue with possibly even variable results has long been criticised as inappropriate and unsuitable for the needs of the European industry operating within the common market. Member States have already in the past undertaken great efforts to redress this situation in a Community context. The Community Patent Convention intending to create a unitary Community patent title was signed on 15 December 1975 in Luxembourg followed by the 15 December 1989 agreement relating to the Community patent including a protocol on the settlement of litigation concerning the infringement and validity of Community patents. However these agreements never entered into force.

2. THE COMMUNITY PATENT

The European Council held in Lisbon in March 2000 launched a general programme to increase the competitiveness of the Union's economy and took up the issue again. As one concrete measure for improvement, the Council called for the creation of a Community patent system to address existing shortcomings in the legal protection for inventions thus giving an incentive for investments in research and development and contributing to the competitiveness of the economy as a whole. In the wake of the Lisbon European Council, the Commission put forward on 1 August 2000 a proposal for a Council regulation on the Community patent [COM(2000) 412 final] containing the relevant provisions applying to Community patents, in particular the provisions for the creation of a unitary Community patent title including the rights conferred by it, the possible actions for the enforcement of these rights, the grounds for invalidity as well as the mechanisms for the administration of granted Community patents such as their yearly renewal. It is foreseen that the grant of Community patents will be carried out by the European Patent Office. For this purpose the Community must accede to the European Patent Convention thereby charging the European Patent Office with the task of granting Community patents. Thus the European Patent Office will grant European and Community patents according to the same standards of the European Patent Convention ensuring uniformity and legal security of patent law in Europe. At the same time the European Patent Office's high expertise as an examining patent office can be put to use for the Community patent.

3. THE COMMUNITY PATENT JURISDICTION

The establishment of a Community patent jurisdiction is a key element of the Community patent system. The Community patent title covering the territory of all Member States will not only be governed by the uniform provisions of Community law contained in the regulation of the Council on the Community patent. It will, at the latest by 2010, after a transitional period during which national courts will retain jurisdiction for the subject matter, also be enforceable before a Community jurisdiction whose decisions enjoy Community wide effect.

The legal basis to be used for the establishment of a Community patent jurisdiction was introduced into the EC Treaty by Article 2 (26 ff.) of the Treaty of Nice amending the Treaty on European Union, the Treaties establishing the European Communities and certain related acts which entered into force on 1 February 2003, inserting Article 229a and Article 225a into the EC Treaty. It is proposed that the Community patent jurisdiction will be established by two Council decisions based on those Articles.

In order for the Court of Justice to assume jurisdictional responsibilities with regard to the Community patent, that jurisdiction must be conferred on it. Article 229a of the EC Treaty allows the Council to adopt provisions to confer jurisdiction to the extent that it shall determine on the Court of Justice in disputes relating to the application of acts adopted on the basis of the EC Treaty which create Community industrial property rights. The present decision sets out that conferral of jurisdiction with regard to the Community patent and at the same time specifying the extent of the conferral (Articles 1 and 2). As provided for by Article 229a of the EC Treaty the Council shall recommend the provisions conferring jurisdiction on the basis of that Article to the Member States for adoption in accordance with their respective constitutional requirements (Article 3).

The Commission put before the Council a separate proposal for a decision based on Articles 225a, 245 of the EC Treaty proposing the establishment of a judicial panel to be called "Community Patent Court" which would, within the Court of Justice, exercise at first instance the jurisdiction in disputes relating to the Community patent. That decision also contains the necessary provisions with a view to accommodating the new function of the Court of First Instance as appeal instance according to Article 225(2) of the EC Treaty against decisions of the Community Patent Court.

4. TRANSITIONAL PERIOD

As agreed by the Council in its 3 March 2003 common political approach, the Community jurisdiction shall be established at the latest by the year 2010. Until that time national courts of Member States will have jurisdiction. This would be relevant for those Community patents which come into effect before the establishment of the Community patent jurisdiction. The Community patent regulation will contain special provisions governing this transitional period. It is foreseen that each Member State designates for this purpose a limited number of national courts to exercise the jurisdiction which will at the end of the transitional period be conferred on the Court of Justice. According to Article 2 of the present decision, legal actions of which national courts have been seised at the time when the conferral of jurisdiction on the Court of Justice will take effect will be decided by the competent national courts.

5. NEED FOR A COMMUNITY INTERVENTION

The present decision relating to jurisdictional aspects of the Community patent system intends to redress the existing shortcomings of the current situation of patent protection in the Union. The objective is to establish Community wide patent protection which can be enforced before one single court operating to uniform standards. This objective can only be achieved at a Community level.

6. PROPOSED PROVISIONS

Article 1 – Conferral of jurisdiction on the Court of Justice

This Article contains the subject matter for which exclusive jurisdiction is conferred on the Court of Justice.

Under point (a), the Court of Justice shall have jurisdiction in disputes relating to the infringement and the validity of the Community patent. Which actions relating to those disputes are allowed will be governed by the Community patent regulation. The draft Community patent regulation foresees in this respect an action to stop infringement (Articles 33, 43) as well as an action for the declaration of non-infringement (Article 34). The Court may also order the confiscation of infringing items or other appropriate penalties (Article 43). Concerning the validity of a Community patent, the draft regulation provides for an invalidity action (Article 31) and a counter claim for invalidity (Article 32).

Where a Community supplementary protection certificate extending the period of protection of an invention protected by a Community patent has been granted, disputes relating to its infringement or validity shall also come under the jurisdiction of the Court of Justice. In this regard, the Commission intends to come forward with a proposal for the creation of a Community supplementary protection certificate extending the protection conferred by Community patents in the way as is the case for national patents under Council regulation (EEC) No 1768/92 of 18 June 1992 concerning the creation of a supplementary protection certificate for medicinal products [OJ L 182, 2.7.1992, pp. 1-5] and regulation (EC) No 1610/96 of the European Parliament and the Council of 23 July 1996 concerning the creation of a supplementary protection certificate for plant protection products [OJ L 198, 8.8.1996, pp. 30-35].

Under point (b), jurisdiction is conferred for disputes relating to the use of the invention after the publication of the Community patent application and the right based on prior use of the invention. In that respect, the draft Community patent regulation allows a claim for reasonable compensation against any person who, in the period between the publication of the Community patent application and the grant of the Community patent, has made such use of the invention that would be prohibited by virtue of the granted Community patent (Articles 11, 35). Furthermore the draft Community patent regulation provides for a right based on the prior use of the invention (Articles 12, 36). Where the invention was used before the filing date of a Community patent, the prior user has the right to continue use of the invention for his business purposes and may invoke this right against the Community patent or a Community supplementary protection certificate.

Under point (c), jurisdiction is also conferred with regard to interim measures in the subject matter conferred. To the extent that the Court of Justice has jurisdiction relating to the Community patent, circumstances may require appropriate interim measures to be ordered under Article 243 of the EC Treaty before a decision in main proceedings can be made. The conferral of jurisdiction for interim measures is not limited to orders of interim measures in pending cases making such orders possible even before main proceedings are brought. Also, the Court of Justice shall have jurisdiction for evidence-protection measures which will be provided for in the context of the Commission proposal for a Council decision establishing the Community Patent Court and concerning appeals before the Court of First Instance.

Under point (d), jurisdiction is conferred to award damages or compensation in the situations for which jurisdiction is conferred under number one to three of this Article. Claims falling into this category are granted in Article 44 of the draft Community patent regulation awarding e.g. claims for damages of the holder of the Community patent in particular in the case of an infringement of a Community patent but also claims of third parties against the right holder where the latter has unduly exercised his rights and caused prejudice to those parties. Finally, in the context of the Commission proposal for a Council decision establishing the Community Patent Court and concerning appeals before the Court of First Instance, a claim for compensation for injuries caused by provisional or evidence-protection measures is foreseen.

Under point (e), jurisdiction is conferred for orders of a penalty payment in case of non-compliance with a decision or order of the Community Patent Court constituting an obligation to act or to abstain from an act. The Community Patent Court itself should be able to order such a penalty payment for non-compliance with its decisions or orders. If for example the Community Patent Court orders a defendant to stop infringement, it should at the same time be able to make an order whereby the non-compliance would be sanctioned by an obligation to pay a certain sum of money. If such an order necessitated a separate application to the courts of Member States, valuable time could be lost in ensuring that the decision of the Community Patent Court is respected.

In so far as this decision does not confer jurisdiction on the Court of Justice, national courts retain their jurisdiction. Article 46 of the draft Community patent regulation clarifies in this regard that national courts remain competent for any action for which exclusive jurisdiction is not conferred on the Court of Justice which for example is the case in disputes concerning the ownership of a Community patent.

Article 2 – Transitional provision

Article 2 contains a transitional provision relating to the extent of the conferral of jurisdiction. The Community jurisdiction will only be established after a transitional period in which national court shall have jurisdiction. The question arises to what extent the conferral of jurisdiction on the Court of Justice will apply with regard to disputes already existing at the time when the conferral takes effect. Article 2 provides for a clear cut rule that those disputes of which a national court has been seised prior to the conferral of jurisdiction on the Court of Justice will not be affected by the conferral. Consequently they will be decided by the respective national court before which the case is already pending.

Article 3 – Adoption by Member States

In Article 3, the Council recommends the provisions conferring jurisdiction as contained in Articles 1 and 2 of this decision to Member States for adoption in accordance with their respective constitutional requirements as foreseen in Article 229a of the EC Treaty. For reasons of transparency and in order for the Council to monitor developments, Member States shall notify the Council as soon as possible of necessary measures to be taken and of their adoption.

Article 4 – Entry into force

This Article governs the entry into force of this decision and with it the conferral of jurisdiction on the Court of Justice as laid down by it. The entry into force is made dependent on two events. The first condition is the notification by Member States of their acceptance of the conferral after adoption in accordance with their respective constitutional requirements as foreseen in Article 229a of the EC Treaty and Article 3 of the present decision. However, once Member States have effected that notification, the decision cannot automatically enter into force conferring the jurisdiction from Member States on the Court of Justice. The Council has agreed in its 3 March 2003 common political approach that national courts shall have jurisdiction in a transitional period where Community patents will already be granted but where the Community jurisdiction to be established at the latest by 2010 has not yet been created. In order to avoid a situation where there are granted Community patents but no competent jurisdiction before which rights can be enforced, the conferral of jurisdiction must not happen at a point in time where the Community jurisdiction is not yet operational. Hence, the entry into force of the present decision should secondly depend on a ruling published by the President of the Court of Justice in the Official Journal of the European Communities that the Community Patent Court and the patent appeal chamber within the Court of First Instance have been constituted in accordance with law.

Proposal for a

COUNCIL DECISION

conferring jurisdiction on the Court of Justice in disputes relating to the Community patent

THE COUNCIL OF THE EUROPEAN UNION,

Having regard to the Treaty establishing the European Community, and in particular Article 229a thereof,

Having regard to the proposal from the Commission¹,

Having regard to the opinion of the European Parliament²,

Having regard to the opinion of the European Economic and Social Committee³,

Whereas:

- (1) The European Council held in Lisbon in March 2000 called for the necessary steps to be taken to increase the competitiveness of the European Union in a modern knowledge based economy underlining the importance of effective Community-wide patent protection.
- (2) The system of patent protection has been characterised by patents granted either by a national patent office in a Member State or by the European Patent Office with effect in a Member State, and by enforcement of those patents before the national courts of the Member State concerned.
- (3) Innovative European industry relies on effective Community-wide legal protection for its inventions. The creation of a Community patent system comprising a unitary Community patent title and the possibility of enforcing such a right before a Community jurisdiction to be established at the latest by 2010 after a transitional period in which national courts retain competence will provide the missing elements for the system of patent protection in the Union.
- (4) Council Regulation (EC) No .../2003 of ... 2003 on the Community patent⁴ creates a Community patent title. Holders of such a title enjoy Community-wide protection of an invention according to the uniform standards of that Regulation.

- (5) The Court of Justice should be vested with jurisdiction in certain disputes relating to Community patents.
- (6) The jurisdiction conferred on the Court of Justice is to be exercised by the Community Patent Court by virtue of Council Decision No .../2003⁵, adopted on the basis of Articles 225a and 245 of the Treaty. Those Articles allow for the establishment of judicial panels attached to the Court of First Instance to hear and determine at first instance certain classes of action brought in specific areas.
- (7) By virtue of Article 225(2) of the Treaty, the Court of First Instance has jurisdiction to hear and determine actions and proceedings brought against decisions of the judicial panels set up under Article 225a of the Treaty. Decisions given by the Court of First Instance on appeal against decisions of the Community Patent Court may, exceptionally, pursuant to Article 225(2) of the Treaty, be subject to review by the Court of Justice, where there is a serious risk to the unity or consistency of Community law,

HAS DECIDED AS FOLLOWS:

Article 1

Conferral of jurisdiction on the Court of Justice

The Court of Justice shall have exclusive jurisdiction over the following:

- (a) infringement or validity of a Community patent and a Community supplementary protection certificate;
- (b) the use of the invention after the publication of the Community patent application or the right based on prior use of the invention;
- (c) interim and evidence-protection measures in connection with the subject matters conferred;
- (d) damages or compensation in the circumstances set out in points (a), (b), and (c);
- (e) the ordering of a penalty payment in case of non-compliance with a decision or order constituting an obligation to act or to abstain from an act.

Article 2

Transitional provision

The Court of Justice shall not have jurisdiction over those disputes of which a national court is already seised on the date at which this Decision enters into force.

⁵ OJL

Article 3

Adoption by Member States

The Council recommends the provision contained in Articles 1 and 2 of this Decision to the Member States for adoption in accordance with their respective constitutional requirements. Member States shall notify the Council as soon as possible of the measures to be taken and their adoption.

Article 4

Entry into force

This Decision shall enter into force after the notification to the Council by the last Member State of its acceptance of this Decision on the date of the publication in the Official Journal of the European Union of the ruling by the President of the Court of Justice that the Community Patent Court and the patent appeal chamber within the Court of First Instance have been constituted in accordance with law.

TITLE OF ACTION: PROPOSAL FOR A COUNCIL DECISION CONFERRING JURISDICTION ON THE COURT OF JUSTICE IN DISPUTES RELATING TO THE COMMUNITY PATENT

1. BUDGET LINE(S) + HEADING(S)

The Community patent jurisdiction is created by two Council decisions. The present decision, based on Article 229a of the EC Treaty, confers jurisdiction relating to the Community patent on the Court of Justice. The second decision, based on Articles 225a, 245 of the EC Treaty and for which the Commission tables a separate proposal, will contain the necessary provisions establishing the Community Patent Court and concerning appeals before the Court of First Instance. The budgetary consequences will follow from that second decision causing human resources and other administrative expenditures. Judges, the registrar, assistant rapporteurs and other staff have to be appointed, court rooms, office space and equipment must be provided for. The present proposal, however, exclusively deals with the conferral of jurisdiction on the Court of Justice and does not itself engage the budget of the Community. It will only enter into force once the court system has been set up, i.e. on the date of the publication of the ruling of the President of the Court of Justice that the Community Patent Court and the patent appeal chamber of the Court of First Instance have been constituted in accordance with law.

Consequently, the present proposal does not contain any figures on the financial implications of the Community patent jurisdiction. These detailed figures are contained in the legislative financial statement in the annex to the Commission proposal for a Council decision establishing the Community Patent Court and concerning appeals before the Court of First Instance.

5. DESCRIPTION AND GROUNDS

5.1. Need for Community intervention

5.1.1. Objectives pursued

The proposed Council Decision is part of the overall project to establish the Community patent system. By way of a revision of the European Patent Convention and an accession of the Community to it, the European Patent Office shall be empowered to grant Community patents which will confer rights on their holders according to the Regulation of the Council on the Community patent. Disputes concerning in particular the infringement and the validity of these rights shall, after a transitional period, be brought before a Community jurisdiction. These measures shall reform the system of patent protection in Europe which has been characterised by national patent titles to be enforced before national courts and make the necessary adaptations for the needs of the European industry which increasingly operates trans-nationally within the common market. The measures are designed to increase the competitiveness of the Union's innovative industries by creating a Community-wide uniform patent protection which can be enforced before a single Community jurisdiction rendering decisions with Community-wide effect.

Within this overall project, the Community patent jurisdiction shall be created by two Council decisions. The Commission presented a separate proposal for the establishment of a Community Patent Court and concerning appeals before the Court of First Instance. The objective of the present proposal is to confer jurisdiction relating to the Community patent on the Court of Justice which then will be exercised at first instance by the newly established Community Patent Court and by the Court of First Instance on appeal.

5.1.2. Measures taken in connection with ex ante evaluation

The necessity to create a patent system covering the Community as a whole has been recognised for decades. The first initiative to create such a system resulted in the European Patent Convention of 5 October 1973 which harmonised the grant of the European patent by the European Patent Office but did neither include provisions on the rights conferred by such a patent nor create a single jurisdiction to deal with disputes. This was still left to national legislation and national jurisdiction of the Contracting States. In a second initiative, EC Member States tried to create a Community patent on the basis of an international agreement including an integrated jurisdiction. The Community Patent Convention was signed on 15 December 1975 in Luxembourg followed by the 15 December 1989 agreement relating to the Community patent which included a protocol on the settlement of litigation concerning the infringement and validity of Community patents. The Convention, however, never entered into force. In the context of the Amsterdam European Council of June 1997 (action plan for the single market), the Commission published a Green Paper on the promotion of innovation by patents. The consultations on the Green Paper including the comments made in the hearing on 25 and 26 November 1997 showed a clear support for the creation of a Community patent system. Finally, the Lisbon European Council in March 2000 took up the issue and called for the creation of a Community patent system. The Council in its 3 March 2003 common political approach reached agreement on a number of key issues of the Community patent system including the jurisdictional aspects calling for the establishment of the Community Patent Court on the basis of Article 225a of the EC Treaty.

8. FOLLOW-UP AND EVALUATION

8.1. Follow-up arrangements

The Council in its 3 March 2003 common political approach (point 5) foresees a review mechanism of the Community patent system including the jurisdictional arrangements. Regarding the present Decision, the jurisdiction conferred on the Court of Justice would have to be reviewed as to the subject matter in the light of experience gathered. The Commission will need to consult the Court of Justice and interested circles to collect data on the functioning of the Community patent jurisdiction and will have to evaluate the collected data and, where appropriate, suggest changes to the current decision.

8.2. Arrangements and schedule for the planned evaluation

On the basis of the common political approach adopted by the Council on 3 March 2003, the Commission will present a report on the functioning of all aspects of the Community patent including the jurisdictional arrangements five years after the grant of the first Community patent. Further reviews will be made periodically.

9. ANTI-FRAUD MEASURES

This does not apply. The proposal deals with the conferral of jurisdiction on the Court of Justice relating to the Community patent and does not cover a policy area with a risk of fraud.

TITLE OF PROPOSAL

Proposal for a Council decision conferring jurisdiction on the Court of Justice relating to the Community patent.

THE PROPOSAL

1. Taking account of the principle of subsidiarity, why is Community legislation necessary in this area and what are its main aims?

The object of the Community patent system is to provide a Community wide patent protection which can be enforced before one single court operating to uniform standards and whose decisions enjoy Community wide effect. This objective can only be achieved at a Community level.

THE IMPACT ON BUSINESS

2. Who will be affected by the proposal?

– which sectors of business

All sectors of business that deal with technical inventions which can be subject to patent protection are concerned by the Community patent system. They can in case of conflict be party to litigation before the Community Patent Court and on appeal before the Court of First Instance to the extent that jurisdiction is conferred on the Court of Justice.

– which sizes of business (what is the concentration of small and medium-sized firms)

Potentially every size of business can be a party to Community patent litigation before the Community patent jurisdiction. For example, the holder of a Community patent may, as a plaintiff, wish to enforce his rights flowing from the Community patent title before the Community Patent Court. A third person may as a plaintiff wish to attack the validity of such a Community patent granting exclusive rights to its holder that he considers to be invalid. As defendant the right holder may wish to defend the validity of his patent or as a third person defend himself against an alleged infringement of a Community patent.

The Community patent system intends to make patenting of inventions more attractive especially for SMEs which will particularly increase the significance for this group. So far patenting is done in or with effect for individual Member States and the enforcement must take place before the national courts of the respective Member States their national patent law and their national legislation on the court procedure which is particularly cumbersome for SMEs. The Community patent jurisdiction will allow to enforce a unitary patent right valid in the entire Community in one single court procedure operating to common standards.

3. What will business have to do to comply with the proposal?

The effect for businesses will be felt only in cases of litigation over a Community patent. In that case they have to familiarise themselves with the proceedings before the Community patent jurisdiction.

4. What economic effects is the proposal likely to have?

The proposal will only have an economic effect in combination with the other legal instruments creating a Community patent system. The Community patent system as a whole will have a positive economic impact. In particular:

- on investment and the creation of new businesses

The Community patent system will have a positive impact on investments due to a better Community wide legal protection of inventions. The return on investments in innovative technologies will be more secure serving as an incentive for more investment. Moreover, since better legal protection will be rendered less costly, businesses will be able to make more efficient use of their existing budget for research and development which will lead to more inventions which in turn will stimulate investments to economically exploit these inventions. Since effective patent protection often serves as the legal basis for an economically successfully operating business, a more comprehensive, easier and less costly patent protection will promote the creation of new businesses.

- on the competitiveness of businesses

The Community patent system will make patent protection more effective, easier and less costly not only for those businesses that already make use of patent protection but also make patenting more easily accessible for other businesses and in particular for SMEs. The possibility to protect an invention and with it the associated investment into it with Community wide effect will increase the ability of all businesses that make use of this possibility to compete in the common market. Moreover, the competitiveness of European industry will be increased on a global scale compared to the major trading partners and competitors. Today patent protection for example in the United States or Japan is considerably less costly than in Europe under the national and the European patent system. Consequently US and Japan based companies can develop patented products at a considerably lower price which later are marketed world wide. The Community patent system intends to eliminate this obstacle for the competitiveness of the European industry.

- on employment

An increased investment in inventive technologies and a strengthened competitiveness of the European industry will lead to the creation of new jobs. The creation of new jobs can be expected across the full range of technical fields and their related industries. In particular the modern, innovative technologies which are playing a steadily increasing role in a knowledge based global economy will benefit.

5. Does the proposal contain measures to take account of the specific situation of small and medium-sized firms (reduced or different requirements etc)?

This does not apply. No distinction according to the size of companies can be made with regard the subject matter of jurisdiction conferred on the Court of Justice.

6. List the organisations which have been consulted about the proposal and outline their main views:

EXPLANATORY MEMORANDUM

1. BACKGROUND

In the Community, patent protection has long been provided for in two ways, neither of which is based on a Community instrument: National patents are granted by national patent offices on the basis of legislation of the respective Member State. The protection conferred is limited to the territory of that Member State and in case of dispute the patent right has to be enforced before the competent national courts. European patents are granted by the European Patent Office established by the Convention on the Grant of European Patents (European Patent Convention) of 5 October 1973 providing for substantive patent law and a single procedure of grant. Once granted, the European patent confers protection on the territory of those Contracting States which are designated by the right holder. Whereas the harmonised patent law of the European Patent Convention is essentially limited to the phase up to the grant of the European patent, its effects are determined according to the respective national patent law of each designated Contracting State. In case of dispute, litigation must also take place before the competent national courts. This situation, where the patent right is only granted in or with effect for individual Member States of the European Union entails for the right holder the risk of being forced to enter into multiple litigation in a number of Member States on the same patent issue with possibly variable results has long been criticised as inappropriate and unsuitable for the needs of European industry operating within the common market. Member States have already in the past undertaken great efforts to redress this situation in a Community context. The Community Patent Convention intending to create a unitary Community patent title was signed on 15 December 1975 in Luxembourg followed by the 15 December 1989 agreement relating to the Community patent including a protocol on the settlement of litigation concerning the infringement and validity of Community patents. However these agreements never entered into force.

2. THE COMMUNITY PATENT

The European Council held in Lisbon in March 2000 launched a general programme to increase the competitiveness of the Union's economy and took up the issue again. As one concrete measure for improvement, the Council called for the creation of a Community patent system to address existing shortcomings in the legal protection for inventions thus giving an incentive for investments in research and development and contributing to the competitiveness of the economy as a whole. In the wake of the Lisbon European Council, the Commission put forward on 1 August 2000 a proposal for a Council regulation on the Community patent [COM(2000) 412 final] containing the relevant provisions applying to Community patents, in particular the provisions for the creation of a unitary Community patent title including the rights conferred by it, the possible actions for the enforcement of these rights, the grounds for invalidity as well as the mechanisms for the administration of granted Community patents such as their yearly renewal. It is foreseen that the grant of Community patents will be carried out by the European Patent Office. For this purpose the Community must accede to the European Patent Convention thereby charging the European Patent Office with the task of granting Community patents. Thus the European Patent Office will grant European and Community patents according to the same standards of the European Patent Convention ensuring uniformity and legal security of patent law in Europe. At the same time the European Patent Office's high expertise as an examining patent office can be put to use for the Community patent.

3. THE COMMUNITY PATENT JURISDICTION

The establishment of a Community patent jurisdiction is a key element of the Community patent system. The Community patent title covering the territory of all Member States will not only be governed by the uniform provisions of Community law contained in the regulation of the Council on the Community patent. It will, at the latest by 2010, after a transitional period during which national courts will retain jurisdiction for the subject matter, also be enforceable before a Community jurisdiction whose decisions enjoy Community wide effect.

The legal basis to be used for the establishment of a Community patent jurisdiction was introduced into the EC Treaty by Article 2 (26 ff.) of the Treaty of Nice amending the Treaty on European Union, the Treaties establishing the European Communities and certain related acts which entered into force on 1 February 2003, inserting Article 229a and Article 225a into the EC Treaty. It is proposed that the Community patent jurisdiction will be established by two Council Decisions based on those Articles.

In order for the Court of Justice to assume jurisdictional responsibilities with regard to the Community patent, that jurisdiction must be conferred on it. Article 229a of the EC Treaty allows the Council to adopt provisions to confer jurisdiction to the extent that it shall determine on the Court of Justice in disputes relating to the application of acts adopted on the basis of the Treaty which create Community industrial property rights. To that effect, the Commission put before the Council a separate proposal for a Council Decision containing such a conferral of jurisdiction with regard to the Community patent. The Court of Justice should have jurisdiction in disputes relating to the infringement or the validity of a Community patent and a Community supplementary protection certificate, the use of the invention after the publication of the Community patent application, the right based on prior use of the invention, provisional and evidence-protection measures in the subject matter conferred, damages or compensation in the situations referred to above and orders of a penalty payment in case of non-compliance with a decision or order constituting an obligation to act or to abstain from an act.

The present Commission proposal for a Council Decision based on Articles 225a, 245 of the EC Treaty proposes the establishment of a judicial panel to be called "Community Patent Court" which would within the Court of Justice exercise at first instance the jurisdiction in disputes relating to the Community patent. The Decision also contains necessary provisions with a view to accommodating the new function of the Court of First Instance as appeal instance according to Article 225(2) of the EC Treaty against decisions of the Community Patent Court.

4. THE COMMUNITY PATENT COURT

Article 225a of the EC Treaty provides for the possibility to create judicial panels to hear and determine at first instance certain classes of action or proceeding brought in specific areas. It is proposed that the Community Patent Court is established as a judicial panel in the sense of Article 225a of the EC Treaty. It would be competent for first instance litigation relating to the Community patent for which jurisdiction is conferred on the Court of Justice by the Decision of the Council based on Article 229a of the EC Treaty.

The EC Treaty itself already contains a number of provisions relevant to judicial panels. Judicial panels are according to Article 220(2) of the EC Treaty attached to the Court of First Instance. Article 225a(4) of the EC Treaty sets out the required qualifications for the judges of judicial panels and the appointment procedure. Judges shall be chosen from persons whose independence is beyond doubt and who possess the ability required for appointment to judicial office. Unlike the judges of the Court of Justice and the Court First Instance who are appointed by common accord of the governments of the Member States, the judges of a judicial panel are appointed by a unanimous decision of the Council. Article 225a(5) of the EC Treaty provides that the Rules of Procedure of a judicial panel are established by the panel itself in agreement with the Court of Justice and subject to the approval by the Council acting by a qualified majority. The EC Treaty provisions relating to the Court of Justice and the provisions of the Statute of the Court of Justice apply according to Article 225a(6) of the EC Treaty also to judicial panels unless the decision establishing a judicial panel provides otherwise. Appeals against decisions of the Community Patent Court will, according to Articles 225(2), 225a(3) of the EC Treaty be heard by the Court of First Instance. That appeal is limited to points of law unless otherwise provided for in the decision establishing the judicial panel.

With regard to the structure of the Community Patent Court, the proposal contains a centralised and specialised Community jurisdiction which will best ensure legal certainty regarding the unitary Community patent. The Community patent title covering the territory of all EU Member States should not only be granted according to the uniform standards of the European Patent Convention and after grant be governed by the uniform provisions of Community law contained in the Community patent regulation. It should also be effectively enforceable before a Community jurisdiction guaranteeing high quality decisions in a quick, inexpensive and uniform procedure. The Community Patent Court with its judges coming from different legal backgrounds within the Community would from its establishment develop a common Community patent case law ensuring legal certainty throughout the Community. These arguments in favour of a completely centralised Community jurisdiction have after a long and thorough discussion found the unanimous support of the Council as expressed in the common political approach of 3 March 2003. The judges of the Community Patent Court as a specialised Community jurisdiction should be sufficiently experienced in the field of patents. This has been expressly recognised by the Council who agreed in its common political approach that candidates for appointment must have an established high level of legal expertise in patent law and that judges shall be appointed on the basis of their expertise.

It is proposed that the Community Patent Court will consist of seven judges including the president. With the normal composition of the bench being three judges, six judges would allow to form two chambers within the Community Patent Court. The seventh member would appear necessary for the reinforcement of a chamber where needed, e.g. due to illness of a judge or for the chamber presided over by the president of the Community Patent Court who also has to assume tasks related to the administration and the representation of the Community Patent Court.

In special circumstances provided for in the Rules of Procedure, the Community Patent Court could sit in an enlarged composition, for example in cases where fundamental questions of patent law are concerned or in a reduced composition which could be the case for interim measures or simple cases in main proceedings.

The judges should be assisted in their work throughout the handling of the case by technical experts as agreed upon by the Council in its 3 March 2003 common political approach. For that purpose, use of “assistant rapporteurs” as foreseen in Article 13 of the Protocol on Statute of the Court of Justice shall be made. Such assistant rapporteurs, specialised in different technical fields, should actively participate in the preparation, the hearing and the deliberation of a case. However, they would not have a right to vote on the decision to take. Their input would be important in helping the judges to focus from the start of proceedings on the essential technical questions involved. Their role would not be to make the use of experts entirely superfluous but to enable the court as a whole to understand the technical aspects of the case quickly and accurately which is relevant for an efficient handling of a case and for a legally sound decision.

The Community Patent Court, though attached to the Court of First Instance should have its own registrar. With a view to an entirely different type of litigation and the case load of the Community Patent Court, a separate registrar would appear to be necessary to ensure swift and efficient proceedings before the Community Patent Court.

With a view to the first instance proceedings before the Community Patent Court, Article 4 of the Decision creates Annex II to the Protocol on the Statute of the Court of Justice including a number of provisions adapting the provisions of the Statute of the Court of Justice which are applied to judicial panels according to Article 225a(6) of the EC Treaty. With a view to the special nature of litigation before the Community Patent Court, i.e. private party patent litigation, some provisions of the Statute of the Court of Justice cannot apply e.g. those concerning the review of the legality of Community acts, others need amendments e.g. those concerning the procedure, the production of evidence or the revision of a judgment and finally some provisions need to be added e.g. those concerning the enforcement of decisions of the Community Patent Court or court fees.

Any official EU language can, depending on the circumstance, become the language of proceedings before the Community Patent Court. The principle that will decide on the language of proceedings in a particular case centres on the place of domicile of the defendant in the Community. The Community Patent Court conducts the proceedings in the official EU language of the Member State where the defendant is domiciled, or in one of them to be chosen by the defendant, where in a Member State there are two or more official languages. However, at the request of the parties and with the consent of the Community Patent Court, any official EU language can be chosen as language of proceedings. Where the defendant is not domiciled in a Member State, the language of proceedings would be determined by the official EU language in which the Community Patent was granted.

The proposal provides that the proceedings before the Community Patent Court will not be free of charge. The Community Patent Court will hear litigation in which parties seek to enforce their private rights against competitors and who should therefore adequately contribute to the incurred court cost. In that respect, the principle contained in Article 72 of the Rules of Procedure of the Court of Justice and Article 90 of the Rules of Procedure of the Court of First Instance that proceedings are free of charge will not be upheld for Community patent litigation. However, provisions on legal aid will have to be provided for in the Rules of Procedure of the Community Patent Court where a party is unable to meet the cost of proceedings as is the case in the Rules of Procedure in Articles 76 for the Court of Justice and 94. ff for the Court of First Instance.

5. THE APPEAL TO THE COURT OF FIRST INSTANCE

With the establishment of a Community Patent Court as a judicial panel in the sense of Article 225a of the EC Treaty which is attached to the Court of First Instance according to Article 220(2) of the EC Treaty, the latter will under Article 225(2) of the EC Treaty have jurisdiction to hear and determine appeals against decisions of the Community Patent Court.

For that purpose it is suggested to set up a special patent appeal chamber within the Court of First Instance with three judges having a high level of legal expertise in patent law providing the legal experience required for the highly specialised field of patent litigation. This appears to be necessary not only in first instance on the level of the Community Patent Court but also on appeal ensuring swift and efficient proceedings resulting in high quality decisions that merit the trust of the users from the very beginning of the system. The judges hearing the appeal will also be assisted by technical experts throughout the handling of the case. These "assistant rapporteurs" will be required to participate in the preparation, the hearing and the deliberation of the case.

The Community Patent Court in first instance and the patent appeal chamber of the Court of First Instance in patent appeal proceedings must, as the two stages of a uniform procedure, work to the same set of procedural rules. Therefore, those special Statute provisions that are necessary with a view to the specific nature of patent litigation which deviate from the Statute provisions of the Court of Justice as they would apply the Community Patent Court according to Article 225a(6) of the EC Treaty are also made applicable for the appeal proceedings before the Court of First Instance.

In principle Community patent disputes are heard by the Court of First Instance in second and last resort. A further appeal of a case to the Court of Justice is not foreseen. However, in exceptional cases, the decision of the Court of First Instance can be reviewed by the Court of Justice at the request of the First Advocate General according to Article 225(2) of the EC Treaty, Article 62 of the Statute of the Court of Justice where there is a serious risk of the unity or consistency of Community law being affected. The Court of Justice is expected to come forward with a request to change its Statute introducing further details for such a review procedure as called for in Declaration No 13 adopted by the Nice conference.

With a view to the enabling provision of Article 225(3) of the EC Treaty allowing, by way of Statute provision, to entrust the Court of First Instance in specific areas with jurisdiction to hear and determine questions referred for a preliminary ruling under Article 234 of the EC Treaty, the present proposal does not foresee any such competence for Community patent law provisions. While this question has been considered and held to yield important potential synergies with a view to the Court of First Instance deciding on parallel material issues either as an appeal instance in Community patent litigation or at the request of national courts for a preliminary ruling, it was felt that for the time being this competence should remain with the Court of Justice. The establishment of the Community Patent Court dealing with a new kind of litigation on a Community level constitutes itself a major innovation for the Community legal order such that it would appear appropriate to gather sufficient practical experience in the operation of the new jurisdictional arrangements before taking further steps.

6. TRANSITIONAL PERIOD

As agreed by the Council in its 3 March 2003 common political approach, the Community Patent Court shall be established at the latest by the year 2010. Until that time national courts of Member States will have jurisdiction. This would be relevant for those Community patents which come into effect before the establishment of the Community patent jurisdiction. The Community patent regulation will contain special provisions governing this transitional period. It is foreseen that each Member State will designate for this purpose a limited number of national courts to exercise the jurisdiction which will at the end of the transitional period be conferred on the Court of Justice. With regard to legal remedies against a decision of a national court in first instance, the legal remedies allowed in the respective Member State are applicable. Except where the jurisdiction of a national court is based on the place where an infringement was committed, in which case the jurisdiction is limited to the acts committed in that Member State, the national courts will have Community wide jurisdiction. Before the national courts, the Community patent will enjoy a comprehensive presumption of validity excluding the simple plea for invalidity as a defence against an infringement action. According to Article 2 of the Commission proposal for a Council Decision conferring jurisdiction on the Court of Justice relating to the Community patent, legal actions of which national courts have been seised at the time when the conferral of jurisdiction on the Court of Justice will take effect will be decided by the competent national courts.

7. NEED FOR A COMMUNITY INTERVENTION

The present Decision relating to jurisdictional aspects of the Community patent system intends to redress the existing shortcomings of the current situation of patent protection in the Union. The objective is to establish Community wide patent protection which can be enforced before one single court operating to uniform standards. This objective can only be achieved at a Community level.

8. PROPOSED PROVISIONS

With regard to its structure, the present Decision contains three chapters relating to the Community Patent Court (Chapter I), the appeal proceedings against decisions of the Community Patent Court before the Court First Instance (Chapter II) and final provisions (Chapter III).

Chapter I - The Community Patent Court

Chapter I on the Community Patent Court contains two major elements. Articles 1 to 3 of the Decision contain provisions which set up the Community Patent Court, determine the EC Treaty provisions to be applied to the Community Patent Court and provide a legal basis for an annex to the Protocol on the Statute of the Court of Justice containing the Statute provisions as applied by the Community Patent Court. Article 4 contains the special provisions relating to the Community Patent Court which are to be annexed to the Protocol on the Statute of the Court of Justice (hereinafter "Statute").

Article 1 - Establishment of the Community Patent Court

Article 1 establishes a judicial panel to be called "Community Patent Court" for first instance Community patent litigation. The establishment of the Community Patent Court is based on Article 225a of the EC Treaty which allows for the creation of judicial panels to hear and determine at first instance certain classes of action or proceeding brought in specific areas. Pursuant to Article 220(2) of the EC Treaty, the Community Patent Court is attached to the Court of First Instance. The structure of the Community Patent Court had been subject to intensive debate in the Council as to the proper degree of centralisation. The Council, in its common political approach adopted on 3 March 2003 unanimously agreed on a fully centralised first instance. The proposal for the establishment of a Community Patent Court is built on this approach. Consequently, the Community Patent Court should have its seat at the Court of First Instance without any of the possibilities that had been under discussion in the Council allowing for the establishment of permanent regional divisions of the Community Patent Court in Member States.

Article 2 – Application of EC Treaty provisions

In accordance with Article 225a(6) of the EC Treaty, the provisions of the EC Treaty relating to the Court of Justice and the provisions of the Statute of the Court of Justice will apply to the Community Patent Court unless the Decision establishing the Community Patent Court provides otherwise. Article 2 contains a list of Articles chosen from the EC Treaty provisions relating to the Court of Justice that are applicable to the Community Patent Court subject to the subsequent provisions of Chapter I of this Decision. The same approach had been employed by Article 4 of Council Decision 88/591/ECSC, EEC, Euratom of 24 October 1988 establishing the Court of First Instance.

The EC Treaty provisions relating to the Court of Justice do not seem in their entirety to be suitable for the special litigation to be handled by the Community Patent Court. Not applicable of course are the provisions relating to the Court of Justice and the Court of First Instance themselves, or to special proceedings before them. Moreover, among those provisions of a more general nature, a number of Articles referring to acts of the Communities and in particular their nullification, such as Articles 231, 233, 242 of the EC Treaty, are not applicable to the Community Patent Court handling private party litigation not involving the annulment of Community acts.

Articles 241, 243, 244 and 256 of the EC Treaty will apply to the Community Patent Court. Article 241 of the EC Treaty allows private parties to plead for the non-application of a regulation on the grounds stated by Article 230(2) of the EC Treaty. The EC Treaty in allowing this plea for non-application ensures the protection against the application of illegal regulation provisions, a safeguard that should also apply in patent litigation. Parties should be allowed to attack indirectly the validity of relevant patent provisions. Article 243 of the EC Treaty states the principle that the Court can order any necessary interim measures. Such provision is also valid for private party litigation and should thus apply to the Community Patent Court. Articles 244 and 256 of the EC Treaty concern the enforcement of a judgment which is governed by the law of the Member State in which enforcement is sought. This provision should also apply to the judgments of the Community Patent Court.

With regard to interim measures (Article 14 of Annex II to the Statute) and the enforcement of decisions of the Community Patent Court (Article 22 of Annex II to the Statute) the Decision takes particular account of the special nature of Community patent litigation. The order of interim measures provided for in Article 243 of the EC Treaty should not be conditional upon main proceedings having already been instituted before the Community Patent Court; also, interim measures that have been found unjustified may give rise to a claim for adequate compensation for the injury thereby caused. Furthermore, the enforcement mechanism provided for in Article 256 of the EC Treaty does not seem to be entirely suitable for the enforcement of decisions of the Community Patent Court, and in particular for interim measures, in that it requires an order of enforcement to be appended to the decision by the national authority designated for this purpose by the Member State in which the enforcement takes place. Although the national authority would only verify the authenticity of the decision to be enforced, this would still result in unjustified delays. Consequently the order of enforcement should be appended directly to the decision by the Community Patent Court. Furthermore, decisions of the Community Patent Court should also be enforceable against Member States as they should be treated on an equal basis with other parties where they own or infringe a Community patent. Finally, the Community Patent Court should have the power to ensure the enforcement of certain decisions by an order of a penalty payment.

Article 3 – Statute provisions for judicial panels

This Article contains a provision inserting a new Title VI "Judicial Panels" into the Statute of the Court of Justice with a new Article 65 creating a legal basis to annex provisions to the Statute of the Court Justice relating to judicial panels created under Article 225a of the EC Treaty. This provision of a general character and applies equally to any future judicial panel to be established. According to Article 225a(6) of the EC Treaty, unless otherwise provided for in the decisions establishing them, judicial panels apply the provisions of the Statute of the Court of Justice. While the majority of the provisions of the Statute of the Court of Justice will also be suitable to apply to judicial panels, some special provisions are necessary in order to take the individual circumstances of the judicial panel concerned into consideration, e.g. concerning the organisation and composition of the panel and special procedural elements. Therefore, for each judicial panel established in the future, a corresponding annex will be created to deal with the Statute provisions to be applied by the judicial panel concerned. Consequently the new Article 65 of the Statute of the Court of Justice consequently lays down that the provisions relating to the jurisdiction, the composition, and the organisation of judicial panels, and the procedure before them are to be set out in an annex to the Statute of the Court of Justice.

Article 4 – Annex to the Protocol on the Statute of the Court of Justice

On the basis of the new Article 65 of the Statute of the Court of Justice which will be inserted by virtue of Article 3 of the present Decision as explained above, Article 4 creates an Annex II to the Statute of the Court of Justice entitled "The Community Patent Court" with the following elements:

Article 1 of Annex II lays down the jurisdiction of the Community Patent Court. Articles 2 and 3 of Annex II concern the appointment of judges, Article 4 the election of the president of the Community Patent Court.

Article 5 of Annex II identifies the provisions from Title I and II of the Statute which apply to the Community Patent Court followed by special provisions relating to the organisation of the Community Patent Court (Articles 6 to 9 of Annex II). Article 10 of Annex II prescribes that the procedure before the Community Patent Court shall be governed by Title III of the Statute followed by a number of special provisions that are necessary in view of particular requirements of the special type of litigation before it (Articles 11 to 25 of Annex II). Articles 47 ff and 53 ff. of Title IV of the Statute of the Court of Justice contain a parallel structure with regard to the Court of First Instance.

Finally, Annex II contains special provisions on the appeal to the Court of First Instance (Articles 26 to 28) and a legal basis to lay down in the Rules of Procedure necessary provisions for applying and, where required, supplementing it.

Article 1 of Annex II to the Statute – Jurisdiction

Pursuant to Article 229a of the EC Treaty, exclusive jurisdiction relating to the Community patent is conferred on the Court of Justice by a separate Council Decision allowing the Court of Justice to assume jurisdictional responsibilities in this field.

The present Article attributes within the Court of Justice the exclusive jurisdiction for these disputes relating to the application of Council regulation (EC) No.../... of ... on the Community patent and Council regulation (EC) No.../... of ... on the Community supplementary protection certificate to be exercised at first instance by the Community Patent Court. The jurisdiction of the Community Patent Court is determined by way of reference to the Council Decision conferring jurisdiction on the Court of Justice relating to the Community patent for which the Commission has put forward a separate proposal for a Council Decision. The Community Patent Court would thus have jurisdiction for the subject matter laid down in Article 1 of the Commission proposal for such a Council Decision, namely for disputes relating to the infringement or the validity of a Community patent and a Community supplementary protection certificate, the use of the invention after the publication of the Community patent application, the right based on prior use of the invention, interim and evidence-protection measures in the subject matters conferred, damages and compensation incurred in the situations referred to above and orders of a penalty payment in case of non-compliance with a decision or order constituting an obligation to act or to abstain from an act.

In a transitional period before the conferral of jurisdiction on the Court Justice takes effect, disputes will be decided by national courts in accordance with the provisions of the Community patent regulation. As provided for in Article 2 of the proposed Council Decision conferring jurisdiction on the Court of Justice relating to the Community patent, the Community Patent Court will not have jurisdiction for those disputes of which national courts have already been seised during that transitional period, since the conferral of jurisdiction does not extend to those disputes.

Article 2 of Annex II to the Statute – Number, appointment and term of office of judges of the Community Patent Court Article 2 contains provisions relating to the judges of the Community Patent Court.

Paragraph 1 lays down the number of members of the Community Patent Court and their term of office. As to the size of the Community Patent Court, a total of seven judges including the president is proposed. The Community Patent Court will, according to Article 8 of Annex II to the Statute of the Court of Justice normally sit in chambers with three judges. Six judges would allow formation of two chambers. The seventh member would seem appropriate to give special support to the chamber presided over by the president of the Community Patent Court who will also have to perform other tasks relating for example to the administration and representation of the Community Patent Court. In addition, a complement of seven judges would enable all to sit and issue decisions together in accordance with Article 17(1) of the Statute of the Court of Justice which provides that only an uneven number of judges may sit. This number would also guarantee a smoothly operating jurisdiction in case of leave or sickness of judges and in general seems to be the number appropriate to the tasks to be carried out and the workload to be expected in the initial phase of the Community Patent Court. The judges will, according to Article 225a(5) of the EC Treaty, have to establish the Rules of Procedure of the Community Patent Court; a common practice under the adopted Rules of Procedure will have to be developed, and necessary adaptations in the light of experience be considered. The expected caseload in the initial phase is estimated for the first three consecutive years at around 50, 100 and 150 newly lodged cases which would mean a case load of 25, 50 and 75 new cases per year per chamber. This assumption is based on an expected number of 100 000 patents granted by the European Patent office per year of which around 50 000 would designate the Community and an annual litigation rate of 1 in 1 000 patents in force. When assessing the caseload that can reasonably be handled it must also be borne in mind that the Community Patent Court will have to develop a common jurisprudence necessitating in particular in the initial phase a number of fundamental decisions with corresponding need for intensive discussions.

As a term of office, a six year term with the possibility of renewal as is the case for the Court of Justice in Article 223(1) and (4) of the EC Treaty and for the Court of First Instance in Article 224(2) of the EC Treaty also seems appropriate for the Community Patent Court. The membership will be partially renewed every three years as foreseen for the Court of First Instance in Article 224(2) of the EC Treaty. Such a partial renewal of membership will ensure that the expertise built up by the court can be passed on from experienced judges to newly appointed judges and thus contribute to a stable jurisprudence and legal certainty. In order to establish this cycle where the Community Patent Court is only partially re-staffed at any one time, some members will need to have a shorter initial term of office. To that end, the present decision contains in its Article 7(2) a transitory provision whereby the president of the Council is to proceed to choose by lot the judges whose terms of office are to expire at the end of the first three years.

Paragraph 2 provides that judges are appointed from candidates presented by the Member States, and addresses the particular qualifications of members of the Community Patent Court. The EC Treaty itself prescribes in Article 225a(4) that eligible members of the judicial panels are "persons whose independence is beyond doubt and who possess the ability required for appointment to judicial office". Paragraph 2 specifies this general provision which is meant to address all the different kinds of possible panels by laying down specific requirements relating to the necessary professional profile of possible candidates for judges of the Community Patent Court. As agreed by the Council in its common political approach of 3 March 2003, the members must be appointed on the basis of their expertise from candidates having an established high level of legal expertise in patent law. This is particularly important because the special nature of patent law requires much experience. The experience of the judges in this field will be crucial for the acceptance of the system by users by guaranteeing efficient proceedings and high quality decisions. The judges will be appointed after consultation of a committee to be set up in accordance with Article 3.

Article 3 of Annex II to the Statute – Advisory committee

Paragraph 1 provides that the judges will be appointed following consultation of an advisory committee to be set up for this purpose which is to give an opinion on the adequateness of the profile of candidates for membership of the Community Patent Court. The Council will be aided by the Committee's opinion in the appointment process in finding the best suited candidates for membership of the Community Patent Court. In the light of the specific requirements to be observed, the advisory committee may also provide a list of those candidates who possess the most appropriate high level of legal experience. In such a case the list must include twice the number of candidates as the number of judges to be appointed, in order to guard against any risk of a predetermination of the decision of the Council by the committee's opinion.

Paragraph 2 determines that the advisory committee shall be composed of seven members chosen from among former members of the Court of Justice, the Court of First Instance, the Community Patent Court or lawyers of recognised competence. The appointment of members of the committee and its operating rules shall be decided by the Council, acting by a qualified majority, on a proposal from the president of the Court of Justice.

Article 4 of Annex II to the Statute - President of the Community Patent Court

This Article concerns the president of the Community Patent Court who is to be elected by the judges from among their number for a term of three years with the possibility of re-election. The same principles are applied to the Court of First Instance in Article 224(3) of the EC Treaty. However, the transitory provision contained in Article 7(1) of the present Decision provides that the first president of the Community Patent Court exceptionally appointed in the same manner as its members, unless the Council decides that also the first president shall be elected by the judges. This approach had also been followed for the Court of First Instance in Article 11(1) of Council Decision 88/591/ECSC, EEC, Euratom of 24 October 1988 establishing the Court of First Instance.

Article 5 of Annex II to the Statute – Applicability of provisions from Titles I and II of the Statute to the Community Patent Court and its judges

In the first sentence, this Article contains a reference to those Statute provisions from Titles I and II of the Statute that shall also apply to the Community Patent Court. A corresponding provision for the Court of First Instance is contained in Article 47(1) of the Statute.

For the Community Patent Court are declared applicable from Title I of the Statute: Article 2 (oath), Article 3 (immunity), Article 4 (other occupation), Article 5 (resignation), Article 6 (deprivation of office) and Article 7 (term of office in case of replacement). The present Article does not contain a reference to Article 8 of the Statute relating to the Advocate General since a participation of the Advocate General in proceedings before the Community Patent Court is not foreseen.

From Title II are declared applicable: Article 13 (assistant rapporteur), Article 14 (requirement of residence), Article 15 (judicial vacations), the first, second and fifth paragraphs of Article 17 (composition and quorum) and Article 18 (challenge for bias). The present Article does not contain a reference to Article 9 (number of judges to be replaced), Article 12 (staff attached to the Court of Justice), Article 16 (chambers of the Court of Justice), the third and fourth paragraphs of Article 17 (quorum for grand chamber and full Court). These provisions relate to specificities of the Court of Justice and should not apply to the Community Patent Court.

In the second sentence, the present Article specifies that also in relation to the Community Patent Court the oath of the judges is taken before the Court of Justice who is also attributed the competence to take decisions concerning the immunity and other occupations of judges and their deprivation of office.

Article 6 of Annex II to the Statute – Registrar

The first sentence provides for a registrar of the Community Patent Court. Although the Community Patent Court is attached to the Court of First Instance, a separate registrar seems appropriate since the Community Patent Court will deal with an entirely different type of litigation and also the expected caseload will justify such a measure. A legal basis for the appointment of the registrar and the rules governing his service would seem necessary in the Statute. Unlike for the Court of Justice (Article 223(5) of the EC Treaty) and the Court of First Instance (Article 224(4) of the EC Treaty) no such provision is included in the EC Treaty for the panels to be created under Article 225a.

The second sentence declares the provisions of the Statute relating to the registrar of the Court of Justice applicable to the registrar of the Community Patent Court as is the case for the registrar of the Court of First Instance in Article 47(2) of the Statute. The provisions concerned are Article 3(4) (immunities), Article 10 (oath and duties of the registrar), Article 11 (replacement of the registrar) and Article 14 (requirement of residence).

Article 7 of Annex II to the Statute – Assistant rapporteurs

This Article deals with the question in which way technical expertise is incorporated on the side of the Community Patent Court. An appropriate incorporation of technical expertise appears to be of particular importance for the efficiency and quality of the proceedings before the Community Patent Court. The judges of the Community Patent Court are confronted with cases involving highly complicated technologies from a wide range of technical fields. In this context, technical expertise can be considered essential in helping the judges to focus from the start of proceedings on the essential technical questions involved. The objective would not be to make the use of experts entirely superfluous but rather to enable the court as a whole to understand the technical aspects of the case quickly and accurately which is relevant for an efficient handling of a case and for a legally sound decision. The question has been subject to thorough discussions in the Council which reached agreement in its common political approach of 3 March 2003 that technical experts should assist the judges throughout the handling of the case. The present Article builds on this approach.

Paragraph 1 provides for technical experts of the Community Patent Court and specifies the framework within which they assume their function. Technical experts will assist the judges throughout the handling of the case as assistant rapporteurs. Article 13 of the Statute is applied to the assistant rapporteurs of the Community Patent Court. They are consequently appointed by the Council, acting unanimously, on a proposal from the Court of Justice. They shall be chosen from persons whose independence is beyond doubt and who possess the necessary legal qualifications. In this context, a thorough experience in patent law would seem necessary since the assistant rapporteur must have a good understanding of what technical aspects are relevant for a legally sound decision of the Community Patent Court. Assistant rapporteurs shall take an oath before the Court of Justice to perform their duties impartially and conscientiously and to preserve the secrecy of deliberations.

Paragraph 2 adds on to these elements providing that assistant rapporteurs must have a high level of expertise in the relevant technical field. The proposal does not foresee a fixed number of assistant rapporteurs but prefers to leave this question to be solved in the light of experience to be gathered. In order to reach the objective as outlined above, which is to provide the bench with technical expertise of a general kind, a limited number of assistant rapporteurs covering the basic divisions of technology such as one for each of the following seven fields would seem appropriate: inorganic chemistry and materials science, organic and polymer chemistry, biochemistry and biotechnology, general physics, mechanical engineering, information and communication technology, electrical engineering. Assistant rapporteurs shall like the judges be appointed for a term of six years with the possibility of reappointment.

Paragraph 3 contains a provision specifying the functions of the assistant rapporteurs within the Community Patent Court. As they shall assist the judges throughout the handling of the case, their participation is foreseen in the preparation, the hearing and the deliberation of cases. The details concerning their participation shall be laid down in the Rules of Procedure. Assistant rapporteurs shall have the right to ask questions to the parties to clarify relevant technical questions. They shall take part in the deliberation of the judges but do not have a right to vote.

Article 8 of Annex II to the Statute – Composition of the chambers and assignment of cases

Paragraph 1 provides that the Community Patent Court as a rule shall sit in chambers composed of three judges. This number also retained in the Council's common political approach of 3 March 2003 seems to be most appropriate with a view to litigation to be handled striking the right balance between thoroughness and efficiency of case handling for the average cases.

Paragraph 2 addresses situations where there might be a need to deviate from the standard composition of a chamber of three judges. An enlarged configuration might be appropriate, for instance, in cases that involve fundamental points of law or where chambers take a different view on a legal matter. A reduced configuration might be considered for provisional measures or simple cases. The requirements for such a special composition shall be laid out in the Rules of Procedure to allow for the necessary flexibility including provisions on the quorum since the standard provisions of Article 17(3) (grand chamber) and Article 17(4) (full court) of the Statute do not apply to the Community Patent Court.

Paragraph 3 provides that the president of the Community Patent Court shall always preside ex officio over one of the chambers of the Community Patent Court. He shall also preside where the Community Patent Court in accordance with its Rules of Procedure sits in an enlarged composition. The presidents of the remaining chambers shall be elected by the judges from among their number for a term of three years with the possibility of re-election.

Paragraph 4 specifies that the composition of the chambers and the assignment of cases to the chambers is governed by the Rules of Procedure. The composition of the chambers and the assignment of cases will thus be predetermined in the Rules of Procedure but at the same time an appropriate degree of flexibility is left to adapt such rules in the light of efficient case handling. It opens, for example, the possibility of largely attributing the cases to the chambers on the basis of the field of technology concerned enhancing the expertise of the individual chamber by building up experience in the technical fields concerned.

Article 9 of Annex II to the Statute – Agreement on services of support staff

According to Article 12 of the Statute, officials and other servants are attached to the Court of Justice. They are responsible to the registrar of the Court of Justice under the authority of the president of the Court of Justice. The conditions under which these officials and other servants render their services to the Court of First Instance are according to Article 52 of the Statute determined by common accord between the president of the Court of Justice and the president of the Court of First Instance.

The present Article lays down the framework under which officials and other servants attached to the Court of Justice will render services to the Community Patent Court to enable it to function. This will be determined between the President of the Court of Justice or, where appropriate, the President of the Court of First Instance by common accord with the President of the Community Patent Court. As a rule, such an agreement will be reached between the president of the Court of Justice and the president of the Community Patent Court. However, there might also be situations where the common accord between the president of the Court of Justice and the president of the Court of First Instance has already taken account of the needs of the Community Patent Court so that in such a case the president of the Court of First Instance and the president of the Community Patent Court are in a position to agree on appropriate terms for the Community Patent Court. Finally, certain officials and other servants who directly support the president, the judges or the registrar such as legal secretaries or officials of the registry shall be responsible to the registrar of the Community Patent Court under the authority of the president of the Community Patent Court. There is a corresponding provision for the Court of First Instance in Article 52 of the Statute.

Article 10 of Annex II to the Statute – Applicability of provisions from Title III of the Statute to the procedure before the Community Patent Court Paragraph 1 of this Article declares Title III of the Statute applicable for the procedure before the Community Patent Court as is the case for the Court of First Instance in Article 47 of the Statute. The majority of procedural provisions contained in Title III of the Statute concerning basic principles of procedure before the Court of Justice can also apply to the Community Patent Court. They can be considered a set of common principles of Community court procedure. However, where necessary with a view to the special type of litigation before the Community Patent Court changes have to be made. The Community Patent Court will hear private party Community patent litigation. It will not be concerned with the review of the legality of Community acts but decide disputes between private parties. As a result, not all of the provisions contained in Title III of the Statute can apply in their present form. Hence, certain provisions of Title III of the Statute which are not relevant to the procedure before the Community Patent Court are disapplied (Articles 21(2), 22, 23, 40(1) and (3), 42, 43 of the Statute). Where the special nature of litigation before the Community Patent Court makes adaptations to the existing provisions of Title III of the Statute necessary, this has been done in Articles 11 to 25 of Annex II to the Statute.

The provisions from Title III of the Statute apply to the Community Patent Court as follows:

Article 19 of the Statute on legal representation is applied to the Community Patent Court with the amendments relating to the role of European patent attorneys which are proposed in Article 11 of Annex II to the Statute and who should have a right to speak before the Community Patent Court.

Article 20 of the Statute laying down the principal structure of the procedure consisting of two parts, a written and an oral part, its provisions on communications to the parties and the contents of the oral procedure are applied to the Community Patent Court with the proposed amendments contained in an Article 12 of Annex II to the Statute providing e.g. for exceptional cases to dispense with the oral procedure and allowing for proceedings to be conducted in electronic form.

Article 21(1) of the Statute concerns the necessary elements of written applications. Article 21(2) of the Statute concerns the annulment of measures issued by a Community institution. The Community Patent Court, however, will not be concerned with the review of the legality of Community acts and it is therefore not necessary for this power to apply to the Community Patent Court.

Articles 22 and 23 of the Statute concern appeals against EAEC arbitration awards and preliminary rulings. Since neither of these situations can arise before the Community Patent Court, these provisions should not apply to the Community Patent Court.

Paragraph 1 of Article 24 of the Statute places an obligation of the parties to produce documents and supply information considered desirable by the Court. This obligation seems too wide for private party litigation and consequently should apply to the Community Patent Court in a narrower sense as proposed in Article 13 of Annex II to the Statute. Paragraph 2 of Article 24 of the Statute places a general obligation on Member States and the institutions to provide necessary information.

Articles 25 to 30 of the Statute relate to the taking of evidence by witnesses and expert opinions, and should apply to the Community Patent Court: Article 25 (court's choice of expert), Article 26 (hearing of witnesses), Article 27 (powers with respect to defaulting witnesses), Article 28 (oath of witnesses and experts), Article 29 (hearing of witness or expert by judicial authority of residence), Article 30 (violation of oath).

The elements of the procedure contained in Articles 31 to 38 of the Statute can also apply to the Community Patent Court: Article 31 (principle of public hearings), Article 32 (examination of experts, witnesses and parties), Article 33 (minutes of hearings), Article 34 (establishment of case list), Article 35 (secrecy of deliberations), Article 36 (contents of judgments), Article 37 (signing of judgments and reading of judgment in open court) and Article 38 (adjudication upon costs).

Article 39 of the Statute concerns the order of interim measures in a special summary procedure. This Article should apply to the Community Patent Court with the adjustments specified in Article 15 of Annex II to the Statute proposing that Article 39 would extend to evidence-protection measures and that the Rules of Procedure shall determine who is competent to make orders.

Article 40 of the Statute deals with the intervention of third parties in proceedings supporting the form and order sought by one of the parties. Such intervention should also be possible before the Community Patent Court. However, Article 40(1), (3) of the Statute confers a special right of intervention for the institutions of the Communities, the Member States and other States which are parties to the Agreement on the European Economic Area and the EFTA Surveillance Authority to intervene in proceedings without the general requirement of the establishment of an interest in the result of the case as laid in Article 40(2) of the Statute. This unconditional right of intervention is inappropriately broad to apply to litigation before the Community Patent Court which concerns day to day disputes relating to rights of private parties.

Article 41 of the Statute contains provisions on a judgment by default and should apply to the Community Patent Court together with further specifications laid down in Article 16 of Annex II to the Statute.

Article 42 of the Statute provides for the possibility of third parties to contest a judgment prejudicial to their rights where they had not been heard. Such a provision is incompatible with the principle of legal certainty in private party litigation and should thus not apply to the Community Patent Court. Once a judgment of the Community Patent Court becomes final and can no longer be subject to appeal, there should be no further possibility to reopen the case except in the very limited situation of a revision under Article 44 of the Statute and Article 17 of its Annex II in case of a fundamental procedural defect or a criminal offence. In all other cases parties must be able to rely on the terms of a final judgment. Moreover, a situation envisaged by Article 42 hardly arises in private party litigation where judgments only produce their effects upon the parties of the case which are bound by the judgment. Situations where third parties might be indirectly affected only arise where there are rights concerned with a patent which has been declared invalid. For these cases, the Rules of Procedure will need to make appropriate provisions ensuring that, where necessary, interests of third parties are already taken into account during the proceedings leading up to the judgment. These could provide, for example, that in case of an exclusive licence, both the right holder and the licensee would need to be sued together whereas in the case of a simple contractual licence the consequences of a declaration of invalidity pronounced in proceedings against the right holder might be left to the legal relationship between right holder and licensee.

Article 43 of the Statute providing for special proceedings in which the scope of a judgment can be subject to interpretation does not seem to be appropriate for private patent litigation and should consequently not apply to the Community Patent Court. The claims granted by the Community Patent Court must be clear and of such nature that they are directly enforceable without the need of further interpretation by the Community Patent Court. Moreover, the provision could be misunderstood as reserving any kind of interpretation of the judgment to the Community Patent Court. However, in the enforcement stage which is according to Articles 244, 256 of the EC Treaty provided for by national law, the competent authority will need to apply the terms of the judgment and decide on the question if a particular embodiment of an invention falls within the scope of an injunction not to infringe a patent. Finally, if systematically used by the defendant in the course of enforcement measures, this provision applied to the Community Patent Court would carry the risk of paralysis of Community patent litigation.

Article 44 of the Statute allowing for a revision of a judgment on the grounds of discovery of new facts, which were unknown at the time judgment was given, seems incompatible with the principle of legal security in private party litigation. Consequently, adaptations to this provision are proposed in Article 17 of Annex II to the Statute limiting a revision to cases of a fundamental procedural defect or a criminal offence in the proceedings that led to the judgment.

Finally, Article 45 of the Statute on time limits and Article 46 of the Statute on a liability bar against the Communities shall apply before the Community Patent Court.

Paragraph 2 of the present Article provides in its first sentence that further and more detailed provisions on the procedure before the Community Patent Court shall be laid down in the Rules of Procedure which, according to Article 225a(5) of the EC Treaty, are established by the Community Patent Court in agreement with the Court of Justice and subject to approval by the Council. The second sentence allows the Rules of Procedure to derogate from Article 40 of the Statute on intervention in order to take account of the special features of private party Community patent litigation. A corresponding provision is contained for the Court of First Instance in Article 53(2) of the Statute.

Article 11 of Annex II to the Statute – European Patent Attorney

This Article contains adaptations to Article 19 of the Statute on legal representation before the Court for the purpose of proceedings before the Community Patent Court.

In patent litigation, questions of technology play an important part in order to reach a legally sound decision. Technical expertise is required not only on the side of the Community Patent Court contributed by assistant rapporteurs but also on the side of the parties.

The first and second paragraphs recognise this important role of technical expertise for the parties giving European Patent Attorneys the right of audience before the Community Patent Court. A reference to the list maintained by the European Patent Office for the purpose of legal representation before it will ensure appropriate and uniform standards for qualifying persons which must be met for efficient proceedings.

The third paragraph applies Article 19(5) and (6) of the Statute to European Patent Attorneys. Where a European Patent Attorney appears before the Community Patent Court, he will enjoy the necessary rights and immunities and the Community Patent Court will have the powers normally accorded to courts of law under the conditions laid down in the Rules of Procedure.

Article 12 of Annex II to the Statute - Oral and written procedure

This Article adapts Article 20 of the Statute concerning the written and oral part of the procedure to proceedings before the Community Patent Court.

It is proposed to rephrase Article 20(4) relating to the conduct of the oral hearing. The obligation of the "reading of a report" by the judge rapporteur seems too rigid for daily trial court proceedings and should be replaced by a more flexible wording referring to the "presentation of the main features of the case". Since the wording of Article 20(4) of the Statute does not allow the hearing of a European Patent Attorney as foreseen before the Community Patent Court by the proposed Article 11 of Annex II to the Statute, the concerned wording should be replaced by the more general wording "hearing of the parties". The question of who actually addresses the court does not have to be enumerated as is currently done in Article 20(4) of the Statute but would be a question of proper legal representation. Finally the hearing of witnesses and experts is replaced by the more general wording of "examination of evidence".

Article 20(5) of the Statute which deals with the Advocate General should not apply to the Community Patent Court as the Advocate General will not participate in proceedings. Instead a provision is proposed that would allow in appropriate cases to pass to a written procedure. Article 20(1) of the Statute lays down the important principle that cases are only decided upon after an oral hearing. For certain cases, an oral hearing might not be appropriate e.g. in simple cases with uncontested facts or where the defendant accepts the plaintiff's claims. For such cases there should be the possibility to deviate from the principle of an oral hearing and exceptionally decide a case in a written procedure. Therefore, the Community Patent Court should have the possibility to dispense with the oral procedure after having heard the parties and in accordance with the Rules of Procedure.

Finally an enabling clause should be introduced which allows for the employment of technical means in the written and oral procedure before the Community Patent Court. This could, for example, apply to the submission of documents in the written procedure or video conferencing at the oral stage. The specification of the parts of the procedure which can be conducted by electronic means and the conditions for so doing should be left to the Rules of Procedure. Practice will show where, to what extent and under what conditions electronic means should be employed. Moreover technology is constantly developing and the Rules of Procedure would be best suited to keep track of the widening technological possibilities by introducing necessary changes into the procedure.

Article 13 of Annex II to the Statute – Production of evidence

Paragraph 1 of Article 24 of the Statute contains an obligation of the parties to produce documents and supply information considered desirable by the Court. This obligation seems too wide for private party litigation and consequently should apply to the Community Patent Court in a narrower sense. In principle it is the obligation of each party in private party litigation to bring forward the necessary evidence to prove its contested claim. However, under special circumstance it would seem justified to oblige the opposing party to produce evidence in favour of the other party. A reasonable balance between the interests of parties would seem to be struck as recognised by Article 43(1) of the Agreement on Trade-Related Aspects of Intellectual Property Rights (TRIPS Agreement) of 15 April 1994 where a party has presented reasonably available evidence to support its claims, and has, in substantiating those claims cited evidence under the control of the opposing party. In such a case the Community Patent Court may order that evidence be produced by the opposing party, subject to the protection of confidential information.

Article 14 of Annex II to the Statute – Interim and evidence-protection measures

This Article contains special provisions on interim and evidence protection measures.

Paragraph 1 concerns the order of interim measures. Article 243 of the EC Treaty provides that the Court may in cases before it prescribe any necessary interim measures. This provision which is also applied to the Community Patent Court by Article 2 of this Decision does not foresee the ordering of interim measures before main proceedings are pending. However, a need for such a possibility exists in patent litigation where for example a preliminary injunction to stop an infringement is necessary even before the main proceedings have commenced. Also Article 50(6) of the TRIPS Agreement presupposes the possibility to prescribe interim measures in cases where main proceedings have not yet been brought. Consequently the present Article makes use of the possibility foreseen in Article 225a(6) of the EC Treaty to derogate for judicial panels from the EC Treaty provisions relating to the Court of Justice. It is proposed that interim measures shall not be conditional upon main proceedings having already been instituted before the Community Patent Court.

Paragraph 2 provides for evidence-protection measures allowing an order to authorize a detailed description or the physical seizure of infringing goods and related documents in the event of actual or imminent infringement. The measure also known in patent law as saisie-contrefaçon supplements the obligation of the parties to produce evidence as laid down in Article 13 of Annex II to the Statute and has proven to be a valuable instrument for the enforcement of intellectual property rights and has therefore also been taken up in Article 8 of the Commission proposal for a directive on measures and procedures to ensure the enforcement of intellectual property rights of 30 January 2003 [COM (2003) 46 final].

Paragraph 3 provides for a claim for adequate compensation in case of interim measures or evidence-protection measures where measures are revoked. Interim measures and evidence protection measures can have a significant economic impact on the party against whom they are ordered. It must also be born in mind that such orders are made in a summary procedure under Article 39 of the Statute, Article 15 of its Annex II at a stage where the judge does not yet have all the necessary elements of fact and evidence to give final judgment. Therefore an appropriate balance between the parties' legitimate interests requires that the applicant obtaining an interim or evidence-protection measure would have the obligation to compensate the opposing party for any injury caused where a measure is not upheld. Such a claim is also provided for in Article 50(7) of the TRIPS Agreement in relation to interim measures and in Articles 8(3) and 10(5) of the Commission proposal for a directive on measures and procedures to ensure the enforcement of intellectual property rights of 30 January 2003 for both measures concerned.

Article 15 of Annex II to the Statute – Special orders

This Article contains adjustments to Article 39 of the Statute on interim measures and measures relating to the suspension of enforcement. Article 39 of the Statute provides a basis for a summary procedure for these cases to be laid down in the Rules of Procedure which may differ from the rules laid down in the Statute. This provision takes account of the special situation and urgency of the measures concerned justifying, where appropriate, deviating from the rules governing main proceedings. For the purpose of proceedings before the Community Patent Court, evidence-protection measures, provided for under Article 14 of Annex II to the Statute should, with a view to their nature and in particular their urgency, qualify for those special measures to be ordered in a summary procedure.

A second amendment for the purpose of proceedings before the Community Patent Court is made with a view to the person entitled to make the orders concerned. Article 39 of the Statute attributes this competence to the president of the Court. This approach does not seem to leave the appropriate degree of flexibility for patent litigation before the Community Patent Court. The question whether the enforcement of a judgment should be suspended is closely linked to the individual case and might consequently be handled more efficiently by the chamber that made the judgment or one of its judges. Interim and evidence-protection measures will also be quite a common procedure in patent litigation and might therefore be better handled by the chamber which is competent for main proceedings or one of its judges. To refer the question who is competent to make orders in a summary procedure to the Rules of Procedure leaves the necessary flexibility to provide for the most suitable solution.

Article 16 of Annex II to the Statute – Judgment by default

This Article makes amendments to Article 41 of the Statute on a judgment by default.

Article 41 of the Statute foresees the possibility for a judgment by default where a defending party, after having been duly summoned, fails to file written submissions in defence. For private party patent litigation this should not be the only situation in which the Community Patent Court should be able to decide the case by a judgment by default. A judgment by default should also be possible where the defendant filed submission in the written part of the procedure but later, after having duly been summoned, fails to appear at the oral hearing to defend himself. In this situation the Community Patent Court should be able to make a judgment by default which would end the case unless the defendant according to the second sentence of Article 41 of the Statute lodges an objection against the judgment within one month of its notification. Finally, a judgment by default should also be possibly against the plaintiff who, after having been duly summoned, fails to appear at the oral hearing.

Article 17 of Annex II to the Statute – Revision of a judgment

Article 44(1) of the Statute contains a provisions on the revision of a judgment unsuitable for private party litigation before the Community Patent Court. Article 44 allows the revision of a final judgment on the grounds that a decisive factor was unknown at the time the judgment was given. With a view to legal certainty, such grounds are insufficient to reopen a case in private party litigation. Parties must be able to rely on a judgment of the Community Patent Court where that judgment is no longer subject to an appeal even in a case where a decisive fact was unknown at the time of judgment. The reopening of cases must remain very exceptional and should be limited to the discovery of a decisive factor which was unknown to the party claiming the revision and only on the grounds of a fundamental procedural defect or an act which was held by a final court decision to constitute a criminal offence. Only in these very exceptional cases is it justified that a final judgment may legitimately be challenged.

Article 18 of Annex II to the Statute – Settlement

A dispute between the parties may not only be resolved by a final decision of the Community Patent Court in a judgment but also by a settlement between the parties before the Community Patent Court. The present Article lays out the legal basis for an in court settlement which can be concluded by the parties at any time in the course of proceedings. Such a settlement which is confirmed by the Community Patent Court has two important effects: it will terminate the proceedings before the Community Patent Court and it serves as an enforceable title under Articles 244, 256 of the EC Treaty in case a party does not comply with the terms of the settlement. The second sentence clarifies that a settlement cannot affect the validity of a Community patent which is exclusively governed by law and not subject to party autonomy. Of course, parties remain free to conclude a settlement including an agreement to surrender or voluntarily limit the patent.

Article 19 of Annex II to the Statute – Wrongly addressed Community court

Article 54(1) of the Statute concerns the obligation of the registrars of the Court of Justice and the Court of First Instance to forward documents addressed to one of them but accidentally lodged with the other. Article 54(2) of the Statute governs the situation that either the Court of Justice or the Court of First Instance is seised whereas the other court is the competent court. In this case the seised court can refer the action with binding effect. Both provisions shall apply mutatis mutandis also in relation to the Community Patent Court.

Article 54(3) of the Statute providing for the possibility to stay proceedings and wait for the ruling of the Court of Justice necessitates some changes and is separately treated in the following Article 20 of Annex II to the Statute.

Article 20 of Annex II to the Statute – Stay of proceedings

This Article contains rules on the stay of proceedings.

Paragraph 1 covers like Article 54(3) of the Statute for the Court of First Instance, the situations in which the Community Patent Court may, after hearing the parties, stay proceedings in order to wait for a decision of another Community court. The Community Patent Court should have the possibility to stay proceedings where there is a sufficient link between the questions at issue before it and those raised in a case before the Court of Justice or the Court of First Instance. A stay of proceedings can be considered where the Court of Justice is seised of a case raising the same issue of interpretation either by way of a preliminary ruling or in the context of a review in accordance with Article 225(2) of the EC Treaty. A stay of proceedings could further be considered where the Court of First Instance has to decide on the validity of the same Community patent that is also subject to proceedings before the Community Patent Court. Under these circumstances a stay of proceedings should be considered with a view to a uniformity of jurisprudence and efficient case handling.

Paragraph 2 provides for the possibility of the Community Patent Court to stay proceedings where it is seised of an invalidity action and where opposition proceedings are ongoing before the European Patent Office. No automatic stay of proceedings is foreseen. It is left to the Community Patent Court to decide this question in view of the circumstances of the individual case. The Community Patent Court may, after hearing the parties, stay proceedings until such time as a final decision is issued on the opposition. Such a final decision, i.e. a decision that is no longer subject to further legal remedy before the European Patent Office, can be issued by the Opposition Division or where an appeal is filed by the Board of Appeal of the European Patent Office.

Article 21 of Annex II to the Statute – Communication of decisions

This Article applies Article 55 of the Statute determining the decisions to be notified and their recipients with slight amendments to the Community Patent Court. The registrar shall notify final decision, decisions disposing of substantive issues in part only or disposing of a procedural issue concerning a plea of lack of competence or inadmissibility to all parties. Member States and the institutions of the Communities which have neither intervened nor been a party to the case shall only be informally sent the final decision of the Community Patent Court for information purposes. A formal notification of the full range of decisions seems inadequate.

Article 22 of Annex II to the Statute – Enforcement of decisions of the Community Patent Court

This Article concerns the enforcement of decisions of the Community Patent Court.

Paragraph 1 lays down two principles governing the enforceability of decisions of the Community Patent Court. Decisions of the Community Patent Court should always be enforceable if they are no longer subject to appeal. Enforcement commences where the decision of the Community Patent Court is res judicata. Consequently the appeal against a decision of the Community Patent Court preventing the res judicata effect should have a suspensory effect for the enforceability of the decision. However, a party that has won a case at first instance can have a legitimate interest to start enforcing the terms of a decision even where the opposing party appeals the decision. To postpone any type of enforcement until after a decision on the appeal might dramatically reduce the value of proceedings before the Community Patent Court since the effective remedy might only be realised at a point in time where the party can no longer gather the economic benefit that the proceedings were meant to ensure. Moreover, it has to be born in mind that the Community Patent Court will have decided the case after a thorough examination. On the other hand if the enforcement is allowed prior to the decision reaching res judicata, safeguards are necessary to adequately protect a party against whom the enforcement is directed from damages if the decision is not finally upheld on appeal. The present Article strikes a balance between these interests of parties involved in allowing the Community Patent Court to declare its decisions enforceable while, if necessary, subjecting enforcement to the provision of security. Where the Community Patent Court subjects the enforcement to the provision of security, the defendant who successfully appeals a first instance decision which was enforced against him can always recover e.g. a paid sum if necessary from the security even where the opposing party in the meantime has fallen into insolvency. The kinds of situations in which a security would not need to be provided must be developed by the Community Patent Court. This could e.g. be the case for a judgment by default where the party against whom the decision is directed, though duly summoned, has not entered an appearance or where a party has accepted a claim.

Paragraph 2 simplifies the mechanism for the enforcement of decisions of the Community Patent Court. According to Article 225a(6) of the EC Treaty, the enforcement of the decisions of the Community Patent Court is governed by Articles 244, 256 of the EC Treaty unless the decision establishing the Community Patent Court provides otherwise. Under Article 256 of the EC Treaty, enforcement is governed by the rules of civil procedure in force in the State in the territory of which it is carried out. In order to be able to start such enforcement procedures, the national authority designated for this purpose by the Member State needs to append to the decision an order for its enforcement. For doing so, the national authority is entitled only to verify the authenticity of the decision. Even though the role of the national authority in this context is already limited to a formality check of the authenticity of the decision to be enforced, this would seem to be neither necessary nor suitable for the enforcement of decisions of the Community Patent Court. The Community Patent Court would itself be best placed to certify the authenticity of the enforceable decision. A special procedure to obtain an order of enforcement from a national authority would unduly prolong enforcement and would in particular present problems for the enforcement of interim measures which by nature require rapid actions, sometimes within hours. It is therefore proposed that the Community Patent Court itself would append the order of enforcement to its decision which a party could then directly enforce according to the national civil procedure law concerned. Paragraph 2 also allows the enforcement of decisions against Member States. Member States may, like any other person or legal entity, be a party to proceedings before the Community Patent Court. They may obtain a Community patent and they may be subject to infringement proceedings brought by other right holders. Consequently decisions of the Community Patent Court must be enforceable against them.

Paragraph 3 contains a further specificity concerning the enforcement of decisions of the Community Patent Court. Decisions ordering the defendant to act in a certain way or to abstain from certain acts are enforceable through an order of a penalty payment in case of non-compliance with the terms of a decision. The Community Patent Court itself should be able to order such a penalty payment for non-compliance with its decisions or orders. If for example the Community Patent Court orders a defendant to stop infringement, it should at the same time be able to make an order whereby the non-compliance would be sanctioned by an obligation to pay a certain sum of money. If such an order necessitated a separate application to the courts of Member States, valuable time could be lost in ensuring that the decision of the Community Patent Court is respected. The Community Patent Court may order a single amount to be paid in case of non-compliance with the court decision. It may also order the payment of a recurrent fine where the fines are dependant on circumstances to be specified by the court such as e.g. each case of non-compliance with the court decision or the non compliance within a certain time span. The individual fine must be proportionate with a view to the importance of the order to be enforced and may in any case not exceed an amount of EUR 50 000.

Article 23 of Annex II to the Statute – Court fees

This Article introduces Court fees for proceedings before the Community Patent Court.

Paragraph 1 contains the principle that appropriate court fees will be charged for proceedings before the Community Patent Court. While proceedings before the Court of Justice and the Court of First Instance are free of charge, it seems appropriate for Community patent litigation that parties adequately contribute to the costs incurred by the Community Patent Court. Before the Community Patent Court, the parties will litigate disputes about their subjective private rights. The costs of such a dispute between private parties should not entirely be left to be paid for by the public.

Paragraph 2 concerns the adoption of a schedule of fees which would provide for the individual fees as well as the amount to be charged. The schedule of fees should be adopted by the Council by qualified majority on a proposal from the Commission and after consulting the European Parliament and the Court of Justice or at the request of the Court of Justice and after consulting the European Parliament and the Commission. The amount to be charged would need to strike the right balance between the principle of fair access to justice and an adequate contribution of the parties for the services rendered by the Community Patent Court. This means on the one hand that fees must not be of a kind that they create a prohibiting effect rendering the enforcement of Community patents unduly costly. Also for defendants, in particular SMEs, the risk of being sued before the Community Patent Court must not present a financial threat inducing them to rather give up a position than having a dispute decided. On the other hand, parties should shoulder a fair share of the costs that their litigation creates. In addition to a balanced schedule of fees, the Rules of Procedure would need to provide for legal aid for parties unable to meet the costs as is the case in Article 76 of the Rules of Procedure of the Court of Justice and Articles 94 ff. of the Rules of Procedure of the Court of First Instance.

Paragraph 3 specifies that fees shall be paid in advance and that a party which has not paid a prescribed court fee may be excluded from further participation in the proceedings. Parties would pay the due amount according to the schedule of fees before the Community Patent Court takes action. This shall ensure that the Community Patent Court will receive its fees without spending unnecessary resources on the collection of fees including the world wide enforcement against parties that are not paying their fees. The Community Patent Court will adjudicate upon costs in accordance with Article 38 of the Statute and the relevant provisions of the Rules of Procedure which would lay down detailed provisions on which party ultimately has to bear the costs as is the case for the Court of Justice in Articles 69 ff. and the Court of First Instance in Articles 87 ff of their respective Rules of Procedure. A party winning a case which had advanced a fee would thus be able to reclaim the fees from the losing party. Finally, it should be noted that the Community Patent Court "may" exclude parties from further proceedings. This allows the Community Patent Court to develop a practice under which circumstances fees exceptionally need not be paid in advance as may be appropriate in the case of urgent interim measures leaving no time for prior payment of fees.

Article 24 of Annex II to the Statute –Hearings in Member States

This Article clarifies that the Community Patent Court may hold hearings in Member States other than that in which its seat is located as agreed upon by the Council in its common political approach of 3 March 2003. It is for the Community Patent Court to decide in the individual case on the appropriateness of such hearings.

Article 25 of Annex II to the Statute – Language of proceedings

This Article lays down the principles governing the language of proceedings before the Community Patent Court.

Paragraph 1 provides that the Community Patent Court will conduct proceedings in the official EU language of the Member State where the defendant is domiciled or in one of them to be chosen by the defendant, where in a Member State there are two or more official EU languages. This principle which was recognised in the common political approach of the Council of 3 March 2003 shall ensure that an EU domiciled defendant who is confronted with claims of a plaintiff can defend himself in a language he knows or can be expected to know. Since the domicile of the defendant can regularly be determined with no great difficulty, the chosen rule is very clear contributing to legal certainty for the plaintiff. Where, however, the defendant is not domiciled in a Member State, the Community Patent Court shall conduct proceedings in the official EU language in which the patent was granted. This provision contains a clear rule for all other possible situations in which the defendant has his domicile in a third State.

Paragraph 2 provides as agreed upon by the Council in its 3 March 2003 common political approach that at the request of the parties and with the consent of the Community Patent Court, any official EU language can be chosen as language of proceedings to take account of their respective situations. Such an agreement of the parties would be likely e.g. where the defendant though domiciled in a different Member State originates from the same Member State as the plaintiff or where in particular companies communicate in the same international business language which the defendant would prefer to use in preference to the language of his domicile. Under normal circumstances, the Community Patent Court would consent to the joint request of the parties to change from one language of proceedings to another. However, for exceptional cases, the Community Patent Court should have the power to reject the request e.g. where the request is made untimely causing difficulty to the Community Patent Court such as a corresponding request close to or at an oral hearing for which interpretation cannot be provided.

Paragraph 3 clarifies that the Community Patent Court may hear, in accordance with the Rules of Procedure, the parties in person, witnesses and experts in any language. The Community Patent Court must be allowed, where it considers necessary, to question any such person even where that person does not speak any of the official EU languages. In such a case, the registrar shall provide for interpretation into the language of proceedings and at the request of any party into the language used by that party at the oral hearing in accordance with the Rules of Procedure.

Paragraph 4 finally provides for the possibility of the Community Patent Court to allow the submissions of accompanying documents drawn up in a language other than the language of proceedings avoiding unnecessary and costly translations. However, the Community Patent Court may at any time order that such a translation be produced.

Article 26 of Annex II to the Statute – Appeal against decisions of the Community Patent Court

This Article contains provisions on the possibility to appeal decisions of the Community Patent Court.

Paragraph 1 lays down, that final decisions of the Community Patent Court may be appealed within two month of the notification of the decision. This provision corresponds to Article 56(1) of the Statute governing the appeal against decisions of the Court of First Instance. The additional wording of that Article relating to an appeal against decisions "disposing of substantive issues in part only or disposing of a procedural issue concerning a plea of lack of competence or inadmissibility" has not been retained for the Community Patent Court. A decision disposing of substantive issues in part would be a judgment of the Community Patent Court and could thus be appealed against. The same can be said for a decision declining competence or declaring an action inadmissible.

Paragraph 2 contains a specific provision on the possibility to appeal against interim measures made pursuant to Article 243 of the EC Treaty, orders for the suspension of enforcement made under Article 256(4) of the EC Treaty and evidence protection measures provided for in Article 14 of Annex II to the Statute. An appeal against such orders may be brought within two month from their notification. A corresponding provision for the Court of First Instance is contained in Article 57(2) of the Statute. In the situations referred to by Article 50(2) of the TRIPS Agreement where such an order has been made without the prior hearing of the party adversely affected by the measures, the legal remedy shall not consist of a direct appeal. Instead that party may, within two months of the notification, lodge an objection with the Community Patent Court which then shall, with due consideration of the arguments brought forward by the party adversely affected, review and modify, revoke or confirm the measures. That decision of the Community Patent Court would then be subject to an appeal. This procedure ensures that an appeal is reserved as a legal remedy against a considered decision of the Community Patent Court handed down after an inter partes procedure.

Paragraph 3 provides for an appeal against a decision dismissing an application to intervene within two weeks from the notification of the decision dismissing the application (see also for the Court of First Instance Article 57(1) of the Statute).

Paragraph 4 concerns the possibility of an appeal against other decisions taken by the Community Patent Court in the course of proceedings. The possibility to appeal against every decision disposing of procedural issues seems too wide and would risk paralysing the proceedings. Such appeals should only be possible where explicitly allowed in the Rules of Procedure. Unless otherwise provided for in the Rules of Procedure, any mistake in the procedure would have to be dealt with in the framework of the appeal against the judgment itself ensuring swift first instance proceedings while leaving sufficient safeguards for the parties. An isolated appeal against decisions of a procedural nature could be considered where an immediate appeal is justified by the importance of the disputed decision, for example in the case of a decision of the Community Patent Court on a challenge for bias.

Paragraph 5 clarifies that an appeal provided for in paragraphs 1 to 4 of this Article may only be brought by the party which has been unsuccessful, in whole or part, in its submissions (see also for the Court of First Instance Article 56(2) of the Statute). The procedure referred to in paragraphs 2 and 3 shall be conducted under the summary procedure provided for in Article 39 of the Statute (see also for the Court of First Instance Article 57(3) of the Statute).

Article 27 of Annex II to the Statute – Grounds for appeal

This Article contains the grounds for appeal. Article 225a(3) of the EC Treaty restricts the appeal against decision of a panel set up under that Article to points of law unless otherwise provided for in the decision establishing the panel.

Paragraph 1 provides for the Community Patent Court that an appeal may be based on points of law and matters of fact.

Paragraph 2 specifies on what grounds an appeal on points of law may lie. It could lie on the grounds of lack of competence of the Community Patent Court, a breach of procedure which adversely affects the interests of the appellant or the infringement of Community law by the Community Patent Court. This same list is contained in Article 58(1) of the Statute for an appeal on points of law against decisions of the Court of First Instance to the Court of Justice.

Paragraph 3 specifies on what grounds an appeal on matters of fact shall lie. While an appeal in private party litigation should not be restricted to points of law but should also allow parties to raise matters of fact, a full retrial of a case in second instance should be excluded. A full retrial would reduce the value of the first instance proceedings before the Community Patent Court and risk carrying the trial into the appeal instance before the Court of First Instance which would then risk that it would not be able to properly fulfil its function as an appeal instance, namely to concentrate on specific issues singled out by the parties for more detailed review at a higher level. To this end, an appeal on matters of fact may lie on the grounds of a re-evaluation of facts and evidence submitted to the Community Patent Court. On appeal, the Court of First Instance would be free to make its proper evaluation of the facts brought forward by the parties at first instance before the Community Patent Court. Also where there are contested facts, the Court of First Instance could make its own evaluation of the evidence produced at first instance. However, the possibility for the parties to submit new facts or evidence for the first time during the appeal proceedings would be restricted to those situations where their submission by the party concerned could not reasonably have been expected during the proceedings before the Community Patent Court. This could, for example, be the case if a fact was unknown to a party and could, while applying due diligence, not have been known by that party or if the Community Patent Court took a view of the case that suggested known facts to be irrelevant. It is left to the Court of First Instance to establish through jurisprudence under what circumstances the submission of facts and evidence could not have been reasonably expected at first instance leaving the necessary flexibility to take account of all the possible situations that may occur in practise.

Paragraph 4 provides that no appeal shall lie regarding only the amount of the costs or the party ordered to pay them as does Article 58(2) of the Statute for appeals against decisions of the Court of First Instance.

Article 28 of Annex II to the Statute – Decisions by the Court of First Instance and referral back to the Community Patent Court

This Article concerns the decision by the Court of First Instance and a possible referral of the case back to the Community Patent Court.

Paragraph 1 provides that where the appeal is well founded, the Court of First Instance shall quash the decision of the Community Patent Court and give final judgment. Only in exceptional circumstances may the Court of First Instance refer the case back to the Community Patent Court for judgment. It seems essential for efficient and swift patent proceedings to avoid unnecessary referrals of a case back and forth between instances. Unlike in Article 61 of the Statute, which addresses the appeal against decisions of the Court of First Instance to the Court of Justice on points of law stating that the Court of Justice may give final judgment where the state of proceedings so permits or otherwise refer the case back to the Court of First Instance, the present Article states the rule that the Court of First Instance in patent appeal proceedings shall decide the case. This follows from the nature of patent appeal proceedings which can also take factual elements into consideration. The Court of First Instance can establish those facts that are missing in its view and then give final judgment whereas the Court of Justice can only use the established facts of the first instance which makes it necessary to refer back a case if further facts need to be established.

However, there are cases where a referral back to the Community Court would be appropriate. A referral back would seem appropriate where the case was not heard in substance before the Community Patent Court and a direct decision of the Court of First Instance would take away the entire first instance for the parties. Examples for such a referral back to the Community Patent Court would be cases where an appeal was brought forward against a judgment declining competence or deciding e.g. only on the liability as such but not the amount of damages. Another situation where a referral back could be considered is where the Community Patent Court committed a fundamental procedural mistake that had an effect on the judgment which could be the case e.g. with a violation of the right to be heard. In such a case the first instance proceedings might not be considered to be an effective legal remedy.

Paragraph 2 provides that the Community Patent Court shall be bound by the decision of the Court of First Instance on points of law where a case is referred back to it (see for the Court of First Instance Article 61(2) of the Statute).

Article 29 of Annex II to the Statute – Rules of Procedure

This Article provides that the Rules of Procedure of the Community Patent Court shall contain any provision necessary for applying and, where required, supplementing Annex II to the Statute. A corresponding provision for the Court of Justice and the Court of First Instance is contained on Article 63 of the Statute.

Chapter II – Appeal proceedings before the Court of First Instance

Chapter II contains amendments to the Statute of the Court of Justice with respect to the function of the Court of First Instance as Community Patent Appeal Court providing in particular for a specialised patent appeal chamber within the Court of First Instance and special provisions governing the procedure before it.

Article 5 – Number of Judges of the Court of First Instance

This Article proposes to raise the number of judges of the Court of First Instance by three judges from 15 to 18. Community patent cases would be heard by a specialised appeal chamber which should be set up within the Court of First Instance in accordance with Article 61a of the Statute as amended by Article 6 of this Decision. The three judges forming the patent appeal chamber should be additional judges with a view to the required professional profile of candidates and the increased case load of the Court of First Instance caused by Community patent appeal proceedings.

Article 6 –Community patent appeal proceedings

This Article inserts into the Statute of the Court of Justice an Article 61a containing special provisions concerning Community patent appeal proceedings before the Court of First Instance.

Paragraph 1 of the proposed Article 61a of the Statute as amended provides for a special chamber to be set up within the Court of First Instance for the purpose of hearing appeals against decisions of the Community Patent Court composed of three judges. Such a specialised chamber seems appropriate with a view to the special type of litigation before it. Litigation concerning the Community Patent is private party litigation in a field that requires a particular experience. It would be difficult to build up and maintain the necessary experience if such appeal proceedings were heard by different chambers. Instead, proceedings should be handled by only one chamber, thus concentrating the expertise within the Court of First Instance.

Paragraph 2 of Article 61a of the Statute as amended proposes that the judges sitting in the patent appeal chamber of the Court of First Instance should be judges having a high level of legal expertise in patent law. This provision is in line with the general approach followed in the establishment of a Community patent jurisdiction i.e. to create a specialised court system for litigation on the Community patent. One of the central demands to come forward with a Community patent system has been to provide for an increased legal security in the Union by a centralised and specialised jurisdiction with experienced judges. As this seems vital for the success of the entire system, judges sitting at first instance as well as those sitting on appeal should have expertise in patent law. The present provision does not alter in any way Article 224 of the EC Treaty relating to the appointment of judges of the Court of First Instance. That Article, of course, also applies to the appointment of the judges meant to form the patent appeal chamber. With the present provision, the Council would only agree to present candidates and appoint judges with a particular professional profile.

The reference to Article 17(5) and Article 50 of the Statute clarifies that the establishment of a patent appeal chamber within the Court of First Instance is not meant to separate this chamber from the rest of the court. It shall merely be ensured that Community patent appeal cases in the standard composition are heard by specialised judges with particular experience in the field of law concerned. However, any Member of the Court of First Instance may sit in the patent appeal chamber where an additional judge needs to sit. This would be the case where the patent appeal chamber sits in accordance with Article 50 of the Statute with more than three judges which could be appropriate e.g. for cases that would reach beyond patent law and concern the unity and consistency of Community law. Also in the event that one judge of the patent appeal chamber is prevented from attending, a judge of another chamber can be called upon to sit in accordance with Article 17(5) of the Statute. Finally nothing should prevent that, where the caseload so permits, the patent appeal chamber is attributed other cases than Community patent cases such as Community trade mark or design cases in accordance with Article 50(2) of the Statute.

Paragraph 3 of Article 61a of the Statute as amended concerns the appeal procedure before the patent chamber of the Court of First Instance. The object of this provision is to ensure that the Statute provisions governing the procedure for Community patent litigation are the same for the complete trial of first and second instance. Where special procedural provisions are necessary in view of the special character of Community patent litigation i.e. private party litigation these should apply in a uniform manner for the Community Patent Court and the Court of First Instance on appeal. Article 53 of the Statute provides for the Court of First Instance that the procedure before it shall be governed by Title III of the Statute. The same will be valid for the Community Patent Court according to Article 10 of Annex II to the Statute. The special provisions amending Title III of the Statute with regard to the procedure at first Instance before the Community Patent Court are also made applicable to the procedure before the patent appeal chamber of the Court of First Instance. The following provisions of Annex II to the Statute are concerned: Assistant rapporteur (Article 7), provisions from Title III of the Statute that do not apply to patent litigation (Article 10), the role of European Patent Attorneys in the representation of parties (Article 11), the oral and written procedure (Article 12), the production of evidence (Article 13), interim and evidence-protection measures (Article 14), special orders in a summary procedure (Article 15), judgment by default (Article 16), the revision of a judgment (Article 17), settlement (Article 18), the obligation of all Community Courts to forward wrongly addressed documents and refer actions to the competent court (Article 19), the stay of proceedings (Article 20), the transmission of decisions (Article 21), the enforcement of decisions (Article 22) and Court fees (Article 23). For details, see the provisions referred to by the present Article.

The second sentence of Paragraph 3 provides that Member States and the institutions of the European Community shall have the right to intervene in Community patent cases before the Court of First Instance in accordance with Article 40(1) of the Statute. This possibility is excluded by Article 10 of Annex II to the Statute for proceedings at first instance before the Community Patent Court. While such intervention at the first instance seems too broad for the entirety of cases at first instance, such a possibility seems appropriate for the second instance allowing Member States and the institutions of the European Community to contribute to the development of legal questions of Community patent law.

Paragraph 4 of Article 61a of the Statute as amended provides for the language of appeal proceedings which shall be the language of proceedings in which the case was conducted before the Community Patent Court. This ensures a uniform treatment of the entire case, both at first and second instance. Applications, decisions, written contributions, testimonies of witnesses, expert opinions etc. can be directly considered in second instance without further translations. Also parties might have disposed for their representation at first instance with regard to the language of proceedings and might wish that their representative who is familiar with the case also represents them before the Court of First Instance on appeal. A reference to the provision contained in Article 25(1) of Annex II to the Statute providing for the language of the Member State where the defendant is domiciled as language of proceedings before the Community Patent Court could not be made as the plaintiff of first instance might become the defendant in appeal. However, the further principles laid down in Article 25(2) to (4) of Annex II to the Statute concerning an agreement of the parties on the language of proceedings, the hearing of parties in person, witnesses and experts in a language other than the language of proceeding and the possibility to submit accompanying documents in a language other than the language of proceedings shall also apply to the appeal proceedings.

Chapter III – Final provisions

Chapter III contains final provisions concerning transitional provisions and the entry into force of this Decision.

Article 7 – Transitional provisions

Paragraph 1 of this Article concerns the appointment of the president of the Community Patent Court providing that the first president of the Community Patent Court shall be appointed in the same manner as its members unless the Council decides that also the first president shall be elected by the judges according to Article 4 of Annex II to the Statute. A parallel approach had also been taken for the Court of First Instance in Article 11(1) of Council Decision 88/591/ECSC, EEC, Euratom of 24 October 1988 establishing the Court of First Instance.

Paragraph 2 concerns the newly appointed first judges of the Community Patent Court. In order to establish a cycle where the Community Patent Court is only partially re-staffed at any one time, as foreseen by Article 2 of Annex II to the Statute, some members of the Community Patent Court will need to have a shorter initial term of office. The president of the Council shall proceed to choose by lot the judges whose terms of office are to expire at the end of the first three years which had also been foreseen for the Court of First Instance in Article 12 of Council Decision 88/591/ECSC, EEC, Euratom of 24 October 1988 establishing the Court of First Instance.

Article 8 – Entry into force

This Article contains provisions for the entry into force of this Decision. The entry into force should depend on the adoption of the Council Decision taken pursuant to Article 229a of the EC Treaty conferring jurisdiction on the Court of Justice relating to the Community patent and its acceptance by all Member States in accordance with their constitutional requirements. After the corresponding notification by Member States, the necessary preparations for the establishment of the Community Patent Court and the setting up of the patent appeal chamber of the Court of First Instance can commence.

However, Article 1 of Annex II to the Statute containing the provision attributing jurisdiction within the Court of Justice to the Community Patent Court should only enter into force on the date on which the Council Decision conferring jurisdiction on the Court of Justice enters into force which in turn is dependent on the publication of a notice by the president of the Court of Justice that the Community Patent Court and the appeal chamber within the Court of First Instance have been constituted in accordance with law. This ensures that the conferral of jurisdiction on the Court of Justice and the attribution of jurisdiction to the Community Patent Court take effect at the same point in time marking the end of the transitional period and the beginning of the Community jurisdiction.

Proposal for a

COUNCIL DECISION

establishing the Community Patent Court and concerning appeals before the Court of First Instance

THE COUNCIL OF THE EUROPEAN UNION,

Having regard to the Treaty establishing the European Community, and in particular Articles 225a, 245 thereof,

Having regard to the proposal from the Commission¹,

Having regard to the opinion of the European Parliament²,

Having regard to the opinion of the Court of Justice³,

Having regard to the opinion of the European Economic and Social Committee⁴,

Whereas:

- (1) The European Council held in Lisbon in March 2000 called for the necessary steps to increase the competitiveness of the Union in a modern, knowledge-based economy underlining the importance of effective Community-wide patent protection.
- (2) The system of patent protection has been characterised by patents granted either by a national patent office in a Member State or by the European Patent Office with effect in a Member State and by enforcement of those patents before the national courts of the Member State concerned.
- (3) Innovative European industry relies on effective Community-wide legal protection for its inventions. The creation of a Community patent system comprising a unitary Community patent title and the possibility of enforcing such a right before a Community jurisdiction to be established at the latest by 2010 after a transitional period in which national courts retain competence will provide the missing elements completing the system of patent protection in the Union.
- (4) Council Regulation (EC) No .../2003⁵ creates a Community patent title. Holders of such a title will enjoy Community wide protection of an invention according to the uniform standards of the regulation.

- (5) By Decision 2003/.../EC⁶, the Council confers jurisdiction on the Court of Justice in certain disputes relating to the Community patent, recommending those provisions to the Member States for adoption in accordance with their respective constitutional requirements.
- (6) The second paragraph of Article 220 of the Treaty provides that judicial panels may be attached to the Court of First Instance under the conditions laid down in Article 225a thereof, in order to exercise, in certain specific areas, the judicial competence laid down in the Treaty.
- (7) The jurisdiction conferred on the Court of Justice under Article 229a of the Treaty in disputes relating to the Community patent should be exercised at first instance by a judicial panel established on the basis of Article 225a of the Treaty, to be called "Community Patent Court".
- (8) Article 225(2) of the Treaty provides that the Court of First Instance has jurisdiction to hear and determine actions and proceedings brought against decisions of the judicial panels set up under Article 225a of the EC Treaty. For this purpose a specialised patent appeal chamber should be created within the Court of First Instance to hear appeals against decisions of the Community Patent Court. Decisions made by the Court of First Instance on appeal against decisions of the Community Patent Court are according to Article 225(2) of the Treaty, exceptionally, subject to review by the Court of Justice where there is a serious risk to the unity or consistency of Community law.
- (9) In order to take account of the special nature of private-party Community patent litigation and to ensure a uniform procedure at both instances, amendments to the procedural rules contained in the Protocol on the Statute of the Court of Justice are necessary, both for the procedure at first instance before the Community Patent Court and on appeal before the Court of First Instance.
- (10) A centralised and specialised Community court system, holding exclusive jurisdiction for Community patent disputes and composed of a first-instance Community Patent Court and an appeal chamber within the Court of First Instance, should ensure expertise and decisions of the highest quality. It should guarantee efficient patent proceedings for the whole Community, the establishment of a common body of case-law and the uniform application of Community patent law,

Where interim or evidence-protection measures have been revoked the Community Patent Court shall order the applicant, at the request of the defendant, to provide the defendant adequate compensation for any injury caused by these measures.

Article 15

Where an opposition against the grant of a European patent designating the Community is filed with the European Patent Office, the Community Patent Court, seised of an invalidity action, may, after hearing the parties, stay proceedings until such time as a final decision is issued on the opposition.

The order for its enforcement is appended to the decision by the Community Patent Court. Decisions shall be enforceable against Member States.

The Community Patent Court may order that non-compliance with its decisions or orders constituting an obligation to act or to abstain from an act shall be sanctioned by a penalty payment. The penalty payment may consist in a single or a recurrent fine. The individual fine must be proportionate and may not exceed EUR 50 000.

Article 23

Appropriate court fees will be charged for proceedings before the Community Patent Court.

A schedule of fees shall be adopted by the Council, acting by a qualified majority on a proposal from the Commission and after consulting the European Parliament and the Court of Justice or at the request of the Court of Justice and after consulting the European Parliament and the Commission.

Article 25

The Community Patent Court shall conduct proceedings in the official EU language of the Member State where the defendant is domiciled, or in one of them to be chosen by the defendant, where in a Member State there are two or more official EU languages. Where the defendant is not domiciled in a Member State, the Community Patent Court will conduct the proceedings in the official EU language in which the Community Patent was granted.

At the request of the parties, and with the consent of the Community Patent Court, any official EU language can be chosen as language of proceedings.

The Community Patent Court may, in accordance with the Rules of Procedure, hear parties in person, witnesses and experts in a language other than the language of proceedings. In that case the Registrar shall cause everything said during the oral procedure to be translated into the language of proceedings and, at the request of any party, into the language used by that party in accordance with the Rules of Procedure.

The Community Patent Court may, in accordance with the Rules of Procedure, allow the submission of accompanying documents drawn up in a language other than the language of proceedings. It may at any time order that party to produce a translation of such documents into the language of proceedings.

Article 26

An appeal against a final decision of the Community Patent Court may be brought before the Court of First Instance within two months of the notification of the decision appealed against.

An appeal against a decision of the Community Patent Court made pursuant to Article 243 of the Treaty or the fourth paragraph of Article 256 thereof or pursuant to the second paragraph of Article 14 of this Annex may be brought before the Court of First Instance within two months of its notification. However, if the order has been made without a prior hearing of the party adversely affected, that party may, within two months of the notification, lodge an objection with the Community Patent Court, whose decision shall be subject to an appeal to the Court of First Instance.

An appeal against a decision of the Community Patent Court dismissing an application to intervene may be brought before the Court of First Instance within two weeks of its notification.

The Rules of Procedure may determine the situations and conditions under which an appeal may be brought against decisions of a procedural nature taken by the Community Patent Court in the course of proceedings.

An appeal as provided for in paragraphs 1 to 4 may be brought by any party which has been unsuccessful, in whole or in part, in its submissions. The appeals referred to in paragraphs 2 and 3 shall be heard and determined under the procedure referred to in Article 39 of the Statute.

Article 27

The appeal may be based on points of law and matters of fact.

An appeal on points of law shall lie on the grounds of lack of competence of the Community Patent Court, a breach of procedure before it which adversely affects the interests of the appellant, or an infringement of Community law by the Community Patent Court.

An appeal on matters of fact shall lie on the grounds of a re-evaluation of the facts and evidence submitted to the Community Patent Court. New facts and new evidence may only be introduced if their submission by the party concerned could not reasonably have been expected during proceedings at first instance.

No appeal shall lie regarding only the amount of the costs or the party ordered to pay them.

Article 28

If the appeal is well founded, the Court of First Instance shall quash the decision of the Community Patent Court and give final judgment. The Court of First Instance may in exceptional circumstances and in accordance with the Rules of Procedure refer the case back to the Community Patent Court for judgment.

Where a case is referred back to the Community Patent Court, it shall be bound by the decision of the Court of First Instance on points of law.

Article 29

LEGISLATIVE FINANCIAL STATEMENT

Policy area: Industrial Property

Activity: Creation of the Community patent jurisdiction

TITLE OF ACTION: PROPOSAL FOR A COUNCIL DECISION ESTABLISHING THE COMMUNITY PATENT COURT AND CONCERNING APPEALS BEFORE THE COURT OF FIRST INSTANCE

1. BUDGET LINE(S) + HEADING(S)

Section IV - Court of Justice

2. OVERALL FIGURES

The creation of the Community patent jurisdiction has a financial impact on part A of the budget (human resources and other administrative expenditure). Community patent litigation brings a new type of litigation under the jurisdiction of the Court of Justice but also a considerable quantity of new cases in a specialised field which consequently requires new staff to handle cases. With the increasing number of Community patents being granted, the number of new cases before the Community Patent Court will rise sharply. The European Patent Office can be expected to grant each year 50 000 new Community patents which would, in view of a litigation rate of around 1 per 1 000 patents in force, increase the number of new proceedings at first instance by about 50 per year. In about 25% of the cases decided by the Community Patent Court an appeal to the Court of First Instance is likely to be filed. The resources which are considered necessary for the initial phase of the Community patent jurisdiction till 2014 can be brought in gradually according to the type and size of the tasks to be handled. Where additional staff are brought in, the calculation of the financial impact of human resources follows the general practice in this matter, i.e. newly created posts in the year of their creation are only calculated on a six-month basis.

– Necessary resources in the first five years of operation (2010-2014)

At the level of the Community Patent Court seven judges (including the president) have been considered appropriate to fulfil its function in the initial phase. Even before the new jurisdiction can start up its function, the judges will, according to Article 225a(5) of the EC Treaty, need to establish the first codification of a Community civil procedure law which in itself is a major undertaking. In the initial phase, a number of key decisions on fundamental questions will need to be taken by an enlarged bench. Each judge will need to be assisted by one legal secretary and one clerical secretary.

The highly technical Community patent litigation will also have consequences for the Court of First Instance hearing cases on appeal. With a view to the highly specialised and technical subject matter, a patent appeal chamber will need to be set up with three additional specialised judges at the Court of First Instance. Each judge will need to be assisted by at least one legal and one clerical secretary.

In addition, the special nature of patent litigation which deals with a subject matter involving the latest technological developments requires not only lawyers on the bench but also the attendance of technical experts. The Council in its 3 March 2003 common political approach decided that technical experts shall assist the judges throughout the handling of a case. To cover the more than 70 fields of technology, seven such technical experts (assistant rapporteurs) are foreseen for the first instance Community Patent Court in the following sub-divisions (1) inorganic chemistry and materials science, (2) organic and polymer chemistry, (3) biochemistry and biotechnology, (4) general physics, (5) mechanical engineering, (6) information and communication technology and (7) electrical engineering. With a view to the preparation of the technical questions raised by a case during first instance proceedings, the assistance of a reduced number of three technical experts during the appeal proceedings before the Court of First Instance in the more general sub-divisions chemistry, physics and mechanics would seem sufficient.

The Community Patent Court would also need a registrar who would be supported by six officials in the registry. The registry would need to operate in a particularly complex environment. The registry of the Community Patent Court would be responsible not only for keeping the register but also for the correspondence with parties and their legal representatives from all over the world, as cases could even involve e.g. two parties from non EU countries. The registry would need to be able to process incoming private party litigation in all of the official languages of the Community. It would have to respond orally and in writing to requests made by the parties (e.g. request for information on state of the case, scheduling of hearings etc.) or the judges (e.g. request for additional information, missing documents etc.). In order to safeguard the proper functioning of the court, such day to day contact between the parties and the court will not be able to rely on the regular translation or interpretation services but will have to be provided by the registry directly. Moreover, the registry would also be responsible for cooperation with the national authorities enforcing the decisions of the Community Patent Court under Articles 244, 256 of the EC Treaty. The Community Patent Court will only deliver the judgment whereas the terms of the judgment must be enforced by the competent authorities in the Member States. The registry must ensure communication in the official language of the Member State where the decision of the Community Patent Court is enforced.

A lecteur d'arrêt appears to be necessary in order to verify that the judgment, drafted by judges in a language which is not necessarily their mother tongue, is linguistically correct. This is current practice at the Court to safeguard quality standards and must also be provided for with respect to decisions of the new Community Patent Court and the patent chamber of the Court of First Instance. A researcher seems necessary in order to research the legislation and jurisprudence in Member States to provide data for the Community patent jurisdiction that is necessary to establish Community jurisprudence in this field. As jurisdiction in private party patent litigation will be completely new to the Community legal order, the researchers would be indispensable to investigate the existing concepts in Member States in order to allow the court to take them sufficiently into account when considering new cases. An additional legal secretary for the Advocate General seems necessary in view of review procedures under Article 225(2) of the EC Treaty before the Court of Justice against decisions of the Court of First Instance. All the patent decisions of the Court of First Instance would need to be evaluated as to their unity and consistency with Community law. Where there is a serious risk that Community law might be affected, this person would support the Advocate General in the necessary proceedings before the Court of Justice. Apart from the staff that will be necessary to operate the Community Patent Court as such, the proposals must also provide the necessary reinforcement of the translation service. Finally the establishment of an IP library will be essential for the new jurisdiction. The relevant publications (from all Member States) such as law books, periodicals and collections of court decisions and also publications on all fields of technology as well as access to legal and technical data bases will need to be provided for.

– Phasing in of human resources

The new jurisdiction will necessarily go through a period in which staff may be recruited gradually according to the type and size of the tasks to be handled.

In the year before the estimated start of the Community jurisdiction, which is foreseen for 2010, a reduced number of staff will suffice for the necessary preparations. Only the judges with secretarial support will need to be appointed. It is important that all the judges are present from this moment. They will have to prepare the Rules of Procedure for patent proceedings which according to Articles 224(5), 225a(5) of the EC Treaty are adopted by the judges themselves. At this stage a librarian would also need to begin with the preparations to establish the IP library. Consequently a reduced figure of 14 staff has been introduced for the year 2009 in tables 2.3c), 7.1.

A considerable (but not yet the full) number of staff is only necessary as from the point when the Community patent jurisdiction takes up its function in 2010 (see increased expenditures set out accordingly in tables 2.3(c) and 7.2. A total of 70 personnel seems appropriate at the start of the new jurisdiction in order to fulfil its functions properly. This includes first of all the seven judges of the Community Patent Court. In particular in the initial phase, a number of key decisions on fundamental questions need to be taken by the court in which they establish important case law. Such decisions should be taken by an enlarged bench instead of a chamber of three judges. This number of judges is also necessary in order to guarantee a smoothly operating jurisdiction in case of sickness or leave of a judge. As concerns the three judges of the patent appeal chamber of the Court of First Instance, it is important to note that appeals will be filed from the time when the system becomes operational, in particular concerning interim measures or evidence-protection measures. Furthermore all the technical experts, seven for the Community Patent Court and three for the Court of First Instance, need to be present from the start of the operation. Cases may come from any of the existing fields of technology and as a consequence this number cannot be reduced in this initial phase. The president of the Community Patent Court who will apart from his jurisdictional functions also have to deal with administrative matters and the representation of the first private party Community jurisdiction will need to be assisted in his work by a chef de cabinet from the beginning. A lecteur d'arrêt for the Community Patent Court and the Court of First Instance will be necessary from the first year of operation since decisions will be delivered right from the start by both courts.

However, five legal secretaries for the Community Patent Court and two for the Court of First Instance, ten clerical secretaries and one researcher will suffice for this initial period of operation of the Community patent jurisdiction. Finally, in view of the case load of this initial phase, a first (modest) reinforcement of the translation and interpretation capacities of the Court of Justice by ten translators and ten interpreters seems sufficient.

Certain posts can be phased in at a later stage as the case load rises. (see increase of expenditure in tables 2.3(c), 7.3 and 7.4 below). This concerns secretarial support, where eleven further staff are foreseen for 2012. For 2014, three further legal secretaries are foreseen for the judges of the Community Patent Court and the Court of First Instance so that each judge finally will be assisted by one legal secretary. In the same year, one additional legal secretary for the Advocate General for review proceedings seems necessary as the judgments of the Court of First Instance on appeal against decisions of the Community Patent Court will have reached a number where their scrutiny in view of possible review proceedings justifies an additional post. Also a second researcher would only be necessary in 2014 as the case load increases. Finally, the translation and interpretation capacities of the Court of Justice can be expanded in relation to increasing case load on a step-by-step basis, i.e. by another ten staff in 2012 and another eighteen in 2014. The total staff for the Community patent jurisdiction will thus by 2014 amount to 114 posts.

[X] Proposal has financial impact – the effect on revenue is as follows:

The proposal provides that parties will be charged appropriate court fees for Community patent litigation at first and second instance (See Article 23 of Annex II the Statute). However, the amount of revenue cannot be estimated at present. The amount to be charged would need to strike the right balance between the principle of a fair access to justice and an adequate contribution of the parties for the services rendered by the Community patent jurisdiction to solve their private disputes. In any case, the revenues from court fees will only contribute in a modest way to cover the overall incurred costs and could by no means be expected to lead to a self financing system. A schedule of fees laying down the exact fees to be paid will be adopted by the Council, acting by a qualified majority on a proposal from the Commission and after consulting the European Parliament and the Court of Justice or at the request of the Court of Justice and after consulting the European Parliament and the Commission.

5. DESCRIPTION AND GROUNDS

5.1. Need for Community intervention

5.1.1. Objectives pursued

The proposed Council Decision is part of the overall project to establish the Community patent system. By way of revision of the European Patent Convention and accession of the Community to the same, the European Patent Office shall be empowered to grant Community patents which will confer rights on their holders according to the regulation of the Council on the Community patent. Disputes concerning in particular the infringement and validity of these rights shall, after a transitional period, be brought before a Community jurisdiction. These measures shall reform the system of patent protection in Europe, which has been characterised by national patent titles enforceable before national courts, and make the necessary adaptations for the needs of European industry which increasingly operates trans-nationally within the common market. The measures are designed to increase the competitiveness of the Union's innovative industries by creating a Community wide uniform patent protection which can be enforced before a single Community jurisdiction rendering decisions with Community wide effect.

Within this overall project, the objective of the present proposal is to establish a Community Patent Court for first instance Community patent litigation and to provide for the necessary provisions with a view to accommodating the new function of the Court of First Instance as appeal instance against decisions of the Community Patent Court.

5.1.2. Measures taken in connection with ex ante evaluation

The necessity to create a patent system covering the Community as a whole has been recognised for decades. The first initiative to create such a system resulted in the European Patent Convention of 5 October 1973 which harmonised the grant of the European patent by the European Patent Office but neither included provisions on the rights conferred by such a patent nor created a single jurisdiction to deal with disputes. This is still left to national legislation and jurisdiction of the Contracting States. In a second initiative, EC Member States tried to create a Community patent on the basis of an international agreement including an integrated jurisdiction. The Community Patent Convention was signed on 15 December 1975 in Luxembourg followed by the 15 December 1989 agreement relating to the Community patent which included a protocol on the settlement of litigation concerning the infringement and validity of Community patents. The Convention however never entered into force. In the context of the Amsterdam European Council of June 1997 (action plan for the single market), the Commission published a green paper on the promotion of innovation by patents. The consultations on the green paper including the comments made in the hearing on 25 and 26 November 1997 showed clear support for the creation of a Community patent system. Finally, the Lisbon European Council in March 2000 took up the issue and called for the creation of a Community patent system. The Council in its 3 March 2003 common political approach reached agreement on a number of key issues of the Community patent system including the jurisdictional aspects calling for the establishment of the Community Patent Court on the basis of Article 225a of the EC Treaty.

5.2. Action envisaged and budget intervention arrangements

The proposal constitutes a major element of the envisaged Community patent system. It contains the necessary legal provisions to set up a Community Patent Court which will deal with the Community patent related disputes for which jurisdiction is conferred on the Court of Justice. It also contains necessary provisions with a view to accommodating the new function of the Court of First Instance as appeal instance against decisions of the Community Patent Court. An efficiently functioning Community patent jurisdiction requires adequate resources. Court staff need to be employed (judges, registrar, assistant rapporteurs, legal secretaries, lecturers, researchers, secretaries, translators, interpreters, librarian), court rooms and equipment (office equipment, ICT facilities, library) have to be provided.

5.3. Methods of implementation

The necessary staff identified in 5.2. will be regular staff employed by the Court of Justice.

8. FOLLOW-UP AND EVALUATION

8.1. Follow-up arrangements

The Council in its 3 March 2003 common political approach (point 5) foresees a review mechanism of the Community patent system including the jurisdictional arrangements. Regarding the contents of the present Decision, the organisation of the Community Patent Court and the provisions of the Statute of the Court of Justice relating to the work of the Community Patent Court at first instance and the Court of First Instance on appeal would have to be reviewed in the light of experience gathered. The Commission will need to consult the Court of Justice and interested circles to collect data on the functioning of the Community patent jurisdiction and will have to evaluate the collected data and where appropriate suggest changes to the current Decision.

8.2. Arrangements and schedule for the planned evaluation

On the basis of the common political approach adopted by the Council on 3 March 2003, the Commission will present a report on the functioning of all aspects of the Community patent including the jurisdictional arrangements five years after the grant of the first Community patent. Further reviews will be made periodically.

9. ANTI-FRAUD MEASURES

This does not apply. The proposal deals with the establishment of a Community Patent Court and the appeal procedure before the Court of First Instance and does not cover a policy area with a risk of fraud.

IMPACT ASSESSMENT FORM

THE IMPACT OF THE PROPOSAL ON BUSINESS WITH SPECIAL REFERENCE TO SMALL AND MEDIUM-SIZED ENTERPRISES(SMEs)

TITLE OF PROPOSAL

Proposal for a Council Decision establishing the Community Patent Court and concerning appeals before the Court of First Instance.

THE PROPOSAL

1. Taking account of the principle of subsidiarity, why is Community legislation necessary in this area and what are its main aims?

The object of the Community patent system is to provide a Community wide patent protection which can be enforced before one single court operating to uniform standards and whose decisions enjoy Community wide effect. This objective can only be achieved at a Community level.

THE IMPACT ON BUSINESS

2. Who will be affected by the proposal?

- which sectors of business

All sectors of business that deal with technical inventions which can be subject to patent protection are concerned by the Community patent system. They can in case of conflict be party to litigation before the Community jurisdiction.

- which sizes of business (what is the concentration of small and medium-sized firms)

Potentially every size of business can be a party to Community patent litigation before the Community patent jurisdiction. For example, the holder of a Community patent may as a plaintiff wish to enforce his rights flowing from the Community patent title before the Community Patent Court. A third person may as a plaintiff wish to attack the validity of such a Community patent granting exclusive rights to its holder that he considers to be invalid. As defendant the right holder may wish to defend the validity of his patent or as a third person defend himself against an alleged infringement of a Community patent.

The Community patent system intends to make patenting of inventions more attractive especially for SMEs which will particularly increase the significance for this group. So far patenting is done in or with effect for individual Member States and the enforcement must take place before the national courts of the respective Member States their national patent law and their national legislation on the court procedure which is particularly cumbersome for SMEs. The Community patent jurisdiction will allow to enforce a unitary patent right valid in the entire Community in one single court procedure operating to common standards.

3. What will business have to do to comply with the proposal?

The effect for businesses will be felt only in cases of litigation over a Community patent. In that case they have to familiarise themselves with the proceedings before the Community patent jurisdiction.

4. What economic effects is the proposal likely to have?

The proposal will only have an economic effect in combination with the other legal instruments creating a Community patent system. The Community patent system as a whole will have a positive economic impact. In particular:

- on investment and the creation of new businesses

The Community patent system will have a positive impact on investments due to a better Community wide legal protection of inventions. The return on investments in innovative technologies will be more secure serving as an incentive for more investment. Moreover, since better legal protection will be rendered less costly, businesses will be able to make more efficient use of their existing budget for research and development which will lead to more inventions which in turn will stimulate investments to economically exploit these inventions. Since effective patent protection often serves as the legal basis for an economically successfully operating business, a more comprehensive, easier and less costly patent protection will promote the creation of new businesses.

- on the competitiveness of businesses

The Community patent system will make patent protection more effective, easier and less costly not only for those businesses that already make use of patent protection but also make patenting more easily accessible for other businesses and in particular for SMEs. The possibility to protect an invention and with it the associated investment into it with Community wide effect will increase the ability of all businesses that make use of this possibility to compete in the common market. Moreover, the competitiveness of European industry will be increased on a global scale compared to the major trading partners and competitors. Today patent protection, for example in the United States or Japan, is considerably less costly than in Europe under the national and the European patent system. Consequently US and Japan based companies can develop patented products at a considerably lower price which later are marketed world wide. The Community patent system intends to eliminate this obstacle for the competitiveness of the European industry.

- on employment

An increased investment in inventive technologies and a strengthened competitiveness of the European industry will lead to the creation of new jobs. The creation of new jobs can be expected across the full range of technical fields and their related industries. In particular the modern, innovative technologies which are playing a steadily increasing role in a knowledge based global economy will benefit.

5. Does the proposal contain measures to take account of the specific situation of small and medium-sized firms (reduced or different requirements etc)?

This does not apply. No distinction according to the size of companies can be made with regard the establishment, the organisation and the procedure before the Statute the Community Patent Court and the Court of First Instance on appeal.

CONSULTATION

6. List the organisations which have been consulted about the proposal and outline their main views:

The necessity to create a patent system covering the Community as a whole has been recognised for decades. The first initiative to create such a system resulted in the European Patent Convention of 5 October 1973 which harmonised the grant of the European patent by the European Patent Office but neither included provisions on the rights conferred by such a patent nor created a single jurisdiction to deal with disputes. This was still left to national legislation and jurisdiction of the Contracting States. In a second initiative, EC Member States tried to create a Community patent on the basis of an international agreement including an integrated jurisdiction. The Community Patent Convention was signed on 15 December 1975 in Luxembourg followed by the 15 December 1989 agreement relating to the Community patent which included a protocol on the settlement of litigation concerning the infringement and validity of Community patents. The Convention however never entered into force. In the context of the Amsterdam European Council of June 1997 (action plan for the single market), the Commission published a green paper on the promotion of innovation by patents. The consultations on the green paper including the comments made in the hearing on 25 and 26 November 1997 showed clear support for the creation of a Community patent system. Finally, the Lisbon European Council in March 2000 took up the issue and called for the creation of a Community patent system. The Council in its 3 March 2003 common political approach reached agreement on a number of key issues of the Community patent system including the jurisdictional aspects calling for the establishment of the Community Patent Court on the basis of Article 225a of the EC Treaty.

CONVENTION FOR THE EUROPEAN PATENT FOR THE COMMON MARKET

(COMMUNITY PATENT CONVENTION)

(76/76/EEC)

PREAMBLE

THE HIGH CONTRACTING PARTIES TO THE TREATY ESTABLISHING THE EUROPEAN ECONOMIC COMMUNITY ,

DESIRING TO GIVE UNITARY AND AUTONOMOUS EFFECT TO EUROPEAN PATENTS GRANTED IN RESPECT OF THEIR TERRITORIES UNDER THE CONVENTION ON THE GRANT OF EUROPEAN PATENTS OF 5 OCTOBER 1973 ,

ANXIOUS TO ESTABLISH A COMMUNITY PATENT SYSTEM WHICH CONTRIBUTES TO THE ATTAINMENT OF THE OBJECTIVES OF THE TREATY ESTABLISHING THE EUROPEAN ECONOMIC COMMUNITY , AND IN PARTICULAR TO THE ELIMINATION WITHIN THE COMMUNITY OF THE DISTORTION OF COMPETITION WHICH MAY RESULT FROM THE TERRITORIAL ASPECT OF NATIONAL PROTECTION RIGHTS , CONSIDERING THAT ONE OF THE FUNDAMENTAL OBJECTIVES OF THE TREATY ESTABLISHING THE EUROPEAN ECONOMIC COMMUNITY IS THE ABOLITION OF OBSTACLES TO THE FREE MOVEMENT OF GOODS ,

CONSIDERING THAT ONE OF THE MOST SUITABLE MEANS OF ENSURING THAT THIS OBJECTIVE WILL BE ACHIEVED , AS REGARDS THE FREE MOVEMENT OF GOODS PROTECTED BY PATENTS , IS THE CREATION OF A COMMUNITY PATENT SYSTEM ,

CONSIDERING THAT THE CREATION OF SUCH A COMMUNITY PATENT SYSTEM IS THEREFORE INSEPARABLE FROM THE ATTAINMENT OF THE OBJECTIVES OF THE TREATY AND THUS LINKED WITH THE COMMUNITY LEGAL ORDER ,

CONSIDERING THAT IT IS NECESSARY FOR THESE PURPOSES FOR THE HIGH CONTRACTING PARTIES TO CONCLUDE A CONVENTION WHICH CONSTITUTES A SPECIAL AGREEMENT WITHIN THE MEANING OF ARTICLE 142 OF THE CONVENTION ON THE GRANT OF EUROPEAN PATENTS , A REGIONAL PATENT TREATY WITHIN THE MEANING OF ARTICLE 45 (1) OF THE PATENT COOPERATION TREATY OF 19 JUNE 1970 , AND A SPECIAL AGREEMENT WITHIN THE MEANING OF ARTICLE 19 OF THE CONVENTION FOR THE PROTECTION OF INDUSTRIAL PROPERTY , SIGNED IN PARIS ON 20 MARCH 1883 AND LAST REVISED ON 14 JULY 1967 ,

CONSIDERING THAT IT IS ESSENTIAL THAT THIS CONVENTION BE INTERPRETED IN A UNIFORM MANNER SO THAT THE RIGHTS AND OBLIGATIONS FLOWING FROM A COMMUNITY PATENT BE IDENTICAL THROUGHOUT THE COMMUNITY AND THAT THEREFORE JURISDICTION BE CONFERRED ON THE COURT OF JUSTICE OF THE EUROPEAN COMMUNITIES ,

CONVINCED THEREFORE THAT THE CONCLUSION OF THIS CONVENTION IS NECESSARY TO FACILITATE THE ACHIEVEMENT OF THE TASKS OF THE EUROPEAN ECONOMIC COMMUNITY AND THAT THEREFORE IT IS AN APPROPRIATE MEASURE TO BE TAKEN BY THE MEMBER STATES , SUBJECT TO NATIONAL RATIFICATION PROCEDURES , TO ENSURE FULFILMENT OF COMMUNITY OBLIGATIONS ,

WHEREAS , WITH THIS PROVISIO , THE RETENTION OF POWERS OF THE NATIONAL AUTHORITIES TO GRANT COMPULSORY LICENCES IN RESPECT OF COMMUNITY PATENTS CAN ONLY BE ENVISAGED FOR A SHORT TRANSITIONAL PERIOD BECAUSE OF FUNDAMENTAL LEGISLATIVE DIFFERENCES AFFECTING THE FREE MOVEMENT OF GOODS PROTECTED BY PATENTS AND THE ELIMINATION OF THE DISTORTION OF COMPETITION , RESOLVES THAT THE MEMBER STATES SHOULD BECOME PARTIES TO THE CONVENTION FOR THE EUROPEAN PATENT FOR THE COMMON MARKET AND TAKE ALL SUCH MEASURES AS MAY BE NECESSARY TO ENSURE ITS IMPLEMENTATION .Decision on preparations for the commencement of the activities of the special departments of the European Patent Office.

The Plenipotentiaries have also drawn up and adopted for signature the following :

ANNEX

RESOLUTION

ON THE APPOINTMENT OF THE CHAIRMEN OF THE REVOCATION BOARDS

THE GOVERNMENTS OF THE MEMBER STATES OF THE EUROPEAN ECONOMIC COMMUNITY ,

Upon signature of the Community Patent Convention ,

DECLARE that , as a general rule , a person appointed as chairman of a Revocation Board as provided for in Article 11 of the Convention , should be a person possessing several years' experience in industrial property , for example as a member of an ordinary court or tribunal or of a court specialized in this field in a Contracting State , or as a member of any national patent office of a Contracting State who is empowered to decide in revocation or appeal proceedings , or as a member of a Revocation Board or a Board of Appeal of the European Patent Office.

RESOLUTION

CONCERNING PRIOR USE OR POSSESSION

THE GOVERNMENTS OF THE MEMBER STATES OF THE EUROPEAN ECONOMIC COMMUNITY ,

Upon signature of the Community Patent Convention ,

Desiring to enable those who have used or possessed an invention the subject-matter of a Community patent before the date of filing or , where priority has been claimed , the date of priority of that patent to avail themselves under uniform conditions of a right , based on such use or possession , throughout the territories of the Contracting States ,

Recognizing that fulfilment of this aim will require a revision of Article 38 of the Convention ,

HAVE DECIDED to commence in good time the procedure for revising this Convention in order to create a right , based on prior use or possession of an invention the subject-matter of a Community patent , which shall have uniform effect throughout the territories of the Contracting States.

RESOLUTION

ON COMMON RULES ON THE GRANTING OF COMPULSORY LICENCES IN RESPECT OF COMMUNITY PATENTS

THE GOVERNMENTS OF THE MEMBER STATES OF THE EUROPEAN ECONOMIC COMMUNITY ,

Upon signature of the Community Patent Convention ,

Desiring to reinforce the unitary character of Community patents by rules providing that compulsory licences in respect of those patents are to be granted by common authorities on the basis of criteria laid down in those rules ,

Recognizing nevertheless that it is necessary for the Contracting States to be able to grant compulsory licences in respect of Community patents within the meaning of Article 46 (4) of the Convention, in the public interest, for example in the interest of national defence,

Whereas, with this proviso, the retention of powers of the national authorities to grant compulsory licences in respect of Community patents can only be envisaged for a short transitional period because of fundamental legislative differences affecting the free movement of goods protected by patents and the elimination of the distortion of competition,

HAVE DECIDED to commence the work, as soon as the Convention enters into force, to enable the Convention to be supplemented by common rules on the granting of compulsory licences in respect of Community patents.

RESOLUTION

ON THE CENTRALIZATION IN EACH CONTRACTING STATE OF JURISDICTION IN ACTIONS FOR INFRINGEMENT OF COMMUNITY PATENTS

THE GOVERNMENTS OF THE MEMBER STATES OF THE EUROPEAN ECONOMIC COMMUNITY,

Upon signature of the Community Patent Convention,

Desiring to promote, as far as possible, uniformity of judicial practice in each Contracting State in respect of actions for infringement of Community patents,

Recognizing that there is a need for judges experienced in such actions in all the Contracting States,

HAVE DECIDED to take the necessary measures at the earliest opportunity to arrive, so far as possible, at the centralization in their respective territories of first instance jurisdiction in respect of the infringement of Community patents so as thereby to guarantee that such actions will be dealt with by judges experienced in this field.

RESOLUTION

ON LITIGATION OF COMMUNITY PATENTS

THE GOVERNMENTS OF THE MEMBER STATES OF THE EUROPEAN ECONOMIC COMMUNITY,

Upon signature of the Community Patent Convention,

Conscious of the problem of dealing effectively with actions relating to Community patents,

Conscious also of the problems arising from a separation of jurisdiction in respect of infringement and validity of Community patents,

Having regard to Article 90 (5) of the Convention,

HAVE DECIDED to commence, as soon as possible after signature of the Convention, the necessary work to provide a solution to the above problems, such a solution to be embodied if possible in a Protocol which should be concluded before any litigation on Community patents takes place and at the latest within 10 years from the date of signing of the Convention,

HAVE DECIDED further that, with a view to implementing that decision, a Working Party shall be established by the signatory States without delay after signature of this Convention.

RESOLUTION

ON THE ADJUSTMENT OF NATIONAL PATENT LAW

THE GOVERNMENTS OF THE MEMBER STATES OF THE EUROPEAN ECONOMIC COMMUNITY ,

Upon signature of the Community Patent Convention ,

Noting with satisfaction that the entry into force of the Convention will result in a desirable unification of patent law throughout the territories of the Contracting States ,

Recognizing nevertheless that the differences between the laws in the Contracting States relating to national patents and the provisions of the Convention could entail a duality of standards in patent law in those States ,

HAVE DECIDED to commence the work , as soon as the Convention has been signed , to adjust their laws relating to national patents as soon as possible so as to permit ratification of the Strasbourg Convention on the unification of certain points of substantive law on patents for invention , and so as to bring their laws into conformity , as far as practicable , with corresponding provisions of the European Patent Convention , Community Patent Convention and the Patent Cooperation Treaty.

DECLARATION

ON THE RATIFICATION OF THE PATENT COOPERATION TREATY

THE GOVERNMENTS OF THE MEMBER STATES OF THE EUROPEAN ECONOMIC COMMUNITY ,

Upon signature of the Community Patent Convention ,

Desiring to promote the initial entry into force of the Patent Cooperation Treaty at an early date and preferably at the same time as that of the European Patent Convention ,

DECLARE that each intends to deposit its instrument of ratification of the Patent Cooperation Treaty at the same time as its instrument of ratification of the European Patent Convention or as soon as possible thereafter , DECLARE further that they intend to consult , as necessary , with each other in this matter , in particular on the content of any declarations to be made by them under Article 64 of the Patent Cooperation Treaty.

DECLARATION

ON THE RATIFICATION OF THE COMMUNITY PATENT CONVENTION

THE GOVERNMENTS OF THE MEMBER STATES OF THE EUROPEAN ECONOMIC COMMUNITY ,

Upon signature of the Community Patent Convention ,

DECLARE that they intend to seek ratification of the Convention as soon as possible so as to minimize the interval between entry into force of the Convention and of the European Patent Convention.

DECISION

ON PREPARATIONS FOR THE COMMENCEMENT OF THE ACTIVITIES OF THE SPECIAL DEPARTMENTS OF THE EUROPEAN PATENT OFFICE

THE GOVERNMENTS OF THE MEMBER STATES OF THE EUROPEAN ECONOMIC COMMUNITY

Upon signature of the Community Patent Convention ,

Desiring to take all appropriate measures to enable the special departments of the European Patent Office , in the interests of the establishment of a Community patent system , to begin their activities in due time ,

HAVE ADOPTED THE FOLLOWING DECISION :

1 . After the conclusion of this conference a Community Patent Interim Committee , comprising representatives of all the Member States and of the Commission of the European Communities , shall be set up ; Articles 15 , 16 , 19 , 21 and 22 (1) and (3) of the Community Patent Convention shall apply mutatis mutandis to this Interim Committee. The Interim Committee may draw up Rules of Procedure to supplement these provisions. The Interim Committee shall be disbanded when the Select Committee of the Administrative Council meets pursuant to Article 91 (1) (a) of the Convention.

2 . It shall be the duty of the Interim Committee to take all preparatory measures to enable the special departments of the European Patent Office to begin their activities in due time.

3 . The preparations for the commencement of the activities of the special departments of the European Patent Office may be carried out by Working Parties.

4 . The Interim Committee may invite inter-governmental and international non-governmental organizations to attend its meetings and those of the Working Parties as observers.

5 . The Secretary-General of the Council of the European Communities shall issue the invitations to the inaugural meeting of the Interim Committee.

75/597/EEC: Commission Opinion of 26 September 1975
on the draft Convention for the European Patent for the common market

COMMISSION OPINION of 26 September 1975 on the draft Convention for the European Patent for the common market (75/597/EEC)

1. In its Opinion of 4 April 1974 the Commission made known its general views on the draft Convention for the European patent for the Common Market (Community patent) and stated that the "Protocol on the deferred Application of the Provisions on the Exhaustion of Rights attached to Community Patents and National Patents" was basically incompatible with Community law. The Opinion was delivered with a view to the intergovernmental Conference due to take place between 6 and 28 May 1974 and in the course of which the draft Convention was to be finally adopted. This Conference was adjourned at the request of the United Kingdom government. It will now take place in Luxembourg from 17 November to 15 December 1975.

The Commission, noting that a proposal for amendment of the rules forbidding partitioning of the Common Market by means of patents (Arts. 32 and 78) is to be submitted to the Luxembourg Conference (1), and no decision has yet been taken concerning the abovementioned Protocol, would now take this opportunity to deliver a new Opinion.

I

The Working Party on Community Patent has proposed two important amendments to the draft Convention on the European Patent.

2. In its previous version, the draft provided that designation of a Member State of the Community in an application for a European patent results automatically in the grant of a Community patent with effect throughout the Member States.

The new Article 84a of the draft provides that, during a transitional period of ten years, an applicant for a patent will have a choice between a Community patent and a European patent. The applicant may state that he wants a patent only in one or more Member States. If, for example, he makes such a statement and designates Germany and France in the application, he obtains a European patent for these two countries which has the effect of a national patent only.

The Commission regrets this amendment. It still considers it essential that the procedure for the grant of a European patent in which a Member State is designated should lead only to the grant of a Community patent whose scope extends to all the Member States and which is subject to the uniform law created by the Convention for a Community patent.

The Commission considers that there is no convincing reason for allowing the holder of a patent to have such a choice as mentioned above and that it derogates from an important principle of the Convention.

3. The second amendment also entails the abandonment of an important principle.

In the previous draft it was provided that the European Patent Office has sole jurisdiction to cancel the Community patent with effect for all the Member States. The new Article 84b of the draft provides, however, that national courts before which an infringement action has been taken may also decide on the (1) c. f. preparatory document No 17 for the Luxembourg Conference (Doc. R 416/74) p. 2. validity of a Community patent. Such a decision has effect only in the territory of the State over which the court has jurisdiction.

By virtue of this new provision national courts can decide on the validity of the patent, with the result that the Community patent may be considered valid in one Member State and void in another. The principle laid down in Article 2 of the draft, whereby the Community patent is to have the same effect in all the Member States, is thus contravened. Furthermore, abandonment of the unitary character of the Community patent creates obstacles to the free movement of patented goods and to the creation of equal conditions of competition and also is at variance with the principle of the "free movement" of judgments under the Convention on Jurisdiction and the Enforcement of Judgments in Civil and Commercial Matters.

The Commission is not unaware of the difficulties which may result from the division of jurisdiction concerning infringement and validity actions. However, in accordance with a draft resolution submitted to the Luxembourg Conference, the work necessary for the resolution of these difficulties is to be undertaken after signature of the Convention.

The Commission considers that it is in the context of that work that a solution should be found which will ensure the unitary character of the European patent.

II

4. The provisions of Articles 32 and 78 are designed to ensure that a patent product put on the market in any Member State by the holder of a Community patent or by the holder of one or more parallel national patents may move freely throughout the territory of the Community. The partitioning of the common market into nine national markets is thus forbidden.

5. Under a proposal submitted to the Luxembourg Conference, the scope of these two Articles is to be limited. This proposal provides that a patentee may prohibit the import of goods which have been put on the market by himself or with his consent in a Member State in which the Community patent has no effect (on account of the existence of a prior national patent opposed to it) or in which a parallel national patent does not exist. In order to justify this proposal it is suggested that a patentee who puts his products on the market in a country where they are not protected by a patent would have to take account of the prices charged by his competitors in that country, and would thus be deprived of the profit due to his creativity.

6. It is true that in certain cases the patentee may be forced to sell his products more cheaply in a country where he has no patent if a third party is able to market the subject of the invention in that country at a lower price.

As a result, if goods put on the market by a patentee in a country where there is no protection are imported into those countries where that patentee holds parallel patents, his profit may be reduced. It is not however the purpose of the law of patents to guarantee to the patentee a higher profit than that which can be derived from the market price. A patentee is only granted, for a certain period, the exclusive right to forbid anybody to make and market the subject of his invention. This exclusive right is the counterpart of the fact that application for a patent makes the invention accessible to the public. The opportunity for the patentee to obtain an additional profit in selling his product depends in particular on his market position and on the existence of substitute products. On patent law grounds alone, the proposal concerning Article 78 should be rejected.

7. Furthermore, this proposal is incompatible with the EEC Treaty, as it envisages free movement of patented goods only where parallel national patents exist in all the Member States. In practice this would never happen or would happen only very rarely. According to forecasts of the number of applications for European patents which will be made every year a firm will apply for a European patent when it holds national patents in two or more Member States of the EEC ; thus as a general rule national patents will exist only in one or two Member States.

It is therefore clear that the proposed amendment would in the ordinary course of events lead to a partitioning of the market as regards products put on the market by the patentee or by a third party with his consent in a part of the Community where those products are not protected.

Such a partitioning of the market could be of advantage to a patentee, particularly where his productive capacity is sufficient to cover the needs of the common market as a whole, and in the Member States in which he has no national patent he has no serious competition for technical or economic reasons. In such cases the amendment of Article 78 which is proposed would enable the patentee to maintain different price levels in two separate areas of the common market by putting a part of his production on the market directly in the territory in which no protection exists. The patentee could then, by means of an infringement action, prevent the importation of those products into that part of the common market in which they are patented.

The result of the abovementioned proposal is incompatible with one of the fundamental aims of the EEC Treaty, namely the creation of conditions in regard to free movement of goods within the Community which are identical to those which exist in a domestic market. It is therefore essential to maintain the present solution, which prevents a patentee from dividing common market into two separate areas through his choice of the place in which he puts his products on the market.

8. In its Opinion No 74/209/EEC (1) of 4 April 1974, paragraph 11, last subparagraph addressed to the Member States, the Commission declared that Community law forbade the holder of a patent to exercise his exclusive right to oppose importation of a protected product into a Member State when that product has already been put on the market by himself or with his consent in another Member State.

9. In its decision of 8 June 1971, in the Deutsche Grammophongesellschaft (DGG) case (Recueil) XVII, 487, the Court of Justice of the European Communities has already stated (p. 500):

"If a protection right analogous to copyright is used in order to prohibit in one Member State the marketing of goods that have been brought into the market by the holder of the right or with his consent in the territory of another Member State solely because this marketing has not occurred in the domestic market, such a prohibition maintaining the isolation of the national markets conflicts with the essential aim of the Treaty, the integration of the national markets into one uniform market. This aim could not be achieved if by virtue of the various legal systems of the Member States private persons were able to divide the market and cause arbitrary discriminations or disguised restrictions in trade between the Member States.

Accordingly, it would conflict with the provisions regarding the free movement of goods in the common market if manufacturer of recordings exercised the exclusive right granted to him by the legislation of a Member State to market the protected articles in order to prohibit the marketings in that Member State of products that had been sold by him himself or with his consent in another Member State solely because this marketing had not occurred in the territory of the first Member State."

The phrase "in order to prohibit the marketing in that Member State of products that had been sold by him himself or with his consent in another Member State", shows clearly that it matters little whether, when the goods were put on the market for the first time, it was in a State in which a parallel patent existed or not. In the DGG case the manufacturer of records did not have an exclusive parallel right in the State in which the goods were first put on the market (France).

10. The decision of the Court of Justice in Centrafarm v. Sterling Drug case 15/74 of 31 October 1974, confirms the interpretation by the Commission of the DGG decision, namely that the principles enunciated in the latter case apply also to patents. In regard to the question raised here the Court of Justice declared in the Sterling Drug case (ECR 1974-6 p. 1147), p. 1163:

"In fact, if a patentee could prevent the import of protected products marketed by him or with his consent in another Member State, he would be able to partition off national markets and thereby restrict trade between Member States, in a situation where no such restriction was necessary to guarantee the essence of the exclusive right flowing from the parallel patents.

The question referred should therefore be answered to the effect that the exercise, by a patentee, of the right which he enjoys under the legislation of a Member State to prohibit the sale, in that State, of a product protected by the patent which has been marketed in another Member State by the patentee or with his consent is incompatible with the rules of the EEC Treaty concerning the free movement of goods within the common market".

11. The proposal for amendment cannot be defended on the ground that the Sterling Drug case was concerned with products imported from a Member State in which a parallel patent existed. In fact the reasons given for this decision, like those in the DGG decision (a case in which a parallel exclusive right did not exist), are based solely on the fact that the putting of the goods on the market took place in another Member State independently of the existence or absence of parallel protection.

The Sterling Drug decision contains furthermore a statement which dispels all doubt. In discussing the conditions in which a patentee may prohibit imports under Article 36 of the EEC Treaty, the Court of Justice takes the view that the patentee may, by means of an infringement action, oppose importation of "a product coming from a Member State where it is not patentable and has been manufactured by third parties without the consent of the patentee". It follows that the patentee cannot forbid importation of products from a Member State in which the product cannot be patented but where it has been put on the market by a third party with his consent. This is also the case if the patentee himself puts the product on the market in a Member State in which parallel protection does not exist.

12. The same considerations apply to the proposed amendment to Article 32 : free circulation of goods must also be guaranteed when the holder of a Community patent puts the patented goods on the market in a Member State in which his patent has no effect.

(1) JO No L 109, 23.4.1974, p. 34. 13. Consequently a limitation of the scope of Articles 32 and 78 of the draft Convention would be contrary to the provisions of the EEC Treaty.

The Commission is also of the opinion that the scope of Article 78 should be extended. Under Article 78 (2) the free circulation of goods is also ensured where two or more persons who have economic connections with each other hold different national patents for the same invention. This rule includes those cases in which legally independent subsidiaries and their parent company are holders of different national patents for the same invention.

14. However, Article 78 does not cover the case where the holder of two or more parallel national patents assigns one of these to a third party with which he has no "economic connection". Article 78 in its present form thus permits partitioning of the common market through the assignment of a national patent to a third party who is economically independent of the assignor. This procedure may be used to circumvent the rules which guarantee the free movement of patented goods.

So far, the Court of Justice has not had to declare itself in such a case. In the Centrafarm v. Sterling Drug case it nevertheless gave a clear indication of what the solution to this problem might be. The Court of Justice declared that Article 36 of the Treaty allows derogations to be made to the principle of free circulation of goods "in cases where there exist patents, the original proprietors of which are legally and economically independent". By original proprietors is meant persons who have made an invention independently of each other and who have obtained a patent for that invention.

In the case in question here the person to whom a patent has been assigned is not the original proprietor of a patent. He is only the holder of a derived right which he has acquired as a result of the assignment. Thus an exception to the principle of free circulation of goods cannot be justified where there is an assignment of a national patent.

There is no obvious justification for treating someone who acquired a national patent as a result of an assignment differently from the holder of an exclusive licence, which from a commercial point of view is very close to an assignment. It is to be feared that, where until now an exclusive licence was granted, assignment will be used. This could have the effect of effectively partitioning national markets.

Such a result is incompatible with the principle of free circulation of goods. For this reason the Commission takes the view, for which it finds support in the decisions of the Court of Justice, that assignment of a licence to a third party economically independent of the assignor cannot be allowed to lead to partitioning of the market. Similar provisions should apply to any case where an invention which has not yet been patented is assigned to a third party who applies under his own name for a patent in respect of that invention.

The Commission therefore proposes that Article 78 (2) be amended to read as follows:

The provisions of paragraph 1 shall apply also in respect of a product put on the market by the proprietor of a national patent, granted for the same invention in another Contracting State, to whom the right to the patent or the patent itself has been assigned by the proprietor of the patent referred to in paragraph 1. (The second sentence is deleted).

III

15. The Commission reiterates the view expressed in its first Opinion, that the "Protocol on the deferred Application of the Provisions on the Exhaustion of Rights attached to Community Patents and National Patents" is contrary to Community law. This Protocol provides that the provisions of Article 32 and 78, which forbid the partitioning of markets, will not be applicable during a transitional period of five to ten years, maximum.

The adoption of this Protocol would allow a patentee to control the marketing of his products within the common market. By taking an infringement action against the importers of products which he himself or his licensee has put on the market in another Member State he can protect national markets and charge different prices in each Member State.

In accordance with the interpretation given by the Court of Justice of the European Communities in the Deutsche Grammophon and Sterling Drug cases, Community law forbids a patent holder to exercise his exclusive right to oppose importation into a Member State of a patented product when that product was put on the market by him or with his consent in another Member State.

IV

16. The Commission, acting on the considerations hereinbefore set out and in pursuance of its powers under Article 155 of the EEC Treaty, hereby expresses itself in favour of signature by the Member States of the European Communities of the Convention for the European Patent for the common market, but at the same time declares that it is not in favour of the adoption of the Protocol, annexed to the said Convention, on the deferred Application of the Provisions on the Exhaustion of Rights attached to Community Patents and National Patents, and furthermore that it is not in favour of the proposal to limit the scope of Articles 32 and 78. On the contrary it considers that the scope of Article 78 should be extended as proposed in the foregoing paragraphs.

Should the proposals in regard to which the Commission has expressed an unfavourable view in the foregoing paragraph be adopted, the Commission reserves its right to institute proceedings under Article 169 for failure to observe the obligations of the EEC Treaty.

COMMISSION OPINION of 26 September 1975 on the draft Convention for the European Patent for the common market (75/597/EEC)

1. In its Opinion of 4 April 1974 the Commission made known its general views on the draft Convention for the European patent for the Common Market (Community patent) and stated that the "Protocol on the deferred Application of the Provisions on the Exhaustion of Rights attached to Community Patents and National Patents" was basically incompatible with Community law. The Opinion was delivered with a view to the intergovernmental Conference due to take place between 6 and 28 May 1974 and in the course of which the draft Convention was to be finally adopted. This Conference was adjourned at the request of the United Kingdom government. It will now take place in Luxembourg from 17 November to 15 December 1975.

The Commission, noting that a proposal for amendment of the rules forbidding partitioning of the Common Market by means of patents (Arts. 32 and 78) is to be submitted to the Luxembourg Conference (1), and no decision has yet been taken concerning the abovementioned Protocol, would now take this opportunity to deliver a new Opinion.

I

The Working Party on Community Patent has proposed two important amendments to the draft Convention on the European Patent.

2. In its previous version, the draft provided that designation of a Member State of the Community in an application for a European patent results automatically in the grant of a Community patent with effect throughout the Member States.

The new Article 84a of the draft provides that, during a transitional period of ten years, an applicant for a patent will have a choice between a Community patent and a European patent. The applicant may state that he wants a patent only in one or more Member States. If, for example, he makes such a statement and designates Germany and France in the application, he obtains a European patent for these two countries which has the effect of a national patent only.

The Commission regrets this amendment. It still considers it essential that the procedure for the grant of a European patent in which a Member State is designated should lead only to the grant of a Community patent whose scope extends to all the Member States and which is subject to the uniform law created by the Convention for a Community patent.

The Commission considers that there is no convincing reason for allowing the holder of a patent to have such a choice as mentioned above and that it derogates from an important principle of the Convention.

3. The second amendment also entails the abandonment of an important principle.

In the previous draft it was provided that the European Patent Office has sole jurisdiction to cancel the Community patent with effect for all the Member States. The new Article 84b of the draft provides, however, that national courts before which an infringement action has been taken may also decide on the (1) c. f. preparatory document No 17 for the Luxembourg Conference (Doc. R 416/74) p. 2. validity of a Community patent. Such a decision has effect only in the territory of the State over which the court has jurisdiction.

By virtue of this new provision national courts can decide on the validity of the patent, with the result that the Community patent may be considered valid in one Member State and void in another. The principle laid down in Article 2 of the draft, whereby the Community patent is to have the same effect in all the Member States, is thus contravened. Furthermore, abandonment of the unitary character of the Community patent creates obstacles to the free movement of patented goods and to the creation of equal conditions of competition and also is at variance with the principle of the "free movement" of judgments under the Convention on Jurisdiction and the Enforcement of Judgments in Civil and Commercial Matters.

The Commission is not unaware of the difficulties which may result from the division of jurisdiction concerning infringement and validity actions. However, in accordance with a draft resolution submitted to the Luxembourg Conference, the work necessary for the resolution of these difficulties is to be undertaken after signature of the Convention.

The Commission considers that it is in the context of that work that a solution should be found which will ensure the unitary character of the European patent.

4. The provisions of Articles 32 and 78 are designed to ensure that a patent product put on the market in any Member State by the holder of a Community patent or by the holder of one or more parallel national patents may move freely throughout the territory of the Community. The partitioning of the common market into nine national markets is thus forbidden.

5. Under a proposal submitted to the Luxembourg Conference, the scope of these two Articles is to be limited. This proposal provides that a patentee may prohibit the import of goods which have been put on the market by himself or with his consent in a Member State in which the Community patent has no effect (on account of the existence of a prior national patent opposed to it) or in which a parallel national patent does not exist. In order to justify this proposal it is suggested that a patentee who puts his products on the market in a country where they are not protected by a patent would have to take account of the prices charged by his competitors in that country, and would thus be deprived of the profit due to his creativity.

6. It is true that in certain cases the patentee may be forced to sell his products more cheaply in a country where he has no patent if a third party is able to market the subject of the invention in that country at a lower price.

As a result, if goods put on the market by a patentee in a country where there is no protection are imported into those countries where that patentee holds parallel patents, his profit may be reduced. It is not however the purpose of the law of patents to guarantee to the patentee a higher profit than that which can be derived from the market price. A patentee is only granted, for a certain period, the exclusive right to forbid anybody to make and market the subject of his invention. This exclusive right is the counterpart of the fact that application for a patent makes the invention accessible to the public. The opportunity for the patentee to obtain an additional profit in selling his product depends in particular on his market position and on the existence of substitute products. On patent law grounds alone, the proposal concerning Article 78 should be rejected.

7. Furthermore, this proposal is incompatible with the EEC Treaty, as it envisages free movement of patented goods only where parallel national patents exist in all the Member States. In practice this would never happen or would happen only very rarely. According to forecasts of the number of applications for European patents which will be made every year a firm will apply for a European patent when it holds national patents in two or more Member States of the EEC ; thus as a general rule national patents will exist only in one or two Member States.

It is therefore clear that the proposed amendment would in the ordinary course of events lead to a partitioning of the market as regards products put on the market by the patentee or by a third party with his consent in a part of the Community where those products are not protected.

Such a partitioning of the market could be of advantage to a patentee, particularly where his productive capacity is sufficient to cover the needs of the common market as a whole, and in the Member States in which he has no national patent he has no serious competition for technical or economic reasons. In such cases the amendment of Article 78 which is proposed would enable the patentee to maintain different price levels in two separate areas of the common market by putting a part of his production on the market directly in the territory in which no protection exists. The patentee could then, by means of an infringement action, prevent the importation of those products into that part of the common market in which they are patented.

The result of the abovementioned proposal is incompatible with one of the fundamental aims of the EEC Treaty, namely the creation of conditions in regard to free movement of goods within the Community which are identical to those which exist in a domestic market. It is therefore essential to maintain the present solution, which prevents a patentee from dividing common market into two separate areas through his choice of the place in which he puts his products on the market.

8. 9. In its decision of 8 June 1971, in the Deutsche Grammophongesellschaft (DGG) case (Recueil) XVII, 487, the Court of Justice of the European Communities has already stated (p. 500):

"If a protection right analogous to copyright is used in order to prohibit in one Member State the marketing of goods that have been brought into the market by the holder of the right or with his consent in the territory of another Member State solely because this marketing has not occurred in the domestic market, such a prohibition maintaining the isolation of the national markets conflicts with the essential aim of the Treaty, the integration of the national markets into one uniform market. In the DGG case the manufacturer of records did not have an exclusive parallel right in the State in which the goods were first put on the market (France).

10. The decision of the Court of Justice in Centrafarm v. Sterling Drug case 15/74 of 31 October 1974, confirms the interpretation by the Commission of the DGG decision, namely that the principles enunciated in the latter case apply also to patents. In regard to the question raised here the Court of Justice declared in the Sterling Drug case (ECR 1974-6 p. 1147), p. 1163:

"In fact, if a patentee could prevent the import of protected products marketed by him or with his consent in another Member State, he would be able to partition off national markets and thereby restrict trade between Member States, in a situation where no such restriction was necessary to guarantee the essence of the exclusive right flowing from the parallel patents.

11. The proposal for amendment cannot be defended on the ground that the Sterling Drug case was concerned with products imported from a Member State in which a parallel patent existed. The Commission is also of the opinion that the scope of Article 78 should be extended. Under Article 78 (2) the free circulation of goods is also ensured where two or more persons who have economic connections with each other hold different national patents for the same invention. This rule includes those cases in which legally independent subsidiaries and their parent company are holders of different national patents for the same invention.

of 4 April 1974

concerning the draft Convention for the European Patent for the Common Market and the Protocol annexed thereto relating to the deferred application of the provisions on the exhaustion of rights attached to Community Patents and National Patents

COMMISSION OPINION

OF 4 APRIL 1974

CONCERNING THE DRAFT CONVENTION FOR THE EUROPEAN PATENT FOR THE COMMON MARKET AND THE PROTOCOL ANNEXED THERETO RELATING TO THE DEFERRED APPLICATION OF THE PROVISIONS ON THE EXHAUSTION OF RIGHTS ATTACHED TO COMMUNITY PATENTS AND NATIONAL PATENTS

(74/209/EEC)

THE FUTURE EUROPEAN PATENT WILL BE GOVERNED BY TWO CONVENTIONS. THE FIRST CONVENTION (1) SHALL REGULATE THE PROCEDURE FOR THE GRANT OF PATENTS . THIS CONVENTION WAS SIGNED IN MUNICH ON 5 OCTOBER 1973 , BY THE PLENIPOTENTIARIES OF THE NINE MEMBER STATES OF THE EUROPEAN COMMUNITIES AND SEVERAL OTHER EUROPEAN STATES. THE EFFECTS OF A PATENT THUS GRANTED WILL BE DEFINED IN A SECOND CONVENTION WHICH WILL BE APPLICABLE ONLY IN THE COMMON MARKET AS A WHOLE. THE DRAFT OF THIS SECOND CONVENTION (2) WILL BE SUBMITTED TO AN INTER-GOVERNMENTAL CONFERENCE WHICH WILL BE HELD IN LUXEMBOURG FROM 6 TO 28 MAY 1974. IT WILL BE INITIALED DURING THIS CONFERENCE AND THE DRAFT WILL THEN BE SIGNED DURING THE COURSE OF A CONFERENCE OF GOVERNMENT REPRESENTATIVES OF THE MEMBER STATES MEETING IN THE COUNCIL. THE TEXT OF THE DRAFT HAS BEEN SUBMITTED TO THE MEMBER STATES AND TO THE COMMISSION SO THAT THEY MAY GIVE THEIR OPINIONS ON IT.

I

1 . THE EUROPEAN PATENT MAY BE GRANTED IN RESPECT OF STATES WHICH ARE PARTIES TO THE FIRST CONVENTION , AND NOT IN RESPECT OF OTHERS , ACCORDING TO THE WISH OF THE APPLICANT , AND THIS PATENT WILL HAVE SIMILAR EFFECTS IN EACH STATE TO THOSE OF A NATIONAL PATENT. AN IMPORTANT EXCEPTION HAS BEEN PROVIDED IN REGARD TO THIS PRINCIPLE , CONCERNING THE MEMBER STATES OF THE EUROPEAN COMMUNITIES : THE PATENT CAN ONLY BE GRANTED IN RESPECT OF ALL THE STATES TOGETHER AND NOT FOR SOME OF THEM ONLY. THE COMMUNITY PATENT WILL HAVE THE SAME EFFECT IN THE TERRITORIES OF ALL THE MEMBER STATES AS IT WILL BE GOVERNED BY A UNIFIED AND INDEPENDENT LAW , WHICH IS THE OBJECT OF THE DRAFT CONVENTION TO BE SUBMITTED TO THE INTER-GOVERNMENTAL CONFERENCE IN LUXEMBOURG . NATIONAL PATENTS WILL CONTINUE TO BE GRANTED IN THE MEMBER STATES OF THE COMMUNITY. COMMUNITY LEGISLATION WILL CO-EXIST WITH NATIONAL LEGISLATION ON THE SUBJECT.

2 . THE PREAMBLE TO THE DRAFT DRAWS ATTENTION TO THE MEMBER STATES' WISH TO ESTABLISH A PATENT REGIME WHICH SHALL CONTRIBUTE TO A REALIZATION OF THE OBJECTIVES OF THE TREATY SETTING UP THE EUROPEAN ECONOMIC COMMUNITY. THE AIM OF THE DRAFT , IN FACT , IS TO BRING ABOUT FREE MOVEMENT OF PATENTED GOODS IN THE COMMON MARKET AND ALSO TO BRING ABOUT EQUALIZATION OF COMPETITIVE CONDITIONS IN THAT SECTOR. THESE TWIN PURPOSES SHALL BE ACHIEVED BY ELIMINATING THE RESTRICTIONS RESULTING FROM TERRITORIALITY OF NATIONAL RIGHTS OF PROTECTION.

3 . IN THIS CONNECTION ARTICLE 32 OF THE DRAFT FORBIDS DIVISION OF THE COMMON MARKET INTO NINE NATIONAL MARKETS BY MEANS OF THE RIGHTS ATTACHED TO THE COMMUNITY PATENT. PROTECTED PRODUCTS MUST BE ABLE TO MOVE FREELY AFTER THE OWNER OF THE PATENT HAS PUT THEM ON THE MARKET IN ANY PART OF THE COMMUNITY. THIS RULE APPLIES ALSO TO PRODUCTS MARKETED BY THE HOLDER OF A CONTRACTUAL LICENCE OR A LICENCE OF RIGHT

4 . FURTHERMORE , IN ORDER TO ENSURE FREE MOVEMENT OF PATENTED GOODS , ARTICLE 78 APPLIES THE SAME PRINCIPLE IN CASES WHERE THE RIGHT TO PROTECTION DOES NOT ARISE FROM A COMMUNITY PATENT BUT FROM ONE OR SEVERAL NATIONAL PATENTS BELONGING TO ONE OWNER OR PERSONS WHO ARE TIED TO HIM ECONOMICALLY. UNDER THIS ARTICLE , MARKETING A PATENTED PRODUCT IN ONE OF THE MEMBER STATES HAS THE CONSEQUENCE OF EXHAUSTING THE RIGHTS ATTACHED TO NATIONAL PATENTS GRANTED IN OTHER MEMBER STATES . THE OWNER OF TWO NATIONAL PATENTS PROTECTING ONE INVENTION IN GERMANY AND IN FRANCE , FOR EXAMPLE , MAY NOT PREVENT IMPORTATION OF PROTECTED PRODUCTS WHICH HAVE BEEN MARKETED IN FRANCE , BY HIMSELF OR BY A THIRD PARTY WITH HIS CONSENT , IN ORDER TO PROTECT HIS GERMAN PATENT . THE CONTENT OF THIS ARTICLE IN ANY CASE ONLY RESTATES THE PRESENT LEGAL SITUATION AS SET OUT UNDER III BELOW.

5 . THUS , THE EUROPEAN LAW AS SET OUT IN THE CONVENTION WILL ESTABLISH IN THE COMMON MARKET CONDITIONS SIMILAR TO THOSE WHICH EXIST IN A NATIONAL MARKET IN REGARD TO THE ACQUISITION AND EXPLOITATION OF PATENTS . INDUSTRY WILL BE ABLE TO ADOPT A PRODUCTION AND SALES POLICY FOR THE COMMUNITY AS A WHOLE. INTRA-COMMUNITY COMMERCE WILL BE FACILITATED AND EXPANDED DUE TO THE FREE MOVEMENT OF PATENTED PRODUCTS OR PROCESSES AND EQUAL CONDITIONS OF COMPETITION.

II

6 . THIS FAVOURABLE SITUATION WOULD BE PUT AT RISK BY ADOPTION OF THE DRAFT " PROTOCOL ON THE DEFERRED APPLICATION OF THE PROVISIONS ON THE EXHAUSTION OF RIGHTS ATTACHED TO COMMUNITY PATENTS AND NATIONAL PATENTS " . THIS PROTOCOL , WHICH IS ANNEXED TO THE CONVENTION AND WHICH IS TO BE AN INTEGRAL PART THEREOF , PROVIDES THAT ARTICLES 32 AND 78 FORBIDDING DIVISION OF MARKETS SHALL NOT BE APPLICABLE DURING A TRANSITIONAL PERIOD OF FIVE TO 10 YEARS MAXIMUM.

7 . ADOPTION OF THIS PROTOCOL WILL ALLOW THE HOLDER OF THE EUROPEAN PATENT DURING A TRANSITIONAL PERIOD TO FORBID IMPORTATION OF PRODUCTS PUT ON THE MARKET IN ANOTHER MEMBER STATE BY HIMSELF OR HIS LICENSEE. IN THIS WAY , HE WOULD BE ABLE TO CONTROL THE MARKETING OF HIS PRODUCTS INSIDE THE COMMON MARKET , AND BY BRINGING AN ACTION FOR BREACH OF PATENT RIGHTS , SEPARATE NATIONAL MARKETS ONE FROM THE OTHER AND MAINTAIN DIFFERENT PRICES IN EACH MEMBER STATE.

8 . TAKING INTO ACCOUNT THE FACT THAT THE CONVENTION FOR THE EUROPEAN COMMUNITY PATENT WILL NOT COME INTO FORCE UNTIL 1976 AT THE EARLIEST - GIVEN THE TIME NEEDED FOR PARLIAMENTARY RATIFICATION - THE PROTOCOL COULD DELAY UNTIL 1981 , OR EVEN 1986 , APPLICATION OF THE PROVISIONS FORBIDDING DIVISION OF THE COMMON MARKET.

III

9 . SUCH A LIMITATION OF THE PRINCIPLE OF FREE MOVEMENT OF GOODS APPLIED TO PATENTED PRODUCTS IS CONTRARY TO THE PROVISIONS OF THE TREATY OF ROME. IT IS CLEAR FROM ARTICLES 2 , 3 , 30 TO 37 , 85 AND 86 , THAT ONE OF THE ESSENTIAL AIMS OF THE COMMUNITY CONSISTS OF CREATING A COMMON MARKET IN WHICH PRODUCTS MOVE FREELY AND COMPETITION IS NOT DISTORTED. FREE MOVEMENT OF GOODS IS SUCH A FUNDAMENTAL PART OF THE REALIZATION OF THE COMMON MARKET THAT IT CAN BE MODIFIED ONLY IN THE EXCEPTIONAL CIRCUMSTANCES DEFINED VERY STRICTLY BY THE TREATY. THE PROTOCOL , HOWEVER , INTRODUCES SUCH AN EXCEPTION FOR A PERIOD OF TIME WHICH MAY COME TO AN END APPROXIMATELY 30 YEARS AFTER THE EEC TREATY HAS COME INTO FORCE AND SOME 15 YEARS AFTER THE EXPIRATION OF THE TRANSITIONAL PERIOD LAID DOWN BY THE TREATY FOR THE CREATION OF THE CUSTOMS UNION.

10 . THE COMMISSION'S OPINION IS SUPPORTED BY THE DECISIONS OF THE COURT OF JUSTICE OF THE EUROPEAN COMMUNITIES , IN PARTICULAR BY THE DECISION OF 8 JULY 1971 , IN THE CASE OF DEUTSCHE GRAMMOPHON V. METRO (CASE 78/70) (3). IN THIS DECISION THE COURT IN PARTICULAR STATES

" ARTICLE 36 MENTIONS AMONG THE PROHIBITIONS OR RESTRICTIONS ON THE FREE MOVEMENT OF GOODS PERMITTED BY IT THOSE THAT ARE JUSTIFIED FOR THE PROTECTION OF INDUSTRIAL AND COMMERCIAL PROPERTY. IF IT BE ASSUMED THAT A RIGHT ANALOGOUS TO COPYRIGHT CAN BE COVERED BY THESE PROVISIONS IT FOLLOWS , HOWEVER , FROM THIS ARTICLE THAT ALTHOUGH THE TREATY DOES NOT AFFECT THE EXISTENCE OF THE INDUSTRIAL PROPERTY RIGHTS CONFERRED BY THE NATIONAL LEGISLATION OF A MEMBER STATE , THE EXERCISE OF THESE RIGHTS MAY COME WITHIN THE PROHIBITIONS OF THE TREATY. ALTHOUGH ARTICLE 36 PERMITS PROHIBITIONS OR RESTRICTIONS ON THE FREE MOVEMENT OF GOODS THAT ARE JUSTIFIED FOR THE PROTECTION OF INDUSTRIAL AND COMMERCIAL PROPERTY , IT ONLY ALLOWS SUCH RESTRICTIONS ON THE FREEDOM OF TRADE TO THE EXTENT THAT THEY ARE JUSTIFIED FOR THE PROTECTION OF THE RIGHTS THAT FORM THE SPECIFIC OBJECT OF THIS PROPERTY .

IF A PROTECTION RIGHT ANALOGOUS TO COPYRIGHT IS USED IN ORDER TO PROHIBIT IN ONE MEMBER STATE THE MARKETING OF GOODS THAT HAVE BEEN BROUGHT INTO THE MARKET BY THE HOLDER OF THE RIGHT OR WITH HIS CONSENT IN THE TERRITORY OF ANOTHER MEMBER STATE SOLELY BECAUSE THIS MARKETING HAS NOT OCCURRED IN THE DOMESTIC MARKET , SUCH A PROHIBITION MAINTAINING THE ISOLATION OF THE NATIONAL MARKETS CONFLICTS WITH THE ESSENTIAL AIM OF THE TREATY , THE INTEGRATION OF THE NATIONAL MARKETS INTO ONE UNIFORM MARKET. THIS AIM COULD NOT BE ACHIEVED IF BY VIRTUE OF THE VARIOUS LEGAL SYSTEMS OF THE MEMBER STATES PRIVATE PERSONS WERE ABLE TO DIVIDE THE MARKET AND CAUSE ARBITRARY DISCRIMINATIONS OR DISGUISED RESTRICTIONS IN TRADE BETWEEN THE MEMBER STATES.

HAD NOT OCCURRED IN THE TERRITORY OF THE FIRST MEMBER STATE " .

11 . THE DECISION IN QUESTION IS CONCERNED WITH , (THIS IS NOT IN DOUBT) OVER AND ABOVE THE EXCLUSIVE RIGHT OF A PRODUCER OF RECORDINGS WHICH WAS THE BASIS OF THE LITIGATION , ALL EXCLUSIVE RIGHTS ATTACHED TO PROTECTION OF INDUSTRIAL AND COMMERCIAL PROPERTY.

THE DECISION APPEARS TO ARGUE THAT SUCH A RIGHT (THE RIGHT ACCRUING TO A PRODUCER OF RECORDINGS) , ANALOGOUS TO AUTHOR'S COPYRIGHT , COULD NOT COME WITHIN THE EXCEPTION IN ARTICLE 36 UNLESS IT COULD BE CONSIDERED TO BE A RIGHT OF INDUSTRIAL OR COMMERCIAL PROPERTY (WHICH IT WASN'T) . THE COURT POINTED OUT , HOWEVER , THAT THIS RIGHT COULD NOT , IN ANY CASE , BE EXERCISED IN SUCH A WAY AS TO DIVIDE UP THE COMMON MARKET WITHOUT BEING IN BREACH OF THE RULES ON FREE MOVEMENT OF GOODS .

IT CLEARLY FOLLOWS , THAT THE COURT , IN THE CASE SUBMITTED TO IT , WISHED TO ENLARGE THE SCOPE OF THE LITIGATION AND INTERPRET ART. 36 IN A WAY THAT WAS VALID NOT ONLY FOR RIGHTS ANALOGOUS TO AUTHOR'S COPYRIGHT BUT ALSO FOR ALL RIGHTS OF INDUSTRIAL AND COMMERCIAL PROPERTY .

THE COMMISSION CONCLUDES THAT THE INTERPRETATION GIVEN BY THE COURT DEFINITELY APPLIES TO PATENT RIGHTS , WITHOUT HAVING TO ASK ITSELF IF A PATENTEE'S RIGHTS ARE OF THE SAME NATURE OR NOT AS THOSE BELONGING TO A PRODUCER OF RECORDINGS.

ON THIS INTERPRETATION OF THE DECISION IN THE DEUTSCHE GRAMMOPHON CASE , COMMUNITY LAW FORBIDS A PATENTEE TO EXERCISE HIS EXCLUSIVE RIGHT TO OPPOSE IMPORTATION OF A PROTECTED PRODUCT INTO A MEMBER STATE WHEN THAT PRODUCT HAS ALREADY BEEN SOLD , BY HIM OR WITH HIS CONSENT , IN ANOTHER MEMBER STATE.

12 . HAVING REGARD TO THAT , SIGNATURE OF THE PROTOCOL ON EXHAUSTION OF RIGHTS , A PROTOCOL WHICH ATTEMPTS TO LEGITIMATE , IF ONLY TEMPORARILY , EXERCISE OF THE RIGHTS OF INDUSTRIAL PROPERTY IN A MANNER CONTRARY TO COMMUNITY LAW , AS AUTHORITATIVELY INTERPRETED BY THE COURT OF JUSTICE , WOULD OBVIOUSLY NOT BE COMPATIBLE WITH THE FUNDAMENTAL OBLIGATION OF MEMBER STATES CONTAINED IN ARTICLE 5 OF THE TREATY , TO ABSTAIN FROM " ANY MEASURE WHICH COULD JEOPARDIZE THE ATTAINMENT OF THE OBJECTIVES OF THIS TREATY " , AND WOULD , CONSEQUENTLY , BE A BREACH OF THIS PROVISION.

13 . A PROTOCOL OF THIS SORT WOULD THEREFORE SET OUT TO AMEND THE TREATY , AN AMENDMENT HOWEVER , WHOSE EFFECT WOULD BE TO RESTRICT FREEDOM OF MOVEMENT OF GOODS AS LAID DOWN AT PRESENT BY COMMUNITY LAW , COULD NOT BE CARRIED OUT BY A CONVENTION BETWEEN MEMBER STATES OUTSIDE THE PROCEDURES EXPRESSLY LAID DOWN BY THE TREATY (ARTICLE 236) . THE LEGAL VALIDITY OF THE PROTOCOL ITSELF WOULD , FOR THE SAME REASON , BE IN SERIOUS DOUBT , AND THE COMMISSION BELIEVES THAT THE TRANSITIONAL ARRANGEMENT IT CONTAINS CANNOT PREVAIL OVER COMMUNITY LAW IN CASE OF CONFLICT.

IV

14 . FINALLY , THE COMMISSION , IN ACCORDANCE WITH THE VIEWS SET OUT ABOVE AND RELYING ON ARTICLE 155 OF THE EEC TREATY , IS ON THE ONE HAND IN FAVOUR OF SIGNATURE OF THE CONVENTION FOR THE EUROPEAN PATENT FOR THE COMMON MARKET BY THE MEMBER STATES AND ON THE OTHER HAND IS AGAINST ADOPTION OF THE PROTOCOL , ANNEXED TO THE SAID CONVENTION , CONCERNING THE DEFERRED APPLICATION OF THE PROVISIONS ON THE EXHAUSTION OF RIGHTS ATTACHED TO COMMUNITY PATENTS AND NATIONAL PATENTS .

15 . THIS OPINION IS ADDRESSED TO ALL MEMBER STATES.

Regulation (EC) No 1610/96 of the European Parliament and of the Council of 23 July 1996

concerning the creation of a supplementary protection certificate for plant protection products

COUNCIL of 23 July 1996 concerning the creation of a supplementary protection certificate for plant protection products

THE EUROPEAN PARLIAMENT AND THE COUNCIL OF THE EUROPEAN UNION,

Having regard to the Treaty establishing the European Community, and in particular Article 100a thereof,

Having regard to the proposal from the Commission (1),

Having regard to the opinion of the Economic and Social Committee (2),

Acting in accordance with the procedure referred to in Article 189b of the Treaty (3),

- (1) Whereas research into plant protection products contributes to the continuing improvement in the production and procurement of plentiful food of good quality at affordable prices;
- (2) Whereas plant protection research contributes to the continuing improvement in crop production;
- (3) Whereas plant protection products, especially those that are the result of long, costly research, will continue to be developed in the Community and in Europe if they are covered by favourable rules that provide for sufficient protection to encourage such research;
- (4) Whereas the competitiveness of the plant protection sector, by the very nature of the industry, requires a level of protection for innovation which is equivalent to that granted to medicinal products by Council Regulation (EEC) No 1768/92 of 18 June 1992 concerning the creation of a supplementary protection certificate for medicinal products (4);
- (5) Whereas, at the moment, the period that elapses between the filing of an application for a patent for a new plant protection product and authorization to place the said plant protection product on the market makes the period of effective protection under the patent insufficient to cover the investment put into the research and to generate the resources needed to maintain a high level of research;
- (6) Whereas this situation leads to a lack of protection which penalizes plant protection research and the competitiveness of the sector;
- (7) Whereas one of the main objectives of the supplementary protection certificate is to place European industry on the same competitive footing as its North American and Japanese counterparts;
- (8) Whereas, in its Resolution of 1 February 1993 (5) on a Community programme of policy and action in relation to the environment and sustainable development, the Council adopted the general approach and strategy of the programme presented by the Commission, which stressed the interdependence of economic growth and environmental quality; whereas improving protection of the environment means maintaining the economic competitiveness of industry; whereas, accordingly, the issue of a supplementary protection certificate can be regarded as a positive measure in favour of environmental protection;
- (9) Whereas a uniform solution at Community level should be provided for, thereby preventing the heterogeneous development of national laws leading to further disparities which would be likely to hinder the free movement of plant protection products within the Community and thus directly affect the functioning of the internal market; whereas this is in accordance with the principle of subsidiarity as defined by Article 3b of the Treaty;
- (10) Whereas, therefore, there is a need to create a supplementary protection certificate granted, under the same conditions, by each of the Member States at the request of the holder of a national or European patent relating to a plant protection product for which marketing authorization has been granted is necessary; whereas a Regulation is therefore the most appropriate legal instrument;

- (11) Whereas the duration of the protection granted by the certificate should be such as to provide adequate, effective protection; whereas, for this purpose, the holder of both a patent and a certificate should be able to enjoy an overall maximum of fifteen years of exclusivity from the time the plant protection product in question first obtains authorization to be placed on the market in the Community;
- (12) Whereas all the interests at stake in a sector as complex and sensitive as plant protection must nevertheless be taken into account; whereas, for this purpose, the certificate cannot be granted for a period exceeding five years;
- (13) Whereas the certificate confers the same rights as those conferred by the basic patent; whereas, consequently, where the basic patent covers an active substance and its various derivatives (salts and esters), the certificate confers the same protection;
- (14) Whereas the issue of a certificate for a product consisting of an active substance does not prejudice the issue of other certificates for derivatives (salts and esters) of the substance, provided that the derivatives are the subject of patents specifically covering them;
- (15) Whereas a fair balance should also be struck with regard to the determination of the transitional arrangements; whereas such arrangements should enable the Community plant protection industry to catch up to some extent with its main competitors, while making sure that the arrangements do not compromise the achievement of other legitimate objectives concerning the agricultural policy and environment protection policy pursued at both national and Community level;
- (16) Whereas only action at Community level will enable the objective, which consists in ensuring adequate protection for innovation in the field of plant protection, while guaranteeing the proper functioning of the internal market for plant protection products, to be attained effectively;
- (17) Whereas the detailed rules in recitals 12, 13 and 14 and in Articles 3 (2), 4, 8 (1) (c) and 17 (2) of this Regulation are also valid, mutatis mutandis, for the interpretation in particular of recital 9 and Articles 3, 4, 8 (1) (c) and 17 of Council Regulation (EEC) No 1768/92,

HAVE ADOPTED THIS REGULATION:

Article 1

Definitions

 - (b) influence the life processes of plants, other than as a nutrient (e.g. plant growth regulators);
 - (c) preserve plant products, in so far as such substances or products are not subject to special Council or Commission provisions on preservatives;
 - (d) destroy undesirable plants; or

- (e) destroy parts of plants, check or prevent undesirable growth of plants;
2. 'substances': chemical elements and their compounds, as they occur naturally or by manufacture, including any impurity inevitably resulting from the manufacturing process;

8. 'product': the active substance as defined in point 3 or combination of active substances of a plant protection product;
9. 'basic patent': a patent which protects a product as defined in point 8 as such, a preparation as defined in point 4, a process to obtain a product or an application of a product, and which is designated by its holder for the purpose of the procedure for grant of a certificate;
10. 'certificate': the supplementary protection certificate.

Scope

Any product protected by a patent in the territory of a Member State and subject, prior to being placed on the market as a plant protection product, to an administrative authorization procedure as laid down in Article 4 of Directive 91/414/EEC (6), or pursuant to an equivalent provision of national law if it is a plant protection product in respect of which the application for authorization was lodged before Directive 91/414/EEC was implemented by the Member State concerned, may, under the terms and conditions provided for in this Regulation, be the subject of a certificate.

Article 3

Conditions for obtaining a certificate

1. A certificate shall be granted if, in the Member State in which the application referred to in Article 7 is submitted, at the date of that application:
- (a) the product is protected by a basic patent in force;
- (b) a valid authorization to place the product on the market as a plant protection product has been granted in accordance with Article 4 of Directive 91/414/EEC or an equivalent provision of national law;

(c) the product has not already been the subject of a certificate;

(d) the authorization referred to in (b) is the first authorization to place the product on the market as a plant protection product.

2. The holder of more than one patent for the same product shall not be granted more than one certificate for that product. However, where two or more applications concerning the same product and emanating from two or more holders of different patents are pending, one certificate for this product may be issued to each of these holders.

Article 4

Subject-matter of protection

Within the limits of the protection conferred by the basic patent, the protection conferred by a certificate shall extend only to the product covered by the authorizations to place the corresponding plant protection product on the market and for any use of the product as a plant protection product that has been authorized before the expiry of the certificate.

Article 5

Effects of the certificate

Subject to Article 4, the certificate shall confer the same rights as conferred by the basic patent and shall be subject to the same limitations and the same obligations.

Article 6

Entitlement to the certificate

The certificate shall be granted to the holder of the basic patent or his successor in title.

Article 7

Application for a certificate

1. The application for a certificate shall be lodged within six months of the date on which the authorization referred to in Article 3 (1) (b) to place the product on the market as a plant protection product was granted.

2. Notwithstanding paragraph 1, where the authorization to place the product on the market is granted before the basic patent is granted, the application for a certificate shall be lodged within six months of the date on which the patent is granted.

Article 8

Content of the application for a certificate

1. The application for a certificate shall contain:

(a) a request for the grant of a certificate, stating in particular:

(i) the name and address of the applicant;

(ii) the name and address of the representative, if any;

(iii) the number of the basic patent and the title of the invention;

(iv) the number and date of the first authorization to place the product on the market, as referred to in Article 3 (1) (b) and, if this authorization is not the first authorization to place the product on the market in the Community, the number and date of that authorization;

(b) a copy of the authorization to place the product on the market, as referred to in Article 3 (1) (b), in which the product is identified, containing in particular the number and date of the authorization and the summary of the product characteristics listed in Part A.I (points 1-7) or B.I (points 1-7) of Annex II to Directive 91/414/EEC or in equivalent national laws of the Member State in which the application was lodged;

(c) if the authorization referred to in (b) is not the first authorization to place the product on the market as a plant protection product in the Community, information regarding the identity of the product thus authorized and the legal provision under which the authorization procedure took place, together with a copy of the notice publishing the authorization in the appropriate official publication or, failing such a notice, any other document proving that the authorization has been issued, the date on which it was issued and the identity of the product authorized.

2. Member States may require a fee to be payable upon application for a certificate.

Article 9

Lodging of an application for a certificate

1. The application for a certificate shall be lodged with the competent industrial property office of the Member State which granted the basic patent or on whose behalf it was granted and in which the authorization referred to in Article 3 (1) (b) to place the product on the market was obtained, unless the member State designates another authority for the purpose.

2. Notification of the application for a certificate shall be published by the authority referred to in paragraph 1. The notification shall contain at least the following information:

(a) the name and address of the applicant;

(b) the number of the basic patent;

(d) the number and date of the authorization to place the product on the market, referred to in Article 3 (1) (b), and the product identified in that authorization;

(e) where relevant, the number and date of the first authorization to place the product on the market in the Community.

Article 10

Grant of the certificate or rejection of the application

1. Where the application for a certificate and the product to which it relates meet the conditions laid down in this Regulation, the authority referred to in Article 9 (1) shall grant the certificate.
2. The authority referred to in Article 9 (1) shall, subject to paragraph 3, reject the application for a certificate if the application or the product to which it relates does not meet the conditions laid down in this Regulation.
3. Where the application for a certificate does not meet the conditions laid down in Article 8, the authority referred to in Article 9 (1) shall ask the applicant to rectify the irregularity, or to settle the fee, within a stated time.
4. If the irregularity is not rectified or the fee is not settled under paragraph 3 within the stated time, the application shall be rejected.
5. Member States may provide that the authority referred to in Article 9 (1) is to grant certificates without verifying that the conditions laid down in Article 3 (1) (c) and (d) are met.

Article 11

Publication

1. Notification of the fact that a certificate has been granted shall be published by the authority referred to in Article 9 (1). The notification shall contain at least the following information:
 - (a) the name and address of the holder of the certificate;
 - (b) the number of the basic patent;
 - (c) the title of the invention;
 - (d) the number and date of the authorization to place the product on the market referred to in Article 3 (1) (b) and the product identified in that authorization;
 - (e) where relevant, the number and date of the first authorization to place the product on the market in the Community;
 - (f) the duration of the certificate.
2. Notification of the fact that the application for a certificate has been rejected shall be published by the authority referred to in Article 9 (1). The notification shall contain at least the information listed in Article 9 (2).

Article 12

Annual fees

Member States may require the certificate to be subject to the payment of annual fees.

Article 13

Duration of the certificate

1. The certificate shall take effect at the end of the lawful term of the basic patent for a period equal to the period which elapsed between the date on which the application for a basic patent was lodged and the date of the first authorization to place the product on the market in the Community, reduced by a period of five years.
2. Notwithstanding paragraph 1, the duration of the certificate may not exceed five years from the date on which it takes effect.
3. For the purposes of calculating the duration of the certificate, account shall be taken of a provisional first marketing authorization only if it is directly followed by a definitive authorization concerning the same product.

Article 14

Expiry of the certificate

The certificate shall lapse:

- (a) at the end of the period provided for in Article 13;
- (b) if the certificate-holder surrenders it;
- (c) if the annual fee laid down in accordance with Article 12 is not paid in time;
- (d) if and as long as the product covered by the certificate may no longer be placed on the market following the withdrawal of the appropriate authorization or authorizations to place it on the market in accordance with Article 4 of Directive 91/414/EEC or equivalent provisions of national law. The authority referred to in Article 9 (1) may decide on the lapse of the certificate either on its own initiative or at the request of a third party.

Article 15

Invalidity of the certificate

1. The certificate shall be invalid if:

- (a) it was granted contrary to the provisions of Article 3;
- (b) the basic patent has lapsed before its lawful term expires;
- (c) the basic patent is revoked or limited to the extent that the product for which the certificate was granted would no longer be protected by the claims of the basic patent or, after the basic patent has expired, grounds for revocation exist which would have justified such revocation or limitation.

2. Any person may submit an application or bring an action for a declaration of invalidity of the certificate before the body responsible under national law for the revocation of the corresponding basic patent.

Article 16

Notification of lapse or invalidity

If the certificate lapses in accordance with Article 14 (b), (c) or (d) or is invalid in accordance with Article 15, notification thereof shall be published by the authority referred to in Article 9 (1).

Article 17

Appeals

1. The decisions of the authority referred to in Article 9 (1) or of the body referred to in Article 15 (2) taken under this Regulation shall be open to the same appeals as those provided for in national law against similar decisions taken in respect of national patents.

2. The decision to grant the certificate shall be open to an appeal aimed at rectifying the duration of the certificate where the date of the first authorization to place the product on the market in the Community, contained in the application for a certificate as provided for in Article 8, is incorrect.

Article 18

Procedure

1. In the absence of procedural provisions in this Regulation, the procedural provisions applicable under national law to the corresponding basic patent and, where appropriate, the procedural provisions applicable to the certificates referred to in Regulation (EEC) No 1768/92, shall apply to the certificate, unless national law lays down special procedural provisions for certificates as referred to in this Regulation.

2. Notwithstanding paragraph 1, the procedure for opposition to the granting of a certificate shall be excluded.

TRANSITIONAL PROVISIONS

Article 19

1. Any product which, on the date on which this Regulation enters into force, is protected by a valid basic patent and for which the first authorization to place it on the market as a plant protection product in the Community was obtained after 1 January 1985 under Article 4 of Directive 91/414/EEC or an equivalent national provision may be granted a certificate.

2. An application made under paragraph 1 for a certificate shall be submitted within six months of the date on which this Regulation enters into force.

Article 20

In those Member States whose national law did not, on 1 January 1990, provide for the patentability of plant protection products, this Regulation shall apply from 2 January 1998.

Article 19 shall not apply in those Member States.

FINAL PROVISION

Article 21

Entry into force

This Regulation shall enter into force six months after its publication in the Official Journal of the European Communities.

Council Regulation (EEC) No 1768/92 of 18 June 1992
concerning the creation of a supplementary protection certificate for medicinal products

COUNCIL REGULATION (EEC) No 1768/92 of 18 June 1992 concerning the creation of a supplementary protection certificate for medicinal products

THE COUNCIL OF THE EUROPEAN COMMUNITIES,

Having regard to the Treaty establishing the European Economic Community, and in particular Article 100a thereof,

Having regard to the proposal from the Commission (1),

In cooperation with the European Parliament (2),

Having regard to the opinion of the Economic and Social Committee (3),

Whereas pharmaceutical research plays a decisive role in the continuing improvement in public health;

Whereas medicinal products, especially those that are the result of long, costly research will not continue to be developed in the Community and in Europe unless they are covered by favourable rules that provide for sufficient protection to encourage such research;

Whereas at the moment the period that elapses between the filing of an application for a patent for a new medicinal product and authorization to place the medicinal product on the market makes the period of effective protection under the patent insufficient to cover the investment put into the research;

Whereas this situation leads to a lack of protection which penalizes pharmaceutical research;

Whereas the current situation is creating the risk of research centres situated in the Member States relocating to countries that already offer greater protection;

Whereas a uniform solution at Community level should be provided for, thereby preventing the heterogeneous development of national laws leading to further disparities which would be likely to create obstacles to the free movement of medicinal products within the Community and thus directly affect the establishment and the functioning of the internal market;

Whereas, therefore, the creation of a supplementary protection certificate granted, under the same conditions, by each of the Member States at the request of the holder of a national or European patent relating to a medicinal product for which marketing authorization has been granted is necessary; whereas a Regulation is therefore the most appropriate legal instrument;

Whereas the duration of the protection granted by the certificate should be such as to provide adequate effective protection; whereas, for this purpose, the holder of both a patent and a certificate should be able to enjoy an overall maximum of fifteen years of exclusivity from the time the medicinal product in question first obtains authorization to be placed on the market in the Community;

Whereas all the interests at stake, including those of public health, in a sector as complex and sensitive as the pharmaceutical sector must nevertheless be taken into account; whereas, for this purpose, the certificate cannot be granted for a period exceeding five years; whereas the protection granted should furthermore be strictly confined to the product which obtained authorization to be placed on the market as a medicinal product;

Whereas a fair balance should also be struck with regard to the determination of the transitional arrangements; whereas such arrangements should enable the Community pharmaceutical industry to catch up to some extent with its main competitors who, for a number of years, have been covered by laws guaranteeing them more adequate protection, while making sure that the arrangements do not compromise the achievement of other legitimate objectives concerning the health policies pursued both at national and Community level;

Whereas the transitional arrangements applicable to applications for certificates filed and to certificates granted under national legislation prior to the entry into force of this Regulation should be defined;

Whereas special arrangements should be allowed in Member States whose laws introduced the patentability of pharmaceutical products only very recently;

Whereas provision should be made for appropriate limitation of the duration of the certificate in the special case where a patent term has already been extended under a specific national law,

HAS ADOPTED THIS REGULATION:

Article 1

Definitions For the purposes of this Regulation:

- (a) 'medicinal product' means any substance or combination of substances presented for treating or preventing disease in human beings or animals and any substance or combination of substances which may be administered to human beings or animals with a view to making a medical diagnosis or to restoring, correcting or modifying physiological functions in humans or in animals;
- (b) 'product' means the active ingredient or combination of active ingredients of a medicinal product;
- (c) 'basic patent' means a patent which protects a product as defined in (b) as such, a process to obtain a product or an application of a product, and which is designated by its holder for the purpose of the procedure for grant of a certificate;
- (d) 'certificate' means the supplementary protection certificate.

Article 2

Scope Any product protected by a patent in the territory of a Member State and subject, prior to being placed on the market as a medicinal product, to an administrative authorization procedure as laid down in Council Directive 65/65/EEC (4) or Directive 81/851/EEC (5) may, under the terms and conditions provided for in this Regulation, be the subject of a certificate.

Article 3

Conditions for obtaining a certificate A certificate shall be granted if, in the Member State in which the application referred to in Article 7 is submitted and at the date of that application:

- (a) the product is protected by a basic patent in force;
- (b) a valid authorization to place the product on the market as a medicinal product has been granted in accordance with Directive 65/65/EEC or Directive 81/851/EEC, as appropriate;
- (c) the product has not already been the subject of a certificate;

- (d) the authorization referred to in (b) is the first authorization to place the product on the market as a medicinal product.

Article 4

Subject-matter of protection Within the limits of the protection conferred by the basic patent, the protection conferred by a certificate shall extend only to the product covered by the authorization to place the corresponding medicinal product on the market and for any use of the product as a medicinal product that has been authorized before the expiry of the certificate.

Article 5

Effects of the certificate Subject to the provisions of Article 4, the certificate shall confer the same rights as conferred by the basic patent and shall be subject to the same limitations and the same obligations.

Article 6

Entitlement to the certificate The certificate shall be granted to the holder of the basic patent or his successor in title.

Article 7

Application for a certificate 1. The application for a certificate shall be lodged within six months of the date on which the authorization referred to in Article 3 (b) to place the product on the market as a medicinal product was granted.

2. Notwithstanding paragraph 1, where the authorization to place the product on the market is granted before the basic patent is granted, the application for a certificate shall be lodged within six months of the date on which the patent is granted.

Article 8

Content of the application for a certificate 1. The application for a certificate shall contain:

- (a) a request for the grant of a certificate, stating in particular:
- (i) the name and address of the applicant;
 - (ii) if he has appointed a representative, the name and address of the representative;
 - (iii) the number of the basic patent and the title of the invention;
 - (iv) the number and date of the first authorization to place the product on the market, as referred to in Article 3 (b) and, if this authorization is not the first authorization for placing the product on the market in the Community, the number and date of that authorization;

- (b) a copy of the authorization to place the product on the market, as referred to in Article 3 (b), in which the product is identified, containing in particular the number and date of the authorization and the summary of the product characteristics listed in Article 4a of Directive 65/65/EEC or Article 5a of Directive 81/851/EEC;
 - (c) if the authorization referred to in (b) is not the first authorization for placing the product on the market as a medicinal product in the Community, information regarding the identity of the product thus authorized and the legal provision under which the authorization procedure took place, together with a copy of the notice publishing the authorization in the appropriate official publication.
2. Member States may provide that a fee is to be payable upon application for a certificate.

Article 9

Lodging of an application for a certificate

1. The application for a certificate shall be lodged with the competent industrial property office of the Member State which granted the basic patent or on whose behalf it was granted and in which the authorization referred to in Article 3 (b) to place the product on the market was obtained, unless the Member State designates another authority for the purpose.
2. Notification of the application for a certificate shall be published by the authority referred to in paragraph 1. The notification shall contain at least the following information:
 - (a) the name and address of the applicant;
 - (b) the number of the basic patent;
 - (c) the title of the invention;
 - (d) the number and date of the authorization to place the product on the market, referred to in Article 3 (b), and the product identified in that authorization;
 - (e) where relevant, the number and date of the first authorization to place the product on the market in the Community.

Article 10

Grant of the certificate or rejection of the application 1. Where the application for a certificate and the product to which it relates meet the conditions laid down in this Regulation, the authority referred to in Article 9 (1) shall grant the certificate.

2. The authority referred to in Article 9 (1) shall, subject to paragraph 3, reject the application for a certificate if the application or the product to which it relates does not meet the conditions laid down in this Regulation.

3. Where the application for a certificate does not meet the conditions laid down in Article 8, the authority referred to in Article 9 (1) shall ask the applicant to rectify the irregularity, or to settle the fee, within a stated time.

4. If the irregularity is not rectified or the fee is not settled under paragraph 3 within the stated time, the authority shall reject the application.

5. Member States may provide that the authority referred to in Article 9 (1) is to grant certificates without verifying that the conditions laid down in Article 3 (c) and (d) are met.

Article 11

Publication 1. Notification of the fact that a certificate has been granted shall be published by the authority referred to in Article 9 (1). The notification shall contain at least the following information:

- (a) the name and address of the holder of the certificate;
- (b) the number of the basic patent;
- (c) the title of the invention;
- (d) the number and date of the authorization to place the product on the market referred to in Article 3 (b) and the product identified in that authorization;
- (e) where relevant, the number and date of the first authorization to place the product on the market in the Community;
- (f) the duration of the certificate.

2. Notification of the fact that the application for a certificate has been rejected shall be published by the authority referred to in Article 9 (1). The notification shall contain at least the information listed in Article 9 (2).

Article 12

Annual fees Member States may require that the certificate be subject to the payment of annual fees.

Article 13

Duration of the certificate 1. The certificate shall take effect at the end of the lawful term of the basic patent for a period equal to the period which elapsed between the date on which the application for a basic patent was lodged and the date of the first authorization to place the product on the market in the Community reduced by a period of five years.

2. Notwithstanding paragraph 1, the duration of the certificate may not exceed five years from the date on which it takes effect.

Article 14

Expiry of the certificate The certificate shall lapse:

- (a) at the end of the period provided for in Article 13;

- (b) if the certificate-holder surrenders it;
- (c) if the annual fee laid down in accordance with Article 12 is not paid in time;
- (d) if and as long as the product covered by the certificate may no longer be placed on the market following the withdrawal of the appropriate authorization or authorizations to place on the market in accordance with Directive 65/65/EEC or Directive 81/851/EEC. The authority referred to in Article 9 (1) may decide on the lapse of the certificate either of its own motion or at the request of a third party.

Article 15

Invalidity of the certificate 1. The certificate shall be invalid if:

- (a) it was granted contrary to the provisions of Article 3;
- (b) the basic patent has lapsed before its lawful term expires;
- (c) the basic patent is revoked or limited to the extent that the product for which the certificate was granted would no longer be protected by the claims of the basic patent or, after the basic patent has expired, grounds for revocation exist which would have justified such revocation or limitation.

2. Any person may submit an application or bring an action for a declaration of invalidity of the certificate before the body responsible under national law for the renovation of the corresponding basic patent.

Article 16

Notification of lapse or invalidity If the certificate lapses in accordance with Article 14 (b), (c) or (d) or is invalid in accordance with Article 15, notification thereof shall be published by the authority referred to in Article 9 (1).

Article 17

Appeals The decisions of the authority referred to in Article 9 (1) or of the body referred to in Article 15 (2) taken under this Regulation shall be open to the same appeals as those provided for in national law against similar decisions taken in respect of national patents.

Article 18

Procedure 1. In the absence of procedural provisions in this Regulation, the procedural provisions applicable under national law to the corresponding basic patent shall apply to the certificate, unless that law lays down special procedural provisions for certificates.

2. Notwithstanding paragraph 1, the procedure for opposition to the granting of a certificate shall be excluded.

Article 19

Transitional provisions 1. Any product which, on the date on which this Regulation enters into force, is protected by a valid basic patent and for which the first authorization to place it on the market as a medicinal product in the Community was obtained after 1 January 1985 may be granted a certificate.

In the case of certificates to be granted in Denmark and in Germany, the date of 1 January 1985 shall be replaced by that of 1 January 1988.

In the case of certificates to be granted in Belgium and in Italy, the date of 1 January 1985 shall be replaced by that of 1 January 1982.

2. An application for a certificate as referred to in paragraph 1 shall be submitted within six months of the date on which this Regulation enters into force.

Article 20

This Regulation shall not apply to certificates granted in accordance with the national legislation of a Member State before the date on which this Regulation enters into force or to applications for a certificate filed in accordance with that legislation before the date of publication of this Regulation in the Official Journal of the European Communities.

Article 21

In those Member States whose national law did not on 1 January 1990 provide for the patentability of pharmaceutical products, this Regulation shall apply five years after the entry into force of this Regulation.

Article 19

shall not apply in those Member States.

Article 22

Where a certificate is granted for a product protected by a patent which, before the date on which this Regulation enters into force, has had its term extended or for which such extension was applied for, under national patent law, the term of protection to be afforded under this certificate shall be reduced by the number of years by which the term of the patent exceeds 20 years.

FINAL PROVISION

Article 23

Entry into force This Regulation shall enter into force six months after its publication in the Official Journal of the European Communities. This Regulation shall be binding in its entirety and directly applicable in all Member States.

Directive 98/44/EC of the European Parliament and of the Council the Council the Council July 1998 on the legal protection of biotechnological inventions

July 1998 on the legal protection of biotechnological inventions

THE EUROPEAN PARLIAMENT AND THE COUNCIL OF THE EUROPEAN UNION,

Having regard to the Treaty establishing the European Community, and in particular Article 100a thereof,

Having regard to the proposal from the Commission (1),

Having regard to the opinion of the Economic and Social Committee (2),

Acting in accordance with the procedure laid down in Article 189b of the Treaty (3),

- (1) Whereas biotechnology and genetic engineering are playing an increasingly important role in a broad range of industries and the protection of biotechnological inventions will certainly be of fundamental importance for the Community's industrial development;
- (2) Whereas, in particular in the field of genetic engineering, research and development require a considerable amount of high-risk investment and therefore only adequate legal protection can make them profitable;
- (3) Whereas effective and harmonised protection throughout the Member States is essential in order to maintain and encourage investment in the field of biotechnology;
- (4) Whereas following the European Parliament's rejection of the joint text, approved by the Conciliation Committee, for a European Parliament and Council Directive on the legal protection of biotechnological inventions (4), the European Parliament and the Council have determined that the legal protection of biotechnological inventions requires clarification;
- (5) Whereas differences exist in the legal protection of biotechnological inventions offered by the laws and practices of the different Member States; whereas such differences could create barriers to trade and hence impede the proper functioning of the internal market;
- (6) Whereas such differences could well become greater as Member States adopt new and different legislation and administrative practices, or whereas national case-law interpreting such legislation develops differently;
- (7) Whereas uncoordinated development of national laws on the legal protection of biotechnological inventions in the Community could lead to further disincentives to trade, to the detriment of the industrial development of such inventions and of the smooth operation of the internal market;
- (8) Whereas legal protection of biotechnological inventions does not necessitate the creation of a separate body of law in place of the rules of national patent law; whereas the rules of national patent law remain the essential basis for the legal protection of biotechnological inventions given that they must be adapted or added to in certain specific respects in order to take adequate account of technological developments involving biological material which also fulfil the requirements for patentability;
- (9) Whereas in certain cases, such as the exclusion from patentability of plant and animal varieties and of essentially biological processes for the production of plants and animals, certain concepts in national laws based upon international patent and plant variety conventions have created uncertainty regarding the protection of biotechnological and certain microbiological inventions; whereas harmonisation is necessary to clarify the said uncertainty;
- (10) Whereas regard should be had to the potential of the development of biotechnology for the environment and in particular the utility of this technology for the development of methods of cultivation which are less polluting and more economical in their use of ground; whereas the patent system should be used to encourage research into, and the application of, such processes;

- (11) Whereas the development of biotechnology is important to developing countries, both in the field of health and combating major epidemics and endemic diseases and in that of combating hunger in the world; whereas the patent system should likewise be used to encourage research in these fields; whereas international procedures for the dissemination of such technology in the Third World and to the benefit of the population groups concerned should be promoted;
- (12) Whereas the Agreement on Trade-Related Aspects of Intellectual Property Rights (TRIPs) (5) signed by the European Community and the Member States, has entered into force and provides that patent protection must be guaranteed for products and processes in all areas of technology;
- (13) Whereas the Community's legal framework for the protection of biotechnological inventions can be limited to laying down certain principles as they apply to the patentability of biological material as such, such principles being intended in particular to determine the difference between inventions and discoveries with regard to the patentability of certain elements of human origin, to the scope of protection conferred by a patent on a biotechnological invention, to the right to use a deposit mechanism in addition to written descriptions and lastly to the option of obtaining non-exclusive compulsory licences in respect of interdependence between plant varieties and inventions, and conversely;
- (14) Whereas a patent for invention does not authorise the holder to implement that invention, but merely entitles him to prohibit third parties from exploiting it for industrial and commercial purposes; whereas, consequently, substantive patent law cannot serve to replace or render superfluous national, European or international law which may impose restrictions or prohibitions or which concerns the monitoring of research and of the use or commercialisation of its results, notably from the point of view of the requirements of public health, safety, environmental protection, animal welfare, the preservation of genetic diversity and compliance with certain ethical standards;
- (15) Whereas no prohibition or exclusion exists in national or European patent law (Munich Convention) which precludes a priori the patentability of biological matter;
- (16) Whereas patent law must be applied so as to respect the fundamental principles safeguarding the dignity and integrity of the person; whereas it is important to assert the principle that the human body, at any stage in its formation or development, including germ cells, and the simple discovery of one of its elements or one of its products, including the sequence or partial sequence of a human gene, cannot be patented; whereas these principles are in line with the criteria of patentability proper to patent law, whereby a mere discovery cannot be patented;
- (17) Whereas significant progress in the treatment of diseases has already been made thanks to the existence of medicinal products derived from elements isolated from the human body and/or otherwise produced, such medicinal products resulting from technical processes aimed at obtaining elements similar in structure to those existing naturally in the human body and whereas, consequently, research aimed at obtaining and isolating such elements valuable to medicinal production should be encouraged by means of the patent system;
- (18) Whereas, since the patent system provides insufficient incentive for encouraging research into and production of biotechnological medicines which are needed to combat rare or 'orphan' diseases, the Community and the Member States have a duty to respond adequately to this problem;
- (19) Whereas account has been taken of Opinion No 8 of the Group of Advisers on the Ethical Implications of Biotechnology to the European Commission;
- (20) Whereas, therefore, it should be made clear that an invention based on an element isolated from the human body or otherwise produced by means of a technical process, which is susceptible of industrial application, is not excluded from patentability, even where the structure of that element is identical to that of a natural element, given that the rights conferred by the patent do not extend to the human body and its elements in their natural environment;

- (21) Whereas such an element isolated from the human body or otherwise produced is not excluded from patentability since it is, for example, the result of technical processes used to identify, purify and classify it and to reproduce it outside the human body, techniques which human beings alone are capable of putting into practice and which nature is incapable of accomplishing by itself;
- (22) Whereas the discussion on the patentability of sequences or partial sequences of genes is controversial; whereas, according to this Directive, the granting of a patent for inventions which concern such sequences or partial sequences should be subject to the same criteria of patentability as in all other areas of technology: novelty, inventive step and industrial application; whereas the industrial application of a sequence or partial sequence must be disclosed in the patent application as filed;
- (23) Whereas a mere DNA sequence without indication of a function does not contain any technical information and is therefore not a patentable invention;
- (24) Whereas, in order to comply with the industrial application criterion it is necessary in cases where a sequence or partial sequence of a gene is used to produce a protein or part of a protein, to specify which protein or part of a protein is produced or what function it performs;
- (25) Whereas, for the purposes of interpreting rights conferred by a patent, when sequences overlap only in parts which are not essential to the invention, each sequence will be considered as an independent sequence in patent law terms;
- (26) Whereas if an invention is based on biological material of human origin or if it uses such material, where a patent application is filed, the person from whose body the material is taken must have had an opportunity of expressing free and informed consent thereto, in accordance with national law;
- (27) Whereas if an invention is based on biological material of plant or animal origin or if it uses such material, the patent application should, where appropriate, include information on the geographical origin of such material, if known; whereas this is without prejudice to the processing of patent applications or the validity of rights arising from granted patents;
- (28) Whereas this Directive does not in any way affect the basis of current patent law, according to which a patent may be granted for any new application of a patented product;
- (29) Whereas this Directive is without prejudice to the exclusion of plant and animal varieties from patentability; whereas on the other hand inventions which concern plants or animals are patentable provided that the application of the invention is not technically confined to a single plant or animal variety;
- (30) Whereas the concept 'plant variety' is defined by the legislation protecting new varieties, pursuant to which a variety is defined by its whole genome and therefore possesses individuality and is clearly distinguishable from other varieties;
- (31) Whereas a plant grouping which is characterised by a particular gene (and not its whole genome) is not covered by the protection of new varieties and is therefore not excluded from patentability even if it comprises new varieties of plants;
- (32) Whereas, however, if an invention consists only in genetically modifying a particular plant

- variety, and if a new plant variety is bred, it will still be excluded from patentability even if the genetic modification is the result not of an essentially biological process but of a biotechnological process;
- (33) Whereas it is necessary to define for the purposes of this Directive when a process for the breeding of plants and animals is essentially biological;
- (34) Whereas this Directive shall be without prejudice to concepts of invention and discovery, as developed by national, European or international patent law;
- (35) Whereas this Directive shall be without prejudice to the provisions of national patent law whereby processes for treatment of the human or animal body by surgery or therapy and diagnostic methods practised on the human or animal body are excluded from patentability;
- (36) Whereas the TRIPs Agreement provides for the possibility that members of the World Trade Organisation may exclude from patentability inventions, the prevention within their territory of the commercial exploitation of which is necessary to protect ordre public or morality, including to protect human, animal or plant life or health or to avoid serious prejudice to the environment, provided that such exclusion is not made merely because the exploitation is prohibited by their law;
- (37) Whereas the principle whereby inventions must be excluded from patentability where their commercial exploitation offends against ordre public or morality must also be stressed in this Directive;
- (38) Whereas the operative part of this Directive should also include an illustrative list of inventions excluded from patentability so as to provide national courts and patent offices with a general guide to interpreting the reference to ordre public and morality; whereas this list obviously cannot presume to be exhaustive; whereas processes, the use of which offend against human dignity, such as processes to produce chimeras from germ cells or totipotent cells of humans and animals, are obviously also excluded from patentability;
- (39) Whereas ordre public and morality correspond in particular to ethical or moral principles recognised in a Member State, respect for which is particularly important in the field of biotechnology in view of the potential scope of inventions in this field and their inherent relationship to living matter; whereas such ethical or moral principles supplement the standard legal examinations under patent law regardless of the technical field of the invention;
- (40) Whereas there is a consensus within the Community that interventions in the human germ line and the cloning of human beings offends against ordre public and morality; whereas it is therefore important to exclude unequivocally from patentability processes for modifying the germ line genetic identity of human beings and processes for cloning human beings;
- (41) Whereas a process for cloning human beings may be defined as any process, including techniques of embryo splitting, designed to create a human being with the same nuclear genetic information as another living or deceased human being;
- (42) Whereas, moreover, uses of human embryos for industrial or commercial purposes must also be excluded from patentability; whereas in any case such exclusion does not affect inventions for therapeutic or diagnostic purposes which are applied to the human embryo and are useful to it;
- (43) Whereas pursuant to Article F(2) of the Treaty on European Union, the Union is to respect fundamental rights, as guaranteed by the European Convention for the Protection of Human Rights and Fundamental Freedoms signed in Rome on 4 November 1950 and as they result from the constitutional traditions common to the Member States, as general principles of Community law;
- (44) Whereas the Commission's European Group on Ethics in Science and New Technologies evaluates all ethical aspects of biotechnology; whereas it should be pointed out in this connection that that Group may be consulted only where biotechnology is to be evaluated at the level of basic ethical principles, including where it is consulted on patent law;

- (45) Whereas processes for modifying the genetic identity of animals which are likely to cause them suffering without any substantial medical benefit in terms of research, prevention, diagnosis or therapy to man or animal, and also animals resulting from such processes, must be excluded from patentability;
- (46) Whereas, in view of the fact that the function of a patent is to reward the inventor for his creative efforts by granting an exclusive but time-bound right, and thereby encourage inventive activities, the holder of the patent should be entitled to prohibit the use of patented self-reproducing material in situations analogous to those where it would be permitted to prohibit the use of patented, non-self-reproducing products, that is to say the production of the patented product itself;
- (47) Whereas it is necessary to provide for a first derogation from the rights of the holder of the patent when the propagating material incorporating the protected invention is sold to a farmer for farming purposes by the holder of the patent or with his consent; whereas that initial derogation must authorise the farmer to use the product of his harvest for further multiplication or propagation on his own farm; whereas the extent and the conditions of that derogation must be limited in accordance with the extent and conditions set out in Council Regulation (EC) No 2100/94 of 27 July 1994 on Community plant variety rights (6);
- (48) Whereas only the fee envisaged under Community law relating to plant variety rights as a condition for applying the derogation from Community plant variety rights can be required of the farmer;
- (49) Whereas, however, the holder of the patent may defend his rights against a farmer abusing the derogation or against a breeder who has developed a plant variety incorporating the protected invention if the latter fails to adhere to his commitments;
- (50) Whereas a second derogation from the rights of the holder of the patent must authorise the farmer to use protected livestock for agricultural purposes;
- (51) Whereas the extent and the conditions of that second derogation must be determined by national laws, regulations and practices, since there is no Community legislation on animal variety rights;
- (52) Whereas, in the field of exploitation of new plant characteristics resulting from genetic engineering, guaranteed access must, on payment of a fee, be granted in the form of a compulsory licence where, in relation to the genus or species concerned, the plant variety represents significant technical progress of considerable economic interest compared to the invention claimed in the patent;
- (53) Whereas, in the field of the use of new plant characteristics resulting from new plant varieties in genetic engineering, guaranteed access must, on payment of a fee, be granted in the form of a compulsory licence where the invention represents significant technical progress of considerable economic interest;
- (54) Whereas Article 34 of the TRIPs Agreement contains detailed provisions on the burden of proof which is binding on all Member States; whereas, therefore, a provision in this Directive is not necessary;
- (55) Whereas following Decision 93/626/EEC (7) the Community is party to the Convention on Biological Diversity of 5 June 1992; whereas, in this regard, Member States must give particular weight to Article 3 and Article 8(j), the second sentence of Article 16(2) and Article 16(5) of the Convention when bringing into force the laws, regulations and administrative provisions necessary to comply with this Directive;

- (56) Whereas the Third Conference of the Parties to the Biodiversity Convention, which took place in November 1996, noted in Decision III/17 that 'further work is required to help develop a common appreciation of the relationship between intellectual property rights and the relevant provisions of the TRIPs Agreement and the Convention on Biological Diversity, in particular on issues relating to technology transfer and conservation and sustainable use of biological diversity and the fair and equitable sharing of benefits arising out of the use of genetic resources, including the protection of knowledge, innovations and practices of indigenous and local communities embodying traditional lifestyles relevant for the conservation and sustainable use of biological diversity`,

HAVE ADOPTED THIS DIRECTIVE:

CHAPTER I Patentability

Article 1

1. Member States shall protect biotechnological inventions under national patent law. They shall, if necessary, adjust their national patent law to take account of the provisions of this Directive.
2. This Directive shall be without prejudice to the obligations of the Member States pursuant to international agreements, and in particular the TRIPs Agreement and the Convention on Biological Diversity.

Article 2

1. For the purposes of this Directive,
 - (a) 'biological material` means any material containing genetic information and capable of reproducing itself or being reproduced in a biological system;
 - (b) 'microbiological process` means any process involving or performed upon or resulting in microbiological material.
2. A process for the production of plants or animals is essentially biological if it consists entirely of natural phenomena such as crossing or selection.
3. The concept of 'plant variety` is defined by Article 5 of Regulation (EC) No 2100/94.

Article 3

1. For the purposes of this Directive, inventions which are new, which involve an inventive step and which are susceptible of industrial application shall be patentable even if they concern a product consisting of or containing biological material or a process by means of which biological material is produced, processed or used.
2. Biological material which is isolated from its natural environment or produced by means of a technical process may be the subject of an invention even if it previously occurred in nature.

Article 4

1. The following shall not be patentable:

- (a) plant and animal varieties;
- (b) essentially biological processes for the production of plants or animals.

2. Inventions which concern plants or animals shall be patentable if the technical feasibility of the invention is not confined to a particular plant or animal variety.

3. Paragraph 1(b) shall be without prejudice to the patentability of inventions which concern a microbiological or other technical process or a product obtained by means of such a process.

Article 5

1. The human body, at the various stages of its formation and development, and the simple discovery of one of its elements, including the sequence or partial sequence of a gene, cannot constitute patentable inventions.

2. An element isolated from the human body or otherwise produced by means of a technical process, including the sequence or partial sequence of a gene, may constitute a patentable invention, even if the structure of that element is identical to that of a natural element.

3. The industrial application of a sequence or a partial sequence of a gene must be disclosed in the patent application.

Article 6

1. Inventions shall be considered unpatentable where their commercial exploitation would be contrary to ordre public or morality; however, exploitation shall not be deemed to be so contrary merely because it is prohibited by law or regulation.

2. On the basis of paragraph 1, the following, in particular, shall be considered unpatentable:

- (a) processes for cloning human beings;
- (b) processes for modifying the germ line genetic identity of human beings;
- (c) uses of human embryos for industrial or commercial purposes;
- (d) processes for modifying the genetic identity of animals which are likely to cause them suffering without any substantial medical benefit to man or animal, and also animals resulting from such processes.

Article 7

The Commission's European Group on Ethics in Science and New Technologies evaluates all ethical aspects of biotechnology.

CHAPTER II Scope of protection

Article 8

1. The protection conferred by a patent on a biological material possessing specific characteristics as a result of the invention shall extend to any biological material derived from that biological material through propagation or multiplication in an identical or divergent form and possessing those same characteristics.
2. The protection conferred by a patent on a process that enables a biological material to be produced possessing specific characteristics as a result of the invention shall extend to biological material directly obtained through that process and to any other biological material derived from the directly obtained biological material through propagation or multiplication in an identical or divergent form and possessing those same characteristics.

Article 9

The protection conferred by a patent on a product containing or consisting of genetic information shall extend to all material, save as provided in Article 5(1), in which the product is incorporated and in which the genetic information is contained and performs its function.

Article 10

The protection referred to in Articles 8 and 9 shall not extend to biological material obtained from the propagation or multiplication of biological material placed on the market in the territory of a Member State by the holder of the patent or with his consent, where the multiplication or propagation necessarily results from the application for which the biological material was marketed, provided that the material obtained is not subsequently used for other propagation or multiplication.

Article 11

1. By way of derogation from Articles 8 and 9, the sale or other form of commercialisation of plant propagating material to a farmer by the holder of the patent or with his consent for agricultural use implies authorisation for the farmer to use the product of his harvest for propagation or multiplication by him on his own farm, the extent and conditions of this derogation corresponding to those under Article 14 of Regulation (EC) No 2100/94.
2. By way of derogation from Articles 8 and 9, the sale or any other form of commercialisation of breeding stock or other animal reproductive material to a farmer by the holder of the patent or with his consent implies authorisation for the farmer to use the protected livestock for an agricultural purpose. This includes making the animal or other animal reproductive material available for the purposes of pursuing his agricultural activity but not sale within the framework or for the purpose of a commercial reproduction activity.
3. The extent and the conditions of the derogation provided for in paragraph 2 shall be determined by national laws, regulations and practices.

CHAPTER III Compulsory cross-licensing

Article 12

1. Where a breeder cannot acquire or exploit a plant variety right without infringing a prior patent, he may apply for a compulsory licence for non-exclusive use of the invention protected by the patent inasmuch as the licence is necessary for the exploitation of the plant variety to be protected, subject to payment of an appropriate royalty. Member States shall provide that, where such a licence is granted, the holder of the patent will be entitled to a cross-licence on reasonable terms to use the protected variety.

2. Where the holder of a patent concerning a biotechnological invention cannot exploit it without infringing a prior plant variety right, he may apply for a compulsory licence for non-exclusive use of the plant variety protected by that right, subject to payment of an appropriate royalty. Member States shall provide that, where such a licence is granted, the holder of the variety right will be entitled to a cross-licence on reasonable terms to use the protected invention.

3. Applicants for the licences referred to in paragraphs 1 and 2 must demonstrate that:

- (a) they have applied unsuccessfully to the holder of the patent or of the plant variety right to obtain a contractual licence;
- (b) the plant variety or the invention constitutes significant technical progress of considerable economic interest compared with the invention claimed in the patent or the protected plant variety.

4. Each Member State shall designate the authority or authorities responsible for granting the licence. Where a licence for a plant variety can be granted only by the Community Plant Variety Office, Article 29 of Regulation (EC) No 2100/94 shall apply.

CHAPTER IV Deposit, access and re-deposit of a biological material

Article 13

1. Where an invention involves the use of or concerns biological material which is not available to the public and which cannot be described in a patent application in such a manner as to enable the invention to be reproduced by a person skilled in the art, the description shall be considered inadequate for the purposes of patent law unless:

- (a) the biological material has been deposited no later than the date on which the patent application was filed with a recognised depositary institution. At least the international depositary authorities which acquired this status by virtue of Article 7 of the Budapest Treaty of 28 April 1977 on the international recognition of the deposit of micro-organisms for the purposes of patent procedure, hereinafter referred to as the 'Budapest Treaty', shall be recognised;
- (b) the application as filed contains such relevant information as is available to the applicant on the characteristics of the biological material deposited;
- (c) the patent application states the name of the depositary institution and the accession number.

2. Access to the deposited biological material shall be provided through the supply of a sample:

- (a) up to the first publication of the patent application, only to those persons who are authorised under national patent law;
- (b) between the first publication of the application and the granting of the patent, to anyone requesting it or, if the applicant so requests, only to an independent expert;
- (c) after the patent has been granted, and notwithstanding revocation or cancellation of the patent, to anyone requesting it.
3. The sample shall be supplied only if the person requesting it undertakes, for the term during which the patent is in force:
- (a) not to make it or any material derived from it available to third parties; and
- (b) not to use it or any material derived from it except for experimental purposes, unless the applicant for or proprietor of the patent, as applicable, expressly waives such an undertaking.
4. At the applicant's request, where an application is refused or withdrawn, access to the deposited material shall be limited to an independent expert for 20 years from the date on which the patent application was filed. In that case, paragraph 3 shall apply.
5. The applicant's requests referred to in point (b) of paragraph 2 and in paragraph 4 may only be made up to the date on which the technical preparations for publishing the patent application are deemed to have been completed.

Article 14

1. If the biological material deposited in accordance with Article 13 ceases to be available from the recognised depositary institution, a new deposit of the material shall be permitted on the same terms as those laid down in the Budapest Treaty.
2. Any new deposit shall be accompanied by a statement signed by the depositor certifying that the newly deposited biological material is the same as that originally deposited.

CHAPTER V Final provisions

Article 15

2. Member States shall communicate to the Commission the text of the provisions of national law which they adopt in the field covered by this Directive.

Article 16

The Commission shall send the European Parliament and the Council:

MEMO/00/39

Brussels, 3 July 2000

Legal protection of biotechnological inventions Frequently Asked Questions on scope and objectives of the EU Directive (98/44)

A number of questions have been raised recently concerning the Directive (98/44) of the EU's Council of Ministers and the European Parliament on the legal protection of biotechnological inventions, the so-called 'biotech patents Directive'. For example, there have been questions raised as to how the Directive affects access to the human genome data and possible restrictions on the research and applications for which this data could be used. The following set of answers to a number of Frequently Asked Questions (FAQ) is intended to clarify and explain the provisions of the Directive and to allay any concerns.

Why are patents necessary in the area of biotechnology?

Patents provide an incentive to innovation. Without the safeguard provided by patents, industry and other inventors would be unwilling to invest their time and money in research and development. This applies to biotechnology as well as any other area of technology. Indeed given the considerable amount of high risk investment that is often required in the area of biotechnology, particularly in the field of genetic engineering, adequate patent protection is even more essential to encourage the investment required to create jobs and maintain the European Union's competitiveness in this crucial field. Indeed, the key role of adequate patent protection in the creation of a dynamic; knowledge based economy was explicitly underlined by the March 2000 Lisbon Summit conclusions.

This is why Directive 98/44 on the legal protection of biotechnological inventions was proposed and, after lengthy and thorough discussions within the European Parliament and among Member States, adopted.

Much consideration was given during those discussions to the ethical aspects of biotechnological inventions. The resulting Directive both addresses these ethical aspects and provides the necessary incentives to encourage the research and development.

Can the discovery of DNA or the human genome be patented under the Biotech Patents Directive?

No. Neither DNA nor the human genome can be patented under the Biotech Patents Directive because they are not inventions but discoveries i.e. they existed already, they extend knowledge but that knowledge has thereafter to be applied to be technically useful.

The Directive states explicitly that discoveries cannot be patented. Yet, it also states that the patentability of an industrial process or a product received as a result of such a process is not prevented by the mere fact that during this industrial application DNA is used. In fact, in this case it is not the DNA as such that is patented but the industrial application or isolation process using DNA.

Surely all biotechnological inventions which deal with human, vegetable, or animal genes involve materials which already occur in nature and can therefore under no circumstances be invented, but only discovered?

Discoveries, which do not extend human ability, but only human knowledge, are by their very nature not patentable. This is certainly the case with the mere sequencing of a genome which belongs to the area of discovery and for that reason alone cannot be the subject of patent protection. The Directive confirms and reinforces this position.

It is different however if a DNA sequence is released from its natural surroundings by means of a technical procedure and is made available for the first time to a commercial application. Here there is a step taken from knowing to being able. Such a gene is new in the patent sense and therefore patentable, if it was not previously accessible to the public as such, and thus technically was not available.

The position that was agreed by both the European Parliament and the Council of Ministers after much discussion was that patents for inventions comprising of, or based on, gene sequences should be allowed. This position took account of the Opinion of the Group of Advisers on the Ethical Implications of Biotechnology to the European Commission. Indeed the Group of Advisers fully recognised the stimulus provided by patents for medical research.

The Directive therefore provides that inventions based, on or comprising of, gene sequences or partial gene sequences can be patented provided that they satisfy the normal criteria for any invention namely that they are novel, involve an inventive step and are capable of industrial application. In this last respect, the Directive took account of some of the controversy surrounding some of the earlier patent applications for gene sequences that were filed and indeed granted before the Directive was agreed. In particular the Directive makes clear that patents should not be granted where the application does not include specific reference to the industrial application of the gene sequence.

But isn't the Directive unclear on whether gene-based inventions can be patented?

The relevant provision in the Directive relating to this issue is Article 5. Concerns have been expressed is that there is a contradiction between the first two paragraphs of this article. The first paragraph provides that the human body, at the various stages of its formation and development, and the simple discovery of one of its elements, including the sequence or partial sequence of a gene cannot constitute patentable inventions (emphasis added). This paragraph is clearly in line with the basic principle that discoveries are not patentable.

The second paragraph of Article 5 states however that an element isolated from the human body or otherwise produced by means of a technical process, including the sequence or partial sequence of a gene, may constitute a patentable invention, even if the structure of that element is identical to that of a natural element. As noted above, the invention arises from the isolation of a particular gene from its natural surroundings by means of a technical process. Of course to be patentable, that invention would still need to satisfy the criteria of novelty, inventiveness and industrial applicability.

Paragraphs 1 and 2 are therefore consistent with each other.

Let us take a hypothetical example. Since the human genome provides information related to growth and repair, it may be possible to take a DNA sequence and to isolate from it a particular gene that relates to hair loss. Company A wants to develop a shampoo for baldness. It successfully develops a way to isolate the gene responsible for baldness from the DNA sequence. The underlying genetic material remains free - other researchers can do work on growth and repair. But the technique developed to isolate the gene is hugely complex, involving identification, purification and classification techniques which are costly to develop. Without human intervention, it would have been impossible to isolate the gene. The isolation process cannot therefore be said to occur in nature and the product the isolated gene - can be patented. It is a "new" in terms of patent law, involves an inventive step and has industrial applications. By taking out a patent, Company A has protected the considerable investment made in its invention.

But aren't the techniques for isolating and even determining the function of particular genes now becoming more routine?

The rapid advancement of the technology and our understanding in this area has indeed made the isolation and manufacture of genes more straightforward. It may also be possible now to deduce the function of a gene from a computer based comparison with other genes. These advances in technology are taken into account when a patent is examined in particular in respect of whether the invention in the patent application possesses an inventive step. If it is decided by either the patent offices or the national courts that there is no inventive step then the patent will either be refused or revoked.

But patents for gene based inventions will surely inhibit research in the area of gene technology and restrict access and use of the data on the human genome?

The raw fundamental data on the human genome that has been, and is still being, produced by the Human Genome Project (HUGO) and private sector companies is not patentable. Therefore access to that data will not be restricted or encumbered by patents. Intellectual property protection for gene based inventions will however play an important role in stimulating investment into using this raw data on the human genome to develop important new products, for example in the area of health care.

Moreover all patent systems in Europe include exceptions to the rights provided by a patent so as to allow for research and experimentation on the subject matter covered by a patent. In addition, safeguards such as compulsory licences are provided to ensure that patent holders do not abuse their rights for example by charging unreasonable fees for the use of their inventions.

Finally, the requirement to fully disclose the invention in the patent application brings into the public domain for use by other researchers information that might otherwise be kept secret.

Does the Directive allow for methods of cloning human beings to be patented?

No. Article 6 of the Directive clearly states that the following are not patentable on the basis that their commercial exploitation would be contrary to the public order or morality:

- Processes for cloning human beings;
- Processes for modifying the germ line genetic identity of human beings;
- Uses of human embryos for industrial and commercial purposes;
- Processes for modifying the genetic identity of animals which are likely to cause them suffering without any substantial medical benefit to man or animal, and also animals resulting from such processes.

This is precisely why European Patent EP 69 53 51 on transgenic stem cells granted by the European Patent Office to the University of Edinburgh in December 1999 would have been illegal under the terms of Article 6 of the Directive.

Does the Directive override national laws governing for example research activities?

No. The biotech patents Directive determines only what, in terms of patent law, can and cannot be patented. A patent does not give any positive right to use an invention. The use of any invention, and indeed the research and development leading up to that invention, are still governed by general national and European laws.

For example, take the case of genetically-modified organisms (GMOs). The biotech patents Directive makes it possible to patent both the process for genetically modifying plants and also the resulting plants, although not a particular variety of plant. However, if a Member State legislates against the planting of GMO crops, then the patent holder still cannot grow that crop in that Member State.

When must the Directive be implemented by the Member States?

The Directive must be implemented by the 30th July 2000. The Commission is working with the Member States to help them to implement the Directive correctly and on time and has already started to receive notifications of implementing regulations from the Member States.

As the Netherlands has already challenged the legality of this Directive, what incentive is there for Member States to implement it by the 30th July deadline?

The Biotech Patents Directive was approved by a majority of Member States and by the European Parliament in 1998 after lengthy discussions. It is hence existing Community law. EU rules provide that any Member State may challenge EU legislation, for example regarding the underlying legal base. However, until such time that the European Court of Justice has ruled on the issue (and the timing of that is up to the Court), all Member States are bound by the existing law. In this case the ECJ has not yet set a date for a hearing and so all Member States must implement the Directive by 30th July.

Does the Commission plan any further initiatives in the area of patents and biotechnology?

No. That said, as with all legislation, the Commission will monitor the Directive to ensure that its scope of protection remains relevant to the rapid technological developments that are likely in this field and also that it remains in line with the public's attitude to this area of technology. As required by the Directive, the Commission will make reports to the European Parliament and to the Council on a regular basis on the development and implications of patent law in the field of biotechnology and genetic engineering.

Commission welcomes changes to EU law to allow export of patented medicine to countries in need

The European Commission today welcomes the adoption by the European Council of a regulation allowing companies to produce copies of patented medicines under license for export to "countries in need" without sufficient capacity to produce them. The regulation implements within the EU the necessary conditions to meet a WTO Agreement of December 2005, under which national authorities can grant compulsory licences for such production if certain conditions are fulfilled. Yesterday, the European Commission formally recommended that Member States approve EU ratification of the historic changes to WTO law. Today's move is a clear signal of their intention to do so. The compulsory licensing regulation represents a crucial measure for some of the poorest countries in the world, which will gain improved access to affordable medicines which are safe and effective.

Internal Market and Services Commissioner Charlie McCreevy said: "This regulation is a key element in ensuring access to affordable medicines for poor countries. Its rapid adoption highlights the EU's commitment to the implementation of the WTO Decision. Countries in need will acquire affordable medicines which are safe and effective and at the same time the patent system will continue to support investment in the research and development of new medicines".

Trade Commissioner Peter Mandelson said: "This is an important EU contribution to the fight against killer diseases in developing countries. It shows that the EU is committed to the WTO process, and to ensuring that the WTO system can respond to the public health concerns of poor countries in need of affordable medicines."

What was agreed in the WTO in December 2005?

On 6 December 2005, the WTO Members agreed to amend the Agreement on Trade-Related Aspects of Intellectual Property Rights (TRIPS Agreement). This amendment would make permanent a provisional decision on compulsory licensing originally adopted on 30 August 2003. The WTO General Council has submitted the proposed amendment to the WTO Members for acceptance. Once accepted and in force, this amendment will complete a process that began in 2001 with the Doha Declaration on the TRIPS Agreement and Public Health. The EU strongly supported these changes at every stage.

The existing rules on intellectual property provide that compulsory licences can only be authorised predominantly for the supply of the domestic market. The amendment will allow any WTO Member to export pharmaceutical products made under compulsory licence for the purpose of supplying developing countries with no or insufficient manufacturing capacities in the pharmaceutical sector. The new rules will be formally incorporated into the TRIPS Agreement.

The amendment will take effect for the Members that have accepted it when two thirds of the WTO Members accept the amendment. WTO Members have set themselves until 1 December 2007 to do this. The waiver decision remains in force for each Member until the amendment becomes effective for that Member.

What is being changed at the European level?

The regulation creates a mechanism in line with the WTO General Council Decision of August 2003 so that companies in the EU can apply for a licence to manufacture, without the authorisation of the patent holder, pharmaceutical products for export to countries in need of medicines and facing public health problems. There is no specific restriction on the pharmaceutical products covered, although there is acknowledgement that they are required to address public health problems since that is the context of the Decision.

It represents an instrument that will allow the compulsory licensing procedure of the WTO decision to fit within the context of Member States' national patent law and their compulsory licensing procedures. This is to give transparency and clarity for those companies operating within the EU's internal market and wishing to apply for compulsory licences for export to countries in need.

Provided countries in need notify to the WTO the medicines they need, it would be up to generic companies to decide to apply for licences to manufacture them.

Once export takes place, all parties have an interest in seeing that medicines are not diverted from those who need them. The regulation prohibits re-importation into the EU and provides for customs authorities to take action against goods being re-imported. The patent holder can use existing national procedures to enforce its rights against re-imported goods if they do enter the EU, and the licence can be terminated.

The regulation also foresees a role for non-governmental and international organisations as being potentially involved in any purchasing procedures and able to make requests on behalf of an importing country with that country's approval.

Safety and efficacy of medicines for export can be certified through the EU's scientific opinion procedure, or equivalent national procedures. The EU felt this was a necessary complement to the licensing mechanism in order to assist importing countries.

Proposal for a

REGULATION OF THE EUROPEAN PARLIAMENT AND OF THE COUNCIL

on compulsory licensing of patents relating to the manufacture of pharmaceutical products for export to countries with public health problems

(presented by the Commission)

{SEC(2004) 1348}

EXPLANATORY MEMORANDUM

1. BACKGROUND

This proposal aims to implement at Community level the WTO General Council Decision of 30 August 2003 on the Implementation of Paragraph 6 of the Declaration on the TRIPs Agreement and Public Health (WT/L/540 of 2 September 2003).

By waiving WTO Members' obligations under Article 31(f) of the WTO Agreement on Trade Related Aspects of Intellectual Property Rights (TRIPs Agreement), this Decision allows WTO Members to grant compulsory licences for the production and sale of patented pharmaceutical products intended for export to third countries with insufficient or no manufacturing capacity in the pharmaceutical sector. It includes substantial safeguards against trade diversion and rules to ensure transparency, and provides for future replacement of the Decision by an amendment to the TRIPs Agreement.

2. NEED FOR A COMMUNITY INTERVENTION

Given the active role played by the European Communities and their Member States in the adoption of the Decision, their commitment made at the WTO to fully contribute to the implementation of the Decision and their appeal to all WTO Members to ensure that the right conditions are put in place to allow the system set up by the Decision to operate efficiently, it is important for the Community to contribute to the system set up by the Decision through implementation in the Community legal order.

Within the Community uniform implementation of the Decision is needed to ensure that the conditions for the granting of compulsory licences for export are the same in all EU Member States, to avoid distortion of competition for operators in the EU single market and to apply uniform rules to prevent re-importation into the territory of the European Union of pharmaceutical products manufactured under compulsory licences.

In view also of the very specific nature of the provisions of the Decision, the fact that national arrangements for compulsory licensing already exist, and the need for urgent action to allow for the export of medicines to countries with public health problems, the Commission proposes implementation by way of a Regulation based on Articles 95 and 133 of the Treaty.

3. PROPOSED PROVISIONS

Article 1

The Regulation sets out a procedure and conditions for the grant of compulsory licences in line with the Decision. While supplementary protection certificates are not mentioned in the Decision, within the EU they entail the same effects as patents and so are included.

Article 2

The definition of the term "pharmaceutical product" is taken from the Decision, with text to reflect the definition of medicinal product in Directive 2001/83/EC.

Article 3

The competent authorities for granting compulsory licences pursuant to the Regulation will be those notified by the Member States.

Article 4

Eligibility is based on notifications and declarations to the WTO.

Article 5

This includes key elements of information required under the Decision and the TRIPs Agreement. The requirement to provide evidence of a specific request to the applicant by the importing country or from its authorised representatives should help ensure effective control of the amount of product supplied under compulsory licences.

Article 6

Competent authorities should verify whether basic conditions to trigger the system set out in the Decision have been met.

Article 7

Paragraph 1 reflects Article 31(b) of the TRIPs Agreement. While the TRIPs Agreement allows this requirement to be waived in the case of a national emergency or other circumstances of extreme urgency, here it is retained (paragraph 2) in view of the speed of modern communications and the desirability of voluntary agreements.

Article 8

This provision takes over the conditions set out in paragraph 2(b) of the Decision. In addition it reflects conditions usually found in licensing agreements.

Article 9

This specifies under which conditions a competent authority can refuse an application.

Article 10

Paragraph 2(c) of the Decision requires the exporting Member to notify the WTO Council for TRIPS about the grant of any licence. As the Commission is the usual interlocutor before the WTO for matters falling under the Common Commercial Policy, such notifications should be made via the Commission.

Articles 11 – 13

These are based on equivalent provisions in Council Regulation (EC) No 953/2003 on trade diversion.

Article 14

Termination of the licence is provided for if (a) the licence conditions are not respected, or (b) the circumstances which led to grant of the licence cease to exist (Article 31(g) of the TRIPs Agreement).

Article 15

Article 31(i) and 31(j)) of the TRIPs Agreement require provision to be made for review of decisions.

Article 16

As the licensee will not necessarily hold a medicinal products marketing authorisation within the EU for the product manufactured under a compulsory licence for export, the Regulation provides for licensees to ask for a scientific opinion from the European or national regulatory authorities if they should need this for export to the country concerned. Derogations from data protection and caducity rules are provided.

Article 17

This provides for review three years after entry into force of the Regulation.

Proposal for a

REGULATION OF THE EUROPEAN PARLIAMENT AND OF THE COUNCIL

on compulsory licensing of patents relating to the manufacture of pharmaceutical products for export to countries with public health problems

THE EUROPEAN PARLIAMENT AND THE COUNCIL OF THE EUROPEAN UNION,

Having regard to the Treaty establishing the European Community, and in particular Articles 95 and 133 thereof,

Having regard to the proposal from the Commission¹,

Having regard to the opinion of the European Economic and Social Committee²,

Acting in accordance with the procedure laid down in Article 251 of the Treaty³,

Whereas:

- (1) On 14 November 2001 the Fourth Ministerial Conference of the World Trade Organisation (WTO) adopted the Doha Declaration on the TRIPS Agreement and Public Health. The Declaration recognises that each WTO Member has the right to grant compulsory licences and the freedom to determine the grounds upon which such licences are granted. It also recognises that WTO Members with insufficient or no manufacturing capacities in the pharmaceutical sector could face difficulties in making effective use of compulsory licensing.
- (2) On 30 August 2003 the General Council of the WTO adopted the Decision on the implementation of Paragraph 6 of the Doha Declaration on the TRIPS Agreement and Public Health, hereinafter “the Decision”. Subject to conditions, the Decision waives certain obligations concerning the issue of compulsory licences set out in the TRIPS Agreement, to address the needs of WTO Members with insufficient manufacturing capacity.
- (3) Given the Community’s active role in the adoption of the Decision, its commitment made at the WTO to fully contribute to the implementation of the Decision and its appeal to all WTO Members to ensure that conditions are put in place which will allow the system set up by the Decision to operate efficiently, it is important for the Community to implement the Decision in its legal order.

³ OJ C [...] [...], p.[...]

- (4) Uniform implementation of the Decision is needed to ensure that the conditions for the granting of compulsory licences for export are the same in all Member States and to avoid distortion of competition for operators in the single market. Uniform rules should also be applied to prevent re-importation into the territory of the Community of pharmaceutical products manufactured pursuant to this Regulation.
- (5) This Regulation is intended to be part of the wider European and international action to address public health problems faced by least developed countries and other developing countries, and in particular to improve access to affordable medicines.
- (6) As the compulsory licensing system set up by this Regulation is intended to address public health problems, it should be used in good faith. It should not be used with the primary purpose of addressing other objectives, and in particular objectives of a purely commercial nature.
- (7) Products manufactured pursuant to this Regulation should reach those who need them and should not be diverted from those for whom they were intended. Compulsory licences issued under this Regulation should therefore impose clear conditions upon the licensee as regards the acts covered by the licence, the identification of the pharmaceutical products manufactured under the licence and the countries to which these products will be exported.
- (8) Provision should be made for customs action at external borders to deal with products manufactured and sold for export under a compulsory licence and which a person attempts to re-import into the territory of the Community.
- (9) To avoid facilitating overproduction and possible diversion of products, competent authorities should take into account existing compulsory licences for the same products and countries, as well as parallel applications indicated by the applicant,
- (10) Since the objectives of the action to be taken, in particular the establishment of harmonised procedures for the granting of compulsory licences which contribute to the effective implementation of the system set up by the Decision, cannot be sufficiently achieved by the Member States because of the options available to exporting countries under the Decision and can therefore, by reason of the potential effects on operators in the internal market, be better achieved at Community level, the Community may adopt measures, in accordance with the principle of subsidiarity as set out in Article 5 of the Treaty. In accordance with the principle of proportionality, as set out in that Article, this Regulation does not go beyond what is necessary in order to achieve those objectives.

HAVE ADOPTED THIS REGULATION:

Article 1

This Regulation establishes a procedure for the grant of compulsory licences in relation to patents and supplementary protection certificates concerning the manufacture and sale of pharmaceutical products, when such products are intended for export to eligible WTO members affected by public health problems.

Member States shall grant a compulsory licence to any person making an application in accordance with Article 5 and subject to the conditions set out in Articles 5 – 8.

Article 2

For the purposes of this Regulation, the following definitions shall apply:

- (1) “pharmaceutical product” means any product of the pharmaceutical sector, including medicinal products as defined in Article 1(2) of Directive 2001/83/EC of the European Parliament and of the Council⁴, active ingredients and diagnostic kits;
- (2) “right holder” means the holder of any patent or SPC in relation to which a compulsory licence has been applied for under this Regulation; in cases where more than one right holder is involved, for the purposes of this Regulation the singular term should be read as plural;
- (3) “importing WTO member” means the name of the WTO member to which the pharmaceutical product is to be exported;

Article 3

The competent authorities in the Member States for granting compulsory licences under this Regulation shall be those which have competence for the granting of compulsory licences under national patent law, unless the Member State concerned determines otherwise.

Member States shall notify the Commission of the competent authorities designated for the purposes of this Regulation.

Notifications shall be published in the Official Journal of the European Union.

Article 4

The following are eligible importing WTO members:

- (a) any least-developed country member of WTO
- (b) any other member of WTO that has made a notification to the Council for TRIPs of its intention to use the system as an importer, including whether it will use the system in whole or in a limited way.

However, any WTO member that has made a declaration to the WTO that it will not use the system as an importing WTO member is not an eligible importing WTO member.

Article 5

1. Any person may submit an application for a compulsory licence under this Regulation to a competent authority in the Member State or States where patents or supplementary protection certificates have effect and cover his intended activities of manufacture and sale for export.
2. If the person applying for a compulsory licence is submitting applications to competent authorities in more than one Member State for the same product, he shall indicate that in each application, together with details of the quantities and importing WTO members concerned.
3. The application pursuant to paragraph 1 shall set out the following:
 - (a) the name and contact details of the applicant and of any agent or representative the applicant has appointed to act for him before the competent authority;
 - (b) the name of the pharmaceutical product or products the applicant intends to manufacture and sell for export under the compulsory licence, including any additional information needed to ensure the precise identification of the product or products in question;
 - (c) identification of the patent(s) and/or supplementary protection certificate(s) in respect of which a compulsory licence is sought;
 - (d) the amount of pharmaceutical product which the applicant seeks to produce under the compulsory licence;
 - (e) the importing WTO member or members;
 - (f) evidence of prior negotiation with the right holder pursuant to Article 7;
 - (g) evidence of a specific request to the applicant from authorised representatives of the importing WTO member and indicating quantity of product required.
4. The competent authority may prescribe additional formal or administrative requirements for efficient processing of the application.

Article 6

1. The competent authority shall verify that each importing WTO member cited in the application has made a notification to the WTO pursuant to the Decision of 30 August 2003 of the General Council of the WTO on the implementation of Paragraph 6 of the Doha Declaration on the TRIPS Agreement and Public Health, hereinafter “the Decision” in respect of each of the products covered by the application that:
 - (a) specifies the names and expected quantities of the product(s) needed;
 - (b) unless the importing WTO member is a least-developed country, confirms that the importing WTO member has established that it either has no manufacturing capacities in the pharmaceutical sector or has examined its manufacturing capacity in that sector and found that, excluding any capacity owned or controlled by the right holder, it is currently insufficient for meeting its needs;

- (c) confirms that where a pharmaceutical product is patented in the territory of the importing WTO member, that WTO member has granted or intends to grant a compulsory licence for import of the product concerned in accordance with Article 31 of the TRIPS Agreement and the provisions of the Decision.
2. The competent authority shall verify that the quantity of product cited in the application does not exceed that notified to the WTO by the importing WTO member(s), and that, taking into account other compulsory licences ordered in the Community, the total amount of product authorised to be produced for any importing WTO member does not significantly exceed the amount notified to the WTO by that member.

Article 7

The applicant shall provide evidence to satisfy the competent authority that he has made efforts to obtain authorisation from the right holder on reasonable commercial terms and conditions and that such efforts have not been successful within a reasonable period of time.

The determination of a reasonable period of time shall take into account whether the importing WTO member has declared a situation of national emergency or other circumstances of extreme urgency.

Article 8

1. The licence granted shall be non-exclusive and non-assignable. It shall contain the specific conditions set out in paragraphs 2 to 8 to be fulfilled by the licensee.
2. The amount of patented product(s) manufactured under the licence shall not exceed what is necessary to meet the needs of the importing WTO member or members cited in the application.
3. The licence shall be strictly limited to the acts of manufacturing the product in question and selling for export to the WTO member or members cited in the application. No product made under the compulsory licence shall be offered for sale or put on the market in any country other than the WTO member(s) cited in the application.
4. Products made under the licence shall be clearly identified, through specific labelling or marking, as being produced pursuant to this Regulation. The products shall be distinguished from those made by the right holder through special packaging. The packaging and any associated literature shall bear an indication that the product is subject of a compulsory licence under this Regulation, giving the name of the competent authority and any identifying reference number, and specifying clearly that the product is exclusively for export to and sale in the importing WTO member or members concerned. Unless the applicant proves that such distinction is not feasible or has a significant impact on price, special colouring or shaping of the products themselves shall also be required.

5. Before shipment to the importing WTO member or members cited in the application, the licensee shall post on a website the following information:
 - (a) the quantities being supplied under the licence and the WTO members to which they are supplied
 - (b) the distinguishing features of the product or products concerned.The website address shall be communicated to the competent authority.
6. If the product(s) covered by the compulsory licence are patented in the importing WTO members cited in the application, the product(s) shall only be exported if those countries have issued a compulsory licence for the import and sale of the products.
7. The licensee shall keep complete and accurate books and records of all quantities of product manufactured and of all dealings therein. The licensee shall make these books and records available on request to an independent person agreed by the parties, or otherwise appointed by the competent authority, for the sole purpose of checking whether the terms of the licence, and in particular those relating to the final destination of the products, have been met.
8. The licensee shall be required to provide proof of exportation of the product, through a declaration of exportation certified by the customs authority concerned, and proof of importation or putting on the market certified by an authority of the importing WTO member, and shall retain such records for at least three years. Upon request these proofs must be supplied to the competent authority.
9. The licensee shall be responsible for the payment of adequate remuneration to the right holder as determined by the competent authority taking into account the economic value of the use that has been authorised under the licence to the importing WTO member(s) concerned.

Article 9

The competent authority shall refuse an application if any of the conditions set out in Article 5 (3) and (4) and Articles 6, 7 and 8 is not met. Before refusing an application, the competent authority shall give the applicant an opportunity to rectify the situation and to be heard.

Article 10

1. When a compulsory licence has been granted the competent authority shall notify the Commission of the grant of the licence, and of the specific conditions attached to it.

The information provided shall include the following details of the licence:

 - (a) the name and address of the licensee;
 - (b) the product or products concerned;
 - (c) the quantity to be supplied;

- (d) the country or countries to which the product or products are to be exported;
 - (e) the duration of the licence;
 - (f) the address of the website referred to in Article 8 (5).
2. The Commission shall forward the information referred to in paragraph 1 to the Council for TRIPS.

Article 11

1. It is prohibited to import into the Community products subject of a compulsory licence under this Regulation for the purposes of release for free circulation, re-export, placing under suspensive procedures or placing in a free zone or free warehouse.
2. Paragraph 1 shall not apply in the case of re-export to the importing WTO member cited in the application and identified in the packaging and documentation associated with the product, or placing under a transit or customs warehouse procedure or in a free zone or free warehouse for the purpose of re-export to that importing WTO member.

Article 12

1. Where there is reason to suspect that, contrary to Article 11(1), products subject of a compulsory licence under this Regulation are being imported into the Community, customs authorities shall suspend the release of, or detain, the products concerned for the time necessary to obtain a decision of the relevant national authority on the character of the merchandise. The period of suspension or detention shall not exceed 10 working days unless special circumstances apply, in which case the period may be extended by a maximum of 10 working days. Upon expiry of that period, the products shall be released, provided that all customs formalities have been complied with.
2. The relevant national authority and the manufacturer or exporter of the products concerned shall be informed without delay of the suspended release or detention of the products and shall receive all information available with respect to the products concerned. Due account shall be taken of national provisions on the protection of personal data, commercial and industrial secrecy and professional and administrative confidentiality. The importer, and where appropriate, the exporter, shall be given ample opportunity to supply the relevant national authority with the information which it deems appropriate regarding the products.
3. The procedure of suspension or detention of the goods is carried out at the expense of the importer. If it is not possible to recover those expenses from the importer, they may, in accordance with national legislation, be recovered from any other person responsible for the attempted illicit importation.
4. If the relevant national authority finds that products suspended for release or detained by customs authorities were intended for import into the Community contrary to the prohibition in Article 11 (1), that authority shall ensure that these products are seized and disposed of in accordance with national legislation. These procedures are carried out at the expense of the importer. If it is not possible to recover these expenses from the importer, they may, in accordance with national legislation, be recovered from any other person responsible for the attempted illicit importation.

5. Where products suspended for release or detained by customs authorities subsequent to further control by the relevant national authority are found not to violate the prohibition in Article 11(1), the customs authority shall release the products to the consignee, provided that all customs formalities have been complied with.
6. The relevant national authority shall inform the Commission of any decisions on seizure or destruction which are adopted pursuant to this Regulation.

Article 13

Articles 11 and 12 shall not apply to goods of a non-commercial nature contained in travellers' personal luggage for personal use within the limits laid down in respect of relief from customs duty.

Article 14

1. Subject to adequate protection of the legitimate interests of the licensee, a compulsory licence granted pursuant to this Regulation may be terminated by a decision of the competent authority or by one of the bodies referred to under Article 16 in either of the following cases:
 - (a) if the conditions of the licence are not respected by the licensee;
 - (b) if and when the circumstances which led to the grant of the licence cease to exist and are unlikely to recur.

The competent authority shall have the authority to review, on its own initiative or upon reasoned request by the right holder or the licensee, whether either of those situations applies.

- (2) Termination of a licence granted under this Regulation shall be notified to the Commission who shall inform the WTO.
- (3) Within a reasonable time following termination of the licence the licensee shall arrange for any product in his possession, custody, power or control to be redirected at his expense to countries in need or otherwise as prescribed by the competent authority in consultation with the right holder.

Article 15

Appeals against any decision of the competent authority, and disputes concerning compliance with the conditions of the licence, shall be heard by the appropriate body responsible under national law.

Article 16

1. Where the application for a compulsory licence concerns a medicinal product authorised in accordance with Article 6 of Directive 2001/83/EC, the provisions of Article 24(4) and (5) and of Article 14(4) and (5) of Regulation (EC) No 726/2004 of the European Parliament and the Council⁵ shall not apply.

For the purpose of the application of this paragraph, and by way of derogation from Article 10(1) of Directive 2001/83/EC, the applicant shall not be required to provide the results of pre-clinical tests and of clinical trials if he can demonstrate that the product concerned is a generic of a reference medicinal product which is or has been authorised under Article 6 of that Directive or under Article 3 of Regulation (EC) No 726/2004.

2. Where the application for a compulsory licence concerns a medicinal product and the applicant for the compulsory licence is not the holder of a marketing authorisation valid within the Community for the product concerned, he may avail himself of the scientific opinion procedure provided for under Article 58 of Regulation (EC) No 726/2004 or any similar procedure provided under national law.
3. For the purposes of obtaining a scientific opinion under paragraph (2) and by way of derogation from Article 10(1) of Directive 2001/83/EC, the applicant shall not be required to provide the results of pre-clinical tests and of clinical trials if he can demonstrate that the product concerned is a generic of a reference medicinal product which is or has been authorised under Article 6 of that Directive or Article 3 of Regulation (EC) No 726/2004.

Article 17

Three years after the entry into force of this Regulation, the Commission shall present a report to the European Parliament, the Council, and the European Economic and Social Committee on the operation of this Regulation and the contribution it has made to the implementation of the system established by the Decision.

Article 18

This Regulation shall enter into force on the twentieth day following that of its publication in the Official Journal of the European Union.

5. DESCRIPTION AND GROUNDS

5.1. Need for Community intervention ⁷

5.1.1. Objectives pursued

The proposal implements at EU level the WTO General Council Decision of 30 August 2003 which sets out a mechanism in national patent law to allow the manufacture and export of pharmaceutical products to countries in need without the authorisation of the patent holder. At present exports without such authorisation may not take place. The aim of this mechanism is to facilitate access to affordable medicines for people in developing countries which do not have sufficient manufacturing capacity themselves. Intervention at Community level is required in view of the Community's involvement in external negotiations and the need to avoid differences in application and distortions of competition affecting operators within the Internal Market.

5.1.2. Measures taken in connection with ex ante evaluation

The WTO General Council Decision is the result of several years' negotiation on the basis of EU positions coordinated in the Article 133 Committee.

5.1.3. Measures taken following ex post evaluation

Not applicable

5.2. Action envisaged and budget intervention arrangements

The proposed mechanism is a voluntary one both for the countries in need who seek to obtain affordable medicines and the companies who intend to supply them. Once the legislation comes into force, compulsory licences will be granted by national authorities on the basis of applications from companies and notifications by developing countries that they require particular pharmaceutical products. No financial assistance is involved.

5.3. Methods of implementation

After adoption of the draft legislation by the Council and European Parliament, it will be MS national authorities who grant compulsory licences.

8. FOLLOW-UP AND EVALUATION

8.1. Follow-up arrangements

8.2. Arrangements and schedule for the planned evaluation

Use of the mechanism envisaged by the proposal is optional for business; on-going evaluation will be possible through analysis of the notifications made to the WTO and the Commission for every compulsory licence granted under the Regulation. Report and review is proposed in the Regulation itself five years after entry into force.

Proposal for a

COUNCIL DECISION

accepting, on behalf of the European Community, of the Protocol amending the Agreement on Trade-Related Aspects of Intellectual Property Rights (TRIPS), done at Geneva on 6 December 2005

(presented by the Commission)

EXPLANATORY MEMORANDUM

Objective of this proposal This proposal for a Council Decision aims at accepting, on behalf of the European Community, the Protocol amending the Agreement on Trade-Related Aspects of Intellectual Property Rights (hereinafter referred to as the TRIPS Agreement), done at Geneva on 6 December 2005. On 6 December 2005, the General Council of the World Trade Organization (hereinafter referred to as the WTO) submitted a proposed amendment to the TRIPS Agreement to the WTO Members for acceptance. This amendment would make permanent a waiver decision on compulsory licences originally adopted in 2003. Once accepted and in force, this amendment will complete a process that began with the Declaration on the TRIPS Agreement and Public Health that ministers made at the Doha Ministerial Conference in November 2001. This is the first time that a core WTO agreement is amended. The Doha Declaration on TRIPS and Public Health On 14 November 2001 at Doha, the Fourth Session of the WTO Ministerial Conference adopted the Declaration on the TRIPS Agreement and Public Health. The Doha Declaration clarifies the relationship between the TRIPS Agreement and public health policies of WTO Members, confirming the right of Members to issue compulsory licences on patents for reasons of public health. As to WTO Members with no manufacturing capacity in the pharmaceutical sector, which could not import medicines they needed, Paragraph 6 of the Doha Declaration instructed the Council for TRIPS to find an expeditious solution to this problem. The waiver decision of 30 August 2003 On 30 August 2003, the WTO General Council adopted the decision on the implementation of Paragraph 6 of the Doha Declaration on the TRIPs Agreement and Public Health. This decision allows WTO Members to export patented medicines to third countries with no manufacturing capacity in the pharmaceutical sector, by making use of compulsory licences. It includes substantial safeguards against trade diversion and rules to ensure transparency. The decision was accompanied by a statement by the chair of the General Council, describing Members' shared understanding on how the decision is interpreted and implemented. It says the decision will be used in good faith in order to deal with public health problems and not for industrial or commercial policy objectives. It stipulates that issues such as preventing the medicines getting into the wrong hands are important. In order to make sure that the system would be aimed at relieving the neediest, developed country Members of the WTO (among which all EU Member States¹) have taken the commitment not to use the system as importers. High income developing country members have made a statement that they would not use the system except in exceptional circumstances. All WTO Members have the right to act as exporters. The 30 August 2003 decision takes the form of a provisional waiver in the meaning of Article IX:3 of the Marrakech Agreement Establishing the World Trade Organization (hereinafter referred to as the WTO Agreement) and provides for its replacement by an amendment to the TRIPS Agreement, on which work was to be completed by mid 2004. Following the waiver, the Commission has proposed to the European Parliament and the Council the adoption of a Regulation on compulsory licensing of patents relating to the manufacture of pharmaceutical products for export to countries with public health problems², the adoption of which is imminent. The decision of 6 December 2005 The decision of 6 December 2005 is intended to transform the 30 August 2003 waiver decision into a permanent amendment of the TRIPS Agreement. The amendment will allow any WTO Member to export pharmaceutical products made under a compulsory licence for the purpose of supplying developing countries with insufficient manufacturing capacities. It will ensure a legally secure, predictable, effective and sustainable solution for those countries which want to use the system to get affordable medicines they need. The new rules will be formally incorporated into the TRIPS Agreement. In accordance with Paragraph 3 of Article X of the WTO Agreement, the amendment takes effect for the Members that have accepted it when two thirds of the WTO Members accept the amendment and thereafter for each other Member upon acceptance by it. WTO Members have set themselves until 1 December 2007 to do this. The waiver remains in force for each Member until the amendment becomes effective for that Member. The amendment is designed to match the 30 August 2003 decision as closely as possible. Other procedures used in 2003 are also matched, including the statement by the chair of the WTO General Council. In order to achieve this, the 6 December 2005 decision ensures that the legal meaning and weight, and the relationship between the statement and the new rules, are preserved as exactly as possible. This reflects the approach that the EC had defended in the WTO. A group of developed countries, including the European Community, is listed as announcing that they will not use the system to import. A number of other countries announced separately that if they use the system as importers it would only be for emergencies or extremely urgent situations. Contents of the amendment The amendment itself is composed of three parts: Five paragraphs come under Article 31bis (i.e. an additional article after Article 31). The first allows pharmaceutical products made under compulsory licences to be exported to countries lacking production capacity. Other paragraphs deal with avoiding double remuneration to the patent owner, regional trade agreements involving least-developed countries, non-violation and situation complaints, and retaining all existing flexibilities under the TRIPS Agreement. A further seven paragraphs are in a new annex to the TRIPS Agreement. These set out terms for using the system, and cover such issues as definitions, notification and transparency, avoiding the pharmaceuticals being diverted to the wrong markets, developing regional systems to allow economies of scale, and annual review in the Council for TRIPS. An appendix to the annex deals with assessing lack of manufacturing capability in the importing country. This was originally an annex to the 2003 decision. The new Article 31bis and annex of the TRIPS Agreement are attached to the Protocol of amendment. This is attached to a WTO General Council decision, which adopts the Protocol and opens it for Members to accept it by 1 December 2007. |

Conclusion of the Protocol The European Commission participated, on behalf of the European Community, in the negotiation of the Protocol. In accordance with paragraph 5 of Article 133 of the EC Treaty, the European Community is competent to conclude agreements in the field of commercial aspects of intellectual property. Therefore, the Protocol should be accepted on behalf of the European Community. Following the adoption of the Regulation of the European Parliament and the Council on compulsory licensing of patents relating to the manufacture of pharmaceutical products for export to countries with public health problems, the Community will have an exclusive competence over this matter. Member States should therefore not accept the Protocol. The President of the Council shall be authorised to designate the person empowered to deposit the instrument of acceptance of the Protocol with the WTO Director-General. In its instrument of acceptance, the European Community shall also confirm, in accordance with Article 300 paragraph 7 of the EC Treaty, that the Protocol will be binding on its Member States. For these reasons, the Commission proposes to the Council to adopt the attached decision. |

Having regard to the proposal from the Commission[1],

Having regard to the assent of the European Parliament[2],

Whereas:

- (1) On 14 November 2001 at Doha, the Fourth Session of the Ministerial Conference of the World Trade Organisation (hereinafter referred to as the WTO) adopted the Declaration on the TRIPS Agreement and Public Health (WT/MIN(01)/DEC/2).
- (2) Paragraph 6 of this Declaration instructed the Council for TRIPS to find an expeditious solution to the problem of the difficulties that WTO Members with insufficient or no manufacturing capacities in the pharmaceutical sector could face in making effective use of compulsory licensing under the Agreement on Trade-Related Aspects of Intellectual Property Rights (hereinafter referred to as the TRIPS Agreement).
- (3) On 30 August 2003, the WTO General Council adopted a temporary decision implementing paragraph 6 of the Declaration on the TRIPS Agreement and Public Health.
- (4) Paragraph 11 of the 30 August 2003 decision provides that this decision, including the waivers granted in it, shall terminate for each Member on the date on which an amendment to the TRIPS Agreement replacing its provisions takes effect for that Member.
- (5) On 6 December 2005, in order to transform the 30 August 2003 decision into an amendment of the TRIPS Agreement, the WTO General Council adopted a Protocol amending the TRIPS Agreement and submitted it to the Members of the WTO for acceptance.
- (6) Paragraph 3 of the Protocol provides that this Protocol shall be open for acceptance by Members until 1 December 2007 or such later date as may be decided by the Ministerial Conference.
- (7) The European Commission participated, on behalf of the European Community, in the negotiation of the Protocol.
- (8) In accordance with paragraph 5 of Article 133 of the EC Treaty, the European Community is competent to conclude agreements in the field of commercial aspects of intellectual property.
- (9) The Protocol should be accepted on behalf of the European Community.
- (10) In its instrument of acceptance, the European Community shall also confirm, in accordance with Article 300 paragraph 7 of the EC Treaty, that the Protocol will be binding on its Member States,

HAS DECIDED AS FOLLOWS:

Hereby agree as follows:

1. The Agreement on Trade-Related Aspects of Intellectual Property Rights (the "TRIPS Agreement") shall, upon the entry into force of the Protocol pursuant to paragraph 4, be amended as set out in the Annex to this Protocol, by inserting Article 31 bis after Article 31 and by inserting the Annex to the TRIPS Agreement after Article 73.
2. Reservations may not be entered in respect of any of the provisions of this Protocol without the consent of the other Members.
3. This Protocol shall be open for acceptance by Members until 1 December 2007 or such later date as may be decided by the Ministerial Conference.
4. This Protocol shall enter into force in accordance with paragraph 3 of Article X of the WTO Agreement.
5. This Protocol shall be deposited with the Director-General of the World Trade Organization who shall promptly furnish to each Member a certified copy thereof and a notification of each acceptance thereof pursuant to paragraph 3.

6. This Protocol shall be registered in accordance with the provisions of Article 102 of the Charter of the United Nations.

Done at Geneva this sixth day of December two thousand and five, in a single copy in the English, French and Spanish languages, each text being authentic.

ANNEX TO THE PROTOCOL AMENDING THE TRIPS AGREEMENT

Article 31bis

1. The obligations of an exporting Member under Article 31(f) shall not apply with respect to the grant by it of a compulsory licence to the extent necessary for the purposes of production of a pharmaceutical product(s) and its export to an eligible importing Member(s) in accordance with the terms set out in paragraph 2 of the Annex to this Agreement.

2. Where a compulsory licence is granted by an exporting Member under the system set out in this Article and the Annex to this Agreement, adequate remuneration pursuant to Article 31(h) shall be paid in that Member taking into account the economic value to the importing Member of the use that has been authorized in the exporting Member. Where a compulsory licence is granted for the same products in the eligible importing Member, the obligation of that Member under Article 31(h) shall not apply in respect of those products for which remuneration in accordance with the first sentence of this paragraph is paid in the exporting Member.

3. With a view to harnessing economies of scale for the purposes of enhancing purchasing power for, and facilitating the local production of, pharmaceutical products: where a developing or least-developed country WTO Member is a party to a regional trade agreement within the meaning of Article XXIV of the GATT 1994 and the Decision of 28 November 1979 on Differential and More Favourable Treatment Reciprocity and Fuller Participation of Developing Countries (L/4903), at least half of the current membership of which is made up of countries presently on the United Nations list of least-developed countries, the obligation of that Member under Article 31(f) shall not apply to the extent necessary to enable a pharmaceutical product produced or imported under a compulsory licence in that Member to be exported to the markets of those other developing or least-developed country parties to the regional trade agreement that share the health problem in question. It is understood that this will not prejudice the territorial nature of the patent rights in question.

4. Members shall not challenge any measures taken in conformity with the provisions of this Article and the Annex to this Agreement under subparagraphs 1(b) and 1(c) of Article XXIII of GATT 1994.

5. This Article and the Annex to this Agreement are without prejudice to the rights, obligations and flexibilities that Members have under the provisions of this Agreement other than paragraphs (f) and (h) of Article 31, including those reaffirmed by the Declaration on the TRIPS Agreement and Public Health (WT/MIN(01)/DEC/2), and to their interpretation. They are also without prejudice to the extent to which pharmaceutical products produced under a compulsory licence can be exported under the provisions of Article 31(f).

ANNEX TO THE TRIPS AGREEMENT

1. For the purposes of Article 31 bis and this Annex:

- (a) "pharmaceutical product" means any patented product, or product manufactured through a patented process, of the pharmaceutical sector needed to address the public health problems as recognized in paragraph 1 of the Declaration on the TRIPS Agreement and Public Health (WT/MIN(01)/DEC/2).

It is understood that active ingredients necessary for its manufacture and diagnostic kits needed for its use would be included[3];

(b) "eligible importing Member" means any least-developed country Member, and any other Member that has made a notification[4] to the Council for TRIPS of its intention to use the system set out in Article 31 bis and this Annex ("system") as an importer, it being understood that a Member may notify at any time that it will use the system in whole or in a limited way, for example only in the case of a national emergency or other circumstances of extreme urgency or in cases of public non-commercial use. It is noted that some Members will not use the system as importing Members[5] and that some other Members have stated that, if they use the system, it would be in no more than situations of national emergency or other circumstances of extreme urgency;

(c) "exporting Member" means a Member using the system to produce pharmaceutical products for, and export them to, an eligible importing Member.

2. The terms referred to in paragraph 1 of Article 31 bis are that:

(a) the eligible importing Member(s)[6] has made a notification² to the Council for TRIPS, that:

(i) specifies the names and expected quantities of the product(s) needed[7];

(ii) confirms that the eligible importing Member in question, other than a least-developed country Member, has established that it has insufficient or no manufacturing capacities in the pharmaceutical sector for the product(s) in question in one of the ways set out in the Appendix to this Annex; and

(iii) confirms that, where a pharmaceutical product is patented in its territory, it has granted or intends to grant a compulsory licence in accordance with Articles 31 and 31 bis of this Agreement and the provisions of this Annex[8];

(b) the compulsory licence issued by the exporting Member under the system shall contain the following conditions:

(i) only the amount necessary to meet the needs of the eligible importing Member(s) may be manufactured under the licence and the entirety of this production shall be exported to the Member(s) which has notified its needs to the Council for TRIPS;

(ii) products produced under the licence shall be clearly identified as being produced under the system through specific labelling or marking. Suppliers should distinguish such products through special packaging and/or special colouring/shaping of the products themselves, provided that such distinction is feasible and does not have a significant impact on price; and

(iii) before shipment begins, the licensee shall post on a website[9] the following information:

- the quantities being supplied to each destination as referred to in indent (i) above; and

- the distinguishing features of the product(s) referred to in indent (ii) above;

(c) the exporting Member shall notify[10] the Council for TRIPS of the grant of the licence, including the conditions attached to it.[11] The information provided shall include the name and address of the licensee, the product(s) for which the licence has been granted, the quantity(ies) for which it has been granted, the country(ies) to which the product(s) is (are) to be supplied and the duration of the licence. The notification shall also indicate the address of the website referred to in subparagraph (b)(iii) above.

3. In order to ensure that the products imported under the system are used for the public health purposes underlying their importation, eligible importing Members shall take reasonable measures within their means, proportionate to their administrative capacities and to the risk of trade diversion to prevent re-exportation of the products that have actually been imported into their territories under the system. In the event that an eligible importing Member that is a developing country Member or a least-developed country Member experiences difficulty in implementing this provision, developed country Members shall provide, on request and on mutually agreed terms and conditions, technical and financial cooperation in order to facilitate its implementation.

4. Members shall ensure the availability of effective legal means to prevent the importation into, and sale in, their territories of products produced under the system and diverted to their markets inconsistently with its provisions, using the means already required to be available under this Agreement. If any Member considers that such measures are proving insufficient for this purpose, the matter may be reviewed in the Council for TRIPS at the request of that Member.

5. With a view to harnessing economies of scale for the purposes of enhancing purchasing power for, and facilitating the local production of, pharmaceutical products, it is recognized that the development of systems providing for the grant of regional patents to be applicable in the Members described in paragraph 3 of Article 31 bis should be promoted. To this end, developed country Members undertake to provide technical cooperation in accordance with Article 67 of this Agreement, including in conjunction with other relevant intergovernmental organizations.

6. Members recognize the desirability of promoting the transfer of technology and capacity building in the pharmaceutical sector in order to overcome the problem faced by Members with insufficient or no manufacturing capacities in the pharmaceutical sector. To this end, eligible importing Members and exporting Members are encouraged to use the system in a way which would promote this objective. Members undertake to cooperate in paying special attention to the transfer of technology and capacity building in the pharmaceutical sector in the work to be undertaken pursuant to Article 66.2 of this Agreement, paragraph 7 of the Declaration on the TRIPS Agreement and Public Health and any other relevant work of the Council for TRIPS.

7. The Council for TRIPS shall review annually the functioning of the system with a view to ensuring its effective operation and shall annually report on its operation to the General Council.

APPENDIX TO THE ANNEX TO THE TRIPS AGREEMENT

Assessment of Manufacturing Capacities in the Pharmaceutical Sector

Least-developed country Members are deemed to have insufficient or no manufacturing capacities in the pharmaceutical sector.

For other eligible importing Members insufficient or no manufacturing capacities for the product(s) in question may be established in either of the following ways:

- (i) the Member in question has established that it has no manufacturing capacity in the pharmaceutical sector;
- or
- (ii) where the Member has some manufacturing capacity in this sector, it has examined this capacity and found that, excluding any capacity owned or controlled by the patent owner, it is currently insufficient for the purposes of meeting its needs. When it is established that such capacity has become sufficient to meet the Member's needs, the system shall no longer apply.

1 Before accession to the EU, the then ten accession countries made a statement that they would not use the system except in exceptional circumstances. Upon accession to the EU, their commitment is not to use the system as importers at all.

▶ Patentability of computer-implemented inventions

▶ Benita Ferrero-Waldner, Member of the Commission. Mr President, the rejection of the Council common position is the democratic right of Parliament as co-legislator with the Council. Many speakers during the debate yesterday mentioned the voice of the people and the role of democracy.

Without this directive, patents for computer-implemented inventions will continue to be issued by national patent offices and the European Patent Office under existing law. There will be no harmonisation at EU level.

(Applause)

This means that different interpretations as to what is patentable or not will continue without any judicial control by the European Court of Justice.

Since the adoption of the common position, the Commission has maintained the view that, should Parliament decide to reject the common position, the Commission would respect this and would not present a new proposal but, if Parliament invites us to do so, we will speak with the various parliamentary committees and then consider the next procedures.

Various Members have expressed the view that the Commission should present a non-sector-specific instrument and that it should seek the adoption of the Community patent.

A large amount of national patent law is already aligned with the European Patent Convention and the Community Patent Convention of 1989. Again, Commissioner McCreevy will be happy to debate these matters with you. You have already said you would invite us to the relevant committee meetings and also to the plenary sittings if you wish to do this.

On the future of the Community patent, the key to agreement on this lies in the hands of the Council. Many options have already been explored formally and informally.

Common Position (EC) No 20/2005 of 7 March 2005 adopted by the Council, acting in accordance with the procedure referred to in Article 251 of the Treaty establishing the European Community, with a view to adopting a Directive of the European Parliament and of the Council on the patentability of computer-implemented inventions

Common Position (EC) No 20/2005

adopted by the Council on 7 March 2005 with a view to adopting Directive 2005/.../EC of the European Parliament and of the Council of... on the patentability of computer-implemented inventions

(2005/C 144 E/02)

THE EUROPEAN PARLIAMENT AND THE COUNCIL OF THE EUROPEAN UNION,

Having regard to the Treaty establishing the European Community, and in particular Article 95 thereof,

Having regard to the proposal from the Commission,

Having regard to the opinion of the European Economic and Social Committee [1],

Acting in accordance with the procedure laid down in Article 251 of the Treaty [2],

Whereas:

- (1) The realisation of the internal market implies the elimination of restrictions to free circulation and of distortions in competition, while creating an environment which is favourable to innovation and investment. In this context the protection of inventions by means of patents is an essential element for the success of the internal market. Effective, transparent and harmonised protection of computer-implemented inventions throughout the Member States is essential in order to maintain and encourage investment in this field.
- (2) Differences exist in the protection of computer-implemented inventions offered by the administrative practices and the case law of the different Member States. Such differences could create barriers to trade and hence impede the proper functioning of the internal market.
- (3) Such differences could become greater as Member States adopt new and different administrative practices, or where national case law interpreting the current legislation evolves differently.
- (4) The steady increase in the distribution and use of computer programs in all fields of technology and in their worldwide distribution via the Internet is a critical factor in technological innovation. It is therefore necessary to ensure that an optimum environment exists for developers and users of computer programs in the Community.
- (5) Therefore, the legal rules governing the patentability of computer-implemented inventions should be harmonised so as to ensure that the resulting legal certainty and the level of requirements demanded for patentability enable innovative enterprises to derive the maximum advantage from their inventive process and provide an incentive for investment and innovation. Legal certainty will also be secured by the fact that, in case of doubt as to the interpretation of this Directive, national courts may, and national courts of last instance must, seek a ruling from the Court of Justice.
- (6) The Community and its Member States are bound by the Agreement on trade-related aspects of intellectual property rights (TRIPS), approved by Council Decision 94/800/EC of 22 December 1994 concerning the conclusion on behalf of the European Community, as regards matters within its competence, of the agreements reached in the Uruguay Round multilateral negotiations (1986 to 1994) [3]. Article 27(1) of TRIPS provides that patents shall be available for any inventions, whether products or processes, in all fields of technology, provided that they are new, involve an inventive step and are capable of industrial application. Moreover, according to that Article, patent rights should be available and patent rights enjoyable without discrimination as to the field of technology. These principles should accordingly apply to computer-implemented inventions.

- (7) Under the Convention on the Grant of European Patents signed in Munich on 5 October 1973 (European Patent Convention) and the patent laws of the Member States, programs for computers together with discoveries, scientific theories, mathematical methods, aesthetic creations, schemes, rules and methods for performing mental acts, playing games or doing business, and presentations of information are expressly not regarded as inventions and are therefore excluded from patentability. This exception, however, applies and is justified only to the extent that a patent application or patent relates to the above subject-matter or activities as such, because the said subject-matter and activities as such do not belong to a field of technology.
- (8) The aim of this Directive is to prevent different interpretations of the provisions of the European Patent Convention concerning the limits to patentability. The consequent legal certainty should help to foster a climate conducive to investment and innovation in the field of software.
- (9) Patent protection allows innovators to benefit from their creativity. Patent rights protect innovation in the interests of society as a whole and should not be used in a manner which is anti-competitive.
- (10) In accordance with Council Directive 91/250/EEC of 14 May 1991 on the legal protection of computer programs [4], the expression in any form of an original computer program is protected by copyright as a literary work. However, ideas and principles which underlie any element of a computer program are not protected by copyright.
- (11) In order for any invention to be considered as patentable it should have a technical character, and thus belong to a field of technology.
- (12) It is a condition for inventions in general that, in order to involve an inventive step, they should make a technical contribution to the state of the art.
- (13) Accordingly, although a computer-implemented invention belongs to a field of technology, where it does not make a technical contribution to the state of the art, as would be the case, for example, where its specific contribution lacks a technical character, it will lack an inventive step and thus will not be patentable.
- (14) The mere implementation of an otherwise unpatentable method on an apparatus such as a computer is not in itself sufficient to warrant a finding that a technical contribution is present. Accordingly, a computer-implemented business method, data processing method or other method, in which the only contribution to the state of the art is non-technical, cannot constitute a patentable invention.
- (15) If the contribution to the state of the art relates solely to unpatentable matter, there can be no patentable invention irrespective of how the matter is presented in the claims. For example, the requirement for technical contribution cannot be circumvented merely by specifying technical means in the patent claims.
- (16) Furthermore, an algorithm is inherently non-technical and therefore cannot constitute a technical invention. Nonetheless, a method involving the use of an algorithm might be patentable provided that the method is used to solve a technical problem. However, any patent granted for such a method should not monopolise the algorithm itself or its use in contexts not foreseen in the patent.
- (17) The scope of the exclusive rights conferred by any patent is defined by the claims, as interpreted with reference to the description and any drawings. Computer-implemented inventions should be claimed at least with reference to either a product such as a programmed apparatus, or to a process carried out in such an apparatus. Accordingly, where individual elements of software are used in contexts which do not involve the realisation of any validly claimed product or process, such use will not constitute patent infringement.

- (18) The legal protection of computer-implemented inventions does not necessitate the creation of a separate body of law in place of the rules of national patent law. The rules of national patent law remain the essential basis for the legal protection of computer-implemented inventions. This Directive simply clarifies the present legal position with a view to securing legal certainty, transparency, and clarity of the law and avoiding any drift towards the patentability of unpatentable methods such as obvious or non-technical procedures and business methods.
- (19) This Directive should be limited to laying down certain principles as they apply to the patentability of such inventions, such principles being intended in particular to ensure that inventions which belong to a field of technology and make a technical contribution are susceptible of protection, and conversely to ensure that those inventions which do not make a technical contribution are not susceptible of protection.
- (20) The competitive position of Community industry in relation to its major trading partners will be improved if the current differences in the legal protection of computer-implemented inventions are eliminated and the legal situation is transparent. With the present trend for traditional manufacturing industry to shift their operations to low-cost economies outside the Community, the importance of intellectual property protection and in particular patent protection is self-evident.
- (21) This Directive should be without prejudice to the application of Articles 81 and 82 of the Treaty, in particular where a dominant supplier refuses to allow the use of a patented technique which is needed for the sole purpose of ensuring conversion of the conventions used in two different computer systems or networks so as to allow communication and exchange of data content between them.
- (22) The rights conferred by patents granted for inventions within the scope of this Directive should not affect acts permitted under Articles 5 and 6 of Directive 91/250/EEC, in particular under the provisions thereof in respect of decompilation and interoperability. In particular, acts which, under Articles 5 and 6 of Directive 91/250/EEC, do not require authorisation of the rightholder with respect to the rightholder's copyrights in or pertaining to a computer program, and which, but for those Articles, would require such authorisation, should not require authorisation of the rightholder with respect to the rightholder's patent rights in or pertaining to the computer program.
- (23) Since the objective of this Directive, namely to harmonise national rules on the patentability of computer-implemented inventions, cannot be sufficiently achieved by the Member States and can therefore be better achieved at Community level, the Community may adopt measures, in accordance with the principle of subsidiarity as set out in Article 5 of the Treaty. In accordance with the principle of proportionality, as set out in that Article, this Directive does not go beyond what is necessary to achieve that objective,

HAVE ADOPTED THIS DIRECTIVE:

Article 1

Scope

This Directive lays down rules for the patentability of computer-implemented inventions.

Article 2

Definitions

For the purposes of this Directive the following definitions shall apply:

- (a) "computer-implemented invention" means any invention the performance of which involves the use of a computer, computer network or other programmable apparatus, the invention having one or more features which are realised wholly or partly by means of a computer program or computer programs;
- (b) "technical contribution" means a contribution to the state of the art in a field of technology which is new and not obvious to a person skilled in the art. The technical contribution shall be assessed by consideration of the difference between the state of the art and the scope of the patent claim considered as a whole, which must comprise technical features, irrespective of whether or not these are accompanied by non-technical features.

Article 3

Conditions for patentability

In order to be patentable, a computer-implemented invention must be susceptible to industrial application and new and must involve an inventive step. In order to involve an inventive step, a computer-implemented invention must make a technical contribution.

Article 4

Exclusions from patentability

1. A computer program as such cannot constitute a patentable invention.
2. A computer-implemented invention shall not be regarded as making a technical contribution merely because it involves the use of a computer, network or other programmable apparatus. Accordingly, inventions involving computer programs, whether expressed as source code, as object code or in any other form, which implement business, mathematical or other methods and do not produce any technical effects beyond the normal physical interactions between a program and the computer, network or other programmable apparatus in which it is run shall not be patentable.

Article 5

Form of claims

1. Member States shall ensure that a computer-implemented invention may be claimed as a product, that is as a programmed computer, a programmed computer network or other programmed apparatus, or as a process carried out by such a computer, computer network or apparatus through the execution of software.

2. A claim to a computer program, either on its own or on a carrier, shall not be allowed unless that program would, when loaded and executed in a programmable computer, programmable computer network or other programmable apparatus, put into force a product or process claimed in the same patent application in accordance with paragraph 1.

Article 6

Relationship with Directive 91/250/EEC

The rights conferred by patents granted for inventions within the scope of this Directive shall not affect acts permitted under Articles 5 and 6 of Directive 91/250/EEC, in particular under the provisions thereof in respect of decompilation and interoperability.

Article 7

Monitoring

The Commission shall monitor the impact of computer-implemented inventions on innovation and competition, both within Europe and internationally, on Community businesses, especially small and medium-sized enterprises, on the open-source community and on electronic commerce.

Article 8

Report on the effects of the Directive

The Commission shall report to the European Parliament and the Council by ... [5] on:

- (a) the impact of patents for computer-implemented inventions on the factors referred to in Article 7;
- (b) whether the rules governing the term of the patent and the determination of the patentability requirements, and more specifically novelty, inventive step and the proper scope of claims, are adequate, and whether it would be desirable and legally possible having regard to the Community's international obligations to make modifications to such rules;
- (c) whether difficulties have been experienced in respect of Member States where the requirements of novelty and inventive step are not examined prior to issuance of a patent, and if so, whether any measures are desirable to address such difficulties;
- (d) whether difficulties have been experienced in respect of the relationship between the protection by patent of computer-implemented inventions and the protection by copyright of computer programs as provided for in Directive 91/250/EEC and whether any abuse of the patent system has occurred in relation to computer-implemented inventions;
- (e) how the requirements of this Directive have been taken into account in the practice of the European Patent Office and in its examination guidelines;
- (f) the aspects in respect of which it may be necessary to prepare for a diplomatic conference to revise the European Patent Convention;

- (g) the impact of patents for computer-implemented inventions on the development and commercialisation of interoperable computer programs and systems.

Article 9

Impact review

In the light of the monitoring carried out pursuant to Article 7 and the report to be drawn up pursuant to Article 8, the Commission shall review the impact of this Directive and, where necessary, submit amending proposals to the European Parliament and the Council.

Article 10

Implementation

1. Member States shall bring into force the laws, regulations and administrative provisions necessary to comply with this Directive by ... [6]. They shall forthwith inform the Commission thereof.

When Member States adopt those measures, they shall contain a reference to this Directive or shall be accompanied by such a reference on the occasion of their official publication. The methods of making such reference shall be laid down by Member States.

2. Member States shall communicate to the Commission the text of the provisions of national law which they adopt in the field governed by this Directive.

Article 11

Entry into force

This Directive shall enter into force on the twentieth day following its publication in the Official Journal of the European Union.

STATEMENT OF THE COUNCIL'S REASONS

I. INTRODUCTION

1. On 20 February 2002, the Commission submitted a proposal for a European Parliament and Council Directive on the patentability of computer-implemented inventions [1], based on Article 95 of the EC Treaty.

2. The Economic and Social Committee delivered its opinion on 19 September 2002 [2].

3. The European Parliament delivered its opinion at first reading on 24 September 2003 [3].

4. The Commission has not submitted an amended proposal.

5. The Council adopted its common position according to Article 251 of the EC Treaty on 7 March 2005.

II. AIM

6. The proposed Directive aims at harmonising national patent laws with respect to the patentability of computer-implemented inventions and at making the conditions of such patentability more transparent.

III. COMMON POSITION

Recitals

7. The Council has amended or merged a number of recitals appearing in the Commission's proposal and has adopted a few additional ones. In so doing, the Council has taken on board in full or in part, or following reformulation, the European Parliament's amendments 1, 2, 88, 3, 34, 115, 85, 7, 8, 9, 86, 11, 12 and 13. Reference to the main changes in the recitals is made below under the relevant Articles.

Articles

Article 1 (Scope)

8. Article 1 was accepted as in the Commission's proposal. The European Parliament has not suggested any amendments to this Article either.

Article 2 (Definitions)

9. On point (a), the Council has partly followed the European Parliament's amendments 36, 42 and 117 by deleting the words "one or more prima facie novel" from the definition of "computer-implemented invention", on the grounds that these are redundant and risk creating confusion as regards their relationship with the novelty test, which applies at the stage of the examination of the patentability of any invention.

10. On point (b), the Council:

- replaced "technical field" with "field of technology", which is the term commonly used in international agreements on patent law, such as the TRIPS Agreement;
- inserted the words "new and", in order to clarify the criteria for "technical contribution";
- added a second sentence, which is basically the provision of Article 4(3) of the Commission proposal slightly amended in order to clarify that even if non-technical features may be taken into consideration when assessing the technical contribution of a given computer-implemented invention, it is indispensable that any patent claim comprises technical features as well. This idea concurs with part of the European Parliament's amendments 16, 100, 57, 99, 110 and 70.

Article 3 of the Commission proposal (Computer-implemented inventions as a field of technology)

11. This Article imposed on Member States the obligation of ensuring in their national law that computer-implemented inventions are considered to belong to a field of technology. In accordance with the European Parliament's amendment 15, the Council has decided to delete Article 3, considering that a general obligation of this nature would be difficult to transpose into national law. In exchange, the Council has decided to reinforce in recital 13 the relevant statement contained in recital 11 of the Commission proposal.

Article 3 (Article 4 of the Commission proposal) (Conditions for patentability)

12. The Council merged the first two paragraphs of Article 4 of the Commission proposal into a single paragraph, while introducing minor drafting amendments with a view to improving the clarity of the text. The new text follows word by word the wording of Article 4(1) as proposed in the European Parliament's amendment 16.

13. As already mentioned, paragraph 3 of Article 4 of the Commission proposal has been incorporated in the definition of 'technical contribution' under Article 2(b), as it was felt that this belongs to the definitions rather than in an Article entitled 'Conditions for patentability'.

Article 4 (Exclusions from patentability)

14. In order to avoid any misunderstanding, the Council has included in paragraph 1 of this Article a clear statement to the effect that a computer program as such cannot constitute a patentable invention.

15. Paragraph 2, which corresponds to amendment 17 of the European Parliament, aims at clarifying the limits of what can be patentable under the present Directive and has to be read in conjunction with recitals 14 to 16, which correspond to the European Parliament's amendments 85, 7 and 8. The Council has however inserted the terms "whether expressed as source code, as object code or in any other form" in order to clarify better what is meant by "invention involving computer programs".

Article 5 (Form of claims)

16. Paragraph 1 was accepted as in the Commission's proposal.

17. Paragraph 2 was added in order to clarify that in certain circumstances and under strict conditions a patent can cover a claim to a computer program, be it on its own or on a carrier. The Council considers that this would align the Directive on standard current practice both at the European Patent Office and in Member States.

Article 6 (Relationship with Directive 91/250/EEC)

18. The Council has taken on board the European Parliament's amendment 19, considering that this is clearer than the text of the Commission's proposal. It has removed references to provisions concerning semiconductor topographies or trade marks as these were considered as irrelevant in this context.

19. The Council did not take on board the European Parliament's amendment 76, considering that this was too open-ended and would be contrary to the TRIPS Agreement. The Council considered that the interoperability issue is already sufficiently covered by Article 6, as well as by the application of general competition rules. This is clearly explained in recitals 21 and 22 of the Council's common position.

Article 7 (Monitoring)

20. The Council has taken on board the European Parliament's amendment 71.

Article 8 (Report on the effects of the Directive)

21. The Council has maintained the text of the Commission proposal and has inserted the following additional elements:

- point (b): the words "the term of the patent and" have been added, as suggested by the European Parliament in amendment 92; furthermore, bearing in mind the European Parliament's amendment 25, the Council has introduced language relating to the Community's international obligations;
- point (d): the Council has taken on board the European Parliament's amendment 23;
- point (e): the Council has taken on board the European Parliament's amendment 26;
- point (f): the Council has taken on board the European Parliament's amendment 25, but has removed the reference to the Community patent, on the grounds that such a reference would be irrelevant in this context;
- point (g): the Council has taken on board the substance of the European Parliament's amendment 89, while opting for a clearer wording.

Article 9 of the Council common position (Impact assessment)

22. The Council took on board European Parliament's amendment 27.

Article 10 (Article 9 of the Commission proposal) (Implementation)

23. Unlike the European Parliament, which has opted for an implementation period of 18 months (amendment 28), the Council has opted for an implementation period of 24 months.

Articles 11 (Entry into force) and 12 (Addressees) (Articles 10 and 11 of the Commission proposal)

24. The Council has taken on board the text of the Commission's proposal.

IV. EUROPEAN PARLIAMENT AMENDMENTS NOT TAKEN ON BOARD

25. After having given them full consideration, the Council has not been able to take on board European Parliament amendments 88 (first sentence), 31, 32, 112, 95, 84, 114, 125, 75, 36, 42, 117, 107, 69, 55/rev, 97, 108, 38, 44, 118, 45, 16, 100, 57, 99, 110, 70 (partly), 60, 102, 111, 72, 103, 119, 104, 120, 76, 24, 81, 93, 94 and 28.

26. The Council considered that some of these amendments were superfluous (amendments 88 (first sentence), 31, 75, 94), unclear and potentially confusing (amendments 36, 42, 117, 72, 104, 120), had no direct link with the issues at stake (amendments 95, 24, 81), did not reflect established practice (amendments 32, 112, 16, 100, 57, 99, 110, 70, 102, 111), or would be contrary to the international obligations of the European Community and its Member States under the TRIPS Agreement as well as to the general principles of patent law (84, 114, 125, 107, 69, 55/rev, 97, 108, 38, 44, 118, 45, 60, 103, 119, 76, 93).

V. CONCLUSIONS

27. In its common position, the Council has taken over a considerable number of amendments proposed by the European Parliament. Throughout the common position, the Council has sought to strike a reasonable and workable balance between the interests of rightholders and those of other parties concerned. The overall balance of the Council's common position has been acknowledged by the Commission, which has accepted it as a satisfactory compromise package.

2002/0047 (COD)

COMMUNICATION FROM THE COMMISSION TO THE EUROPEAN PARLIAMENT pursuant to the second subparagraph of Article 251 (2) of the EC Treaty concerning the common position of the Council on the adoption of a directive of the European Parliament and Council on the patentability of computer-implemented inventions

1- BACKGROUND

Date of transmission of the proposal to the EP and the Council (document COM(2002)[92] final - [2002/[0047]COD)[1]: | 20 February 2002 |

Date of the opinion of the European Economic and Social Committee[2]: | 19 September 2002 |

Date of the opinion of the European Parliament, first reading[3]: | 24 September 2002 |

Date of adoption of the common position[4]: | 7 March 2005 |

2- OBJECTIVE OF THE COMMISSION PROPOSAL

The proposal for a Directive on the patentability of computer-implemented inventions aims at harmonising the provisions of national patent law dealing with inventions which rely on computers for their performance. The Directive will bring under the supervision of the European Court of Justice the rules applicable by national courts and patent offices charged with assessing the validity of patents and applications in this field. Given that many patents in this field are granted by the European Patent Office, the Administrative Council of the European Patent Organisation could be invited to consider adapting the Implementing Regulations of the European Patent Convention.

3- COMMENTS ON THE COMMON POSITION

3.1 General remarks

The Council, acting by qualified majority, has adopted a common position which incorporates the substance of some 25 of Parliament's amendments at first reading. The Commission has indicated that it accepts the common position, even though this differs from the Commission's original proposal in certain respects. In general, the Commission believes that the common position strikes an acceptable balance between the interests of right holders and those of competitors and consumers (including in the open source community). This balance is further safeguarded by the new requirements in Article 7 for the Commission to monitor the impact of computer-implemented inventions in particular on small and medium-sized enterprises and on the open source community.

As far as the Commission is concerned, the directive continues to address the key objective stated in the explanatory memorandum of the Commission's proposal, namely the harmonisation of patent law between the Member States and the resolution of legal uncertainty in this field. It is crucial to note that there is to date no Community legislative instrument which affects general patent law either in a horizontal manner or specifically relating to computer-implemented inventions. The adoption of this directive would therefore have the effect of bringing patent law in this field, for the very first time, explicitly within Community jurisdiction.

A failure to adopt a directive would prevent Community institutions from exercising control in this strategic area of the European economy, which would thus remain within the remit only of national patent offices and courts and the European Patent Office in Munich.

3.1.1 Computer program product claims

Although the Commission's proposal did not explicitly permit claims on computer programs on their own or on carriers, the Commission has accepted Article 5(2) of the common position as this has to be understood as relating to the enforceability of (existing) patent rights and not to extending the scope of patentability. This is reinforced by the explicit link with Article 5 (1) as mentioned below. To the extent that the relationship between Article 5(2) and the exclusion of computer programs as such (as is explicitly laid out in Article 4(1)) is open to differing interpretations, the text may need further clarification.

Acts relating to computer programs on their own or on carriers could be subject to proceedings for contributory infringement even without provisions equivalent to Article 5(2). The effect of Article 5(2) is thus to facilitate enforcement of legitimate rights by ensuring that such acts may constitute direct, rather than just contributory, infringements. This is particularly important in cases of infringements across national boundaries as Member States' courts do not have jurisdiction over contributory infringements occurring outside their national territory.

In any case, the final part of Article 5(2) makes clear that the claim on the computer program on its own or on a carrier has to put in force a patentable product or process claimed in the same patent application (and falling within the scope of Article 5(1)). This ensures that Article 5(2) cannot constitute protection equivalent to the patentability of computer programs as such, a reading which is furthermore confirmed by the more explicit language of the common position, in particular of Article 4 paragraphs 1 and 2.

3.1.2. Interoperability

The Commission is strongly committed to the promotion of interoperability as a means of fostering innovation and competition. This is consistent with the objectives of the Commission's proposal to help safeguard investment in inventions which are new, inventive and industrially applicable. It is important to note that the requirement for sufficient disclosure of a patented invention may facilitate access to information useful in achieving interoperability of computer-implemented inventions.

The Commission affirmed its commitment to the policy objective of promoting interoperability and fostering innovation by explicitly preserving in Article 6 existing interoperability exceptions under copyright law

The Commission believes that the Council common position remains consistent with these objectives. Equivalent conditions for patentability have been maintained in new Articles 3 and 4 (read in conjunction with Article 2). As expressed in a statement by the Commission to be entered in the minutes of the Council adopting the common position (see below), the Commission considers that Article 6, read in conjunction with Recital 22, permits any acts as described by Articles 5 and 6 of Directive 91/250/EEC on the legal protection of computer programs by copyright, including any acts necessary to ensure interoperability, without the need for authorisation from the patent's right holder.

The Commission furthermore welcomes the fact that safeguards for interoperability have been strengthened in Article 8(d) and (g) in terms of the requirements on the Commission to report on how the situation regarding interoperability has been affected by the passage of the directive.

In the light of the Community objective of promoting interoperability, the Commission intends to facilitate the approximation of the Council and Parliament positions drawing on amendments put forward by both institutions in first reading.

Furthermore, Recital 21 recalls that a dominant supplier who refuses to allow the use of a patented technique to achieve interoperability is subject to the application of competition rules and in particular Articles 81 and 82 of the Treaty. The application of these Articles therefore contributes to achieving the objectives laid out above, although it is of course important to note that competition law on its own cannot solve all potential problems in this area.

. 3.2 Response to Parliament's amendments at first reading

Amendments accepted in full: 1, 2, 3, 34 (=115), 7, 8, 11, 12, 13, 15, 16, 71, 92, 23, 26, 27.

Amendments accepted with minor modification: 85, 9, 86, 17, 19, 25.

Amendments 88 and 89 have been accepted but in a revised form.

Part of amendment 107 (=69) was accepted (the idea that the technical contribution must be new) and some of the text of amendment 76 has been used in recital 17 to deal with the issue that this amendment sought to address.

3.3 Amendments introduced during the discussions within the Council

Recital 1

Council accepted Parliament's amendment 1.

Recital 5

Council accepted Parliament's amendment 2.

Recital 8

Council has incorporated Parliament's amendment 3 and the second half of amendment 88 into this new Recital. It was felt that amendment 3 was an equivalent but clearer restatement of the first part of amendment 88.

Recitals 12 and 13

Council has moved the first part of recital 11 of the Commission's proposal to recital 12 of the Commission's proposal.

Recital 13 of the Commission's proposal (deleted)

Council accepted Parliament's amendment 34 (=115).

Recital 14

Council accepted Parliament's amendment 85.

Recital 15

Council accepted Parliament's amendment 7.

Recital 16

Council accepted Parliament's amendment 8.

Recital 17

Council accepted Parliament's amendment 9.

Recital 18

Council accepted Parliament's amendment 86 with a slight modification to maintain conformity with the Articles and standard patent terminology (obvious or non-technical replaces trivial).

Recital 20

Council accepted Parliament's amendment 11.

Recital 21

This recital has been modified by Council, taking inspiration from the text of Parliament's amendment 76, to address the issue of interoperability.

Recital 22

Council accepted Parliament's amendment 13.

Article 2

The Council deleted the Commission's reference to 'prima facie novel' features in Article 2(a). In Article 2(b), the Council added an element of Amendment 107 (=69) which defines a technical contribution as being new and added a new sentence, transferred from Article 4(3) of the Commission's proposal, to define how the technical contribution is assessed.

Article 3 of the Commission's proposal (deleted)

Council accepted Parliament's amendment 15.

Article 3

Council restated and condensed Article 4 paragraphs (1) and (2) of the Commission's proposal into a single paragraph according to Parliament's amendment 16 and transferred the substance of Article 4(3) of the Commission's proposal to Article 2(b) as noted above.

Article 4

Council introduced a new Article 4. Article 4 (1) reiterates the principle that a computer program as such cannot constitute a patentable invention. Article 4 (2) is Parliament's amendment 17 with some additional wording to make clear that all forms of an excluded program (e.g. source or object code) are not patentable.

Article 5

Council added Article 5(2) disallowing claims to computer programs, alone or on carriers, unless the claimed program puts into force a product or process claimed in accordance with Article 5(1) in the same patent.

Article 6

The Council modified Article 6 in line with Parliament's amendment 19 while also specifying the relevant Articles of Directive 91/250/EEC which are applicable in this context.

Article 7

Council accepted Parliament's amendment 71.

Article 8

Council accepted Parliament's amendments 92, 23, 25, 26 and the spirit of amendment 89. In Article 8(b), it also added a reference to the Community's international obligations. This is understood as primarily a reference to the TRIPS Agreement. In paragraph (f), introduced by amendment 25, the reference to the Community Patent was deleted as this is beyond the scope of the current Directive. New paragraph (g) is a restatement of the intentions behind amendment 89 which Council felt was clearer.

Article 9

Council accepted Parliament's amendment 27.

Article 10

The Council stipulated a transposition period of twenty four months (not defined in the Commission's proposal). Parliament envisaged eighteen months.

3.4 Commission position on the Council's common position

Overall the Commission supports the Council's common position because it retains the balance set out in the original proposal while clarifying certain aspects which were shown to be of concern to the Parliament. Most of the changes introduced by Council are based on Parliament's amendments which the Commission had already indicated that it could support. The remaining differences between the Council's common position and the Commission's original proposal are set out below.

Recital 13 of the Commission's proposal (deleted)

The Commission can accept this deletion because the substance is broadly restated in Recital 16 as introduced by Parliament's amendment 8.

Recital 21

The Commission supports the new wording as it reconfirms that an appropriate way to deal with potential competition issues between enterprises is through the established competition rules. The application of Articles 81 and 82 therefore contributes to achieving objectives underlying the present directive. This Recital usefully gives an example of a potential competition problem involving interoperability, specifically where a dominant supplier refuses to allow the use of a patented technique which is needed for the sole purpose of ensuring conversion of the conventions used in two different computer systems or networks so as to allow communication and exchange of data content between them.

Article 2

The insertion of the requirement that the technical contribution be new is acceptable.

Article 4

The new paragraph 1 of this Article states the existing law and, as the Commission set out to clarify and not change the current legal situation, this is an acceptable addition.

The Commission can also accept the clarification in paragraph 2.

Article 5

The Commission can support the addition of paragraph 2 in the context of the overall package as it provides useful clarification as to the conditions under which particular forms of claim can and cannot be granted and is balanced by other provisions.

Article 6

It is logical to refer to the relevant interoperability provisions precisely so the Commission is in favour of this clarifying addition.

Article 10

Although the Commission would have preferred the swifter transposition envisaged by Parliament, it can accept twenty four months as the deadline for implementation.

4- CONCLUSION

The Commission considers that Council's common position maintains the balance aimed for in the original proposal and it can, therefore, accept it. In particular, the current wording provides for sufficient incentives to innovation in this field and maintains the freedom to commercialise new products while allowing right holders to enforce their rights in an effective yet proportionate way against infringers. The fact of harmonisation at a Community level ensures that the enforcement of these rights is consistent across the European Union and therefore facilitates the efficient functioning of the Single Market.

The Commission invites the Parliament to engage constructively in further inter-institutional dialogue so as to ensure adoption of a directive which meets these objectives and is ready to engage further with both Parliament and Council on key issues concerning the directive, notably in the light of the Commission's commitments to the promotion of interoperability

5- COMMISSION STATEMENT

The following statement is entered in the minutes of the Council adopting the common position

The Commission considers that Article 6, read in conjunction with Recital 22, permits any acts as described by Articles 5 and 6 of Directive 91/250/EEC on the legal protection of computer programs by copyright, including any acts necessary to ensure interoperability, without the need for authorisation from the patent's right holder.

Patentability of computer-implemented inventions *I

European Parliament legislative resolution on the proposal for a directive of the European Parliament and of the Council on the patentability of computer-implemented inventions (COM(2002) 92 – C5-0082/2002 – 2002/0047(COD))

(Codecision procedure: first reading)

The European Parliament,

- having regard to the Commission proposal to the European Parliament and the Council (COM(2002) 92)¹,
 - having regard to Article 251(2) and Article 95 of the EC Treaty, pursuant to which the Commission submitted the proposal to Parliament (C5-0082/2002),
 - having regard to the opinion of the European Economic and Social Committee²,
 - having regard to Rule 67 of its Rules of Procedure,
 - having regard to the report of the Committee on Legal Affairs and the Internal Market and the opinions of the Committee on Industry, External Trade, Research and Energy and the Committee on Culture, Youth, Education, the Media and Sport (A5-0238/2003),
1. Approves the Commission proposal as amended;
 2. Calls on the Commission to refer the matter to Parliament again if it intends to amend the proposal substantially or replace it with another text;
 3. Instructs its President to forward its position to the Council and Commission.

² OJ C 61, 14.3.2003, p. 154.

Position of the European Parliament adopted at first reading on 24 September 2003 with a view to the adoption of Directive 2003/.../EC of the European Parliament and of the Council on the patentability of computer-implemented inventions

THE EUROPEAN PARLIAMENT AND THE COUNCIL OF THE EUROPEAN UNION,

Having regard to the Treaty establishing the European Community, and in particular Article 95 thereof,

Having regard to the proposal from the Commission¹,

Having regard to the opinion of the *European Economic and Social Committee*²,

Acting in accordance with the procedure laid down in Article 251 of the Treaty³,

Whereas:

- (1) The realisation of the internal market implies the elimination of restrictions on free movement and of distortions in competition, while creating an environment which is favourable to innovation and investment. In this context the protection of inventions by means of patents is an essential element for the success of the internal market. Effective, transparent and harmonised protection of computer-implemented inventions throughout the Member States is essential in order to maintain and encourage investment in this field.
- (2) Differences exist in the protection of computer-implemented inventions offered by the administrative practices and the case law of the different Member States. Such differences could create barriers to trade and hence impede the proper functioning of the internal market.

- (3) Such differences have developed and could become greater as Member States adopt new and different administrative practices, or where national case law interpreting the current legislation evolves differently.
- (4) The steady increase in the distribution and use of computer programs in all fields of technology and in their world-wide distribution via the Internet is a critical factor in technological innovation. It is therefore necessary to ensure that an optimum environment exists for developers and users of computer programs in the Community.
- (5) Therefore, the legal rules governing the patentability of computer-implemented inventions should be harmonised so as to ensure that the resulting legal certainty and the level of requirements demanded for patentability enable innovative enterprises to derive the maximum advantage from their inventive process and provide an incentive for investment and innovation. Legal certainty will also be secured by the fact that, in case of doubt as to the interpretation of this Directive, national courts may, and national courts of last instance must, seek a ruling from the Court of Justice of the European Communities.
- (6) The rules of the Convention on the Grant of European Patents signed in Munich on 5 October 1973, and in particular Article 52 thereof concerning the limits to patentability, should be confirmed and clarified. The consequent legal certainty should help to foster a climate conducive to investment and innovation in the field of software.
- (7) Under the Convention and the patent laws of the Member States, programs for computers together with discoveries, scientific theories, mathematical methods, aesthetic creations, schemes, rules and methods for performing mental acts, playing games or doing business, and presentations of information are expressly not regarded as inventions and are therefore excluded from patentability. This exception applies because such subject-matter and activities do not belong to a field of technology.

- (8) The aim of this Directive is not to amend the aforementioned Convention, but to prevent different interpretations of its provisions.
- (9) In its Resolution of 30 March 2000 on the decision by the European Patent Office with regard to patent No EP 695 351 granted on 8 December 1999¹, the European Parliament once again called for a review of the Office's operating rules to ensure that it was publicly accountable in the exercise of its functions. In this connection it would be particularly desirable to reconsider the practice whereby the Office sees fit to obtain payment for the patents that it grants, as this practice harms the public nature of the institution.
- (10) Patent protection allows innovators to benefit from their creativity. Patent rights protect innovation in the interests of society as a whole, and should not be used in a manner which is anti-competitive.
- (11) In accordance with Council Directive 91/250/EEC of 14 May 1991 on the legal protection of computer programs², the expression in any form of an original computer program is protected by copyright as a literary work. However, ideas and principles which underlie any element of a computer program are not protected by copyright.

- (12) In order for any invention to be considered as patentable it should have a technical character, and thus belong to a field of technology.
- (13) In order to be patentable, inventions in general and computer-implemented inventions in particular must be susceptible of industrial application, new and involve an inventive step. In order to involve an inventive step, computer-implemented inventions must in addition make a new technical contribution to the state of the art, in order to distinguish them from pure software.
- (14) Accordingly, an innovation that does not make a technical contribution to the state of the art is not an invention within the meaning of patent law.
- (15) However, the mere implementation of an otherwise unpatentable method on an apparatus such as a computer is not in itself sufficient to warrant a finding that a technical contribution is present. Accordingly, a computer-implemented business method, data processing method or other method in which the only contribution to the state of the art is non-technical cannot constitute a patentable invention.
- (16) If the contribution to the state of the art relates solely to unpatentable matter, there can be no patentable invention irrespective of how the matter is presented in the claims. For example, the requirement of technical contribution cannot be circumvented merely by specifying technical means in the patent claims.
- (17) Furthermore, an algorithm is inherently non-technical and therefore cannot constitute a technical invention. Nonetheless, a method involving the use of an algorithm might be patentable provided that the method is used to solve a technical problem. However, any patent granted for such a method should not monopolise the algorithm itself or its use in contexts not foreseen in the patent.

- (18) The scope of the exclusive rights conferred by any patent are defined by the claims. Computer-implemented inventions must be claimed with reference to either a product such as a programmed apparatus, or to a process carried out in such an apparatus. Accordingly, where individual elements of software are used in contexts which do not involve the realisation of any validly claimed product or process, such use will not constitute patent infringement.
- (19) The legal protection of computer-implemented inventions does not necessitate the creation of a separate body of law in place of the rules of national patent law. The rules of national patent law remain the essential basis for the legal protection of computer-implemented inventions. This Directive simply clarifies the current legal position with a view to securing legal certainty, transparency, and clarity of the law and avoiding any drift towards the patentability of unpatentable methods such as trivial procedures and business methods.
- (20) This Directive should be limited to laying down certain principles as they apply to the patentability of such inventions, such principles being intended in particular to ensure that inventions which belong to a field of technology and make a technical contribution are susceptible of protection, and conversely to ensure that those inventions which do not make a technical contribution are not so susceptible.
- (21) The competitive position of European industry in relation to its major trading partners will be improved if the current differences in the legal protection of computer-implemented inventions are eliminated and the legal situation is transparent. With the current trend for traditional manufacturing industry to shift their operations to low-cost economies outside the European Union, the importance of intellectual property protection and in particular patent protection is self-evident.

- (22) This Directive should be without prejudice to the application of the competition rules, in particular Articles 81 and 82 of the Treaty.
- (23) The rights conferred by patents granted for inventions within the scope of this Directive should not affect acts permitted under Articles 5 and 6 of Directive 91/250/EEC, in particular under the provisions thereof in respect of decompilation and interoperability. In particular, acts which, under Articles 5 and 6 of that Directive, do not require authorisation of the rightholder with respect to the rightholder's copyrights in or pertaining to a computer program, and which, but for those Articles, would require such authorisation, should not require authorisation of the rightholder with respect to the rightholder's patent rights in or pertaining to the computer program.
- (24) At all events, the legislation of the Member States must ensure that patents contain innovations and involve an inventive step, so as to prevent inventions already in the public domain from being appropriated simply by being incorporated into a computer program.
- (25) Since the objectives of the proposed action, namely to harmonise national rules on computer-implemented inventions, cannot be sufficiently achieved by the Member States and can therefore, by reason of the scale or effects of the action, be better achieved at Community level, the Community may adopt measures, in accordance with the principle of subsidiarity as set out in Article 5 of the Treaty. In accordance with the principle of proportionality, as set out in that Article, this Directive does not go beyond what is necessary to achieve those objectives,

HAVE ADOPTED THIS DIRECTIVE:

Article 1

Scope

This Directive lays down rules for the patentability of computer-implemented inventions.

Article 2

Definitions

For the purposes of this Directive the following definitions shall apply:

- (a) “computer-implemented invention” means any invention within the meaning of the European Patent Convention the performance of which involves the use of a computer, computer network or other programmable apparatus and having in its implementations one or more non-technical features which are realised wholly or partly by a computer program or computer programs, besides the technical features that any invention must contribute;
- (b) “technical contribution”, also called “invention”, means a contribution to the state of the art in a field of technology. The technical character of the contribution is one of the four requirements for patentability. Additionally, to deserve a patent, the technical contribution has to be new, non-obvious, and susceptible of industrial application. The use of natural forces to control physical effects beyond the digital representation of information belongs to a field of technology. The processing, handling, and presentation of information do not belong to a field of technology, even where technical devices are employed for such purposes;

- (c) “field of technology” means an industrial application domain requiring the use of controllable forces of nature to achieve predictable results. “Technical” means “belonging to a field of technology”;
- (d) “industry” within the meaning of patent law means the automated production of material goods.

Article 3

Data-processing and patent law

Member States shall ensure that data processing is not considered to be a field of technology within the meaning of patent law, and that innovations in the field of data processing are not considered to be inventions within the meaning of patent law.

Article 4

Conditions for patentability

- 1. In order to be patentable, a computer-implemented invention must be susceptible of industrial application, new and involve an inventive step. In order to involve an inventive step, a computer-implemented invention must make a technical contribution.
- 2. Member States shall ensure that a computer-implemented invention making a technical contribution constitutes a necessary condition of involving an inventive step.
- 3. The significant extent of the technical contribution shall be assessed by consideration of the difference between all of the technical features included in the scope of the patent claim considered as a whole and the state of the art, irrespective of whether or not such features are accompanied by non-technical features.

4. In determining whether a given computer-implemented invention makes a technical contribution, the following test shall be used: whether it constitutes a new teaching on cause-effect relations in the use of controllable forces of nature and has an industrial application in the strict sense of the expression, in terms of both method and result.

Article 5

Exclusions from patentability

A computer-implemented invention shall not be regarded as making a technical contribution merely because it involves the use of a computer, network or other programmable apparatus. Accordingly, inventions involving computer programs which implement business, mathematical or other methods and do not produce any technical effects beyond the normal physical interactions between a program and the computer, network or other programmable apparatus in which it is run shall not be patentable.

Article 6

Patentability of solutions to technical problems

Member States shall ensure that computer-implemented solutions to technical problems are not considered to be patentable inventions merely because they improve efficiency in the use of resources within the data processing system.

Article 7

Form of claims

1. Member States shall ensure that a computer-implemented invention may be claimed only as a product, that is as a programmed device, or as a technical production process.

2. Member States shall ensure that patent claims granted in respect of computer-implemented inventions include only the technical contribution which justifies the patent claim. A patent claim to a computer program, either on its own or on a carrier, shall not be allowed.

3. Member States shall ensure that the production, handling, processing, distribution and publication of information, in whatever form, can never constitute direct or indirect infringement of a patent, even when a technical apparatus is used for that purpose.

4. Member States shall ensure that the use of a computer program for purposes that do not belong to the scope of the patent cannot constitute a direct or indirect patent infringement.

5. Member States shall ensure that whenever a patent claim names features that imply the use of a computer program, a well-functioning and well documented reference implementation of such a program shall be published as a part of description without any restricting licensing terms.

Article 8

Relationship with Directive 91/250/EEC

The rights conferred by patents granted for inventions within the scope of this Directive shall not affect acts permitted under Articles 5 and 6 of Directive 91/250/EEC, in particular under the provisions thereof in respect of decompilation and interoperability.

Article 9

Use of patented techniques

Member States shall ensure that, wherever the use of a patented technique is needed for a significant purpose, such as ensuring conversion of the conventions used in two different computer systems or networks so as to allow communication and exchange of data content between them, such use is not considered to be a patent infringement.

Article 10

Monitoring

The Commission shall monitor the impact of computer-implemented inventions on innovation and competition, both within Europe and internationally, and on European businesses, especially small and medium-sized enterprises and the open source community, and electronic commerce.

Article 11

Report on the effects of the Directive

The Commission shall report to the European Parliament and the Council, *not later than ..., on

- (a) the impact of patents for computer-implemented inventions on the factors referred to in Article 10;
- (b) whether the rules governing the term of the patent and the determination of the patentability requirements, and more specifically novelty, inventive step and the proper scope of claims, are adequate;

* 54 months after the entry into force of the Directive.

- (c) whether difficulties have been experienced in respect of Member States where the requirements of novelty and inventive step are not examined prior to issuance of a patent, and if so, whether any steps are desirable to address such difficulties;
- (d) whether difficulties have been experienced in respect of the relationship between the protection by patent of computer-implemented inventions and the protection by copyright of computer programs as provided for in Directive 91/250/EEC, and whether any abuse of the patent system has occurred in relation to computer-implemented inventions;
- (e) whether it would be desirable and legally possible having regard to the Community's international obligations to introduce a "grace period" in respect of elements of a patent application for any type of invention disclosed prior to the date of the application;
- (f) the aspects in respect of which it may be necessary to prepare for a diplomatic conference to revise the Convention on the Grant of European Patents, also in the light of the advent of the Community patent;
- (g) how the requirements of this Directive have been taken into account in the practice of the European Patent Office and in its examination guidelines;
- (h) whether the powers delegated to the Office are compatible with the need to harmonise Community legislation, and with the principles of transparency and accountability;
- (i) the impact on the conversion of the conventions used in two different computer systems to allow communication and exchange of data; and
- (j) whether the option outlined in the Directive concerning the use of a patented invention for the sole purpose of ensuring interoperability between two systems is adequate.

In this report the Commission shall justify why it believes an amendment of the Directive necessary or not and, if required, will list the points to which it intends to propose an amendment.

Article 12

Impact assessment

In the light of the monitoring carried out pursuant to Article 10 and the report to be drawn up pursuant to Article 11, the Commission shall assess the impact of this Directive and, where necessary, submit proposals for amending legislation to the European Parliament and the Council.

Article 13

Implementation

1. Member States shall bring into force the laws, regulations and administrative provisions necessary to comply with this Directive not later than ...*. They shall forthwith inform the Commission thereof.

When Member States adopt those provisions, they shall contain a reference to this Directive or shall be accompanied by such a reference on the occasion of their official publication. Member States shall determine how such reference is to be made.

2. Member States shall communicate to the Commission the text of the provisions of national law which they adopt in the field covered by this Directive.

Article 14

Entry into force

This Directive shall enter into force on the twentieth day following that of its publication in the Official Journal of the European Union.

* Eighteen months after the entry into force of the Directive.

Law and practice at the European Patent Office (EPO)

1. Definition of computer-implemented inventions

According to a generally accepted and widely used definition, a “computer-implemented invention” (CII) is an invention whose implementation involves the use of a computer, computer network or other programmable apparatus, the invention having one or more features which are realised wholly or partly by means of a computer program.

2. Legal framework

- The EPO is bound by European patent law as laid down in the European Patent Convention (EPC), which has been adopted by the 31 member states of the European Patent Organisation, and as interpreted by the independent EPO boards of appeal, the judiciary of the Organisation.
- All the 31 member states of the European Patent Organisation have national patent laws whose basic provisions, in particular the patentability requirements, have been harmonised with the EPC.

3. Patentability requirements under the EPC

As with all inventions, computer-implemented inventions are only patentable if they

- have technical character and solve a technical problem,
- are new and
- provide an inventive technical contribution to the prior art.

4. Computer programs as such and computer-implemented business methods claimed as computer programs

The European Patent Office (EPO) does not grant patents for computer programs or computer-implemented business methods that make no technical contribution. In this respect the granting practice of the EPO differs significantly from that of the United States Patent and Trademark Office (USPTO).

Directive on the patentability of computer-implemented inventions

From Wikipedia, the free encyclopedia

(Redirected from EU Directive on the Patentability of Computer-Implemented Inventions)

The European Union (EU) Directive on the patentability of computer-implemented inventions (2002/0047/COD) was a proposal for an EU law which aimed to harmonise EU national patent laws and practices, which involved the granting of patents for computer-implemented inventions provided they meet certain criteria.

The proposal became a major focus for conflict between those who regarded the directive as a way to codify the case law of the Boards of Appeal of the European Patent Office in the sphere of computing, and those who asserted that the directive is an extension of the patentability sphere, not just a harmonisation, that ideas are not patentable and that the expression of those ideas is already adequately protected by the law of copyright.

Following several years of debate, the proposal finally fell when the European Parliament rejected it by an overwhelming majority (648 to 14) in a vote on 6 July 2005.

This failure to reform the exclusion of software followed the failed attempt to delete programs for computers from the list of exclusions from patentability in Article 52(2)(c) (<http://www.european-patent-office.org/legal/epc/e/ar52.html>) EPC of the convention in 2000 at the diplomatic conference in Munich (http://patlaw-reform.european-patent-office.org/epc2000/documents/mr/_pdf/em00015.pdf). At the time the reform was explicitly derogated in order to await the outcome of the consultation process for this EU Directive.

History

Original draft directive

On February 20, 2002, the European Commission initiated a proposal (http://europa.eu.int/eur-lex/lex/LexUriServ/site/en/com/2002/com2002_0092en01.pdf) for a directive to codify and "harmonise" the different EU national patent laws and cement the practice of the European Patent Office of granting patents for computer-implemented inventions provided they meet certain criteria (cf. software patents under the European Patent Convention). The directive also took on the role of excluding "business methods" from patentability (in contrast with the situation under United States law), because business methods as such are not patentable under the different European national patent laws or under the European Patent Convention.

Opponents of the original directive claimed that it was a thinly disguised attempt to make all software patentable. Supporters, however, argued that this was not the case since the proposal (http://europa.eu.int/eur-lex/lex/LexUriServ/site/en/com/2002/com2002_0092en01.pdf) explained in several locations (pages 11, 14, 24, 25) that there should be no extension to the existing scope of patentability for computer programs and that pure business methods implemented in software would not be patentable. Only computer programs which provided a "technical contribution" would be patentable.

This reliance on the word "technical" was an important weakness in the directive, since it is not a word that has a well-defined meaning, and a "technical contribution" was only defined as being "a contribution to the state of the art in a technical field which is not obvious to a person skilled in the art." (See Article 2 of the proposal (http://europa.eu.int/eur-lex/lex/LexUriServ/site/en/com/2002/com2002_0092en01.pdf)). Nevertheless, the term has been used as a benchmark for what is and is not patentable by the EPO and by individual national Patent Offices and courts in Europe (particularly the United Kingdom and Germany) since the early 1980s and a general understanding of its meaning can be gleaned from studying the resulting case law. The subsequent failure of the European Parliament to develop an acceptable definition of what was meant by the word technical illustrates the difficulty inherent in attempting to do so.

Transformation by the European Parliament

On September 24, 2003, the European Parliament passed the directive in a heavily amended form ^[1], which placed significant limits on the patentability of software. The most significant changes included:

- a definition of the "technicity" requirement for patentability which distinguishes between abstract information-processing processes and specific kinds of physical processes (only the latter are "technical");
- a blanket rule that patents cannot be used to prevent interoperability between computer systems.

Patent attorney Axel H. Horns, however, voiced concern that Parliament's wording might extend the ban on software patents to inventions potentially implementable in software, such as signal processing equipment ^[2].

Politically, these amendments were supported almost unanimously by small parties on both the right and left, while the larger groupings (socialists, liberals and conservatives) were all split, with the balance of socialists leaning in favour of amendment and the balance of conservatives leaning against.

Parliament's amendments were a major defeat for the directive's original proponents. Rather than confirming the practice of granting patents for computer programs which provide a technical contribution, the revised directive placed substantial limits on patentability.

Reversion by the Council of Ministers

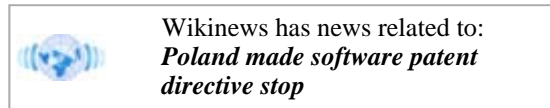

Under the codecision procedure, both the European Parliament and the Council of Ministers (representing national Governments) must approve a text in identical terms in order for a proposal to become law. On 18 May 2004, the Council agreed in an advisory vote to resubmit to Parliament what was described as a "compromise version" of the proposal. The agreed version permitted patenting of computer-implemented inventions (providing the inventions have a "technical character") and overturned most of Parliament's amendments. Critics of the Directive argued that the "technical character" requirement was open to too much interpretation and could lead to almost unlimited patentability of software. Proponents, also, felt that the amended version contained too many ambiguities to be capable of meeting the original purpose of the Directive, which was to harmonise the law across Europe. Nevertheless, the Council formally approved this resolution on March 7, 2005 ^[3]. The revised proposal was resubmitted to Parliament.

Developments between first Parliament decision and Council decision

Subsequently, in an unprecedented move, the Dutch national parliament passed a motion requesting that the nation's ministerial representative on the Council, Laurens Jan Brinkhorst, change his vote on the Council's version of the directive, from "in favour" to abstention. Brinkhorst stated that he would not do this. ^[4] The Council's confirmation (or otherwise) of its President's "compromise" had also been delayed ^[5].

The Polish government announced on November 16, 2004, that it could not "support the text that was agreed upon by Council on 18 May 2004" ^[6]. A joint press release by the FFII, the Internet Society Poland, and NoSoftwarePatents.com, supported the concerns of opponents of the Council directive, stating:

"at a meeting hosted by the Polish government on the 5th of this month, everyone including representatives of the Polish Patent Office, SUN, Novell, Hewlett-Packard and Microsoft, as well as various patent lawyers, confirmed that the present proposal of the EU Council does make all software potentially patentable." ^[7]

On 7 December 2004, the Belgian Minister of Economic Affairs, Marc Verwilghen, stated that no Council decision would be taken until 2005 "for the reason that the qualified majority does not exist anymore". However, amid rumours of a change in the Polish position, the 13-15 December meeting of the Council's Committee of Permanent Representatives determined that a qualified majority appeared to exist, and that the Council's revised version of the directive would be scheduled for formal adoption by the Council, without further debate, probably at the Agriculture and Fisheries Council meeting on the 21st and 22 December 2004. ^[8]

Statements expressing reservations were attached to this Common Position by Belgium (which abstained), France (which hoped for further changes to the directive), the Netherlands (where the parliament requested their representative vote against), Poland (which was opposed until recent diplomatic pressure), Hungary and Latvia. Germany was ambivalent, saying that the text of the directive could benefit from improvements.

Due to the expressed reservations and especially to opposition from Poland, whose Minister of Science and Information Technology made a special journey to Brussels to demand that the directive be dropped from the agenda. The Council's vote was postponed "indefinitely".

Meanwhile, a group of 61 MEPs from 13 countries tabled a "motion for a resolution" to restart the entire legislative process. On 2 February 2005, JURI, the Legal Affairs Committee of the European Parliament, voted 19-1 in favour of asking the Commission to withdraw the directive and restart the process.

The next day, Nicolas Schmit, deputy foreign minister of Luxembourg (which at that time chaired the Council), said that he would instead ask the Council to formally adopt the draft directive at a meeting on 17 February. Although Poland stated it would only oppose this if other countries raised an objection, reports of opposition from Denmark, the Netherlands and Spain ensured that the common position was not on the agenda for that meeting of the Commission.

On 17 February, Parliament's Conference of Presidents (the President of the Parliament and the leaders of the political groups) approved JURI's request to restart the process, and agreed to pass the request to the European Commission. On 24 February, a plenary session of the European Parliament reinforced this message, inviting the Commission to reconsider, but on 28 February the Commission refused the parliament's request.

The "common position" reappeared on the agenda of the Council's 7 March meeting as an "A-item" for adoption without discussion. At the Competitiveness meeting of the Council, Denmark requested that this be removed. The President of the Council, seemingly in breach of the Council's procedures, opposed this, "for administrative reasons" and because it would defeat the logic of the directive. The Danish representative accepted this at face value, declined to object formally, and entered Denmark's objections into the record. The common position was thus adopted without debate, and referred to the European Parliament for a second reading, with dissenting statements and caveats from a number of countries. In the event, only Spain had actually voted against: Austria, Belgium and Italy abstained (which has the same effect as voting against, given the way Qualified Majority Voting works).

Second reading in Parliament

In June 2005, the legal affairs committee of the European Parliament discussed the directive and rejected plans for a complete overhaul of the directive ^[9]. The vote by the committee took place on 21 June 2005, and narrowly decided not to substantially amend the Council version of the directive. According to the Financial Times, this "vote marks a turning point in the protracted battle over the law, which has split the software industry and sparked severe recriminations." ^[10]

On 5 July 2005, the committee's report passed to a plenary session of Parliament for debate by all MEPs. On 6 July 2005, Parliament rejected the proposal by a very large majority (648 in favour of rejection, 14 against and 18 registered abstentions out of 729 total MEPS) without considering any of the other 175 proposed amendments. Under the codecision procedure, the legislative process ended with this rejection and the proposed directive did not become law in any form. This was the first and as of 2005 the only time a directive was ever rejected by Parliament at second reading. ^[11]

European Parliament rejects computer-implemented inventions directive

The vote was the result of a compromise between the different parties: those in favour of software patents feared a text that would heavily limit its scope, while those against rejected the whole principle. Heavy defeat was the "least worst option" to both sides. In addition, some saw the defeat as an expression of Parliament's indignation about the handling of the proposal by the Council of the European Union and the European Commission as well as its concerns about the content of the proposal itself.

Consequences of the rejection

Parliament's decision to strike down the final draft has the effect that national laws will not be harmonised. National legislatures may continue to enact laws allowing patents on computer-implemented inventions, should they wish to do so, and national courts may enforce such laws. The European Patent Office, which is not legally bound by any EU directive but generally adapts its regulations to new EU law, has no reason or incentive to adapt its practice of granting patents on computer-implemented inventions under certain conditions, according to its interpretation of the European Patent Convention and its Implementing Regulations.

Reactions

Supporters of the proposal

Supporters of the proposed directive included Microsoft, IBM, Hewlett-Packard and the European Patent Office.

The European Information and Communication Technology Association (EICTA) warned that "thousands of jobs and inventions were at risk because of opposition from the European parliament to a draft EU directive giving patent protection to scores of new products" ^[1] (<http://www.guardian.co.uk/business/story/0,3604,1351216,00.html>). EICTA's position was in turn been characterised by opponents of software patents as "dominated by patent lawyers from the patent arms of large corporate members" [2] (<http://swpat.ffii.org/players/eicta/index.en.html>), "most of which qualifying as non European companies" [3] (<http://wiki.ael.be/index.php/AgoriaRepresentativity>) and "with a patent policy (...) tailored to the special interests of a few large corporations (...)" [4] (<http://www.nosoftwarepatents.com/en/m/politics/organizations.html>).

Opponents of the proposal

The proposal catalyzed a campaign by diverse opponents of software patents, who took the opportunity afforded by the introduction of the proposal to argue that software patents are neither economically desirable nor mandated by international law. The FFII and the EuroLinux Alliance played key roles in coordinating this lobbying campaign, which drew support from some free software and open source programmers, some academics, some small business groups, and some commercial software developers. Many of these organisations expressed concern over what they saw as abuses of the software patent system in the USA, and argued that although some software patents might be beneficial, the net effect of the Commission's proposals would be to suppress innovation and dampen legitimate competition. The campaign in its turn was characterised by advocates of software patents as "a small but highly organised and vocal lobby" ([5] (<http://www.out-law.com/page-4814>) and [6] (<http://www.out-law.com/page-4835>) for an answer by an opponent), although the opposition to the Directive expressed by the parliaments of a number of member states suggested that opposition was more widespread.

Figures who have supported the campaign against software patents in Europe include Tim Berners-Lee, developer of the World Wide Web, and Linus Torvalds, developer of Linux. Politicians opposed to the directive included Michel Rocard. Political opposition was founded both on opposition to software patents and on hostility towards what was seen as heavy-handed management by the Commission.

On 16 February 2005, the European Parliament's Directorate General for Economic and Scientific Policy issued a briefing paper (<http://www.ffii.org/~jmaebe/epescosci0502/SoftwarePatent.pdf>) (and summary (<http://www.ffii.org/~jmaebe/epescosci0502/SoftwareHandout.pdf>)) which concluded that a directive is needed both to harmonise the laws of the member states and to enable Europe to compete, but which also stated that "if we adopt the current proposal, it will create the same broad and ambiguous system that is in place in USA".

Concerns about the balance of power

Apart from the issue itself, the legislative process for this directive generated concerns about the balance of power between the European Commission and the European Parliament. It also raised concern about the balance between the Council (of member state governments) and Parliament (of elected members from member states). When the Commission rejected Parliament's request to restart discussion on the directive, this led to debates over how much power the Commission should have compared to Parliament and member states. Some MEPs saw the affair as part of a power struggle between the two bodies. Others believed that the real debate was more about whether Council should be able to overrule Parliament, or vice versa.

Software patents and international law

Main articles: Software patents under TRIPs Agreement, Software patents under the European Patent Convention.

Whether international law mandates software patents is a controversial question. The World Trade Organisation's TRIPs Agreement includes a requirement that:

"(...) patents shall be available for any inventions, whether products or processes, in all fields of technology, provided they are new, involve an inventive step and are capable of industrial application" (Art. 27(1)).

The only avenue open for completely avoiding a requirement that algorithms be patentable is to define them as not being "inventions" [7] (<http://www.jenkins-ip.com/patlaw/pa77.htm#s1>); and/or to define them as being non-technical and thus not in a "field of technology". This distinction is arbitrary but also self-consistent, in that it makes perfect sense to distinguish between "technical" processes and devices (i.e., those tied to the physical world) and informational or mathematical processes which have no necessary connection to physics. Because the "field of technology" requirement in TRIPs had its origins in European patent laws, Europe is, in legal terms, free to take steps to define the concept in either a broad or narrow way.

In fact, some people argue that the principle of software patents breaches those very international treaties which impose them according to others. [8] (<http://beauprez.net/softpat/summary.html>)

Patentability requirements under the European Patent Convention

1. Starting point

- The starting point for defining the legal framework within the European patent grant procedure for assessing the patentability of computer-implemented inventions is Article 52 of the European Patent Convention (EPC).
- The EPC contains the fundamental provisions that a patent may be granted in respect of any invention as long as it meets the requirements for patentability (Article 52\(1\) EPC) and is not expressly excluded from patent protection.

2. Definition of the term "invention"

Whilst the EPC sets out the patentability requirements of novelty, inventive step and industrial application in some detail (Article 54, Article 56 and Article 57 EPC), it does not contain a legal definition of the term "invention". It has, however, been part of the European legal tradition since the early days of the patent system that patent protection should be reserved for technical creations. The subject-matter of a patentable invention must therefore have a "technical character" or, to be more precise, involve a "technical teaching", that is an instruction addressed to a skilled person as to how to solve a particular technical problem using particular technical means.

3. Non-patentable inventions

- Although the EPC does not define the term "invention", it does contain a list of subject-matter and activities that are specifically excluded from patent protection on the grounds that they are not considered as having a technical character. The subject-matter and activities are listed in Article 52\(2\) EPC, which stipulates that they are not to be regarded as "inventions" within the meaning of European patent law. The list is not exhaustive but enumerates the major exclusions, including "methods for doing business" and "programs for computers".
- It should be emphasised that, under Article 52\(3\) EPC, these exceptions have to be interpreted narrowly. The subject-matter and activities on the list are only non-patentable if the European patent application or European patent relates to them as such. Therefore, inventions having a technical character which are or may be implemented by computer programs may well be patentable.

- Patentability requirements under the EPC
- Board of appeal decisions
- Other relevant aspects
- Proposed legislative reforms

Board of appeal decisions

1. The role of the boards of appeal

- The boards of appeal are completely independent in reaching their decisions, in that they are not bound by any instructions but are obliged to comply only with the provisions of the EPC. They are responsible for reviewing the decisions of the EPO in grant and opposition proceedings. In doing so they interpret the EPC in cases where disputes arise. In the field of computer-implemented inventions the boards of appeal have developed the interpretation of the EPC provisions relating to the term "invention" in a number of decisions, providing clear guidance on what is patentable and what is not.
- The EPC as interpreted by the boards of appeal enables and obliges the EPO to grant patents for many inventions in which software makes a technical contribution.

2. The patentability or non-patentability of computer-implemented inventions

According to the established granting practice of the EPO and the case law of the boards of appeal, computer-implemented inventions:

- can be patented if they provide an inventive technical contribution to the prior art;
- are not patentable if there is no technical contribution to the prior art or, if there is such contribution, where that contribution is not new or inventive.

3. Patentability may not be denied merely on the grounds that a computer program is involved

The decision of the technical board of appeal in case T 208/84 "VICOM" held that a claim directed to subject-matter for controlling or carrying out a technical process is patentable irrespective of whether it is implemented by hardware or software. The decision as to whether a process is carried out by means of special circuits or by means of a computer program depends on economic and technological factors. Patentability may not be denied merely on the grounds that a computer program is involved. This was confirmed by the decision in case T 26/86 "KOCH & STERZEL" concerning X-ray equipment designed for radiological imaging using a computer program.

4. Patentability is allowed only if there is a further technical effect

A special case arises in connection with claims to computer program products, such as computer programs stored on a data carrier. These constitute patentable subject-matter only if there is a "further technical effect", that is one going beyond the normal physical effects (for example, the flow of electrical current) which occur when any program is executed. Such further technical effect might be, for instance,

- the more secure operation of the brakes of a car or train
- faster communication between two mobile phones with improved quality of voice transmission.

However, such claims are only allowed by the EPO if they relate to a new and inventive technical process which may be carried out by a computer program (see Guidelines for Examination in the EPO, C-IV, 2.3).

This practice is consistent with the case law of the EPO boards of appeal (decisions T 1173/97 "IBM" and T 935/97 "IBM").

5. Business methods as such are excluded from patentability

Nevertheless, if the claimed subject-matter specifies an apparatus or technical process for carrying out at least some part of the business method, that business method and the apparatus or technical process have to be examined as a whole (decisions T 931/95 "PBS" and T 641/00 "COMVIK" and Guidelines for Examination in the EPO, C-IV, 2.3). In particular, if the claim specifies computers, computer networks or other conventional programmable apparatus, or a program therefor, for carrying out at least some steps of a business method, it is to be examined as a computer-implemented invention (decisions T 1173/97 "IBM" and T 935/97 "IBM").

Law and practice at the European Patent Office

- Patentability requirements under the EPC
- Board of appeal decisions
- Other relevant aspects
- Proposed legislative reforms

Other relevant aspects

1. Source codes

- There is no legal basis in the EPC for requesting a program source code from the applicant, nor is it the policy of the EPO to require or examine source codes or to publish them as annexes to patent application documents (which consist of the request for grant, the claims, the description, the drawings and the abstract). The source code is neither necessary nor appropriate for sufficient disclosure of a computer-implemented invention. For examination and publication purposes the inventive concept must be disclosed in the application in a manner sufficiently clear and complete for it to be carried out by a person skilled in the art. This does not require disclosure of a source code.
- Moreover, given the length and complexity of source code listings, which can often stretch to hundreds of pages, it would be quite impossible to examine them.

2. “No search” declarations

- Business methods, even if they involve the use of a computer, are not themselves patentable in Europe if their technical implementation is straightforward. Such methods are, however, often patented in the USA.
- Claims to business methods and their commonplace technological implementation in patent applications are not searched by the EPO because a meaningful search into the state of the art is not possible. In such cases a declaration is issued that no search report will be established or, where appropriate, a partial search report only will be established. This practice also enables the EPO to indicate to the applicant at a very early stage that the claims of the application contain subject-matter that is not patentable.

3. Patents for “trivial” inventions

- The expression “trivial patent” is ambiguous and subjective. If a “trivial” patent is one that has been granted but, in the opinion of a third party, should not have been because it lacks novelty or inventive step, then mechanisms exist by which such patents may be challenged.
- Furthermore, with hindsight many patented inventions may appear to be trivial or obvious, though at the priority date of the application they were not. Finally, in cases where the scope of protection is small or has become small, perhaps because the examiner has in the light of the prior art imposed additional restrictions to the claims, such that it might appear to be "trivial" in the opinion of third parties, then such a patent may be of doubtful value to its owner and unlikely to block any further technical innovation.

Diplomatic conference to revise the EPC

- In June 1999 the member states of the European Patent Organisation gathered in Paris at an intergovernmental conference on the reform of the patent system in Europe. The mandate adopted by the Conference stated that "it is desirable to eliminate any ambiguity regarding the patentability of inventions involving software" and requested the Organisation to "prepare a revision conference to be convened in the year 2000 with a view to adopting a revised text relating in particular to Article 52\(2\) EPC" Article 52(2) EPC excludes computer programs as such from patentability.
- The Diplomatic Conference to revise the EPC took place in November 2000. The patentability of computer programs was one of many revision points submitted to the Conference. It was proposed that programs for computers be deleted from the list in Article 52\(2\) (see the "Basic proposal for the revision of the EPC" MR/2/00, pages 43-44).
- The Conference however decided to leave Article 52(2) EPC unchanged. In a conference resolution adopted on 29 November 2000, the signatory states "agreed to maintain for the present the EPC's current provisions on software".
- Furthermore, in a press conference held at the end of the conference, chairman Roland Grossenbacher said : "The Conference agreed not to delete computer programs from the list of non-patentable inventions. For the meantime, the existing legal position therefore remains unchanged. The Conference's decision took account of the process of consultation on the future of legal protection in this field, and in no way challenges the existing practice of the Office and its boards of appeal, or that of national patent authorities and courts. As before, computer-implemented inventions can be patented if they involve a new and inventive technical contribution to the state of the art. Technical solutions for use in data processing or for carrying out methods of doing business therefore remain patentable" (see Statement by the chairman of the Diplomatic Conference).

Proposed EU directive on the patentability of computer-implemented inventions

- On 20 February 2002 the European Commission presented a proposal for a directive on the patentability of computer-implemented inventions.
- The recitals accompanying the proposal explain the background to the Commission's initiative:
 - (1) ... "Effective, transparent and harmonised protection of computer-implemented inventions throughout the Member States is essential to maintain and encourage investment in this field.
 - (2) Differences exist in the protection of computer-implemented inventions offered by the administrative practices and the case law of the Member States. Such differences could create barriers to trade and hence impede the proper functioning of the internal market.
 - (3) Such differences have developed and could become greater as Member States adopt new and different administrative practices, or where national case law interpreting the current legislation evolves differently
 - (5) ... the legal rules as interpreted by Member States' courts should be harmonised and the law governing the patentability of computer-implemented inventions should be made transparent."
- The first reading in the European Parliament took place on 23 -24 September 2003.
- On 7 March 2005, the Council agreed on a common position.
- On 6 July 2005, the European Parliament, in the second reading, rejected the proposed directive by 648 votes to 14 with 18 abstentions. This terminates the legislative procedure. The Commission has indicated that, for the time being, it does not intend to present a new proposal for legislation in this field.

European Patent Office continues to advocate harmonisation in the field of CII patents

Munich/Strasbourg, 6 July 2005 - The European Patent Office (EPO) has followed with interest the vote of the European Parliament today and has taken note of the decision of the European Parliament not to accept the Directive on the patentability of computer-implemented inventions (CII) according to the Common Position of the Council. The proposed Directive is therefore deemed not to have been adopted. "The objective of the directive would have been to harmonize the understanding of what constitutes a patentable invention in the field of CII", explained the President of the EPO, Professor Alain Pompidou.

The EPO carries out a centralised patent granting procedure for the 31 member states of the European Patent Organisation. "Our Organisation was founded by almost the same countries as those which founded the European Union, and in the same spirit. The purpose behind the creation of the EPO was to make the patenting process in Europe more efficient by applying a single procedure on the basis of the European Patent Convention (EPC). In its practice, the EPO follows strictly the provisions of the Convention, which has been ratified by all member states of the Organisation", President Pompidou explained.

Under the EPC a well-defined practice on granting patents in the field of CII has been established: "The EPC provides the general legal basis for the grant of European patents, whereas the objective of the directive would have been to harmonise the EU member states' rules on CII and the relevant provisions of the EPC. The EPC also governs our work in the field of CII, together with the case law of our judiciary, the Boards of Appeal of the EPO," Mr Pompidou said.

As with all inventions, CII are only patentable if they have technical character, are new and involve an inventive technical contribution to the prior art. Moreover, the EPO does not grant "software patents": computer programs claimed as such, algorithms or computer-implemented business methods that make no technical contribution are not considered patentable inventions under the EPC. In this respect, the practice of the EPO differs significantly from that of the United States Patent & Trademark Office.

Appeal procedure before the European Patent Office

From Wikipedia, the free encyclopedia

Decisions of the first instances of the European Patent Office (EPO) can be appealed, i.e. challenged, before the Boards of Appeal of the EPO, in a judicial procedure (proper to an administrative court), as opposed to an administrative procedure. These boards act as the final instances in the granting and opposition procedures before the EPO.

In addition to the Boards of Appeal, the European Patent Office includes an Enlarged Board of Appeal. This board does not constitute an additional level of jurisdiction in the classical sense. This instance takes decisions only when the case law of the Boards of Appeal becomes inconsistent or when an important point of law arises. Its purpose is "to ensure uniform application of the law" ^[1] and to clarify or interpret important points of law in relation to the European Patent Convention.

Only the Boards of Appeal themselves and the President of the EPO can refer a question to the Enlarged Board of Appeal. In the first case, the Enlarged Board issues a decision, while in the latter case it issues an opinion.

Appointment and independence

The members of the Boards of Appeal and of the Enlarged Board of Appeal are appointed by the Administrative Council of the EPO on a proposal from the President of the EPO, ^[2] and are employed of the European Patent Organisation. In contrast, members of the search divisions and of the examining divisions of the EPO are employed by the European Patent Office.

Members of the Boards are only bound by the European Patent Convention. They are not bound by any instructions, such as the "Guidelines for Examination in the European Patent Office". They have a duty of independence. ^[3]

However, since "the [appeal] boards' administrative and organisational attachment to the EPO which is an administrative authority obscures their judicial nature and is not fully commensurate with their function as a judicial body" ^[4], there have been calls for creating, within the European Patent Organisation, a third judicial body alongside the Administrative Council and the European Patent Office. This third judicial body would replace the present Boards of Appeal and could be called the "Court of Appeals of the European Patent Organisation" ^[5] or the "European Court of Patent Appeals". ^[4] This third body would have his own budget, would have its seat in Munich, Germany and would be supervised "without prejudice to its judicial independence" by the Administrative Council of the EPO. ^[4] The EPO has also proposed that the members of the Boards of Appeal should be appointed for lifetime, "with grounds for termination exhaustively regulated in the EPC". ^[4] These change would however need to be approved by a new Diplomatic Conference.

Decisions and opinions

Binding character

The legal system established under the EPC differs from a common law legal system in that "[it] does not treat (...) established jurisprudence as binding." ^[6] Indeed, a decision of a Board of Appeal is only binding on to the department whose decision was appealed, in so far as the facts are the same (if the case is remitted to the first instance of course) ^[7] However, "[if] the decision which was appealed emanated from the Receiving Section, the Examining Division shall similarly be bound by the ratio decidendi of the Board of Appeal." ^[8]

A decision of the Enlarged Board of Appeal (pursuant to Article 112(1)(a) (<http://www.european-patent-office.org/legal/epc/e/ar112.html>) EPC) is only binding on the Board of Appeal in respect of the appeal in question, i.e. on the Board of Appeal which referred the question to the Enlarged Board of Appeal. In practice however, the Boards of Appeal rarely diverge from the case law established by the Enlarged Board of Appeal.

If "a Board [of Appeal] considers it necessary to deviate from an interpretation or explanation of the [EPC] given in an earlier decision of any Board [of Appeal], the grounds for this deviation shall be given, unless such grounds are in accordance with an earlier opinion or decision of the Enlarged Board of Appeal. The President of the European Patent Office shall be informed of the Board's decision." ^[9]

References

Each decision issued by the Boards of Appeal or by the Enlarged Board of Appeal, as well as each opinion of the Enlarged Board of Appeal, has an alphanumeric reference, such as decision T 285/93. The first letter of the reference gives an indication of the type of board which took the decision:

- G - Enlarged Board of Appeal
- T - Technical Board of Appeal
- J - Legal Board of Appeal
- D - Disciplinary Board of Appeal
- W - Decision concerning PCT reserves

The last two digits give the year during which the appeal was lodged. Note that the letter "L" does not refer to a decision of a Board of Appeal but to a Legal Advice of the EPO ^[10], and that the letter "V" refers to decisions of Examination and Opposition Divisions. ^[11]

In addition to their alphanumeric reference, decisions are sometimes referred to and identified by their date. This enables to distinguish between decisions bearing the same alphanumeric reference but issued at a different date (e.g. T 843/91 of March 17, 1993 ^[1] (<http://legal.european-patent-office.org/dg3/biblio/t910843ex1.htm>) and T 843/91 of August 5, 1993 ^[2] (<http://legal.european-patent-office.org/dg3/biblio/t910843ex2.htm>), T 59/87 of April 26, 1988 ^[3] (<http://legal.european-patent-office.org/dg3/biblio/t870059eu1.htm>) and T 59/87 of August 14, 1990 ^[4] (<http://legal.european-patent-office.org/dg3/biblio/t870059ep2.htm>) or T 261/88 of March 28, 1991 ^[5] (<http://legal.european-patent-office.org/dg3/biblio/t880261ep1.htm>) and T 261/88 of February 16, 1993 ^[6] (<http://legal.european-patent-office.org/dg3/biblio/t880261eu2.htm>)). These cases are relatively rare however.

PREFACE

This 12th, revised edition of the European Patent Convention contains the texts of the Convention on the Grant of European Patents (version as of 1 January 2006) and its Implementing Regulations (version as of 1 July 2005), the Protocol on Centralisation of 5 October 1973, the Protocol on Recognition of 5 October 1973, the Protocol on Privileges and Immunities of 5 October 1973 and the Rules relating to Fees (version as of 1 April 2006). On 29.11.2000, the Diplomatic Conference 2000 (see OJ EPO 2001, Special edition No. 4) adopted numerous amendments to the EPC. These new provisions have been inserted in addition to the existing texts. This 12th edition takes account for the first time of the following decisions of the Administrative Council: decision of 7 June 2002 amending the Regulation on the establishment of an Institute of professional representatives before the European Patent Office (OJ EPO 2002, 429); decision of 24 October 2002 amending the Regulation on the European qualifying examination for professional representatives (OJ EPO 2002, 565); decision of 12 December 2002 approving amendments to the Rules of Procedure of the Enlarged Board of Appeal of the European Patent Office (OJ EPO 2003, 58); decision of 12 December 2002 approving amendments to the Rules of Procedure of the Boards of Appeal of the European Patent Office (OJ EPO 2003, 61); decision of 5 June 2003 setting up a Board of the Administrative Council (OJ EPO 2003, 333); decision of 30 October 2003 amending the Rules relating to Fees - Article 2 item 2 - (OJ EPO 2003, 531 f); decision of 30 October 2003 concerning the operation of the Board of the Administrative Council (OJ EPO 2003, 579); decision of 4 December 2003 amending the Rules relating to Fees - Article 2 item 1 - (OJ EPO 2004, 3 f); decision of 17 June 2004 amending the Regulation on the establishment of an institute of professional representatives before the European Patent Office (OJ EPO 2004, 361); decision of 29 October 2004 approving an amendment to the Rules of Procedure of the Boards of Appeal of the European Patent Office (OJ EPO 2004, 541); decision of 9 December 2004 amending the Implementing Regulations - Rule 44a - and the Rules relating to Fees - Article 2 items 2 and 6, Article 10 - (OJ EPO 2005, 5 ff); decision of 9 December 2004 amending the Implementing Regulations - Rule 51(4) - (OJ EPO 2005, 8 f); decision of 9 December 2004 amending the Rules relating to Fees - Article 2 items 12 and 13 - (OJ EPO 2005, 10); decision of 9 December 2004 amending the Implementing Regulations - Rules 54 and 108 - and the Rules relating to Fees - Article 2 item 3c - (OJ EPO 2005, 11 f); decision of 10 June 2005

INTRODUCTION

La douzième édition révisée de la Convention sur le brevet européen comprend les textes mis à jour de la Convention sur la délivrance de brevets européens (rédaction du 1^{er} janvier 2006) avec son règlement d'exécution (rédaction du 1^{er} juillet 2005), du protocole sur la centralisation du 5 octobre 1973, du protocole sur la reconnaissance du 5 octobre 1973, du protocole sur les privilèges et immunités du 5 octobre 1973 et du règlement relatif aux taxes (rédaction du 1^{er} avril 2006). Le 29.11.2000, la Conférence diplomatique 2000 (cf. JO OEB 2001, édition spéciale n°4) a adopté de nombreuses modifications à la CBE. Les articles 16, 17, 18, 37, 38, 42 et 50 CBE et le Protocole sur la centralisation tels qu'amendés et le Protocole sur les effectifs s'appliquent à titre provisoire et prennent donc immédiatement effet. Ces nouvelles dispositions ont été insérées en sus des textes existants. L'édition révisée contient en outre une liste des décisions/avis publiés de la Grande Chambre de recours (Annexe I), un tableau récapitulatif des renseignements juridiques communiqués par l'OEB (Annexe II) et un index alphabétique.

La douzième édition tient compte pour la première fois des décisions suivantes du Conseil d'administration : décision du 7 juin 2002 modifiant le Règlement relatif à la création d'un Institut des mandataires agréés près l'Office européen des brevets (JO OEB 2002, 429) ; décision du 24 octobre 2002 modifiant le règlement relatif à l'examen européen de qualification des mandataires agréés (JO OEB 2002, 565) ; décision du 12 décembre 2002 approuvant les modifications du règlement de procédure de la Grande Chambre de recours de l'Office européen des brevets (JO OEB 2003, 58) ; décision du 12 décembre 2002 approuvant les modifications du règlement de procédure des chambres de recours de l'Office européen des brevets (JO OEB 2003, 61) ; décision du 5 juin 2003 instituant un Bureau du Conseil d'administration (JO OEB 2003, 333) ; décision du 30 octobre 2003 modifiant le règlement relatif aux taxes - article 2, point 2 - (JO OEB 2003, 531 s.) ; décision du 30 octobre 2003 relative à la mise en œuvre du Bureau du Conseil d'administration (JO OEB 2003, 579) ; décision du 4 décembre 2003 modifiant le règlement relatif aux taxes - article 2, point 1 - (JO OEB 2004, 3 s.) ; décision du 17 juin 2004 modifiant le Règlement relatif à la création d'un Institut des mandataires agréés près l'Office européen des brevets (JO OEB 2004, 361) ; décision du 29 octobre 2004 approuvant une modification du règlement de procédure des chambres de recours de l'Office européen des brevets (JO OEB 2004, 541) ; décision du 9 décembre 2004 modifiant le règlement d'exécution - règle 44bis - et le règlement relatif aux taxes - article 2, points 2 et 6, article 10 - (JO OEB 2005, 5 s.) ; décision du 9 décembre 2004 modifiant le règlement d'exécution - règle 51(4) - (JO OEB 2005, 8 s.) ; décision du 9 décembre 2004 modifiant le règlement relatif aux taxes - article 2, points 12 et 13 - (JO OEB 2005, 10) ; décision du 9 décembre 2004 modifiant le règlement d'exécution - règles 54 et 108 - et le Gebührenordnung - Artikel 2 Nummern 12 und 13 - (ABl. EPA 2005, 10); Beschluss vom 9. Dezember 2004 zur Änderung der Ausführungsordnung - Regeln 54 und 108 - und der Gebührenordnung - Artikel 2 Nummer 3c - (ABl. EPA 2005, 11 f.); Beschluss vom 10. Juni 2005 zur Herabsetzung der Gebühr für die ergänzende europäische Recherche (ABl. EPA 2005, 422); Beschluss vom 27. Oktober 2005 zur Änderung des EPÜ - Artikel 97 (4) und (5) - (ABl. EPA 2005, 545 f.); Beschlüsse vom 27. Oktober 2005 zur Herabsetzung der Gebühr für die ergänzende europäische Recherche (ABl. EPA 2005, 546, 548); Beschlüsse vom 15. Dezember 2005 zur Änderung der Gebührenordnung - Artikel 2 - und zur Herabsetzung der Gebühr für die ergänzende europäische Recherche (ABl. EPA 2006, 8 ff., 13 f.).

Die vom Verwaltungsrat der Europäischen Patentorganisation seit dem Inkrafttreten des Übereinkommens am 7. Oktober 1977 beschlossenen Änderungen des Übereinkommens, der Ausführungsordnung und der Gebührenordnung sind in Fußnoten zu den betroffenen Bestimmungen kenntlich gemacht. Sie weisen das Datum des entsprechenden Verwaltungsratsbeschlusses, den Zeitpunkt seines Inkrafttretens und die Fundstelle seiner Veröffentlichung im Amtsblatt des Europäischen Patentamts (ABl. EPA) aus.

Bei einigen wenigen Vorschriften, deren redaktionelle Fassung zu Zweifeln Anlass geben könnte, erschien es nützlich, durch Randvermerke darauf hinzuweisen.

Neben den Texten des Übereinkommens und der Ausführungsordnung erscheinen Verweisungen auf einschlägige Artikel und Regeln. In den einzelnen Vorschriften selbst bereits zitierte Artikel und Regeln werden jedoch nicht nochmals angeführt. Es wird ausdrücklich darauf hingewiesen, dass diese Verweisungen nicht Bestandteil der offiziellen Texte des Übereinkommens sind, sondern, ohne Anspruch auf Vollständigkeit zu erheben, die praktische Handhabung der Textausgabe erleichtern sollen.

Hierzu dienen auch die o.g. Anhänge I und II sowie das alphabetische Sachregister. Hinweise auf die Aktenzeichen der Entscheidungen/Stellungnahmen der Großen Beschwerdekammer und auf die Nummern der Rechtsauskünfte sind bei den betroffenen Artikeln und Regeln als Fußnoten abgedruckt.

reducing the fee for the supplementary European search (OJ EPO 2005, 422); decision of 27 October 2005 amending the EPC - Article 97(4) and (5) - (OJ EPO 2005, 545 f); decisions of 27 October 2005 reducing the fee for the supplementary European search (OJ EPO 2005, 546, 548); decisions of 15 December 2005 amending the Rules relating to Fees - Article 2 - and reducing the fee for the supplementary European search (OJ EPO 2006, 8 ff, 13 f).

The amendments made to the Convention, the Implementing Regulations and the Rules relating to Fees by decisions of the Administrative Council of the European Patent Organisation since the Convention entered into force on 7 October 1977 are indicated in footnotes to the provisions in question. These footnotes give the date of the Administrative Council decision concerned, the date on which it entered into force and the reference to the Official Journal of the European Patent Office (OJ EPO) in which it was published.

It has been thought useful to indicate, by way of marginal notes, some provisions the drafting of which might give rise to misinterpretation.

References to pertinent Articles and Rules appear on the right-hand side of the text of the Convention and its Implementing Regulations. However, Articles and Rules already quoted in the provisions themselves are not again indicated. It is expressly pointed out that these references do not form part of the official text. They are simply intended to facilitate its use, and do not claim to be exhaustive.

Annexes I, II and the alphabetical keyword index as mentioned above are designed to serve the same purpose. The reference numbers of the decisions/opinions of the Enlarged Board of Appeal and the Legal Advice numbers are indicated in a footnote to the Articles and Rules in question.

December 2005 European Patent Office

règlement relatif aux taxes - article 2, point 3c - (JO OEB 2005, 11 s.) ; décision du 10 juin 2005 réduisant la taxe due pour la recherche européenne complémentaire (JO OEB 2005, 422) ; décision du 27 octobre 2005 modifiant la CBE - article 97(4) et (5) - (JO OEB 2005, 545 s.) ; décisions du 27 octobre 2005 réduisant la taxe due pour la recherche européenne complémentaire (JO OEB 2005, 546, 548) ; décisions du 15 décembre 2005 modifiant le règlement relatif aux taxes - article 2 - et réduisant la taxe due pour la recherche européenne complémentaire (JO OEB 2006, 8 s., 13 s.).

Les modifications apportées à la Convention, au règlement d'exécution et au règlement relatif aux taxes par le Conseil d'administration de l'Organisation européenne des brevets depuis l'entrée en vigueur de la Convention le 7 octobre 1977 sont indiquées dans les notes en bas de page correspondant aux dispositions en cause. Ces notes indiquent la date à laquelle la décision du Conseil d'administration est intervenue, la date de l'entrée en vigueur et la référence de la publication de la décision au Journal officiel de l'Office européen des brevets (JO OEB).

Dans les quelques cas où la rédaction de certaines dispositions pourrait susciter des doutes, il nous a paru opportun de l'indiquer en marge.

La présente édition de la Convention sur le brevet européen et de son règlement d'exécution comporte en marge, à droite du texte des dispositions de la Convention et du règlement d'exécution, des renvois aux articles et aux règles pertinents. Toutefois, les articles et règles cités dans le texte de ces dispositions ne sont pas repris en marge. Il convient de souligner que ces renvois ne font pas partie intégrante des textes officiels de la Convention, mais que, sans toutefois prétendre à l'exhaustivité, ils sont destinés à en faciliter la consultation.

C'est aussi à cette fin qu'ont été joints les annexes I, II susmentionnées et l'index alphabétique. Les renvois aux numéros de référence des décisions/avis publiés de la Grande Chambre de recours et aux numéros des renseignements juridiques figurent sous forme de notes en bas de page sous les articles et règles concernés.

(1)²⁵ Jeder Vertragsstaat zahlt an die Organisation für jedes in diesem Staat aufrechterhaltene europäische Patent einen Betrag in Höhe eines vom Verwaltungsrat festzusetzenden Anteils an der Jahresgebühr, der 75 % nicht übersteigen darf und für alle Vertragsstaaten gleich ist. Liegt der Betrag unter einem vom Verwaltungsrat festgesetzten einheitlichen Mindestbetrag, so hat der betreffende Vertragsstaat der Organisation diesen Mindestbetrag zu zahlen.

Article 39

Payments by the Contracting States in respect of renewal fees for European patents

(1)²⁵ Each Contracting State shall pay to the Organisation in respect of each renewal fee received for a European patent in that State an amount equal to a proportion of that fee, to be fixed by the Administrative Council; the proportion shall not exceed 75 per cent and shall be the same for all Contracting States. However, if the said proportion corresponds to an amount which is less than a uniform minimum amount fixed by the Administrative Council, the Contracting State shall pay that minimum to the Organisation.

(2) Each Contracting State shall communicate to the Organisation such information as the Administrative Council considers to be necessary to determine the amount of its payments.

(3) The due dates for these payments shall be determined by the Administrative Council.

(4) If a payment is not remitted fully by the due date, the Contracting State shall pay interest from the due date on the amount remaining unpaid.

Article 40

(1) The amounts of the fees referred to under Article 38 and the proportion referred to under Article 39 shall be fixed at such a level as to ensure that the revenue in respect thereof is sufficient for the budget of the Organisation to be balanced.

(2) However, if the Organisation is unable to balance its budget under the conditions laid down in paragraph 1, the Contracting States shall remit to the Organisation special financial contributions, the amount of which shall be determined by the Administrative Council for the accounting period in question.

(3) These special financial contributions shall be determined in respect of any Contracting State on the basis of the number of patent applications filed in the last year but one prior to that of entry into force of this Convention, and calculated in the following manner:

Art. 35, 40, 41, 47, 50, 141, 146, 147, 161, 176

(1)²⁵ Chaque Etat contractant verse à l'Organisation, au titre de chaque taxe perçue pour le maintien en vigueur d'un brevet européen dans cet Etat, une somme dont le montant correspond à un pourcentage de cette taxe, à fixer par le Conseil d'administration, qui ne peut excéder 75 % et est uniforme pour tous les Etats contractants. Si ledit pourcentage correspond à un montant inférieur au minimum uniforme fixé par le Conseil d'administration, l'Etat contractant verse ce minimum à l'Organisation.

(2) Chaque Etat contractant communique à l'Organisation tous les éléments jugés nécessaires par le Conseil d'administration pour déterminer le montant de ces versements.

(3) La date à laquelle les versements doivent être effectués est fixée par le Conseil d'administration.

(4) Si un versement n'est pas intégralement effectué à la date fixée, l'Etat contractant est redevable, à compter de cette date, d'un intérêt sur le montant impayé.

Article 40

Niveau des taxes et des versements - Contributions financières exceptionnelles

Art. 35, 36, 47, 50, 161, 170, 176

(1) Le montant des taxes et le pourcentage, visés respectivement aux articles 38 et 39, doivent être déterminés de manière que les recettes correspondantes permettent d'assurer l'équilibre du budget de l'Organisation.

(2) Toutefois, lorsque l'Organisation se trouve dans l'impossibilité de réaliser l'équilibre du budget dans les conditions prévues au paragraphe 1, les Etats contractants versent à l'Organisation des contributions financières exceptionnelles, dont le montant est fixé par le Conseil d'administration pour l'exercice budgétaire considéré.

(3) Les contributions financières exceptionnelles sont déterminées pour chacun des Etats contractants par référence au nombre des demandes de brevet déposées au cours de l'avant-dernière année précédant celle de l'entrée en vigueur de la présente convention et selon la clé de répartition ci-après :

a) pour moitié, proportionnellement au nombre des demandes de brevet déposées dans l'Etat contractant concerné ;

b) zur Hälfte im Verhältnis der zweithöchsten Zahl von Patentanmeldungen, die von natürlichen oder juristischen Personen mit Wohnsitz oder Sitz in dem jeweiligen Vertragsstaat in den anderen Vertragsstaaten eingereicht worden sind.

Die Beträge, die von den Staaten zu tragen sind, in denen mehr als 25 000 Patentanmeldungen eingereicht worden sind, werden jedoch zusammengefasst und erneut im Verhältnis der Gesamtzahl der in diesen Staaten eingereichten Patentanmeldungen aufgeteilt.

(4) Kann für einen Vertragsstaat ein Beteiligungssatz nicht nach Absatz 3 ermittelt werden, so legt ihn der Verwaltungsrat im Einvernehmen mit diesem Staat fest.

(5) Artikel 39 Absätze 3 und 4 ist auf die besonderen Finanzbeiträge entsprechend anzuwenden.

(6) Die besonderen Finanzbeiträge werden mit Zinsen zu einem Satz zurückgezahlt, der für alle Vertragsstaaten einheitlich ist. Die Rückzahlungen erfolgen, soweit zu diesem Zweck Mittel im Haushaltsplan bereitgestellt werden können; der bereitgestellte Betrag wird nach dem in den Absätzen 3 und 4 vorgesehenen Aufbringungs Schlüssel auf die Vertragsstaaten verteilt.

(7) Die in einem bestimmten Haushaltsjahr gezahlten besonderen Finanzbeiträge müssen in vollem Umfang zurückgezahlt sein, bevor in einem späteren Haushaltsjahr gezahlte besondere Finanzbeiträge ganz oder teilweise zurückgezahlt werden.

Artikel 41

Vorschüsse

(1) Die Vertragsstaaten gewähren der Organisation auf Antrag des Präsidenten des Europäischen Patentamts Vorschüsse auf ihre Zahlungen und Beiträge in der vom Verwaltungsrat festgesetzten Höhe. Diese Vorschüsse werden auf die Vertragsstaaten im Verhältnis der Beträge, die von diesen Staaten für das betreffende Haushaltsjahr zu zahlen sind, aufgeteilt.

(2) Artikel 39 Absätze 3 und 4 ist auf die Vorschüsse entsprechend anzuwenden.

[Artikel 42

Haushaltsplan

(1) Alle Einnahmen und Ausgaben der Organisation werden für jedes Haushaltsjahr veranschlagt und in den Haushaltsplan eingesetzt. Falls erforderlich, können Berichtigungs- und Nachtragshaushaltspläne festgelegt werden.

(b) one half in proportion to the second highest number of patent applications filed in the other Contracting States by natural or legal persons having their residence or principal place of business in that Contracting State.

However, the amounts to be contributed by States in which the number of patent applications filed exceeds 25 000 shall then be taken as a whole and a new scale drawn up determined in proportion to the total number of patent applications filed in these States.

(4) Where, in respect of any Contracting State, its scale position cannot be established in accordance with paragraph 3, the Administrative Council shall, with the consent of that State, decide its scale position.

(5) Article 39, paragraphs 3 and 4, shall apply mutatis mutandis to the special financial contributions.

(6) The special financial contributions shall be repaid together with interest at a rate which shall be the same for all Contracting States. Repayments shall be made in so far as it is possible to provide for this purpose in the budget; the amount thus provided shall be distributed among the Contracting States in accordance with the scale mentioned in paragraphs 3 and 4 above.

Toutefois, les sommes mises à la charge des Etats dans lesquels le nombre des demandes de brevet déposées est supérieur à 25 000 sont reprises globalement et réparties à nouveau proportionnellement au nombre total des demandes de brevet déposées dans ces mêmes Etats.

(4) Lorsque le montant de la contribution d'un Etat contractant ne peut être déterminé dans les conditions visées au paragraphe 3, le Conseil d'administration fixe ce montant en accord avec l'Etat intéressé.

(5) Les dispositions de l'article 39, paragraphes 3 et 4, sont applicables aux contributions financières exceptionnelles.

(6) Les contributions financières exceptionnelles sont remboursées avec un intérêt dont le taux est uniforme pour tous les Etats contractants. Les remboursements interviennent dans la mesure où il est possible de prévoir des crédits à cet effet dans le budget et le montant ainsi prévu sera réparti entre les Etats contractants en fonction de la clé de répartition mentionnée aux paragraphes 3 et 4 du présent article.

(7) Les contributions financières exceptionnelles versées au cours d'un exercice déterminé sont intégralement remboursées avant qu'il ne soit procédé au remboursement total ou partiel de toute contribution exceptionnelle versée au cours d'un exercice ultérieur.

R. 23d/quinquies, 23e/sexies

Les brevets européens ne sont pas délivrés pour :

a) les inventions dont la publication ou la mise en oeuvre serait contraire à l'ordre public ou aux bonnes moeurs, la mise en oeuvre d'une invention ne pouvant être considérée comme telle du seul fait qu'elle est interdite, dans tous les Etats contractants ou dans l'un ou plusieurs d'entre eux, par une disposition légale ou réglementaire ;

(2) The state of the art shall be held to comprise everything made available to the public by means of a written or oral description, by use, or in any other way, before the date of filing of the European patent application.

(3) Additionally, the content of European patent applications as filed, of which the dates of filing are prior to the date referred to in paragraph 2 and which were published under Article 93 on or after that date, shall be considered as comprised in the state of the art.

Recht auf das europäische Patent

(1) Das Recht auf das europäische Patent steht dem Erfinder oder seinem Rechtsnachfolger zu. Ist der Erfinder ein Arbeitnehmer, so bestimmt sich das Recht auf das europäische Patent nach dem Recht des Staats, in dem der Arbeitnehmer überwiegend beschäftigt ist; ist nicht festzustellen, in welchem Staat der Arbeitnehmer überwiegend beschäftigt ist, so ist das Recht des Staats anzuwenden, in dem der Arbeitgeber den Betrieb unterhält, dem der Arbeitnehmer angehört.

(2) Haben mehrere eine Erfindung unabhängig voneinander gemacht, so steht das Recht auf das europäische Patent demjenigen zu, dessen europäische Patentanmeldung den früheren Anmeldetag hat; dies gilt jedoch nur, wenn diese frühere Anmeldung nach Artikel 93 veröffentlicht worden ist, und nur mit Wirkung für die in der veröffentlichten früheren Anmeldung benannten Vertragsstaaten.

(3) Im Verfahren vor dem Europäischen Patentamt gilt der Anmelder als berechtigt, das Recht auf das europäische Patent geltend zu machen.

Anmeldung europäischer Patente durch Nichtberechtigte

(1) Wird durch rechtskräftige Entscheidung der Anspruch auf Erteilung eines europäischen Patents einer in Artikel 60 Absatz 1 genannten Person, die nicht der Anmelder ist, zugesprochen, so kann diese Person, sofern das europäische Patent noch nicht erteilt worden ist, innerhalb von drei Monaten nach Eintritt der Rechtskraft der Entscheidung in Bezug auf die in der europäischen Patentanmeldung benannten Vertragsstaaten, in denen die Entscheidung ergangen oder anerkannt worden ist oder auf Grund des diesem Überkommen beigefügten Anerkennungsprotokolls anzuerkennen ist,

- a) die europäische Patentanmeldung anstelle des Anmelders als eigene Anmeldung weiterverfolgen,
- b) eine neue europäische Patentanmeldung für dieselbe Erfindung einreichen oder
- c) beantragen, dass die europäische Patentanmeldung zurückgewiesen wird.

(2) Auf eine nach Absatz 1 eingereichte neue europäische Patentanmeldung ist Artikel 76 Absatz 1 entsprechend anzuwenden.

³⁶ Siehe hierzu Entscheidung der Großen Beschwerdekammer G 3/92 (Anhang I).

Right to a European patent

(1) The right to a European patent shall belong to the inventor or his successor in title. If the inventor is an employee the right to the European patent shall be determined in accordance with the law of the State in which the employee is mainly employed; if the State in which the employee is mainly employed cannot be determined, the law to be applied shall be that of the State in which the employer has his place of business to which the employee is attached.

(2) If two or more persons have made an invention independently of each other, the right to the European patent shall belong to the person whose European patent application has the earliest date of filing; however, this provision shall apply only if this first application has been published under Article 93 and shall only have effect in respect of the Contracting States designated in that application as published.

(3) For the purposes of proceedings before the European Patent Office, the applicant shall be deemed to be entitled to exercise the right to the European patent.

European patent applications by persons not having the right to a European patent

(1) If by a final decision it is adjudged that a person referred to in Article 60, paragraph 1, other than the applicant, is entitled to the grant of a European patent, that person may, within a period of three months after the decision has become final, provided that the European patent has not yet been granted, in respect of those Contracting States designated in the European patent application in which the decision has been taken or recognised, or has to be recognised on the basis of the Protocol on Recognition annexed to this Convention:

- (a) prosecute the application as his own application in place of the applicant,
- (b) file a new European patent application in respect of the same invention, or
- (c) request that the application be refused.

(2) The provisions of Article 76, paragraph 1, shall apply mutatis mutandis to a new application filed under paragraph 1.

³⁶ See decision of the Enlarged Board of Appeal G 3/92 (Annex I).

Droit au brevet européen

Art. 61, 80, 89, 138

(1) Le droit au brevet européen appartient à l'inventeur ou à son ayant cause. Si l'inventeur est un employé, le droit au brevet européen est défini selon le droit de l'Etat sur le territoire duquel l'employé exerce son activité principale ; si l'Etat sur le territoire duquel s'exerce l'activité principale ne peut être déterminé, le droit applicable est celui de l'Etat sur le territoire duquel se trouve l'établissement de l'employeur auquel l'employé est attaché.

(2) Si plusieurs personnes ont réalisé l'invention indépendamment l'une de l'autre, le droit au brevet européen appartient à celle qui a déposé la demande de brevet dont la date de dépôt est la plus ancienne ; toutefois, cette disposition n'est applicable que si la première demande a été publiée en vertu de l'article 93 et elle n'a d'effet que dans les Etats contractants désignés dans cette première demande telle qu'elle a été publiée.

(3) Dans la procédure devant l'Office européen des brevets, le demandeur est réputé habilité à exercer le droit au brevet européen.

R. 6, 13-16, 31, 37, 42, 85a/bis, 92, 95a/bis

(1) Si une décision passée en force de chose jugée a reconnu le droit à l'obtention du brevet européen à une personne visée à l'article 60, paragraphe 1, autre que le demandeur, et à condition que le brevet européen n'ait pas encore été délivré, cette personne peut, dans un délai de trois mois après que la décision est passée en force de chose jugée, et en ce qui concerne les Etats contractants désignés dans la demande de brevet européen dans lesquels la décision a été rendue ou reconnue, ou doit être reconnue en vertu du protocole sur la reconnaissance, annexé à la présente convention :

- a) poursuivre, aux lieu et place du demandeur, la procédure relative à la demande, en prenant cette demande à son compte,
- b) déposer une nouvelle demande de brevet européen pour la même invention, ou
- c) demander le rejet de la demande.

(2) Les dispositions de l'article 76, paragraphe 1, sont applicables à toute nouvelle demande déposée en vertu des dispositions du paragraphe 1.

b) wenn der Gegenstand des europäischen Patents ein Erzeugnis oder ein Verfahren zur Herstellung oder eine Verwendung eines Erzeugnisses ist, das vor seinem Inverkehrbringen in diesem Staat einem gesetzlich vorgeschriebenen behördlichen Genehmigungsverfahren unterliegt.

(3) Absatz 2 ist auf die für eine Gruppe von Vertragsstaaten im Sinne des Artikels 142 gemeinsam erteilten europäischen Patente entsprechend anzuwenden.

(4) Ein Vertragsstaat, der eine Verlängerung der Laufzeit oder einen entsprechenden Schutz nach Absatz 2 Buchstabe b vorsieht, kann auf Grund eines Abkommens mit der Organisation dem Europäischen Patentamt mit der Durchführung dieser Vorschriften verbundene Aufgaben übertragen.

(3) The procedure to be followed in carrying out the provisions of paragraph 1, the special conditions applying to a new application filed under paragraph 1 and the time limit for paying the filing, search and designation fees on it are laid down in the Implementing Regulations.

(2) Nothing in the preceding paragraph shall limit the right of a Contracting State to extend the term of a European patent, or to grant corresponding protection which follows immediately on expiry of the term of the patent, under the same conditions as those applying to national patents:

(a) in order to take account of a state of war or similar emergency conditions affecting that State;

a) pour tenir compte d'un état de guerre ou d'un état de crise comparable affectant ledit Etat ;

b) si l'objet du brevet européen est un produit ou un procédé de fabrication ou une utilisation d'un produit qui, avant sa mise sur le marché dans cet Etat, est soumis à une procédure administrative d'autorisation instituée par la loi.

(3) Les dispositions du paragraphe 2 s'appliquent aux brevets européens délivrés conjointement pour tout groupe d'Etats contractants visé à l'article 142.

(4) Tout Etat contractant qui prévoit une prolongation de la durée du brevet ou une protection correspondante conformément au paragraphe 2, lettre b) peut, sur la base d'un accord conclu avec l'Organisation, transférer à l'Office européen des brevets des tâches afférentes à l'application de ces dispositions.

Artikel 64³⁸

Rechte aus dem europäischen Patent

(1) Das europäische Patent gewährt seinem Inhaber von dem Tag der Bekanntmachung des Hinweises auf seine Erteilung an in jedem Vertragsstaat, für den es erteilt ist, vorbehaltlich Absatz 2 dieselben Rechte, die ihm ein in diesem Staat erteiltes nationales Patent gewähren würde.

(2) Ist Gegenstand des europäischen Patents ein Verfahren, so erstreckt sich der Schutz auch auf die durch das Verfahren unmittelbar hergestellten Erzeugnisse.

(3) Eine Verletzung des europäischen Patents wird nach nationalem Recht behandelt.

Artikel 65

Übersetzung der europäischen Patentschrift

(1)³⁹ Jeder Vertragsstaat kann für den Fall, dass die Fassung, in der das Europäische Patentamt für diesen Staat ein europäisches Patent zu erteilen oder in geänderter Fassung aufrechtzuerhalten beabsichtigt, nicht in einer seiner Amtssprachen vorliegt, vorschreiben, dass der Anmelder oder Patentinhaber bei der Zentralbehörde für den gewerblichen Rechtsschutz eine Übersetzung der Fassung nach seiner Wahl in einer der Amtssprachen dieses Staats, oder, soweit der betreffende Staat die Verwendung einer bestimmten Amtssprache vorgeschrieben hat, in dieser Amtssprache einzureichen hat. Die Frist für die Einreichung der Übersetzung endet drei Monate, nachdem der Hinweis auf die Erteilung des europäischen Patents oder die Aufrechterhaltung des europäischen Patents in geändertem Umfang im Europäischen Patentblatt bekannt gemacht worden ist, sofern nicht der betreffende Staat eine längere Frist vorschreibt.

(2) Jeder Vertragsstaat, der eine Vorschrift nach Absatz 1 erlassen hat, kann vorschreiben, dass der Anmelder oder Patentinhaber innerhalb einer von diesem Staat bestimmten Frist die Kosten für eine Veröffentlichung der Übersetzung ganz oder teilweise zu entrichten hat.

(3) Jeder Vertragsstaat kann vorschreiben, dass im Fall der Nichtbeachtung einer auf Grund der Absätze 1 und 2 erlassenen Vorschrift die Wirkungen des europäischen Patents in diesem Staat als von Anfang an nicht eingetreten gelten.

³⁸ Siehe hierzu Entscheidungen der Großen Beschwerdekammer G 2/88, G 1/98 (Anhang I).

³⁹ Geändert durch Beschluss des Verwaltungsrats vom 13.12.1994, in Kraft getreten am 01.01.1996 (ABI. EPA 1995, 9 ff.).

Article 64³⁸

Rights conferred by a European patent

(1) A European patent shall, subject to the provisions of paragraph 2, confer on its proprietor from the date of publication of the mention of its grant, in each Contracting State in respect of which it is granted, the same rights as would be conferred by a national patent granted in that State.

(2) If the subject-matter of the European patent is a process, the protection conferred by the patent shall extend to the products directly obtained by such process.

(3) Any infringement of a European patent shall be dealt with by national law.

Article 65

Translation of the specification of the European patent

(1)³⁹ Any Contracting State may prescribe that if the text, in which the European Patent Office intends to grant a European patent or maintain a European patent as amended for that State, is not drawn up in one of its official languages, the applicant for or proprietor of the patent shall supply to its central industrial property office a translation of this text in one of its official languages at his option or, where that State has prescribed the use of one specific official language, in that language. The period for supplying the translation shall end three months after the date on which the mention of the grant of the European patent or of the maintenance of the European patent as amended is published in the European Patent Bulletin, unless the State concerned prescribes a longer period.

(2) Any Contracting State which has adopted provisions pursuant to paragraph 1 may prescribe that the applicant for or proprietor of the patent must pay all or part of the costs of publication of such translation within a period laid down by that State.

(3) Any Contracting State may prescribe that in the event of failure to observe the provisions adopted in accordance with paragraphs 1 and 2, the European patent shall be deemed to be void ab initio in that State.

³⁸ See decisions of the Enlarged Board of Appeal G 2/88, G 1/98 (Annex I).

³⁹ Amended by decision of the Administrative Council of 13.12.1994 which entered into force on 01.01.1996 (OJ EPO 1995, 9 ff.).

Droits conférés par le brevet européen

Art. 2, 67, 68, 97

(1) Sous réserve du paragraphe 2, le brevet européen confère à son titulaire, à compter du jour de la publication de la mention de sa délivrance et dans chacun des Etats contractants pour lesquels il a été délivré, les mêmes droits que lui conférerait un brevet national délivré dans cet Etat.

(2) Si l'objet du brevet européen porte sur un procédé, les droits conférés par ce brevet s'étendent aux produits obtenus directement par ce procédé.

(3) Toute contrefaçon du brevet européen est appréciée conformément aux dispositions de la législation nationale.

Article 65

Traduction du fascicule du brevet européen

Art. 2, 70
R. 51, 58

(1)³⁹ Tout Etat contractant peut prescrire, lorsque le texte dans lequel l'Office européen des brevets envisage de délivrer un brevet européen pour cet Etat ou de maintenir pour ledit Etat un brevet européen sous sa forme modifiée n'est pas rédigé dans une des langues officielles de l'Etat considéré, que le demandeur ou le titulaire du brevet doit fournir au service central de la propriété industrielle une traduction de ce texte dans l'une de ces langues officielles, à son choix, ou, dans la mesure où l'Etat en question a imposé l'utilisation d'une langue officielle déterminée, dans cette dernière langue. La traduction doit être produite dans un délai de trois mois à compter de la date de publication au Bulletin européen des brevets de la mention de la délivrance du brevet européen ou du maintien du brevet européen tel qu'il a été modifié, à moins que l'Etat considéré n'accorde un délai plus long.

(2) Tout Etat contractant qui a adopté des dispositions en vertu du paragraphe 1 peut prescrire que le demandeur ou le titulaire du brevet acquitte, dans un délai fixé par cet Etat, tout ou partie des frais de publication de la traduction.

(3) Tout Etat contractant peut prescrire que, si les dispositions adoptées en vertu des paragraphes 1 et 2 ne sont pas observées, le brevet européen est, dès l'origine, réputé sans effet dans cet Etat.

*Artikel 66*⁴⁰

Wirkung der europäischen Patentanmeldung als nationale Hinterlegung

Eine europäische Patentanmeldung, deren Anmeldetag feststeht, hat in den benannten Vertragsstaaten die Wirkung einer vorschriftsmäßigen nationalen Hinterlegung, gegebenenfalls mit der für die europäische Patentanmeldung in Anspruch genommenen Priorität.

*Artikel 67*⁴¹

Rechte aus der europäischen Patentanmeldung nach Veröffentlichung

(1) Die europäische Patentanmeldung gewährt dem Anmelder vom Tag ihrer Veröffentlichung nach Artikel 93 an in den in der Veröffentlichung angegebenen benannten Vertragsstaaten einstweilen den Schutz nach Artikel 64.

(2) Jeder Vertragsstaat kann vorsehen, dass die europäische Patentanmeldung nicht den Schutz nach Artikel 64 gewährt. Der Schutz, der mit der Veröffentlichung der europäischen Patentanmeldung verbunden ist, darf jedoch nicht geringer sein als der Schutz, der sich auf Grund des Rechts des betreffenden Staats aus der zwingend vorgeschriebenen Veröffentlichung der ungeprüften nationalen Patentanmeldungen ergibt. Zumindest hat jeder Vertragsstaat vorzusehen, dass der Anmelder für die Zeit von der Veröffentlichung der europäischen Patentanmeldung an von demjenigen, der die Erfindung in diesem Vertragsstaat unter Voraussetzungen benutzt hat, die nach dem nationalen Recht im Fall der Verletzung eines nationalen Patents sein Verschulden begründen würden, eine den Umständen nach angemessene Entschädigung verlangen kann.

(3) Jeder Vertragsstaat kann für den Fall, dass eine seiner Amtssprachen nicht die Verfahrenssprache ist, vorsehen, dass der einstweilige Schutz nach den Absätzen 1 und 2 erst von dem Tag an eintritt, an dem eine Übersetzung der Patentansprüche nach Wahl des Anmelders in einer der Amtssprachen dieses Staats oder, soweit der betreffende Staat die Verwendung einer bestimmten Amtssprache vorgeschrieben hat, in dieser Amtssprache

a) der Öffentlichkeit unter den nach nationalem Recht vorgesehenen Voraussetzungen zugänglich gemacht worden ist oder

b) demjenigen übermittelt worden ist, der die Erfindung in diesem Vertragsstaat benutzt.

*Article 66*⁴⁰

Equivalence of European filing with national filing

A European patent application which has been accorded a date of filing shall, in the designated Contracting States, be equivalent to a regular national filing, where appropriate with the priority claimed for the European patent application.

*Article 67*⁴¹

Rights conferred by a European patent application after publication

(1) A European patent application shall, from the date of its publication under Article 93, provisionally confer upon the applicant such protection as is conferred by Article 64, in the Contracting States designated in the application as published.

(2) Any Contracting State may prescribe that a European patent application shall not confer such protection as is conferred by Article 64. However, the protection attached to the publication of the European patent application may not be less than that which the laws of the State concerned attach to the compulsory publication of unexamined national patent applications. In any event, every State shall ensure at least that, from the date of publication of a European patent application, the applicant can claim compensation reasonable in the circumstances from any person who has used the invention in the said State in circumstances where that person would be liable under national law for infringement of a national patent.

(3) Any Contracting State which does not have as an official language the language of the proceedings, may prescribe that provisional protection in accordance with paragraphs 1 and 2 above shall not be effective until such time as a translation of the claims in one of its official languages at the option of the applicant or, where that State has prescribed the use of one specific official language, in that language:

(a) has been made available to the public in the manner prescribed by national law, or

(b) has been communicated to the person using the invention in the said State.

Valeur de dépôt national du dépôt européen

Art. 80, 87, 88, 135, 136, 140

La demande de brevet européen à laquelle une date de dépôt a été accordée a, dans les Etats contractants désignés, la valeur d'un dépôt national régulier, compte tenu, le cas échéant, du droit de priorité invoqué à l'appui de la demande de brevet européen.

Article 67⁴¹

Droits conférés par la demande de brevet européen après sa publication

Art. 68, 70, 93, 158

(1) A compter de sa publication en vertu de l'article 93, la demande de brevet européen assure provisoirement au demandeur, dans les Etats contractants désignés dans la demande de brevet telle que publiée, la protection prévue à l'article 64.

(2) Chaque Etat contractant peut prévoir que la demande de brevet européen n'assure pas la protection prévue à l'article 64. Toutefois, la protection attachée à la publication de la demande de brevet européen ne peut être inférieure à celle que la législation de l'Etat considéré attache à la publication obligatoire des demandes de brevet national non examinées. En tout état de cause, chaque Etat contractant doit, pour le moins, prévoir qu'à partir de la publication de la demande de brevet européen, le demandeur peut exiger une indemnité raisonnable, fixée suivant les circonstances, de toute personne ayant exploité, dans cet Etat contractant, l'invention qui fait l'objet de la demande de brevet européen, dans des conditions qui, selon le droit national, mettraient en jeu sa responsabilité s'il s'agissait d'une contrefaçon d'un brevet national.

(3) Chaque Etat contractant qui n'a pas comme langue officielle la langue de la procédure peut prévoir que la protection provisoire visée aux paragraphes 1 et 2 n'est assurée qu'à partir de la date à laquelle une traduction des revendications, soit dans l'une des langues officielles de cet Etat, au choix du demandeur, soit, dans la mesure où l'Etat en question a imposé l'utilisation d'une langue officielle déterminée, dans cette dernière langue :

a) a été rendue accessible au public, dans les conditions prévues par sa législation nationale, ou

b) a été remise à la personne exploitant, dans celui-ci, l'invention qui fait l'objet de la demande de brevet européen.

⁴¹ Cf. l'avis de la Grande Chambre de recours G 4/98 (Annexe I).

(4) Die in den Absätzen 1 und 2 vorgesehenen Wirkungen der europäischen Patentanmeldung gelten als von Anfang an nicht eingetreten, wenn die europäische Patentanmeldung zurückgenommen worden ist, als zurückgenommen gilt oder rechtskräftig zurückgewiesen worden ist. Das Gleiche gilt für die Wirkungen der europäischen Patentanmeldung in einem Vertragsstaat, dessen Benennung zurückgenommen worden ist oder als zurückgenommen gilt.

*Artikel 68*⁴²

Wirkung des Widerrufs des europäischen Patents

Die in den Artikeln 64 und 67 vorgesehenen Wirkungen der europäischen Patentanmeldung und des darauf erteilten europäischen Patents gelten in dem Umfang, in dem das Patent im Einspruchsverfahren widerrufen ist, als von Anfang an nicht eingetreten.

Artikel 69^{43/44}

Schutzbereich

(1) Der Schutzbereich des europäischen Patents und der europäischen Patentanmeldung wird durch den Inhalt der Patentansprüche bestimmt. Die Beschreibung und die Zeichnungen sind jedoch zur Auslegung der Patentansprüche heranzuziehen.

(2) Für den Zeitraum bis zur Erteilung des europäischen Patents wird der Schutzbereich der europäischen Patentanmeldung durch die zuletzt eingereichten Patentansprüche, die in der Veröffentlichung nach Artikel 93 enthalten sind, bestimmt. Jedoch bestimmt das europäische Patent in seiner erteilten oder im Einspruchsverfahren geänderten Fassung rückwirkend den Schutzbereich der Anmeldung, soweit dieser Schutzbereich nicht erweitert wird.

⁴² Siehe hierzu Rechtsauskunft Nr. 11/82 (Anhang II).

⁴³ Siehe nachstehendes Protokoll über die Auslegung des Artikels 69 des Übereinkommens, beschlossen auf der Münchner Diplomatischen Konferenz über die Einführung eines europäischen Patenterteilungsverfahrens am 5. Oktober 1973:
"Artikel 69 ist nicht in der Weise auszulegen, dass unter dem Schutzbereich des europäischen Patents der Schutzbereich zu verstehen ist, der sich aus dem genauen Wortlaut der Patentansprüche ergibt, und dass die Beschreibung sowie die Zeichnungen nur zur Behebung etwaiger Unklarheiten in den Patentansprüchen anzuwenden sind. Ebenso wenig ist Artikel 69 dahin gehend auszulegen, dass die Patentansprüche lediglich als Richtlinie dienen und der Schutzbereich sich auch auf das erstreckt, was sich dem Fachmann nach Prüfung der Beschreibung und der Zeichnungen als Schutzbegehren des Patentinhabers darstellt. Die Auslegung soll vielmehr zwischen diesen extremen Auffassungen liegen und einen angemessenen Schutz für den Patentinhaber mit ausreichender Rechtssicherheit für Dritte verbinden." (Das Protokoll ist gemäß Artikel 164 Absatz 1 Bestandteil des Übereinkommens.)

⁴⁴ Siehe hierzu Entscheidungen der Großen Beschwerdekammer G 2/88, G 6/88 (Anhang I).

(4) The European patent application shall be deemed never to have had the effects set out in paragraphs 1 and 2 above when it has been withdrawn, deemed to be withdrawn or finally refused. The same shall apply in respect of the effects of the European patent application in a Contracting State the designation of which is withdrawn or deemed to be withdrawn.

*Article 68*⁴²

Effect of revocation of the European patent

The European patent application and the resulting patent shall be deemed not to have had, as from the outset, the effects specified in Articles 64 and 67, to the extent that the patent has been revoked in opposition proceedings.

Article 69^{43/44}

Extent of protection

(1) The extent of the protection conferred by a European patent or a European patent application shall be determined by the terms of the claims. Nevertheless, the description and drawings shall be used to interpret the claims.

(2) For the period up to grant of the European patent, the extent of the protection conferred by the European patent application shall be determined by the latest filed claims contained in the publication under Article 93. However, the European patent as granted or as amended in opposition proceedings shall determine retroactively the protection conferred by the European patent application, in so far as such protection is not thereby extended.

⁴² See Legal advice No. 11/82 (Annex II).

⁴³ See Protocol on the Interpretation of Article 69 of the Convention, adopted at the Munich Diplomatic Conference for the setting up of a European System for the Grant of Patents on 5 October 1973, as set out below:
"Article 69 should not be interpreted in the sense that the extent of the protection conferred by a European patent is to be understood as that defined by the strict, literal meaning of the wording used in the claims, the description and drawings being employed only for the purpose of resolving an ambiguity found in the claims. Neither should it be interpreted in the sense that the claims serve only as a guideline and that the actual protection conferred may extend to what, from a consideration of the description and drawings by a person skilled in the art, the patentee has contemplated. On the contrary, it is to be interpreted as defining a position between these extremes which combines a fair protection for the patentee with a reasonable degree of certainty for third parties."

⁴⁴ See decisions of the Enlarged Board of Appeal G 2/88, G 6/88 (Annex I).

(4) Les effets de la demande de brevet européen prévus aux paragraphes 1 et 2 sont réputés nuls et non avenues lorsque la demande de brevet européen a été retirée, ou est réputée retirée, ou a été rejetée en vertu d'une décision passée en force de chose jugée. Il en est de même des effets de la demande de brevet européen dans un Etat contractant dont la désignation a été retirée ou est réputée retirée.

Article 68⁴²

Effets de la révocation du brevet européen

La demande de brevet européen ainsi que le brevet européen auquel elle a donné lieu sont réputés n'avoir pas eu dès l'origine, totalement ou partiellement, les effets prévus aux articles 64 et 67, selon que le brevet a été révoqué en tout ou en partie au cours d'une procédure d'opposition.

Article 69^{43/44}

Etendue de la protection

(1) L'étendue de la protection conférée par le brevet européen ou par la demande de brevet européen est déterminée par la teneur des revendications. Toutefois, la description et les dessins servent à interpréter les revendications.

(2) Pour la période allant jusqu'à la délivrance du brevet européen, l'étendue de la protection conférée par la demande de brevet européen est déterminée par les revendications déposées en dernier lieu contenues dans la publication prévue à l'article 93. Toutefois, le brevet européen tel que délivré ou modifié au cours de la procédure d'opposition détermine rétroactivement cette protection pour autant que celle-ci n'est pas étendue.

Art. 2, 102

Remarque : le texte français de l'article 68, dans la version signée le 5 octobre 1973, comporte une référence aux articles 64 et 66, alors qu'il convient de se référer aux articles 64 et 67, comme cela est indiqué dans les textes allemand et anglais. Il ressort du contexte que seule la référence à l'article 67 est justifiée ; elle a par conséquent été indiquée dans la présente édition.

⁴³ Voir ci-après le protocole interprétatif de l'article 69 de la convention, approuvé le 5 octobre 1973 à l'issue de la Conférence diplomatique de Munich pour l'institution d'un système européen de délivrance de brevets :
«L'article 69 ne doit pas être interprété comme signifiant que l'étendue de la protection conférée par le brevet européen est déterminée au sens étroit et littéral du texte des revendications et que la description et les dessins servent uniquement à dissiper les ambiguïtés que pourraient recéler les revendications. Il ne doit pas davantage être interprété comme signifiant que les revendications servent uniquement de ligne directrice et que la protection s'étend également à ce que, de l'avis d'un homme du métier ayant examiné la description et les dessins, le titulaire du brevet a entendu protéger. L'article 69 doit, par contre, être interprété comme définissant entre ces extrêmes une position qui assure à la fois une protection équitable au demandeur et un degré raisonnable de certitude aux tiers.»
(Le protocole fait partie intégrante de la présente convention conformément à l'article 164, paragraphe 1.)

Verbindliche Fassung einer europäischen Patentanmeldung oder eines europäischen Patents

(1) Der Wortlaut einer europäischen Patentanmeldung oder eines europäischen Patents in der Verfahrenssprache stellt in Verfahren vor dem Europäischen Patentamt sowie in jedem Vertragsstaat die verbindliche Fassung dar.

(2) Im Fall des Artikels 14 Absatz 2 ist jedoch in Verfahren vor dem Europäischen Patentamt der ursprüngliche Text für die Feststellung maßgebend, ob der Gegenstand der europäischen Patentanmeldung oder des europäischen Patents nicht über den Inhalt der Anmeldung in der eingereichten Fassung hinausgeht.

(3) Jeder Vertragsstaat kann vorsehen, dass in seinem Staat eine im Übereinkommen vorgeschriebene Übersetzung in einer seiner Amtssprachen für den Fall maßgebend ist, dass der Schutzbereich der europäischen Patentanmeldung oder des europäischen Patents in der Sprache der Übersetzung enger ist als der Schutzbereich in der Verfahrenssprache; dies gilt nicht für Nichtigkeitsverfahren.

(4) Jeder Vertragsstaat, der eine Vorschrift nach Absatz 3 erlässt,

a) muss dem Anmelder oder Patentinhaber gestatten, eine berichtigte Übersetzung der europäischen Patentanmeldung oder des europäischen Patents einzureichen. Die berichtigte Übersetzung hat erst dann rechtliche Wirkung, wenn die von dem Vertragsstaat in entsprechender Anwendung der Artikel 65 Absatz 2 und Artikel 67 Absatz 3 aufgestellten Voraussetzungen erfüllt sind;

b) kann vorsehen, dass derjenige, der in diesem Staat in gutem Glauben eine Erfindung in Benutzung genommen oder wirkliche und ernsthafte Veranstaltungen zur Benutzung einer Erfindung getroffen hat, deren Benutzung keine Verletzung der Anmeldung oder des Patents in der Fassung der ursprünglichen Übersetzung darstellen würde, nach Eintritt der rechtlichen Wirkung der berichtigten Übersetzung die Benutzung in seinem Betrieb oder für die Bedürfnisse seines Betriebs unentgeltlich fortsetzen darf.

Artikel 71

Authentic text of a European patent application or European patent

(1) The text of a European patent application or a European patent in the language of the proceedings shall be the authentic text in any proceedings before the European Patent Office and in any Contracting State.

(2) However, in the case referred to in Article 14, paragraph 2, the original text shall, in proceedings before the European Patent Office, constitute the basis for determining whether the subject-matter of the application or patent extends beyond the content of the application as filed.

(3) Any Contracting State may provide that a translation, as provided for in this Convention, in an official language of that State, shall in that State be regarded as authentic, except for revocation proceedings, in the event of the application or patent in the language of the translation conferring protection which is narrower than that conferred by it in the language of the proceedings.

(4) Any Contracting State which adopts a provision under paragraph 3:

(a) must allow the applicant for or proprietor of the patent to file a corrected translation of the European patent application or European patent. Such corrected translation shall not have any legal effect until any conditions established by the Contracting State under Article 65, paragraph 2, and Article 67, paragraph 3, have been complied with mutatis mutandis;

(b) may prescribe that any person who, in that State, in good faith is using or has made effective and serious preparations for using an invention the use of which would not constitute infringement of the application or patent in the original translation may, after the corrected translation takes effect, continue such use in the course of his business or for the needs thereof without payment.

Texte de la demande de brevet européen ou du brevet européen faisant foi

R. 7

(1) Le texte de la demande de brevet européen ou du brevet européen rédigé dans la langue de la procédure est le texte qui fait foi dans toutes les procédures devant l'Office européen des brevets et dans tous les Etats contractants.

(2) Toutefois, dans le cas visé à l'article 14, paragraphe 2, le texte initialement déposé est pris en considération pour déterminer, dans les procédures devant l'Office européen des brevets, si l'objet de la demande de brevet européen ou du brevet européen n'a pas été étendu au-delà du contenu de la demande telle qu'elle a été déposée.

(3) Tout Etat contractant peut prévoir qu'une traduction dans une langue officielle de cet Etat, ainsi qu'en dispose la présente convention, est considérée dans ledit Etat comme étant le texte qui fait foi, hormis les cas d'actions en nullité, si la demande de brevet européen ou le brevet européen dans la langue de la traduction confère une protection moins étendue que celle conférée par ladite demande ou par ledit brevet dans la langue de la procédure.

(4) Tout Etat contractant qui arrête une disposition en application du paragraphe 3,

a) doit permettre au demandeur ou au titulaire du brevet européen de produire une traduction révisée de la demande ou du brevet. Cette traduction révisée n'a pas d'effet juridique aussi longtemps que les conditions fixées par l'Etat contractant en application de l'article 65, paragraphe 2 et de l'article 67, paragraphe 3, n'ont pas été remplies ;

b) peut prévoir que celui qui, dans cet Etat, a, de bonne foi, commencé à exploiter une invention ou a fait des préparatifs effectifs et sérieux à cette fin, sans que cette exploitation constitue une contrefaçon de la demande ou du brevet dans le texte de la traduction initiale, peut, après que la traduction révisée a pris effet, poursuivre à titre gratuit son exploitation dans son entreprise ou pour les besoins de celle-ci.

DIE EUROPÄISCHE PATENTANMELDUNG

Kapitel I

Einreichung und Erfordernisse der europäischen Patentanmeldung

Artikel 75

Einreichung der europäischen Patentanmeldung

(1) Die europäische Patentanmeldung kann eingereicht werden:

a)⁴⁶ beim Europäischen Patentamt in München oder seiner Zweigstelle in Den Haag oder

b) bei der Zentralbehörde für den gewerblichen Rechtsschutz oder bei anderen zuständigen Behörden eines Vertragsstaats, wenn das Recht dieses Staats es gestattet. Eine in dieser Weise eingereichte Anmeldung hat dieselbe Wirkung, wie wenn sie an demselben Tag beim Europäischen Patentamt eingereicht worden wäre.

(2) Absatz 1 steht der Anwendung der Rechts- und Verwaltungsvorschriften nicht entgegen, die in einem Vertragsstaat

a) für Erfindungen gelten, die wegen ihres Gegenstands nicht ohne vorherige Zustimmung der zuständigen Behörden dieses Staats ins Ausland übermittelt werden dürfen, oder

b) bestimmen, dass Patentanmeldungen zuerst bei einer nationalen Behörde eingereicht werden müssen, oder die die unmittelbare Einreichung bei einer anderen Behörde von einer vorherigen Zustimmung abhängig machen.

(3) Ein Vertragsstaat darf weder vorschreiben noch zulassen, dass europäische Teilanmeldungen bei einer in Absatz 1 Buchstabe b genannten Behörde eingereicht werden.

Artikel 76⁴⁷

Europäische Teilanmeldung

(1) Eine europäische Teilanmeldung ist unmittelbar beim Europäischen Patentamt in München oder seiner Zweigstelle in Den Haag einzureichen. Sie kann nur für einen Gegenstand eingereicht werden, der nicht über den Inhalt der früheren Anmeldung in der ursprünglich eingereichten Fassung hinausgeht; soweit diesem Erfordernis entsprochen wird, gilt die Teilanmeldung als an dem Anmeldetag der früheren Anmeldung eingereicht und genießt deren Prioritätsrecht.

PART III

APPLICATION FOR EUROPEAN PATENTS

Chapter I

Filing and requirements of the European patent application

Article 75

Filing of the European patent application

(1) A European patent application may be filed:

(a)⁴⁶ at the European Patent Office at Munich or its branch at The Hague, or

(b) if the law of a Contracting State so permits, at the central industrial property office or other competent authority of that State. An application filed in this way shall have the same effect as if it had been filed on the same date at the European Patent Office.

(2) The provisions of paragraph 1 shall not preclude the application of legislative or regulatory provisions which, in any Contracting State:

(a) govern inventions which, owing to the nature of their subject-matter, may not be communicated abroad without the prior authorisation of the competent authorities of that State, or

(b) prescribe that each application is to be filed initially with a national authority or make direct filing with another authority subject to prior authorisation.

(4) Die Verpflichtung zur Zahlung von Jahresgebühren endet mit der Zahlung der Jahresgebühr, die für das Jahr fällig ist, in dem der Hinweis auf die Erteilung des europäischen Patents bekannt gemacht wird.

Kapitel II

Priorität

Artikel 87⁵⁷

(2) Als prioritätsbegründend wird jede Anmeldung anerkannt, der nach dem nationalen Recht des Staats, in dem die Anmeldung eingereicht worden ist, oder nach zwei- oder mehrseitigen Verträgen unter Einschluss dieses Übereinkommens die Bedeutung einer vorschriftsmäßigen nationalen Anmeldung zukommt.

⁵⁶ Siehe hierzu den Hinweis zur Zahlung von Jahresgebühren für europäische Patentanmeldungen und Patente (ABI. EPA 1984, 272 ff.).

⁵⁷ Siehe hierzu Entscheidungen/Stellungnahmen der Großen Beschwerdekammer G 3/93, G 2/95, G 2/98, G 2/02 und G 3/02, G 1/03, G 2/03 (Anhang I).

(3) If the renewal fee and any additional fee have not been paid in due time the European patent application shall be deemed to be withdrawn. The European Patent Office alone shall be competent to decide this.

(4) The obligation to pay renewal fees shall terminate with the payment of the renewal fee due in respect of the year in which the mention of the grant of the European patent is published.

Chapter II

(2) Every filing that is equivalent to a regular national filing under the national law of the State where it was made or under bilateral or multilateral agreements, including this Convention, shall be recognised as giving rise to a right of priority.

⁵⁶ See instructions for paying renewal fees for European patent applications and patents (OJ EPO 1984, 272 ff).

⁵⁷ See decisions/opinions of the Enlarged Board of Appeal G 3/93, G 2/95, G 2/98, G 2/02 and G 3/02, G 1/03, G 2/03 (Annex I).

Article 86⁵⁶

Taxes annuelles pour la demande de brevet européen

- (1) Des taxes annuelles doivent, conformément aux dispositions du règlement d'exécution, être payées à l'Office européen des brevets pour les demandes de brevet européen. Ces taxes sont dues pour la troisième année, calculée du jour anniversaire du dépôt de la demande, et pour chacune des années suivantes.
- (2) Lorsque le paiement d'une taxe annuelle n'a pas été effectué à l'échéance, cette taxe peut encore être valablement acquittée dans un délai de six mois à compter de l'échéance, sous réserve du paiement simultané d'une surtaxe.
- (3) Si la taxe annuelle et, le cas échéant, la surtaxe n'a pas été acquittée dans les délais, la demande de brevet européen est réputée retirée. Seul, l'Office européen des brevets est habilité à prendre cette décision.
- (4) Aucune taxe annuelle n'est plus exigible après le paiement de celle qui doit être acquittée au titre de l'année au cours de laquelle est publiée la mention de la délivrance du brevet européen.

Chapitre II

Art. 122, 141

R. 13, 37, 51, 69, 90, 107

Remarque : dans la seconde phrase de l'article 86, paragraphe 1, le texte français diffère des textes allemand et anglais, selon lesquels les taxes annuelles sont dues pour la troisième année, calculée de la date de dépôt, et pour chacune des années suivantes. Il convient, en vue d'une application uniforme, de considérer qu'au lieu de l'expression «du jour anniversaire du dépôt» aucun texte autre que «de la date de dépôt» n'a pu être envisagé.

(3) Unter vorschriftsmäßiger nationaler Anmeldung ist jede Anmeldung zu verstehen, die zur Festlegung des Tags ausreicht, an dem die Anmeldung eingereicht worden ist, wobei das spätere Schicksal der Anmeldung ohne Bedeutung ist.

(4) Als die erste Anmeldung, von deren Einreichung an die Prioritätsfrist läuft, wird auch eine jüngere Anmeldung angesehen, die denselben Gegenstand betrifft wie eine erste ältere in demselben oder für denselben Staat eingereichte Anmeldung, sofern diese ältere Anmeldung bis zur Einreichung der jüngeren Anmeldung zurückgenommen, fallen gelassen oder zurückgewiesen worden ist, und zwar bevor sie öffentlich ausgelegt worden ist und ohne dass Rechte bestehen geblieben sind; ebenso wenig darf diese ältere Anmeldung schon Grundlage für die Inanspruchnahme des Prioritätsrechts gewesen sein. Die ältere Anmeldung kann in diesem Fall nicht mehr als Grundlage für die Inanspruchnahme des Prioritätsrechts dienen.

(5) Ist die erste Anmeldung in einem nicht zu den Vertragsstaaten der Pariser Verbandsübereinkunft zum Schutz des gewerblichen Eigentums gehörenden Staat eingereicht worden, so sind die Absätze 1 bis 4 nur insoweit anzuwenden, als dieser Staat nach einer Bekanntmachung des Verwaltungsrats auf Grund einer ersten Anmeldung beim Europäischen Patentamt und auf Grund einer ersten Anmeldung in jedem oder für jeden Vertragsstaat gemäß zwei- oder mehrseitigen Verträgen ein Prioritätsrecht gewährt, und zwar unter Voraussetzungen und mit Wirkungen, die denen der Pariser Verbandsübereinkunft vergleichbar sind.

Inanspruchnahme der Priorität

(1) Der Anmelder, der die Priorität einer früheren Anmeldung in Anspruch nehmen will, hat eine Prioritätserklärung, eine Abschrift der früheren Anmeldung und, wenn die Sprache der früheren Anmeldung nicht eine Amtssprache des Europäischen Patentamts ist, eine Übersetzung der früheren Anmeldung in einer der Amtssprachen einzureichen. Das Verfahren zur Durchführung dieser Vorschrift ist in der Ausführungsordnung vorgeschrieben.

(2) Für eine europäische Patentanmeldung können mehrere Prioritäten in Anspruch genommen werden, selbst wenn sie aus verschiedenen Staaten stammen. Für einen Patentanspruch können mehrere Prioritäten in Anspruch genommen werden. Werden mehrere Prioritäten in Anspruch genommen, so beginnen Fristen, die vom Prioritätstag an laufen, vom frühesten Prioritätstag an zu laufen.

⁵⁸ Siehe hierzu Entscheidungen/Stellungnahmen der Großen Beschwerdekammer G 3/93, G 2/98, G 2/02 und G 3/02 (Anhang I).

(3) By a regular national filing is meant any filing that is sufficient to establish the date on which the application was filed, whatever may be the outcome of the application.

(4) A subsequent application for the same subject-matter as a previous first application and filed in or in respect of the same State shall be considered as the first application for the purposes of determining priority, provided that, at the date of filing the subsequent application, the previous application has been withdrawn, abandoned or refused, without being open to public inspection and without leaving any rights outstanding, and has not served as a basis for claiming a right of priority. The previous application may not thereafter serve as a basis for claiming a right of priority.

(5) If the first filing has been made in a State which is not a party to the Paris Convention for the Protection of Industrial Property, paragraphs 1 to 4 shall apply only in so far as that State, according to a notification published by the Administrative Council, and by virtue of bilateral or multilateral agreements, grants on the basis of a first filing made at the European Patent Office as well as on the basis of a first filing made in or for any Contracting State and subject to conditions equivalent to those laid down in the Paris Convention, a right of priority having equivalent effect.

*Article 88*⁵⁸

Claiming priority

(1) An applicant for a European patent desiring to take advantage of the priority of a previous application shall file a declaration of priority, a copy of the previous application and, if the language of the latter is not one of the official languages of the European Patent Office, a translation of it in one of such official languages. The procedure to be followed in carrying out these provisions is laid down in the Implementing Regulations.

(2) Multiple priorities may be claimed in respect of a European patent application, notwithstanding the fact that they originated in different countries. Where appropriate, multiple priorities may be claimed for any one claim. Where multiple priorities are claimed, time limits which run from the date of priority shall run from the earliest date of priority.

⁵⁸ See decisions/opinions of the Enlarged Board of Appeal G 3/93, G 2/98, G 2/02 and G 3/02 (Annex I).

(3) Par dépôt national régulier, on doit entendre tout dépôt qui suffit à établir la date à laquelle la demande a été déposée, quel que soit le sort ultérieur de cette demande.

(4) Est considérée comme première demande, dont la date de dépôt est le point de départ du délai de priorité, une demande ultérieure ayant le même objet qu'une première demande antérieure, déposée dans ou pour le même Etat, à la condition que cette demande antérieure, à la date de dépôt de la demande ultérieure, ait été retirée, abandonnée ou refusée, sans avoir été soumise à l'inspection publique et sans laisser subsister de droits, et qu'elle n'ait pas encore servi de base pour la revendication du droit de priorité. La demande antérieure ne peut plus alors servir de base pour la revendication du droit de priorité.

(5) Si le premier dépôt a été effectué dans un Etat qui n'est pas partie à la Convention de Paris pour la protection de la propriété industrielle, les dispositions des paragraphes 1 à 4 ne s'appliquent que dans la mesure où, suivant une communication publique du Conseil d'administration, cet Etat accorde, en vertu d'accords bilatéraux ou multilatéraux, sur la base d'un premier dépôt effectué auprès de l'Office européen des brevets, ainsi que sur la base d'un premier dépôt effectué dans ou pour tout Etat contractant, un droit de priorité soumis à des conditions et ayant des effets équivalents à ceux prévus par la Convention de Paris.

*Article 88*⁵⁸

Revendication de priorité

Art. 66, 79, 91, 93

R. 5, 6, 26, 38, 41, 88, 111

(1) Le demandeur d'un brevet européen qui veut se prévaloir de la priorité d'un dépôt antérieur est tenu de produire une déclaration de priorité, une copie de la demande antérieure accompagnée de sa traduction dans une des langues officielles de l'Office européen des brevets si la langue de la demande antérieure n'est pas une des langues officielles de l'Office. La procédure pour l'application de ces dispositions est prescrite par le règlement d'exécution.

(2) Des priorités multiples peuvent être revendiquées pour une demande de brevet européen même si elles proviennent d'Etats différents. Le cas échéant, des priorités multiples peuvent être revendiquées pour une même revendication. Si des priorités multiples sont revendiquées, les délais qui ont pour point de départ la date de priorité sont calculés à compter de la date de la priorité la plus ancienne.

⁵⁸ Cf. les décisions/avis de la Grande Chambre de recours G 3/93, G 2/98, G 2/02 et G 3/02 (Annexe I).

(3) Werden eine oder mehrere Prioritäten für die europäische Patentanmeldung in Anspruch genommen, so umfasst das Prioritätsrecht nur die Merkmale der europäischen Patentanmeldung, die in der Anmeldung oder den Anmeldungen enthalten sind, deren Priorität in Anspruch genommen worden ist.

(4) Sind bestimmte Merkmale der Erfindung, für die die Priorität in Anspruch genommen wird, nicht in den in der früheren Anmeldung aufgestellten Patentansprüchen enthalten, so reicht es für die Gewährung der Priorität aus, dass die Gesamtheit der Anmeldeunterlagen der früheren Anmeldung diese Merkmale deutlich offenbart.

*Artikel 89*⁵⁹

Wirkung des Prioritätsrechts

Das Prioritätsrecht hat die Wirkung, dass der Prioritätstag als Tag der europäischen Patentanmeldung für die Anwendung des Artikels 54 Absätze 2 und 3 sowie des Artikels 60 Absatz 2 gilt.

(3) If one or more priorities are claimed in respect of a European patent application, the right of priority shall cover only those elements of the European patent application which are included in the application or applications whose priority is claimed.

(4) If certain elements of the invention for which priority is claimed do not appear among the claims formulated in the previous application, priority may nonetheless be granted, provided that the documents of the previous application as a whole specifically disclose such elements.

*Article 89*⁵⁹

Effect of priority right

The right of priority shall have the effect that the date of priority shall count as the date of filing of the European patent application for the purposes of Article 54, paragraphs 2 and 3, and Article 60, paragraph 2.

⁵⁹ Siehe hierzu Entscheidungen/Stellungnahmen der Großen Beschwerdekammer G 3/93, G 2/98, G 3/98, G 2/99 (Anhang I).

⁵⁹ See decisions/opinions of the Enlarged Board of Appeal G 3/93, G 2/98, G 3/98, G 2/99 (Annex I).

(3) Lorsqu'une ou plusieurs priorités sont revendiquées pour la demande de brevet européen, le droit de priorité ne couvre que les éléments de la demande de brevet européen qui sont contenus dans la demande ou dans les demandes dont la priorité est revendiquée.

(4) Si certains éléments de l'invention pour lesquels la priorité est revendiquée ne figurent pas parmi les revendications formulées dans la demande antérieure, il suffit, pour que la priorité puisse être accordée, que l'ensemble des pièces de la demande antérieure révèle d'une façon précise lesdits éléments.

*Article 89*⁵⁹

Effet du droit de priorité

Par l'effet du droit de priorité, la date de priorité est considérée comme celle du dépôt de la demande de brevet européen pour l'application de l'article 54, paragraphes 2 et 3, et de l'article 60, paragraphe 2.

⁵⁹ Cf. les décisions/avis de la Grande Chambre de recours G 3/93, G 2/98, G 3/98, G 2/99 (Annexe I).

(3) Werden die in den Fällen des Absatzes 1 Buchstaben a bis d festgestellten Mängel nicht nach Maßgabe der Ausführungsordnung beseitigt, so wird die europäische Patentanmeldung zurückgewiesen; betreffen die in Absatz 1 Buchstabe d genannten Vorschriften den Prioritätsanspruch, so erlischt der Prioritätsanspruch für die Anmeldung.

(4) Wird im Fall des Absatzes 1 Buchstabe e die Benennungsgebühr für einen Vertragsstaat nicht rechtzeitig entrichtet, so gilt die Benennung dieses Staats als zurückgenommen.

(5) Wird im Fall des Absatzes 1 Buchstabe f die Erfindernennung nicht nach Maßgabe der Ausführungsordnung vorbehaltlich der darin vorgesehenen Ausnahmen innerhalb von sechzehn Monaten nach dem Anmeldetag oder, wenn eine Priorität in Anspruch genommen worden ist, nach dem Prioritätstag nachgeholt, so gilt die europäische Patentanmeldung als zurückgenommen.

(3) Lorsqu'il n'est pas remédié, conformément aux dispositions du règlement d'exécution, aux irrégularités constatées lors de l'examen effectué au titre du paragraphe 1, lettres a) à d), la demande de brevet européen est rejetée ; lorsque les dispositions auxquelles il est fait référence au paragraphe 1, lettre d) concernent le droit de priorité, leur inobservation entraîne la perte de ce droit pour la demande.

(4) Si, dans le cas visé au paragraphe 1, lettre e), la taxe de désignation afférente à un Etat désigné n'a pas été acquittée dans les délais, cette désignation est réputée retirée.

Etablissement du rapport de recherche européenne

*Art. 17, 80, 96, 157
R. 44-47, 86*

Veröffentlichung der europäischen Patentanmeldung

(1) Die europäische Patentanmeldung wird unverzüglich nach Ablauf von achtzehn Monaten nach dem Anmeldetag oder, wenn eine Priorität in Anspruch genommen worden ist, nach dem Prioritätstag veröffentlicht. Sie kann jedoch auf Antrag des Anmelders vor Ablauf dieser Frist veröffentlicht werden. Wird die Entscheidung, durch die das europäische Patent erteilt worden ist, vor Ablauf dieser Frist wirksam, so wird die Anmeldung gleichzeitig mit der europäischen Patentschrift veröffentlicht.

(2) Die Veröffentlichung enthält die Beschreibung, die Patentansprüche und gegebenenfalls die Zeichnungen jeweils in der ursprünglich eingereichten Fassung sowie als Anlage den europäischen Recherchenbericht und die Zusammenfassung, sofern diese vor Abschluss der technischen Vorbereitungen für die Veröffentlichung vorliegen. Sind der europäische Recherchenbericht und die Zusammenfassung nicht mit der Anmeldung veröffentlicht worden, so werden sie gesondert veröffentlicht.

Artikel 94

Prüfungsantrag

(1) Das Europäische Patentamt prüft auf schriftlichen Antrag, ob die europäische Patentanmeldung und die Erfindung, die sie zum Gegenstand hat, den Erfordernissen dieses Übereinkommens genügen.

(2)⁶³ Der Prüfungsantrag kann vom Anmelder bis zum Ablauf von sechs Monaten nach dem Tag gestellt werden, an dem im Europäischen Patentblatt auf die Veröffentlichung des europäischen Recherchenberichts hingewiesen worden ist. Der Antrag gilt erst als gestellt, wenn die Prüfungsgebühr entrichtet worden ist. Der Antrag kann nicht zurückgenommen werden.

(3) Wird bis zum Ablauf der in Absatz 2 genannten Frist ein Prüfungsantrag nicht gestellt, so gilt die europäische Patentanmeldung als zurückgenommen.

Artikel 95

Verlängerung der Frist zur Stellung des Prüfungsantrags

(1) Der Verwaltungsrat kann die Frist zur Stellung des Prüfungsantrags verlängern, wenn feststeht, dass die europäischen Patentanmeldungen nicht in angemessener Zeit geprüft werden können.

Publication of a European patent application

(1) A European patent application shall be published as soon as possible after the expiry of a period of eighteen months from the date of filing or, if priority has been claimed, as from the date of priority. Nevertheless, at the request of the applicant the application may be published before the expiry of the period referred to above. It shall be published simultaneously with the publication of the specification of the European patent when the grant of the patent has become effective before the expiry of the period referred to above.

(2) The publication shall contain the description, the claims and any drawings as filed and, in an annex, the European search report and the abstract, in so far as the latter are available before the termination of the technical preparations for publication. If the European search report and the abstract have not been published at the same time as the application, they shall be published separately.

Article 94

Request for examination

(1) The European Patent Office shall examine, on written request, whether a European patent application and the invention to which it relates meet the requirements of this Convention.

(2)⁶³ A request for examination may be filed by the applicant up to the end of six months after the date on which the European Patent Bulletin mentions the publication of the European search report. The request shall not be deemed to be filed until after the examination fee has been paid. The request may not be withdrawn.

(3) If no request for examination has been filed by the end of the period referred to in paragraph 2, the application shall be deemed to be withdrawn.

Toutefois, elle peut être publiée avant le terme de ce délai sur requête du demandeur. Cette publication et celle du fascicule du brevet européen sont effectuées simultanément lorsque la décision relative à la délivrance du brevet européen a pris effet avant l'expiration dudit délai.

(2) Cette publication comporte la description, les revendications et, le cas échéant, les dessins, tels que ces documents ont été déposés, ainsi que, en annexe, le rapport de recherche européenne et l'abrégé, pour autant que ces derniers documents soient disponibles avant la fin des préparatifs techniques entrepris en vue de la publication. Si le rapport de recherche européenne et l'abrégé n'ont pas été publiés à la même date que la demande, ils font l'objet d'une publication séparée.

Article 94

Requête en examen

(1) Sur requête écrite, l'Office européen des brevets examine si la demande de brevet européen et l'invention qui en fait l'objet satisfont aux conditions prévues par la présente convention.

(2)⁶³ La requête en examen peut être formulée par le demandeur jusqu'à l'expiration d'un délai de six mois à compter de la date à laquelle le Bulletin européen des brevets a mentionné la publication du rapport de recherche européenne. La requête n'est considérée comme formulée qu'après le paiement de la taxe d'examen et ne peut être retirée.

(3) Lorsque la requête n'est pas formulée avant l'expiration du délai visé au paragraphe 2, la demande de brevet européen est réputée retirée.

Article 95

(2) If the Administrative Council extends the period, it may decide that third parties will be entitled to make requests for examination. In such cases, it shall determine the appropriate rules in the Implementing Regulations.

(3) Any decision of the Administrative Council to extend the period shall apply only in respect of applications filed after the publication of such decision in the Official Journal of the European Patent Office.

(4) If the Administrative Council extends the period, it must lay down measures with a view to restoring the original period as soon as possible.

Article 96

Examination of the European patent application

(1) If the applicant for a European patent has filed the request for examination before the European search report has been transmitted to him, the European Patent Office shall invite him after the transmission of the report to indicate, within a period to be determined, whether he desires to proceed further with the European patent application.

(2)⁶⁴ If the examination of a European patent application reveals that the application or the invention to which it relates does not meet the requirements of this Convention, the Examining Division shall invite the applicant, in accordance with the Implementing Regulations and as often as necessary, to file his observations within a period to be fixed by the Examining Division.

(3) If the applicant fails to reply in due time to any invitation under paragraph 1 or paragraph 2, the application shall be deemed to be withdrawn.

Article 97⁶⁵

Refusal or grant

(1) The Examining Division shall refuse a European patent application if it is of the opinion that such application or the invention to which it relates does not meet the requirements of this Convention, except where a different sanction is provided for by this Convention.

(2) Si le Conseil d'administration proroge le délai, il peut décider que les tiers seront habilités à présenter la requête en examen. En pareil cas, il arrête dans le règlement d'exécution les dispositions appropriées.

Verweisungen / References / Références

(3) Toute décision du Conseil d'administration relative à la prorogation du délai n'affecte que les demandes de brevet européen déposées après la publication de cette décision au Journal officiel de l'Office européen des brevets.

(4) Si le Conseil d'administration proroge le délai, il est tenu de prendre des mesures afin de rétablir aussi rapidement que possible le délai initial.

Article 96

Examen de la demande de brevet européen

R. 51, 69, 70, 86, 87

(1) Si le demandeur d'un brevet européen a présenté la requête en examen avant que le rapport de recherche européenne ne lui ait été notifié, il est, après la notification du rapport, invité par l'Office européen des brevets à déclarer, dans le délai que celui-ci lui impartit, s'il maintient sa demande.

(2)⁶⁴ S'il résulte de l'examen que la demande de brevet européen et l'invention qui en fait l'objet ne satisfont pas aux conditions prévues par la présente convention, la division d'examen invite le demandeur, dans les conditions prévues par le règlement d'exécution et aussi souvent qu'il est nécessaire, à présenter ses observations dans le délai qu'elle lui impartit.

(3) Si, dans le délai qui lui a été impartit, le demandeur ne défère pas aux invitations qui lui ont été adressées en vertu des paragraphes 1 ou 2, la demande est réputée retirée.

(2) Ist die Prüfungsabteilung der Auffassung, dass die europäische Patentanmeldung und die Erfindung, die sie zum Gegenstand hat, den Erfordernissen dieses Übereinkommens genügen, so beschließt sie die Erteilung des europäischen Patents für die benannten Vertragsstaaten, vorausgesetzt, dass

a) gemäß der Ausführungsordnung feststeht, dass der Anmelder mit der Fassung, in der die Prüfungsabteilung das europäische Patent zu erteilen beabsichtigt, einverstanden ist,

b) die Erteilungsgebühr und die Druckkostengebühr innerhalb der in der Ausführungsordnung vorgeschriebenen Frist entrichtet und

c) die bereits fälligen Jahresgebühren und Zuschlagsgebühren entrichtet worden sind.

(3) Werden die Erteilungsgebühr und die Druckkostengebühr nicht rechtzeitig entrichtet, so gilt die europäische Patentanmeldung als zurückgenommen.

Das Europäische Patentamt gibt gleichzeitig mit der Bekanntmachung des Hinweises auf die Erteilung des europäischen Patents eine europäische Patentschrift heraus, in der die Beschreibung, die Patentansprüche und gegebenenfalls die Zeichnungen enthalten sind.

(2) If the Examining Division is of the opinion that the application and the invention to which it relates meet the requirements of this Convention, it shall decide to grant the European patent for the designated Contracting States provided that:

(3) If the fees for grant and printing are not paid in due time, the application shall be deemed to be withdrawn.

(5)⁶⁶ Provision may be made in the Implementing Regulations for the applicant to file a translation, in the two official languages of the European Patent Office other than the language of the proceedings, of the claims appearing in the text in which the Examining Division intends to grant the patent. In such case, the period laid down in paragraph 4 shall be at least three months. If the translation has not been filed in due time, the application shall be deemed to be withdrawn.

(2) Der Einspruch erfasst das europäische Patent für alle Vertragsstaaten, in denen es Wirkung hat.

(3) Der Einspruch kann auch eingelegt werden, wenn für alle benannten Vertragsstaaten auf das europäische Patent verzichtet worden ist oder wenn das europäische Patent für alle diese Staaten erloschen ist.

(4) Am Einspruchsverfahren sind neben dem Patentinhaber die Einsprechenden beteiligt.

(5) Weist jemand nach, dass er in einem Vertragsstaat auf Grund einer rechtskräftigen Entscheidung anstelle des bisherigen Patentinhabers in das Patentregister dieses Staats eingetragen ist, so tritt er auf Antrag in Bezug auf diesen Staat an die Stelle des bisherigen Patentinhabers. Abweichend von Artikel 118 gelten der bisherige Patentinhaber und derjenige, der sein Recht geltend macht, nicht als gemeinsame Inhaber, es sei denn, dass beide dies verlangen.

Artikel 100⁷⁰

Einspruchsgründe

Der Einspruch kann nur darauf gestützt werden, dass

a) der Gegenstand des europäischen Patents nach den Artikeln 52 bis 57 nicht patentfähig ist;

b) das europäische Patent die Erfindung nicht so deutlich und vollständig offenbart, dass ein Fachmann sie ausführen kann;

c) der Gegenstand des europäischen Patents über den Inhalt der Anmeldung in der ursprünglich eingereichten Fassung oder, wenn das Patent auf einer europäischen Teilanmeldung oder einer nach Artikel 61 eingereichten neuen europäischen Patentanmeldung beruht, über den Inhalt der früheren Anmeldung in der ursprünglich eingereichten Fassung hinausgeht.

PART V

OPPOSITION PROCEDURE

Article 99⁶⁹

Opposition

(1) Within nine months from the publication of the mention of the grant of the European patent, any person may give notice to the European Patent Office of opposition to the European patent granted. Notice of opposition shall be filed in a written reasoned statement. It shall not be deemed to have been filed until the opposition fee has been paid.

(2) The opposition shall apply to the European patent in all the Contracting States in which that patent has effect.

(3) An opposition may be filed even if the European patent has been surrendered or has lapsed for all the designated States.

(4) Opponents shall be parties to the opposition proceedings as well as the proprietor of the patent.

(5) Where a person provides evidence that in a Contracting State, following a final decision, he has been entered in the patent register of such State instead of the previous proprietor, such person shall, at his request, replace the previous proprietor in respect of such State. By derogation from Article 118, the previous proprietor and the person making the request shall not be deemed to be joint proprietors unless both so request.

Article 100⁷⁰

Grounds for opposition

Opposition may only be filed on the grounds that:

(a) the subject-matter of the European patent is not patentable within the terms of Articles 52 to 57;

(b) the European patent does not disclose the invention in a manner sufficiently clear and complete for it to be carried out by a person skilled in the art;

(c) the subject-matter of the European patent extends beyond the content of the application as filed, or, if the patent was granted on a divisional application or on a new application filed in accordance with Article 61, beyond the content of the earlier application as filed.

PROCÉDURE D'OPPOSITION

*Article 99*⁶⁹

Opposition

(1) Dans un délai de neuf mois à compter de la date de publication de la mention de la délivrance du brevet européen, toute personne peut faire opposition au brevet européen délivré, auprès de l'Office européen des brevets. L'opposition doit être formée par écrit et motivée. Elle n'est réputée formée qu'après paiement de la taxe d'opposition.

(2) L'opposition au brevet européen affecte ce brevet dans tous les Etats contractants dans lesquels il produit ses effets.

(3) L'opposition peut être formée même s'il a été renoncé au brevet européen pour tous les Etats désignés ou si celui-ci s'est éteint pour tous ces Etats.

(4) Les tiers qui ont fait opposition sont parties, avec le titulaire du brevet, à la procédure d'opposition.

(5) Si une personne apporte la preuve que, dans un Etat contractant, elle est inscrite au registre des brevets, en vertu d'un jugement passé en force de chose jugée, au lieu et place du titulaire précédent, elle est, sur requête, substituée à ce dernier pour ledit Etat. Nonobstant les dispositions de l'article 118, le titulaire précédent du brevet et la personne qui fait ainsi valoir ses droits ne sont pas considérés comme copropriétaires, à moins qu'ils ne demandent tous deux à l'être.

*Article 100*⁷⁰

Motifs d'opposition

L'opposition ne peut être fondée que sur les motifs selon lesquels :

- a) l'objet du brevet européen n'est pas brevetable aux termes des articles 52 à 57 ;
- b) le brevet européen n'expose pas l'invention de façon suffisamment claire et complète pour qu'un homme du métier puisse l'exécuter ;
- c) l'objet du brevet européen s'étend au-delà du contenu de la demande telle qu'elle a été déposée ou, si le brevet a été délivré sur la base d'une demande divisionnaire ou d'une nouvelle demande déposée en vertu de l'article 61, au-delà du contenu de la demande initiale telle qu'elle a été déposée.

Prüfung des Einspruchs

(1) Ist der Einspruch zulässig, so prüft die Einspruchsabteilung, ob die in Artikel 100 genannten Einspruchsgründe der Aufrechterhaltung des europäischen Patents entgegenstehen.

(2) Bei der Prüfung des Einspruchs, die nach Maßgabe der Ausführungsordnung durchzuführen ist, fordert die Einspruchsabteilung die Beteiligten so oft wie erforderlich auf, innerhalb einer von ihr zu bestimmten Frist eine Stellungnahme zu ihren Bescheiden oder zu den Schriftsätzen anderer Teilnehmer einzureichen.

Widerruf oder Aufrechterhaltung des europäischen Patents

(1) Ist die Einspruchsabteilung der Auffassung, dass die in Artikel 100 genannten Einspruchsgründe der Aufrechterhaltung des europäischen Patents entgegenstehen, so widerruft sie das Patent.

(2) Ist die Einspruchsabteilung der Auffassung, dass die in Artikel 100 genannten Einspruchsgründe der Aufrechterhaltung des europäischen Patents in unveränderter Form nicht entgegenstehen, so weist sie den Einspruch zurück.

(3) Ist die Einspruchsabteilung der Auffassung, dass unter Berücksichtigung der vom Patentinhaber im Einspruchsverfahren vorgenommenen Änderungen das europäische Patent und die Erfindung, die es zum Gegenstand hat, den Erfordernissen dieses Übereinkommens genügen, so beschließt sie die Aufrechterhaltung des Patents in dem geänderten Umfang, vorausgesetzt, dass

a) gemäß der Ausführungsordnung feststeht, dass der Patentinhaber mit der Fassung, in der die Einspruchsabteilung das Patent aufrechtzuerhalten beabsichtigt, einverstanden ist, und

b) die Druckkostengebühr für eine neue europäische Patentschrift innerhalb der in der Ausführungsordnung vorgeschriebenen Frist entrichtet worden ist.

(4) Wird die Druckkostengebühr für eine neue europäische Patentschrift nicht rechtzeitig entrichtet, so wird das europäische Patent widerrufen.

(5) In der Ausführungsordnung kann vorgesehen werden, dass der Patentinhaber eine Übersetzung der geänderten Patentansprüche in den beiden Amtssprachen des Europäischen Patentamts, die nicht Verfahrenssprache sind, einzureichen hat. Wird die Übersetzung nicht rechtzeitig eingereicht, so wird das europäische Patent widerrufen.

Examination of the opposition

(1) If the opposition is admissible, the Opposition Division shall examine whether the grounds for opposition laid down in Article 100 prejudice the maintenance of the European patent.

(2) In the examination of the opposition, which shall be conducted in accordance with the provisions of the Implementing Regulations, the Opposition Division shall invite the parties, as often as necessary, to file observations, within a period to be fixed by the Opposition Division, on communications from another party or issued by itself.

Revocation or maintenance of the European patent

(1) If the Opposition Division is of the opinion that the grounds for opposition mentioned in Article 100 prejudice the maintenance of the European patent, it shall revoke the patent.

(2) If the Opposition Division is of the opinion that the grounds for opposition mentioned in Article 100 do not prejudice the maintenance of the patent unamended, it shall reject the opposition.

(3) If the Opposition Division is of the opinion that, taking into consideration the amendments made by the proprietor of the patent during the opposition proceedings, the patent and the invention to which it relates meet the requirements of this Convention, it shall decide to maintain the patent as amended, provided that:

(a) it is established, in accordance with the provisions of the Implementing Regulations, that the proprietor of the patent approves the text in which the Opposition Division intends to maintain the patent;

(b) the fee for the printing of a new specification of the European patent is paid within the time limit prescribed in the Implementing Regulations.

(4) If the fee for the printing of a new specification is not paid in due time, the patent shall be revoked.

(5) Provision may be made in the Implementing Regulations for the proprietor of the patent to file a translation of any amended claims in the two official languages of the European Patent Office other than the language of the proceedings. Examen de l'opposition

(1) Si l'opposition est recevable, la division d'opposition examine si les motifs d'opposition visés à l'article 100 s'opposent au maintien du brevet européen.

(2) Au cours de l'examen de l'opposition qui doit se dérouler conformément aux dispositions du règlement d'exécution, la division d'opposition invite les parties, aussi souvent qu'il est nécessaire, à présenter, dans un délai qu'elle leur impartit, leurs observations sur les notifications qu'elle leur a adressées ou sur les communications qui émanent d'autres parties.

Article 102⁷²

Révocation ou maintien du brevet européen

(1) Si la division d'opposition estime que les motifs d'opposition visés à l'article 100 s'opposent au maintien du brevet européen, elle révoque le brevet.

(2) Si la division d'opposition estime que les motifs d'opposition visés à l'article 100 ne s'opposent pas au maintien du brevet européen sans modification, elle rejette l'opposition.

(3) Si la division d'opposition estime que, compte tenu des modifications apportées par le titulaire du brevet européen au cours de la procédure d'opposition, le brevet et l'invention qui en fait l'objet satisfont aux conditions de la présente convention, elle décide de maintenir le brevet tel qu'il a été modifié pour autant que :

a) conformément aux dispositions du règlement d'exécution, il est établi que le titulaire du brevet est d'accord sur le texte dans lequel la division d'opposition envisage de maintenir le brevet, et que

b) la taxe d'impression d'un nouveau fascicule du brevet a été acquittée dans le délai prescrit par le règlement d'exécution.

(4) Si la taxe d'impression d'un nouveau fascicule du brevet européen n'est pas acquittée dans les délais, le brevet est révoqué.

(5) Le règlement d'exécution peut prévoir que le titulaire du brevet européen produira une traduction des revendications modifiées dans les deux langues officielles de l'Office européen des brevets autres que celle de la procédure. Si la traduction n'est pas produite dans les délais, le brevet est révoqué.

Artikel 103

Veröffentlichung einer neuen europäischen Patentschrift

Ist das europäische Patent nach Artikel 102 Absatz 3 geändert worden, so gibt das Europäische Patentamt gleichzeitig mit der Bekanntmachung des Hinweises auf die Entscheidung über den Einspruch eine neue europäische Patentschrift heraus, in der die Beschreibung, die Patentansprüche und gegebenenfalls die Zeichnungen in der geänderten Form enthalten sind.

Artikel 104⁷³

Kosten

(1) Im Einspruchsverfahren trägt jeder Beteiligte die ihm erwachsenen Kosten selbst, soweit nicht die Einspruchsabteilung oder die Beschwerdekammer, wenn und soweit dies der Billigkeit entspricht, über eine Verteilung der Kosten, die durch eine mündliche Verhandlung oder eine Beweisaufnahme verursacht worden sind, nach Maßgabe der Ausführungsordnung anders entscheidet.

(2) Die Geschäftsstelle der Einspruchsabteilung setzt auf Antrag den Betrag der Kosten fest, die auf Grund einer Entscheidung über die Verteilung zu erstatten sind. Gegen die Kostenfestsetzung der Geschäftsstelle ist der Antrag auf Entscheidung durch die Einspruchsabteilung innerhalb einer in der Ausführungsordnung vorgeschriebenen Frist zulässig.

(3) Jede unanfechtbare Entscheidung des Europäischen Patentamts über die Festsetzung der Kosten wird in jedem Vertragsstaat in Bezug auf die Vollstreckung wie ein rechtskräftiges Urteil eines Zivilgerichts des Staats behandelt, in dessen Hoheitsgebiet die Vollstreckung stattfindet. Eine Überprüfung dieser Entscheidung darf sich lediglich auf ihre Echtheit beziehen.

Artikel 105⁷⁴

Beitritt des vermeintlichen Patentverletzers

(1) Ist gegen ein europäisches Patent Einspruch eingelegt worden, so kann jeder Dritte, der nachweist, dass gegen ihn Klage wegen Verletzung dieses Patents erhoben worden ist, nach Ablauf der Einspruchsfrist dem Einspruchsverfahren beitreten, wenn er den Beitritt innerhalb von drei Monaten nach dem Tag erklärt, an dem die Verletzungsklage erhoben worden ist. Das Gleiche gilt für jeden Dritten, der nachweist, dass er nach einer Aufforderung des Patentinhabers, eine angebliche Patentverletzung zu unterlassen, gegen diesen Klage auf gerichtliche Feststellung erhoben hat, dass er das Patent nicht verletze.

Article 103

Publication of a new specification of the European patent

If a European patent is amended under Article 102, paragraph 3, the European Patent Office shall, at the same time as it publishes the mention of the opposition decision, publish a new specification of the European patent containing the description, the claims and any drawings, in the amended form.

Article 104⁷³

Costs

(1) Each party to the proceedings shall meet the costs he has incurred unless a decision of an Opposition Division or Board of Appeal, for reasons of equity, orders, in accordance with the Implementing Regulations, a different apportionment of costs incurred during taking of evidence or in oral proceedings.

(2) On request, the registry of the Opposition Division shall fix the amount of the costs to be paid under a decision apportioning them. The fixing of the costs by the registry may be reviewed by a decision of the Opposition Division on a request filed within the period laid down in the Implementing Regulations.

(3) Any final decision of the European Patent Office fixing the amount of costs shall be dealt with, for the purpose of enforcement in the Contracting States, in the same way as a final decision given by a civil court of the State in the territory of which enforcement is to be carried out. Verification of such decision shall be limited to its authenticity.

Article 105⁷⁴

Intervention of the assumed infringer

(1) In the event of an opposition to a European patent being filed, any third party who proves that proceedings for infringement of the same patent have been instituted against him may, after the opposition period has expired, intervene in the opposition proceedings, if he gives notice of intervention within three months of the date on which the infringement proceedings were instituted. The same shall apply in respect of any third party who proves both that the proprietor of the patent has requested that he cease alleged infringement of the patent and that he has instituted proceedings for a court ruling that he is not infringing the patent.

Article 103

Publication d'un nouveau fascicule du brevet européen

Lorsque le brevet européen a été modifié en vertu de l'article 102, paragraphe 3, l'Office européen des brevets publie simultanément la mention de la décision concernant l'opposition et un nouveau fascicule du brevet européen contenant, dans la forme modifiée, la description, les revendications et, le cas échéant, les dessins.

Article 104⁷³

Frais

(1) Chacune des parties à la procédure d'opposition supporte les frais qu'elle a exposés, sauf décision de la division d'opposition ou de la chambre de recours, prise conformément au règlement d'exécution, prescrivant, dans la mesure où l'équité l'exige, une répartition différente des frais occasionnés par une procédure orale ou une mesure d'instruction.

(2) Sur requête, le greffe de la division d'opposition fixe le montant des frais à rembourser en vertu d'une décision de répartition. Le montant des frais tels qu'ils ont été fixés par le greffe, sur une requête présentée dans le délai prescrit par le règlement d'exécution, peut être réformé par une décision de la division d'opposition.

(3) Toute décision finale de l'Office européen des brevets fixant le montant des frais est, aux fins de son exécution dans les Etats contractants, réputée être une décision passée en force de chose jugée rendue par une juridiction civile de l'Etat sur le territoire duquel cette exécution doit être poursuivie. Le contrôle d'une telle décision ne peut porter que sur son authenticité.

Article 105⁷⁴

Intervention du contrefacteur présumé

(1) Lorsqu'une opposition au brevet européen a été formée, tout tiers qui apporte la preuve qu'une action en contrefaçon fondée sur ce brevet a été introduite à son encontre, peut, après l'expiration du délai d'opposition, intervenir dans la procédure d'opposition à condition qu'il produise une déclaration d'intervention dans un délai de trois mois à compter de la date à laquelle l'action en contrefaçon a été introduite. Cette disposition s'applique à tout tiers qui apporte la preuve, qu'après avoir été requis par le titulaire du brevet de cesser la contrefaçon présumée de ce brevet, il a introduit à l'encontre dudit titulaire une action tendant à faire constater judiciairement qu'il n'est pas contrefacteur.

(1) If the department whose decision is contested considers the appeal to be admissible and well founded, it shall rectify its decision. This shall not apply where the appellant is opposed by another party to the proceedings.

(2)⁷⁹ If the appeal is not allowed within three months after receipt of the statement of grounds, it shall be remitted to the Board of Appeal without delay, and without comment as to its merit.

Article 110⁸⁰

(2) In the examination of the appeal, which shall be conducted in accordance with the provisions of the Implementing Regulations, the Board of Appeal shall invite the parties, as often as necessary, to file observations, within a period to be fixed by the Board of Appeal, on communications from another party or issued by itself.

(3) If the applicant fails to reply in due time to an invitation under paragraph 2, the European patent application shall be deemed to be withdrawn, unless the decision under appeal was taken by the Legal Division.

Article 111⁸¹

Decision in respect of appeals

(1) Following the examination as to the allowability of the appeal, the Board of Appeal shall decide on the appeal. The Board of Appeal may either exercise any power within the competence of the department which was responsible for the decision appealed or remit the case to that department for further prosecution.

(2) If the Board of Appeal remits the case for further prosecution to the department whose decision was appealed, that department shall be bound by the ratio decidendi of the Board of Appeal, in so far as the facts are the same. If the decision which was appealed emanated from the Receiving Section, the Examining Division shall similarly be bound by the ratio decidendi of the Board of Appeal.

(2)⁷⁹ S'il n'est pas fait droit au recours dans un délai de trois mois après réception du mémoire exposant les motifs, le recours doit être immédiatement déféré à la chambre de recours, sans avis sur le fond.

(3) Si, dans le délai qui lui a été imparti, le demandeur ne défère pas à cette invitation, la demande de brevet européen est réputée retirée, à moins que la décision faisant l'objet du recours n'ait été prise par la division juridique.

*Article 111*⁸¹

Décision sur le recours

(1) A la suite de l'examen au fond du recours, la chambre de recours statue sur le recours. Elle peut, soit exercer les compétences de l'instance qui a pris la décision attaquée, soit renvoyer l'affaire à ladite instance pour suite à donner.

(2) Si la chambre de recours renvoie l'affaire pour suite à donner à l'instance qui a pris la décision attaquée, cette instance est liée par les motifs et le dispositif de la décision de la chambre de recours pour autant que les faits de la cause soient les mêmes. Si la décision attaquée a été prise par la section de dépôt, la division d'examen est également liée par les motifs et le dispositif de la décision de la chambre de recours.

Artikel 118

Einheit der europäischen Patentanmeldung oder des europäischen Patents

Verschiedene Anmelder oder Inhaber eines europäischen Patents für verschiedene benannte Vertragsstaaten gelten im Verfahren vor dem Europäischen Patentamt als gemeinsame Anmelder oder gemeinsame Patentinhaber. (4) A party, witness or expert who is summoned before the European Patent Office may request the latter to allow his evidence to be heard by a competent court in his country of residence. On receipt of such a request, or if there has been no reply to the summons by the expiry of a period fixed by the European Patent Office in the summons, the European Patent Office may, in accordance with the provisions of Article 131, paragraph 2, request the competent court to hear the person concerned.

(5) If a party, witness or expert gives evidence before the European Patent Office, the latter may, if it considers it advisable for the evidence to be given on oath or in an equally binding form, request the competent court in the country of residence of the person concerned to re-examine his evidence under such conditions.

(6) When the European Patent Office requests a competent court to take evidence, it may request the court to take the evidence on oath or in an equally binding form and to permit a member of the department concerned to attend the hearing and question the party, witness or expert either through the intermediary of the court or directly.

Article 118

Unity of the European patent application or European patent

Where the applicants for or proprietors of a European patent are not the same in respect of different designated Contracting States, they shall be regarded as joint applicants or proprietors for the purposes of proceedings before the European Patent Office. (4) Une partie, un témoin ou un expert cité devant l'Office européen des brevets peut lui demander l'autorisation d'être entendu par les autorités judiciaires compétentes de l'Etat sur le territoire duquel il réside. Après avoir reçu cette requête ou, si aucune suite n'a été donnée à la citation à l'expiration du délai imparti par l'Office européen des brevets dans cette citation, ce dernier peut, conformément aux dispositions de l'article 131, paragraphe 2, demander aux autorités judiciaires compétentes de recueillir la déposition de la personne concernée.

(5) Si une partie, un témoin ou un expert dépose devant l'Office européen des brevets, ce dernier peut, s'il estime souhaitable que la déposition soit recueillie sous la foi du serment ou sous une autre forme également contraignante, demander aux autorités judiciaires compétentes de l'Etat sur le territoire duquel réside la personne concernée, de l'entendre à nouveau dans ces dernières conditions.

(6) Lorsque l'Office européen des brevets demande à une autorité judiciaire compétente de recueillir une déposition, il peut lui demander de recueillir la déposition sous la foi du serment ou sous une autre forme également contraignante et d'autoriser un des membres de l'instance intéressée à assister à l'audition de la partie, du témoin ou de l'expert et à l'interroger, soit par l'entremise de ladite autorité, soit directement.

Notifications may, where exceptional circumstances so require, be given through the intermediary of the central industrial property offices of the Contracting States.

Article 120

The Implementing Regulations shall specify:

- (a) the manner of computation of time limits and the conditions under which such time limits may be extended, either because the European Patent Office or the authorities referred to in Article 75, paragraph 1(b), are not open to receive documents or because mail is not delivered in the localities in which the European Patent Office or such authorities are situated or because postal services are generally interrupted or subsequently dislocated;
- (b) the minima and maxima for time limits to be determined by the European Patent Office.

*Article 121*⁸⁷

- (2) The request shall be filed in writing within two months of the date on which either the decision to refuse the application or the communication that the application is deemed to be withdrawn was notified. The omitted act must be completed within this time limit. The request shall not be deemed to have been filed until the fee for further processing has been paid.
- (3) The department competent to decide on the omitted act shall decide on the request.

Wiedereinsetzung in den vorigen Stand

(2) Der Antrag ist innerhalb von zwei Monaten nach Wegfall des Hindernisses schriftlich einzureichen. Die versäumte Handlung ist innerhalb dieser Frist nachzuholen. Der Antrag ist nur innerhalb eines Jahres nach Ablauf der versäumten Frist zulässig. Im Fall der Nichtzahlung einer Jahresgebühr wird die in Artikel 86 Absatz 2 vorgesehene Frist in die Frist von einem Jahr eingerechnet.

(4) Über den Antrag entscheidet das Organ, das über die versäumte Handlung zu entscheiden hat.

(5) Dieser Artikel ist nicht anzuwenden auf die Fristen des Absatzes 2 sowie der Artikel 61 Absatz 3, 76 Absatz 3, 78 Absatz 2, 79 Absatz 2, 87 Absatz 1 und 94 Absatz 2.

(6) Wer in einem benannten Vertragsstaat in gutem Glauben die Erfindung, die Gegenstand einer veröffentlichten europäischen Patentanmeldung oder eines europäischen Patents ist, in der Zeit zwischen dem Eintritt eines Rechtsverlusts nach Absatz 1 und der Bekanntmachung des Hinweises auf die Wiedereinsetzung in den vorigen Stand in Benutzung genommen oder wirkliche und ernsthafte Veranstaltungen zur Benutzung getroffen hat, darf die Benutzung in seinem Betrieb oder für die Bedürfnisse seines Betriebs unentgeltlich fortsetzen.

(7) Dieser Artikel lässt das Recht eines Vertragsstaats unberührt, Wiedereinsetzung in den vorigen Stand in Fristen zu gewähren, die in diesem Übereinkommen vorgesehen und den Behörden dieses Staats gegenüber einzuhalten sind.

Restitutio in integrum

(1) The applicant for or proprietor of a European patent who, in spite of all due care required by the circumstances having been taken, was unable to observe a time limit vis-à-vis the European Patent Office shall, upon application, have his rights re-established if the non-observance in question has the direct consequence, by virtue of this Convention, of causing the refusal of the European patent application, or of a request, or the deeming of the European patent application to have been withdrawn, or the revocation of the European patent, or the loss of any other right or means of redress.

(2) The application must be filed in writing within two months from the removal of the cause of non-compliance with the time limit. The omitted act must be completed within this period. The application shall only be admissible within the year immediately following the expiry of the unobserved time limit. In the case of non-payment of a renewal fee, the period specified in Article 86, paragraph 2, shall be deducted from the period of one year.

(4) The department competent to decide on the omitted act shall decide upon the application.

(5) The provisions of this Article shall not be applicable to the time limits referred to in paragraph 2 of this Article, Article 61, paragraph 3, Article 76, paragraph 3, Article 78, paragraph 2, Article 79, paragraph 2, Article 87, paragraph 1, and Article 94, paragraph 2.

(6) Any person who, in a designated Contracting State, in good faith has used or made effective and serious preparations for using an invention which is the subject of a published European patent application or a European patent in the course of the period between the loss of rights referred to in paragraph 1 and publication of the mention of re-establishment of those rights, may without payment continue such use in the course of his business or for the needs thereof.

(7) Nothing in this Article shall limit the right of a Contracting State to grant restitutio in integrum in respect of time limits provided for in this Convention and to be observed vis-à-vis the authorities of such State.

(3) La requête doit être motivée et indiquer les faits et les justifications invoqués à son appui. Elle n'est réputée présentée qu'à la condition que la taxe de restitutio in integrum ait été acquittée.

(4) L'instance qui est compétente pour statuer sur l'acte non accompli décide sur la requête.

(5) Les dispositions du présent article ne sont pas applicables aux délais prévus au paragraphe 2 ainsi qu'aux articles 61, paragraphe 3, 76, paragraphe 3, 78, paragraphe 2, 79, paragraphe 2, 87, paragraphe 1 et 94, paragraphe 2.

(6) Quiconque, dans un Etat contractant a, de bonne foi, au cours de la période comprise entre la perte d'un droit visé au paragraphe 1 et la publication de la mention du rétablissement dudit droit, commencé à exploiter ou a fait des préparatifs effectifs et sérieux pour exploiter l'invention qui fait l'objet d'une demande de brevet européen publiée ou d'un brevet européen, peut, à titre gratuit, poursuivre cette exploitation dans son entreprise ou pour les besoins de son entreprise.

(7) Le présent article n'affecte pas le droit pour un Etat contractant d'accorder la restitutio in integrum quant aux délais prévus par la présente convention et qui doivent être observés vis-à-vis des autorités de cet Etat.

However, persons whose professional qualification to represent natural or legal persons in patent matters before the central industrial property office of one of the Contracting States is officially recognised in accordance with the regulations laid down by such State shall not be subject to the condition of having exercised the profession. (6) Les personnes qui ont leur domicile professionnel ou le lieu de leur emploi sur le territoire d'un Etat qui a adhéré à la présente convention moins d'un an avant la date d'expiration de la période transitoire prévue au paragraphe 1 ou postérieurement à cette date peuvent, dans les conditions prévues aux paragraphes 1 à 5, durant une période d'un an à compter de la date d'effet de l'adhésion dudit Etat, être inscrites sur la liste des mandataires agréés.

(7) Après l'expiration de la période transitoire, et sans préjudice des mesures disciplinaires prises en application de l'article 134, paragraphe 8, lettre c), toute personne qui a été inscrite sur la liste des mandataires agréés pendant ladite période y demeure inscrite ou, sur requête, y est inscrite à nouveau, sous réserve de remplir la condition visée au paragraphe 1, lettre b).

(2) Änderungen der europäischen Patentanmeldung oder des europäischen Patents müssen in der Verfahrenssprache eingereicht werden.

(3) Schriftstücke, die als Beweismittel vor dem Europäischen Patentamt verwendet werden sollen, insbesondere Veröffentlichungen, können in jeder Sprache eingereicht werden. Das Europäische Patentamt kann jedoch verlangen, dass innerhalb einer von ihm zu bestimmenden Frist, die nicht kürzer als ein Monat sein darf, eine Übersetzung in einer seiner Amtssprachen eingereicht wird.

DISPOSITIONS D'APPLICATION DE LA PREMIÈRE PARTIE DE LA CONVENTION

Chapitre I

Langues de l'Office européen des brevets

*Règle 1*¹

Dérogations aux dispositions relatives à la langue de la procédure dans la procédure écrite

Art. 99, 105
R. 56, 65

(1) Dans toute procédure écrite devant l'Office européen des brevets, toute partie peut utiliser l'une des langues officielles de l'Office européen des brevets. La traduction visée à l'article 14, paragraphe 4 peut être déposée dans l'une des langues officielles de l'Office européen des brevets.

(2) Les modifications de la demande de brevet européen ou du brevet européen doivent être déposées dans la langue de la procédure.

(3) Les documents utilisés comme moyens de preuve devant l'Office européen des brevets, notamment les publications, peuvent être produits en toute langue. Toutefois, l'Office européen des brevets peut exiger que, dans un délai qu'il impartit et qui ne doit pas être inférieur à un mois, une traduction soit produite dans l'une de ses langues officielles.

Règle 2

Dérogations aux dispositions relatives à l'utilisation de la langue de la procédure au cours de la procédure orale

Art. 14, 116, 117, 123

(1)² Toute partie à une procédure orale devant l'Office européen des brevets peut, au lieu et place de la langue de la procédure, utiliser l'une des autres langues officielles de cet Office, à condition soit d'en aviser ledit Office un mois au moins avant la date fixée pour l'audience, soit d'assurer l'interprétation dans la langue de la procédure. Toute partie peut également utiliser l'une des langues officielles de l'un des Etats contractants à condition d'assurer l'interprétation dans la langue de la procédure. L'Office européen des brevets peut autoriser des dérogations aux dispositions du présent paragraphe.

(2) Au cours de la procédure orale, les agents de l'Office européen des brevets peuvent utiliser l'une des autres langues officielles de cet Office au lieu et place de la langue de la procédure.

² Modifié par décision du Conseil d'administration en date du 10.06.1988, entrée en vigueur le 01.10.1988 (JO OEB 1988, 290).

(3) In der Beweisaufnahme können sich die zu vernehmenden Beteiligten, Zeugen oder Sachverständigen, die sich in einer der Amtssprachen des Europäischen Patentamts oder der Vertragsstaaten nicht hinlänglich ausdrücken können, einer anderen Sprache bedienen. Ist die Beweisaufnahme auf Antrag eines Beteiligten angeordnet worden, so werden die zu vernehmenden Beteiligten, Zeugen oder Sachverständigen mit Erklärungen, die sie in anderen Sprachen als den Amtssprachen des Europäischen Patentamts abgeben, nur gehört, sofern der antragstellende Beteiligte selbst für die Übersetzung in die Verfahrenssprache sorgt; das Europäische Patentamt kann jedoch die Übersetzung in eine seiner anderen Amtssprachen zulassen.

(4) Mit Einverständnis aller Beteiligten und des Europäischen Patentamts kann in einem mündlichen Verfahren jede Sprache verwendet werden.

(5) Das Europäische Patentamt übernimmt, soweit erforderlich, auf seine Kosten die Übersetzung in die Verfahrenssprache und gegebenenfalls in seine anderen Amtssprachen, sofern ein Beteiligter nicht selbst für die Übersetzung zu sorgen hat.

*Regel 4*⁵

Sprache der europäischen Teilanmeldung

Eine europäische Teilanmeldung oder, im Fall des Artikels 14 Absatz 2, ihre Übersetzung muss in der Verfahrenssprache der früheren europäischen Patentanmeldung eingereicht werden.

(3) In the case of taking of evidence, any party to be heard, witness or expert who is unable to express himself adequately in one of the official languages of the European Patent Office or the Contracting States may use another language. Should the taking of evidence be decided upon following a request by a party to the proceedings, parties to be heard, witnesses or experts who express themselves in languages other than the official languages of the European Patent Office may be heard only if the party who made the request makes provision for interpretation into the language of the proceedings; the European Patent Office may, however, authorise interpretation into one of its other official languages.

(4) If the parties and the European Patent Office agree, any language may be used in oral proceedings.

(5) The European Patent Office shall, if necessary, make provision at its own expense for interpretation into the language of the proceedings, or, where appropriate, into its other official languages, unless this interpretation is the responsibility of one of the parties to the proceedings.

(6)³ Statements by employees of the European Patent Office, by parties to the proceedings and by witnesses and experts, made in one of the official languages of the European Patent Office during oral proceedings shall be entered in the minutes in the language employed. Statements made in any other language shall be entered in the official language into which they are translated. Amendments to the text of the description or claims of a European patent application or European patent shall be entered in the minutes in the language of the proceedings.

Si l'instruction est décidée sur requête d'une partie à la procédure, les parties, témoins ou experts appelés à participer à cette instruction, qui s'expriment dans des langues autres que les langues officielles de l'Office européen des brevets, ne peuvent être entendus que si la partie ayant formulé la requête assure l'interprétation dans la langue de la procédure; l'Office européen des brevets peut toutefois autoriser l'interprétation dans l'une de ses autres langues officielles.

(4) Sous réserve de l'accord des parties et de l'Office européen des brevets, toute langue peut être utilisée dans la procédure orale.

(5) L'Office européen des brevets assure à ses frais, en tant que de besoin, l'interprétation dans la langue de la procédure, ou, le cas échéant, dans l'une de ses autres langues officielles, à moins que cette interprétation ne doive être assurée par l'une des parties à la procédure.

Regel 5

Beglaubigung von Übersetzungen

Ist die Übersetzung eines Schriftstücks einzureichen, so kann das Europäische Patentamt innerhalb einer von ihm zu bestimmenden Frist die Einreichung einer Beglaubigung darüber verlangen, dass die Übersetzung mit dem Urtext übereinstimmt. Wird die Beglaubigung nicht rechtzeitig eingereicht, so gilt das Schriftstück als nicht eingegangen, sofern im Übereinkommen nichts anderes bestimmt ist.

Regel 6

Fristen und Gebührenermäßigung

(1)⁶ Die in Artikel 14 Absatz 2 vorgeschriebene Übersetzung ist innerhalb von drei Monaten nach Einreichung der europäischen Patentanmeldung einzureichen, jedoch nicht später als dreizehn Monate nach dem Prioritätstag. Betrifft die Übersetzung jedoch eine europäische Teilanmeldung oder die in Artikel 61 Absatz 1 Buchstabe b vorgesehene neue europäische Patentanmeldung, so darf sie innerhalb eines Monats nach Einreichung dieser Anmeldung vorgelegt werden.

(2) Die in Artikel 14 Absatz 4 vorgeschriebene Übersetzung ist innerhalb eines Monats nach Einreichung des Schriftstücks einzureichen. Ist das Schriftstück ein Einspruch oder eine Beschwerde, so verlängert sich die genannte Frist gegebenenfalls bis zum Ablauf der Einspruchs- oder Beschwerdefrist.

(3)⁷ Macht ein Anmelder, Patentinhaber oder Einsprechender von den durch Artikel 14 Absätze 2 und 4 eröffneten Möglichkeiten Gebrauch, so werden dementsprechend die Anmeldegebühr, die Prüfungsgebühr, die Einspruchsgebühr und die Beschwerdegebühr ermäßigt. Die Ermäßigung wird in der Gebührenordnung in Höhe eines Prozentsatzes der Gebühren festgelegt.

Regel 7

Rechtliche Bedeutung der Übersetzung der europäischen Patentanmeldung

Das Europäische Patentamt kann, soweit nicht der Gegenbeweis erbracht wird, für die Bestimmung, ob der Gegenstand der europäischen Patentanmeldung oder des europäischen Patents nicht über den Inhalt der Anmeldung in der ursprünglich eingereichten Fassung hinausgeht, davon ausgehen, dass die in Artikel 14 Absatz 2 genannte Übersetzung mit dem ursprünglichen Text der Anmeldung übereinstimmt.

Rule 5

Certification of translations

When a translation of any document must be filed, the European Patent Office may require the filing of a certificate that the translation corresponds to the original text within a period to be determined by it. Failure to file the certificate in due time shall lead to the document being deemed not to have been received unless the Convention provides otherwise.

Rule 6

Time limits and reduction of fees

(1)⁶ The translation referred to in Article 14, paragraph 2, must be filed within three months after the filing of the European patent application, but no later than thirteen months after the date of priority. Nevertheless, if the translation concerns a European divisional application or a new European patent application under Article 61, paragraph 1(b), the translation may be filed at any time within one month of the filing of such application.

(2) The translation referred to in Article 14, paragraph 4, must be filed within one month of the filing of the document. Where the document is a notice of opposition or an appeal, this period shall be extended where appropriate to the end of the opposition period or appeal period.

(3)⁷ A reduction in the filing fee, examination fee, opposition fee or appeal fee shall be allowed an applicant, proprietor or opponent, as the case may be, who avails himself of the options provided in Article 14, paragraphs 2 and 4. The reduction shall be fixed in the Rules relating to Fees at a percentage of the total of the fees.

Rule 7

Legal authenticity of the translation of the European patent application

Saving proof to the contrary, the European Patent Office may, for the purposes of determining whether the subject-matter of the European patent application or European patent extends beyond the content of the European patent application as filed, assume that the translation referred to in Article 14, paragraph 2, is in conformity with the original text of the application.

⁶ Geändert durch Beschluss des Verwaltungsrats vom 20.10.1977, in Kraft getreten am 01.02.1978 (ABI. EPA 1978, 12 ff.).

⁷ Siehe hierzu Entscheidung der Großen Beschwerdekammer G 6/91 (Anhang I).

⁶ Amended by decision of the Administrative Council of 20.10.1977 which entered into force on 01.02.1978 (OJ EPO 1978, 12 ff.).

⁷ See decision of the Enlarged Board of Appeal G 6/91 (Annex I).

Règle 5

Certification de traductions

Si la traduction d'un document doit être produite, l'Office européen des brevets peut exiger, dans un délai qu'il impartit, la production d'une attestation, certifiant que la traduction est une traduction correcte du texte original. Si l'attestation n'est pas produite dans les délais, le document est réputé n'avoir pas été reçu, sauf dispositions contraires de la convention.

Verweisungen / References / Références

Art. 14, 88

Règle 6

Délais et réduction des taxes

(1)⁶ La traduction visée à l'article 14, paragraphe 2 doit être produite dans un délai de trois mois à compter du dépôt de la demande de brevet européen et, en tout état de cause, avant l'expiration d'un délai de treize mois à compter de la date de priorité. Cependant, lorsque la traduction concerne une demande divisionnaire européenne ou la nouvelle demande de brevet européen prévue à l'article 61, paragraphe 1, lettre b), elle peut être produite dans un délai d'un mois à compter du dépôt de cette demande.

Art. 76, 78, 88, 94, 99, 108

(2) La traduction visée à l'article 14, paragraphe 4, doit être produite dans un délai d'un mois à compter du dépôt de la pièce; si cette dernière est un acte d'opposition ou un recours, le délai est prorogé, s'il y a lieu, jusqu'au terme du délai d'opposition ou de recours.

(3)⁷ Une réduction du montant des taxes de dépôt, d'examen, d'opposition ou de recours est accordée, selon le cas, au demandeur, au titulaire ou à l'opposant qui use des facultés ouvertes par les dispositions de l'article 14, paragraphes 2 et 4. Cette réduction est fixée à un pourcentage du montant desdites taxes, dans le règlement relatif aux taxes.

Règle 7

Valeur juridique de la traduction de la demande de brevet européen

Art. 70, 123

Sauf preuve contraire, l'Office européen des brevets peut, pour déterminer si l'objet de la demande de brevet européen ou du brevet européen ne s'étend pas au-delà du contenu de la demande telle qu'elle a été déposée, présumer que la traduction visée à l'article 14, paragraphe 2 est une traduction exacte du texte original de la demande.

⁶ Modifié par décision du Conseil d'administration en date du 20.10.1977, entrée en vigueur le 01.02.1978 (JO OEB 1978, 12 s.).

(2) Alle Mitglieder des Präsidiums werden von den Vorsitzenden und den Mitgliedern der Beschwerdekammern für die Dauer eines Geschäftsjahres gewählt. Kann das Präsidium nicht vollzählig zusammengesetzt werden, so werden die vakanten Stellen durch Bestimmung der dienstältesten Vorsitzenden bzw. Mitglieder besetzt.

(3) Das Präsidium erlässt die Verfahrensordnung der Beschwerdekammern und die Verfahrensordnung für die Wahl und die Bestimmung seiner Mitglieder. Ferner berät das Präsidium den für die Beschwerdekammern zuständigen Vizepräsidenten in die Funktionsweise der Beschwerdekammern allgemein betreffenden Angelegenheiten.

(4) Vor Beginn eines jeden Geschäftsjahrs verteilt das um alle Vorsitzenden erweiterte Präsidium die Geschäfte auf die Beschwerdekammern. Handelt es sich um die in Absatz 4 genannten Aufgaben, so ist die Anwesenheit von neun Mitgliedern erforderlich, unter denen sich der für die Beschwerdekammern zuständige Vizepräsident oder sein Vertreter und die Vorsitzenden von drei Beschwerdekammern befinden müssen. (2) All members of the Presidium shall be elected by the Chairmen and members of the Boards of Appeal for one working year. If the full composition of the Presidium cannot be reached, the vacancies shall be filled by designating the most senior Chairmen and members.

(3) The Presidium shall adopt the Rules of Procedure of the Boards of Appeal and the Rules of Procedure for the election and designation of its members. The Presidium shall further advise the Vice-President in charge of the Boards of Appeal with regard to matters concerning the functioning of the Boards of Appeal in general.

AUSFÜHRUNGSVORSCHRIFTEN ZUM ZWEITEN TEIL DES ÜBEREINKOMMENS

Kapitel I

Verfahren bei mangelnder Berechtigung des Anmelders oder Patentinhabers

Regel 13^{13/14}

Aussetzung des Verfahrens

(1) Weist ein Dritter dem Europäischen Patentamt nach, dass er ein Verfahren gegen den Anmelder eingeleitet hat, in dem der Anspruch auf Erteilung des europäischen Patents ihm zugesprochen werden soll, so setzt das Europäische Patentamt das Erteilungsverfahren aus, es sei denn, dass der Dritte der Fortsetzung des Verfahrens zustimmt. Diese Zustimmung ist dem Europäischen Patentamt schriftlich zu erklären; sie ist unwiderruflich. Das Erteilungsverfahren kann jedoch nicht vor der Veröffentlichung der europäischen Patentanmeldung ausgesetzt werden.

(2) Wird dem Europäischen Patentamt nachgewiesen, dass in dem Verfahren zur Geltendmachung des Anspruchs auf Erteilung des europäischen Patents eine rechtskräftige Entscheidung ergangen ist, so teilt das Europäische Patentamt dem Anmelder und gegebenenfalls den Beteiligten mit, dass das Erteilungsverfahren von einem in der Mitteilung genannten Tag an fortgesetzt wird, es sei denn, dass nach Artikel 61 Absatz 1 Buchstabe b eine neue europäische Patentanmeldung für alle benannten Vertragsstaaten eingereicht worden ist. (3) Mit der Entscheidung über die Aussetzung des Verfahrens oder später kann das Europäische Patentamt einen Zeitpunkt festsetzen, zu dem es beabsichtigt, das vor ihm anhängige Verfahren ohne Rücksicht auf den Stand des in Absatz 1 genannten, gegen den Anmelder eingeleiteten Verfahrens fortzusetzen. Der Zeitpunkt ist dem Dritten, dem Anmelder und gegebenenfalls den Beteiligten mitzuteilen. Wird bis zu diesem Zeitpunkt nicht nachgewiesen, dass eine rechtskräftige Entscheidung ergangen ist, so kann das Europäische Patentamt das Verfahren fortsetzen.

Procedure where the applicant or proprietor is not entitled

Rule 13^{13/14}

Suspension of proceedings

(1) If a third party provides proof to the European Patent Office that he has opened proceedings against the applicant for the purpose of seeking a judgment that he is entitled to the grant of the European patent, the European Patent Office shall stay the proceedings for grant unless the third party consents to the continuation of such proceedings. Such consent must be communicated in writing to the European Patent Office; it shall be irrevocable. However, proceedings for grant may not be stayed before the publication of the European patent application.

(2) Where proof is provided to the European Patent Office that a decision which has become final has been given in the proceedings concerning entitlement to the grant of the European patent, the European Patent Office shall communicate to the applicant and any other party that the proceedings for grant shall be resumed as from the date stated in the communication unless a new European patent application pursuant to Article 61, paragraph 1(b), has been filed for all the designated Contracting States. If the decision is in favour of the third party, the proceedings may only be resumed after a period of three months of that decision becoming final unless the third party requests the resumption of the proceedings for grant.

(3) When giving a decision on the suspension of proceedings or thereafter the European Patent Office may set a date on which it intends to continue the proceedings pending before it regardless of the stage reached in the proceedings referred to in paragraph 1 opened against the applicant. The date is to be communicated to the third party, the applicant and any other party. If no proof has been provided by that date that a decision which has become final has been given, the European Patent Office may continue proceedings.

DISPOSITIONS D'APPLICATION DE LA SECONDE PARTIE DE LA CONVENTION

Chapitre I

Procédures prévues lorsque le demandeur ou le titulaire du brevet n'est pas une personne habilitée

Règle 13^{13/14}

Suspension de la procédure

R. 92*

(1) Si un tiers apporte à l'Office européen des brevets la preuve qu'il a introduit une procédure contre le demandeur à l'effet d'établir que le droit à l'obtention du brevet européen lui appartient, l'Office suspend la procédure de délivrance, à moins que ce tiers ne consente à la poursuite de cette procédure. Ce consentement doit être déclaré par écrit à l'Office européen des brevets; il est irrévocable. La suspension de la procédure ne peut toutefois intervenir avant la publication de la demande de brevet européen.

(2) Si la preuve est apportée à l'Office européen des brevets qu'une décision passée en force de chose jugée est intervenue dans la procédure en revendication du droit à l'obtention du brevet européen, l'Office européen des brevets notifie au demandeur ou, selon le cas, aux autres parties intéressées que la procédure de délivrance est reprise à compter de la date fixée par la notification, à moins que, conformément à l'article 61, paragraphe 1, lettre b), une nouvelle demande de brevet européen n'ait été déposée pour l'ensemble des Etats contractants désignés. Si la décision est prononcée en faveur du tiers, la procédure ne peut être reprise qu'après l'expiration d'un délai de trois mois après que la décision est passée en force de chose jugée, à moins que le tiers n'ait demandé la poursuite de la procédure de délivrance.

(3) L'Office européen des brevets peut, simultanément ou à une date ultérieure, prendre la décision de suspendre la procédure et fixer la date à laquelle il envisage de reprendre la procédure en instance devant lui, sans tenir compte de l'état de la procédure engagée contre le demandeur visée au paragraphe 1. Cette date doit être notifiée au tiers ainsi qu'au demandeur et, le cas échéant, aux autres parties intéressées. Si, avant cette date, la preuve n'est pas apportée qu'une décision passée en force de chose jugée est intervenue, l'Office européen des brevets peut reprendre la procédure.

¹⁴ Cf. la décision de la Grande Chambre de recours G 3/92 (Annexe I).

(4) Weist ein Dritter dem Europäischen Patentamt während eines Einspruchsverfahrens oder während der Einspruchsfrist nach, dass er gegen den Inhaber des europäischen Patents ein Verfahren eingeleitet hat, in dem das europäische Patent ihm zugesprochen werden soll, so setzt das Europäische Patentamt das Einspruchsverfahren aus, es sei denn, dass der Dritte der Fortsetzung des Verfahrens zustimmt. Diese Zustimmung ist dem Europäischen Patentamt schriftlich zu erklären; sie ist unwiderruflich. Die Aussetzung darf jedoch erst angeordnet werden, wenn die Einspruchsabteilung den Einspruch für zulässig hält. Die Absätze 2 und 3 sind entsprechend anzuwenden.

(5) Die am Tag der Aussetzung laufenden Fristen mit Ausnahme der Fristen zur Zahlung der Jahresgebühren werden durch die Aussetzung gehemmt. An dem Tag der Fortsetzung des Verfahrens beginnt der noch nicht verstrichene Teil einer Frist zu laufen; die nach Fortsetzung des Verfahrens verbleibende Frist beträgt jedoch mindestens zwei Monate.

Regel 14¹⁵

Beschränkung der Zurücknahme der europäischen Patentanmeldung

Von dem Tag an, an dem ein Dritter dem Europäischen Patentamt nachweist, dass er ein Verfahren zur Geltendmachung des Anspruchs auf Erteilung des europäischen Patents eingeleitet hat, bis zu dem Tag, an dem das Europäische Patentamt das Erteilungsverfahren fortsetzt, darf weder die europäische Patentanmeldung noch die Benennung eines Vertragsstaats zurückgenommen werden.

Regel 15¹⁶

Einreichung einer neuen europäischen Patentanmeldung durch den Berechtigten

(1) Reicht die Person, der durch rechtskräftige Entscheidung der Anspruch auf Erteilung des europäischen Patents zugesprochen worden ist, nach Artikel 61 Absatz 1 Buchstabe b eine neue europäische Patentanmeldung ein, so gilt die frühere europäische Patentanmeldung für die in ihr benannten Vertragsstaaten, in denen die Entscheidung ergangen oder anerkannt worden ist, mit dem Tag der Einreichung der neuen europäischen Patentanmeldung als zurückgenommen.

¹⁵ Siehe hierzu Entscheidung der Großen Beschwerdekammer G 3/92 (Anhang I).

¹⁶ Siehe hierzu Entscheidung/Stellungnahme der Großen Beschwerdekammer G 3/92, G 4/98 (Anhang I).

¹⁷ Geändert durch Beschluss des Verwaltungsrats vom 13.10.1999, in Kraft getreten am 01.03.2000 (ABI. EPA 1999, 660 ff.).

(4) If a third party provides proof to the European Patent Office during opposition proceedings or during the opposition period that he has opened proceedings against the proprietor of the European patent for the purpose of seeking a judgment that he is entitled to the European patent, the European Patent Office shall stay the opposition proceedings unless the third party consents to the continuation of such proceedings. Such comment must be communicated in writing to the European Patent Office; it shall be irrevocable. However, the suspension of the proceedings may not be ordered until the Opposition Division has deemed the opposition admissible. Paragraphs 2 and 3 shall apply mutatis mutandis.

(5) The time limits in force at the date of suspension other than time limits for payment of renewal fees shall be interrupted by such suspension. The time which has not yet elapsed shall begin to run as from the date on which proceedings are resumed; however, the time still to run after the resumption of the proceedings shall not be less than two months.

Limitation of the option to withdraw the European patent application

As from the time when a third party proves to the European Patent Office that he has initiated proceedings concerning entitlement and up to the date on which the European Patent Office resumes the proceedings for grant, neither the European patent application nor the designation of any Contracting State may be withdrawn.

Rule 15¹⁶

Filing of a new European patent application by the person entitled to apply

(1) Where the person adjudged by a final decision to be entitled to the grant of the European patent files a new European patent application pursuant to Article 61, paragraph 1(b), the original European patent application shall be deemed to be withdrawn on the date of filing of the new application for the Contracting States designated therein in which the decision has been taken or recognised.

(2)¹⁷ The filing fee and search fee shall be payable in respect of the new European patent application within one month after the filing thereof. The designation fees shall be payable within six months of the date on which the European Patent Bulletin mentions the publication of the European search report drawn up in respect of the new European patent application.

¹⁵ See decision of the Enlarged Board of Appeal G 3/92 (Annex I).

¹⁶ See decision/opinion of the Enlarged Board of Appeal G 3/92, G 4/98 (Annex I).

¹⁷ Amended by decision of the Administrative Council of 13.10.1999 which entered into force on 01.03.2000 (OJ EPO 1999, 660 ff.).

(4) Si, lors d'une procédure d'opposition ou au cours du délai d'opposition, un tiers apporte à l'Office européen des brevets la preuve qu'il a introduit une procédure contre le titulaire du brevet européen à l'effet d'établir que le droit au brevet européen lui appartient, l'Office suspend la procédure d'opposition, à moins que ce tiers ne consente à la poursuite de la procédure. Ce consentement doit être déclaré par écrit à l'Office européen des brevets; il est irrévocable. Toutefois, la suspension ne doit être décidée que lorsque la division d'opposition considère l'opposition recevable. Les paragraphes 2 et 3 sont applicables.

(5) La suspension de la procédure entraîne celle des délais qui courent, à l'exception de ceux qui s'appliquent au paiement des taxes annuelles. La partie du délai non encore expirée commence à courir à la date de la reprise de la procédure; toutefois, le délai restant à courir après la reprise de la procédure ne peut être inférieur à deux mois.

(3) On entend par "matière biologique" toute matière contenant des informations génétiques et qui est auto-reproductible ou reproductible dans un système biologique.

(4) On entend par "variété végétale" tout ensemble végétal d'un seul taxon botanique du rang le plus bas connu qui, qu'il réponde ou non pleinement aux conditions d'octroi d'une protection des obtentions végétales, peut :

a) être défini par l'expression des caractères résultant d'un certain génotype ou d'une certaine combinaison de génotypes,

b) être distingué de tout autre ensemble végétal par l'expression d'au moins un desdits caractères et

c) être considéré comme une entité eu égard à son aptitude à être reproduit sans changement.

(5) Un procédé d'obtention de végétaux ou d'animaux est essentiellement biologique s'il consiste intégralement en des phénomènes naturels tels que le croisement ou la sélection.

(6) On entend par "procédé microbiologique" tout procédé utilisant une matière microbiologique, comportant une intervention sur une matière microbiologique ou produisant une matière microbiologique.

(1) The human body, at the various stages of its formation and development, and the simple discovery of one of its elements, including the sequence or partial sequence of a gene, cannot constitute patentable inventions.

(2) An element isolated from the human body or otherwise produced by means of a technical process, including the sequence or partial sequence of a gene, may constitute a patentable invention, even if the structure of that element is identical to that of a natural element.

(3) The industrial application of a sequence or a partial sequence of a gene must be disclosed in the patent application.

Règle 23quater

Inventions biotechnologiques brevetables

Les inventions biotechnologiques sont également brevetables lorsqu'elles ont pour objet :

- a) une matière biologique isolée de son environnement naturel ou produite à l'aide d'un procédé technique, même lorsqu'elle préexistait à l'état naturel ;

Le corps humain et ses éléments

(1) Le corps humain, aux différents stades de sa constitution et de son développement, ainsi que la simple découverte d'un de ses éléments, y compris la séquence ou la séquence partielle d'un gène, ne peuvent constituer des inventions brevetables.

(2) Un élément isolé du corps humain ou autrement produit par un procédé technique, y compris la séquence ou la séquence partielle d'un gène, peut constituer une invention brevetable, même si la structure de cet élément est identique à celle d'un élément naturel.

Prescriptions régissant les demandes de brevet européen portant sur des séquences de nucléotides et d'acides aminés

R. 27

(1) Si des séquences de nucléotides ou d'acides aminés sont exposées dans la demande de brevet européen, la description doit contenir une liste de séquences établie conformément aux règles arrêtées par le Président de l'Office européen des brevets pour la représentation normalisée de séquences de nucléotides et d'acides aminés.

(2) Le Président de l'Office européen des brevets peut exiger qu'en plus des pièces écrites de la demande, une liste de séquences établie conformément aux dispositions du paragraphe 1 soit produite sur un support de données qu'il prescrit et qu'elle soit accompagnée d'une déclaration selon laquelle l'information figurant sur ce support est identique à celle que contient la liste écrite.

(3) Si une liste de séquences est déposée ou rectifiée après la date de dépôt, le demandeur doit produire une déclaration selon laquelle la liste de séquences ainsi déposée ou rectifiée ne contient pas d'éléments s'étendant au-delà du contenu de la demande telle qu'elle a été déposée.

(4) Une liste de séquences produite après la date de dépôt ne fait pas partie de la description.

Règle 28⁴²

Dépôt de matière biologique

Art. 78, 129

R. 23b/ter, 28a/bis, 48

(1) Lorsqu'une invention comporte l'utilisation d'une matière biologique ou qu'elle concerne une matière biologique, à laquelle le public n'a pas accès et qui ne peut être décrite dans la demande de brevet européen de façon à permettre à un homme du métier d'exécuter l'invention, celle-ci n'est considérée comme exposée conformément aux dispositions de l'article 83 que si :

- a) un échantillon de la matière biologique a été déposé, au plus tard à la date de dépôt de la demande, auprès d'une autorité de dépôt habilitée ;
- b) la demande telle que déposée contient les informations pertinentes dont dispose le demandeur sur les caractéristiques de la matière biologique ;

⁴⁰ Insérée par décision du Conseil d'administration en date du 05.06.1992, entrée en vigueur le 01.01.1993 (JO OEB 1992, 342 s.).

⁴² Modifiée en dernier lieu par décision du Conseil d'administration en date du 14.06.1996, entrée en vigueur le 01.10.1996 (JO OEB 1996, 390).

c)⁴³ die Hinterlegungsstelle und die Eingangsnummer des hinterlegten biologischen Materials in der Anmeldung angegeben sind und

d) falls das biologische Material nicht vom Anmelder hinterlegt wurde - Name und Anschrift des Hinterlegers in der Anmeldung angegeben sind und dem Europäischen Patentamt durch Vorlage von Urkunden nachgewiesen wird, dass der Hinterleger den Anmelder ermächtigt hat, in der Anmeldung auf das hinterlegte biologische Material Bezug zu nehmen, und vorbehaltlos und unwiderruflich seine Zustimmung erteilt hat, dass das von ihm hinterlegte Material nach Maßgabe dieser Regel der Öffentlichkeit zugänglich gemacht wird.

(2) Die in Absatz 1 Buchstaben c und gegebenenfalls d genannten Angaben können nachgereicht werden

a) innerhalb von sechzehn Monaten nach dem Anmeldetag oder, wenn eine Priorität in Anspruch genommen worden ist, nach dem Prioritätstag; die Frist gilt als eingehalten, wenn die Angaben bis zum Abschluss der technischen Vorbereitungen für die Veröffentlichung der europäischen Patentanmeldung mitgeteilt werden,

b) bis zum Tag der Einreichung eines Antrags auf vorzeitige Veröffentlichung der Anmeldung, c) innerhalb eines Monats, nachdem das Europäische Patentamt dem Anmelder mitgeteilt hat, dass ein Recht auf Akteneinsicht nach Artikel 128 Absatz 2 besteht.

Maßgebend ist die Frist, die zuerst abläuft. Die Mitteilung dieser Angaben gilt vorbehaltlos und unwiderruflich als Zustimmung des Anmelders, dass das von ihm hinterlegte biologische Material nach Maßgabe dieser Regel der Öffentlichkeit zugänglich gemacht wird.

(3) Vom Tag der Veröffentlichung der europäischen Patentanmeldung an ist das hinterlegte biologische Material jedermann und vor diesem Tag demjenigen, der das Recht auf Akteneinsicht nach Artikel 128 Absatz 2 hat, auf Antrag zugänglich. Vorbehaltlich Absatz 4 wird der Zugang durch Herausgabe einer Probe des hinterlegten biologischen Materials an den Antragsteller hergestellt.

Die Herausgabe erfolgt nur, wenn der Antragsteller sich gegenüber dem Anmelder oder Patentinhaber verpflichtet hat, das biologische Material oder davon abgeleitetes biologisches Material Dritten nicht zugänglich zu machen und es lediglich zu Versuchszwecken zu verwenden, bis die Patentanmeldung zurückgewiesen oder zurückgenommen wird oder als zurückgenommen gilt oder das europäische Patent in allen benannten Vertragsstaaten erloschen ist, sofern der Anmelder oder Patentinhaber nicht ausdrücklich darauf verzichtet.

(c)⁴³ the depositary institution and the accession number of the deposited biological material are stated in the application, and

(d) where the biological material has been deposited by a person other than the applicant, the name and address of the depositor are stated in the application and a document is submitted satisfying the European Patent Office that the latter has authorised the applicant to refer to the deposited biological material in the application and has given his unreserved and irrevocable consent to the deposited material being made available to the public in accordance with this Rule.

(2) The information referred to in paragraph 1(c) and, where applicable, (d) may be submitted

(a) within a period of sixteen months after the date of filing of the application or, if priority is claimed, after the priority date, this time limit being deemed to have been met if the information is communicated before completion of the technical preparations for publication of the European patent application;

(b) up to the date of submission of a request for early publication of the application;

(c) within one month after the European Patent Office has communicated to the applicant that a right to inspect the files pursuant to Article 128, paragraph 2, exists.

The ruling period shall be the one which is the first to expire. The communication of this information shall be considered as constituting the unreserved and irrevocable consent of the applicant to the deposited biological material being made available to the public in accordance with this Rule.

(3) The deposited biological material shall be available upon request to any person from the date of publication of the European patent application and to any person having the right to inspect the files pursuant to Article 128, paragraph 2, prior to that date. Subject to paragraph 4, such availability shall be effected by the issue of a sample of the biological material to the person making the request (hereinafter referred to as "the requester").

Said issue shall be made only if the requester has undertaken vis-à-vis the applicant for or proprietor of the patent not to make the biological material or any biological material derived therefrom available to any third party and to use that material for experimental purposes only, until such time as the patent application is refused or withdrawn or deemed to be withdrawn, or before the expiry of the patent in the designated State in which it last expires, unless the applicant for or proprietor of the patent expressly waives such an undertaking.

⁴³ Siehe hierzu Entscheidung der Großen Beschwerdekammer G 2/93 (Anhang I).

⁴³ See decision of the Enlarged Board of Appeal G 2/93 (Annex I).

c)⁴³ la demande comporte l'indication de l'autorité de dépôt et le numéro d'ordre de la matière biologique déposée, et

d) lorsque la matière biologique a été déposée par une personne autre que le demandeur, le nom et l'adresse du déposant sont mentionnés dans la demande et est fourni à l'Office européen des brevets un document prouvant que le déposant a autorisé le demandeur à se référer dans la demande à la matière biologique déposée et a consenti sans réserve et de manière irrévocable à mettre la matière déposée à la disposition du public, conformément à la présente règle.

(2) Les indications mentionnées au paragraphe 1, lettre c) et, le cas échéant, lettre d) peuvent être communiquées

a) dans un délai de seize mois à compter de la date de dépôt ou, si une priorité est revendiquée, à compter de la date de priorité, le délai étant réputé observé si les indications sont communiquées jusqu'à la fin des préparatifs techniques en vue de la publication de la demande de brevet européen,

b) jusqu'à la date de présentation d'une requête tendant à avancer la publication de la demande,

c) dans un délai d'un mois après la notification, faite par l'Office européen des brevets au demandeur, qu'il existe un droit de consulter le dossier en vertu de l'article 128, paragraphe 2.

Est applicable celui des délais qui expire le premier. Du fait de la communication de ces indications, le demandeur est considéré comme consentant sans réserve et de manière irrévocable à mettre la matière biologique déposée à la disposition du public, conformément aux dispositions de la présente règle.

(3) A compter du jour de la publication de la demande de brevet européen, la matière biologique déposée est accessible à toute personne qui en fait la requête et, avant cette date, à toute personne ayant le droit de consulter le dossier en vertu de l'article 128, paragraphe 2. Sous réserve du paragraphe 4, cette accessibilité est réalisée par la remise au requérant d'un échantillon de la matière biologique déposée.

Cette remise n'a lieu que si le requérant s'est engagé à l'égard du demandeur ou du titulaire du brevet à ne pas communiquer à des tiers la matière biologique ou une matière biologique qui en est dérivée et à n'utiliser cette matière qu'à des fins expérimentales jusqu'à la date à laquelle la demande de brevet est rejetée ou retirée ou réputée retirée, ou le brevet européen s'éteint dans tous les Etats contractants désignés, à moins que le demandeur ou le titulaire du brevet ne renonce expressément à un tel engagement.

⁴³ Cf. la décision de la Grande Chambre de recours G 2/93 (Annexe I).

Die Verpflichtung, das biologische Material nur zu Versuchszwecken zu verwenden, ist hinfällig, soweit der Antragsteller dieses Material auf Grund einer Zwangslizenz verwendet. Unter Zwangslizenzen sind auch Amtslizenzen und Rechte zur Benutzung einer patentierten Erfindung im öffentlichen Interesse zu verstehen.

(4)⁴⁴ Bis zum Abschluss der technischen Vorbereitungen für die Veröffentlichung der Anmeldung kann der Anmelder dem Europäischen Patentamt mitteilen, dass der in Absatz 3 bezeichnete Zugang

a) bis zu dem Tag, an dem der Hinweis auf die Erteilung des europäischen Patents bekannt gemacht wird, oder gegebenenfalls

b) für die Dauer von zwanzig Jahren ab dem Anmeldetag der Patentanmeldung, falls diese zurückgewiesen oder zurückgenommen worden ist oder als zurückgenommen gilt, nur durch Herausgabe einer Probe an einen vom Antragsteller benannten Sachverständigen hergestellt wird.

(5) Als Sachverständiger kann benannt werden:

a) jede natürliche Person, sofern der Antragsteller bei der Einreichung des Antrags nachweist, dass die Benennung mit Zustimmung des Anmelders erfolgt, b)⁴⁵ jede natürliche Person, die vom Präsidenten des Europäischen Patentamts als Sachverständiger anerkannt ist.

Zusammen mit der Benennung ist eine Erklärung des Sachverständigen einzureichen, in der er die in Absatz 3 vorgesehenen Verpflichtungen gegenüber dem Anmelder bis zum Erlöschen des europäischen Patents in allen benannten Vertragsstaaten oder - falls die Patentanmeldung zurückgewiesen oder zurückgenommen wird oder als zurückgenommen gilt - bis zu dem in Absatz 4 Buchstabe b vorgesehenen Zeitpunkt eingeht, wobei der Antragsteller als Dritter anzusehen ist.

(6)⁴⁶ Abgeleitetes biologisches Material im Sinne des Absatzes 3 ist jedes Material, das noch die für die Ausführung der Erfindung wesentlichen Merkmale des hinterlegten Materials aufweist. Die in Absatz 3 vorgesehenen Verpflichtungen stehen einer für die Zwecke von Patentverfahren erforderlichen Hinterlegung eines abgeleiteten biologischen Materials nicht entgegen.

The undertaking to use the biological material for experimental purposes only shall not apply in so far as the requester is using that material under a compulsory licence. The term "compulsory licence" shall be construed as including ex officio licences and the right to use patented inventions in the public interest.

(4)⁴⁴ Until completion of the technical preparations for publication of the application, the applicant may inform the European Patent Office that

(a) until the publication of the mention of the grant of the European patent or, where applicable,

(b) for twenty years from the date of filing if the application has been refused or withdrawn or deemed to be withdrawn, the availability referred to in paragraph 3 shall be effected only by the issue of a sample to an expert nominated by the requester.

(5) The following may be nominated as an expert:

(a) any natural person provided that the requester furnishes evidence, when filing the request, that the nomination has the approval of the applicant;

(b)⁴⁵ any natural person recognised as an expert by the President of the European Patent Office.

The nomination shall be accompanied by a declaration from the expert vis-à-vis the applicant in which he enters into the undertaking given pursuant to paragraph 3 until either the date on which the patent expires in all the designated States or, where the application has been refused, withdrawn or deemed to be withdrawn, until the date referred to in paragraph 4(b), the requester being regarded as a third party.

(6)⁴⁶ For the purposes of paragraph 3, derived biological material shall mean any material which still exhibits those characteristics of the deposited material which are essential to carrying out the invention. The undertaking referred to in paragraph 3 shall not impede any deposit of derived biological material necessary for the purpose of patent procedure.

⁴⁶ Geändert durch Beschluss des Verwaltungsrats vom 16.06.1999, in Kraft getreten am 01.09.1999 (ABl. EPA 1999, 437 ff.).

⁴⁵ See General Conditions set by the President of the EPO for the recognition of experts and the list of experts recognised for the purpose of Rule 28 EPC (OJ EPO 1981, 359 ff; 1992, 470).

⁴⁶ Amended by decision of the Administrative Council of 16.06.1999 which entered into force on 01.09.1999 (OJ EPO 1999, 437 ff).

L'engagement de n'utiliser la matière biologique qu'à des fins expérimentales n'est pas applicable dans la mesure où le requérant utilise cette matière pour une exploitation résultant d'une licence obligatoire. L'expression "licence obligatoire" est entendue comme couvrant les licences d'office et tout droit d'utilisation dans l'intérêt public d'une invention brevetée.

(4)⁴⁴ Jusqu'à la fin des préparatifs techniques en vue de la publication de la demande, le demandeur peut informer l'Office européen des brevets que,

- a) jusqu'à la publication de la mention de la délivrance du brevet européen ou, le cas échéant,
- b) pendant vingt ans à compter de la date du dépôt de la demande, si cette dernière est rejetée, retirée ou réputée retirée, l'accessibilité prévue au paragraphe 3 ne peut être réalisée que par la remise d'un échantillon à un expert désigné par le requérant.

(5) Peut être désignée comme expert :

- a) toute personne physique, à condition que le requérant fournisse la preuve, lors du dépôt de la requête, que le demandeur a donné son accord à cette désignation;
- b)⁴⁵ toute personne physique qui a la qualité d'expert agréé par le Président de l'Office européen des brevets.

La désignation est accompagnée d'une déclaration de l'expert par laquelle il assume à l'égard du demandeur l'engagement visé au paragraphe 3, et ce, soit jusqu'à la date à laquelle le brevet européen s'éteint dans tous les Etats désignés, soit jusqu'à la date visée au paragraphe 4, lettre b), dans le cas où la demande a été rejetée, retirée ou est réputée retirée, le requérant étant considéré comme un tiers.

⁴⁶ Modifié par décision du Conseil d'administration en date du 16.06.1999, entrée en vigueur le 01.09.1999 (JO OEB 1999, 437s.).

(7) Der in Absatz 3 vorgesehene Antrag ist beim Europäischen Patentamt auf einem von diesem Amt anerkannten Formblatt einzureichen. Das Europäische Patentamt bestätigt auf dem Formblatt, dass eine europäische Patentanmeldung eingereicht worden ist, die auf die Hinterlegung des biologischen Materials Bezug nimmt, und dass der Antragsteller oder der von ihm benannte Sachverständige Anspruch auf Herausgabe einer Probe dieses Materials hat. Der Antrag ist auch nach Erteilung des europäischen Patents beim Europäischen Patentamt einzureichen.

(8) Das Europäische Patentamt übermittelt der Hinterlegungsstelle und dem Anmelder oder Patentinhaber eine Kopie des Antrags mit der in Absatz 7 vorgesehenen Bestätigung.

(9) Der Präsident des Europäischen Patentamts veröffentlicht im Amtsblatt des Europäischen Patentamts das Verzeichnis der Hinterlegungsstellen und Sachverständigen, die für die Anwendung dieser Regel anerkannt sind.

*Regel 28a*⁴⁷

Erneute Hinterlegung von biologischem Material

(1) Ist nach Regel 28 Absatz 1 hinterlegtes biologisches Material bei der Stelle, bei der es hinterlegt worden ist, nicht mehr zugänglich, weil

- a) das biologische Material nicht mehr lebensfähig ist oder
- b) die Hinterlegungsstelle aus anderen Gründen zur Abgabe von Proben nicht in der Lage ist, und ist keine Probe des biologischen Materials an eine andere für die Anwendung der Regel 28 anerkannte Hinterlegungsstelle weitergeleitet worden, bei der dieses Material weiterhin zugänglich ist, so gilt die Unterbrechung der Zugänglichkeit als nicht eingetreten, wenn das ursprünglich hinterlegte biologische Material innerhalb von drei Monaten nach dem Tag erneut hinterlegt wird, an dem dem Hinterleger von der Hinterlegungsstelle diese Unterbrechung mitgeteilt wurde, und dem Europäischen Patentamt innerhalb von vier Monaten nach dem Tag der erneuten Hinterlegung eine Kopie der von der Hinterlegungsstelle ausgestellten Empfangsbescheinigung unter Angabe der Nummer der europäischen Patentanmeldung oder des europäischen Patents übermittelt wird.

(7) The request provided for in paragraph 3 shall be submitted to the European Patent Office on a form recognised by that Office. The European Patent Office shall certify on the form that a European patent application referring to the deposit of the biological material has been filed, and that the requester or the expert nominated by him is entitled to the issue of a sample of that material. After grant of the European patent, the request shall also be submitted to the European Patent Office.

(8) The European Patent Office shall transmit a copy of the request, with the certification provided for in paragraph 7, to the depositary institution as well as to the applicant for or the proprietor of the patent.

(9) The President of the European Patent Office shall publish in the Official Journal of the European Patent Office the list of depositary institutions and experts recognised for the purpose of this Rule.

*Rule 28a*⁴⁷

New deposit of biological material

(1) If biological material deposited in accordance with Rule 28, paragraph 1, ceases to be available from the institution with which it was deposited because:

- (a) the biological material is no longer viable, or
- (b) for any other reason the depositary institution is unable to supply samples, and if no sample of the biological material has been transferred to another depositary institution recognised for the purposes of Rule 28, from which it continues to be available, an interruption in availability shall be deemed not to have occurred if a new deposit of the biological material originally deposited is made within a period of three months from the date on which the depositor was notified of the interruption by the depositary institution and if a copy of the receipt of the deposit issued by the institution is forwarded to the European Patent Office within four months from the date of the new deposit stating the number of the application or of the European patent.

⁴⁷ Eingefügt durch Beschluss des Verwaltungsrats vom 30.11.1979, in Kraft getreten am 01.06.1980 (ABI. EPA 1979, 449); geändert durch Beschluss des Verwaltungsrats vom 14.06.1996, in Kraft getreten am 01.10.1996 (ABI. EPA 1996, 390).

(7) La requête mentionnée au paragraphe 3 est adressée à l'Office européen des brevets au moyen d'une formule agréée par cet office. L'Office européen des brevets certifie sur cette formule qu'une demande de brevet européen faisant état du dépôt de la matière biologique a été déposée et que le requérant ou l'expert qu'il a désigné a droit à la remise d'un échantillon de cette matière. La requête est également adressée à l'Office européen des brevets après la délivrance du brevet européen.

(8) L'Office européen des brevets transmet à l'autorité de dépôt, ainsi qu'au demandeur ou au titulaire du brevet, une copie de la requête assortie de la certification prévue au paragraphe 7.

(9) Le Président de l'Office européen des brevets publie au Journal officiel de l'Office européen des brevets la liste des autorités de dépôt habilitées et des experts agréés aux fins de l'application de la présente règle.

*Règle 28bis*⁴⁷

Nouveau dépôt de matière biologique

Art. 83, 129

(1) Si de la matière biologique déposée conformément à la règle 28, paragraphe 1, cesse d'être accessible auprès de l'autorité qui a reçu ce dépôt :

- a) parce que cette matière biologique n'est plus viable,
- b) ou que, pour d'autres raisons, l'autorité de dépôt n'est pas à même d'en fournir des échantillons, et si aucun échantillon de la matière biologique n'a été transféré à une autre autorité de dépôt, habilitée aux fins de la règle 28, auprès de laquelle la matière biologique reste accessible, l'interruption de l'accessibilité est réputée non avenue à condition qu'un nouveau dépôt de la matière biologique initialement déposée ait été effectué dans un délai de trois mois à compter de la date à laquelle cette interruption a été notifiée au déposant de la matière biologique par l'autorité de dépôt et qu'une copie du récépissé de dépôt délivré par l'autorité de dépôt, accompagnée de l'indication du numéro de la demande de brevet européen ou du brevet européen, ait été communiquée à l'Office européen des brevets dans un délai de quatre mois à compter de la date du nouveau dépôt.

(2) Die erneute Hinterlegung ist im Fall von Absatz 1 Buchstabe a bei der Hinterlegungsstelle vorzunehmen, bei der die ursprüngliche Hinterlegung vorgenommen wurde; sie kann in den Fällen des Absatzes 1 Buchstabe b bei einer anderen für die Anwendung der Regel 28 anerkannten Hinterlegungsstelle vorgenommen werden.

(3) Ist die Hinterlegungsstelle, bei der die ursprüngliche Hinterlegung vorgenommen wurde, für die Anwendung der Regel 28 entweder insgesamt oder für die Art des biologischen Materials, zu der die hinterlegte Probe gehört, nicht mehr anerkannt oder hat sie die Erfüllung ihrer Aufgaben in Bezug auf hinterlegtes biologisches Material vorübergehend oder endgültig eingestellt und erfolgt die in Absatz 1 genannte Mitteilung der Hinterlegungsstelle nicht innerhalb von sechs Monaten nach dem Eintritt dieses Ereignisses, so beginnt die in Absatz 1 genannte Dreimonatsfrist zu dem Zeitpunkt, in dem der Eintritt dieses Ereignisses im Amtsblatt des Europäischen Patentamts veröffentlicht wurde.

(4) Jeder erneuten Hinterlegung ist eine vom Hinterleger unterzeichnete Erklärung beizufügen, in der bestätigt wird, dass das erneut hinterlegte biologische Material dasselbe wie das ursprünglich hinterlegte ist.

(5) Wird die erneute Hinterlegung nach dem Budapestervertrag über die internationale Anerkennung der Hinterlegung von Mikroorganismen für die Zwecke von Patentverfahren vom 28. April 1977 vorgenommen, so gehen die Vorschriften dieses Vertrages vor.

Regel 29

Form und Inhalt der Patentansprüche

(1)⁴⁸ Der Gegenstand des Schutzbegehrens ist in den Patentansprüchen durch Angabe der technischen Merkmale der Erfindung anzugeben. Wo es zweckdienlich ist, haben die Patentansprüche zu enthalten:

a) Die Bezeichnung des Gegenstands der Erfindung und die technischen Merkmale, die zur Festlegung des beanspruchten Gegenstands der Erfindung notwendig sind, jedoch in Verbindung miteinander zum Stand der Technik gehören;

b) einen kennzeichnenden Teil, der durch die Worte "dadurch gekennzeichnet" oder "gekennzeichnet durch" eingeleitet wird und die technischen Merkmale bezeichnet, für die in Verbindung mit den unter Buchstabe a angegebenen Merkmalen Schutz begehrt wird.

(2) In the case provided for in paragraph 1(a), the new deposit shall be made with the depositary institution with which the original deposit was made; in the cases provided for in paragraph 1(b), it may be made with another depositary institution recognised for the purposes of Rule 28.

(3) Where the institution with which the original deposit was made ceases to be recognised for the purposes of Rule 28, either entirely or for the kind of biological material to which the deposited sample belongs, or where that institution discontinues, temporarily or definitively, the performance of its functions as regards deposited biological material, and the notification referred to in paragraph 1 from the depositary institution is not received within six months from the date of such event, the three-month period referred to in paragraph 1 shall begin on the date on which this event is announced in the Official Journal of the European Patent Office.

(4) Any new deposit shall be accompanied by a statement signed by the depositor certifying that the newly deposited biological material is the same as that originally deposited.

(5) If the new deposit has been made under the provisions of the Budapest Treaty on the International Recognition of the Deposit of Microorganisms for the Purposes of Patent Procedure of 28 April 1977, the provisions of that Treaty shall prevail.

Rule 29

Form and content of claims

(1)⁴⁸ The claims shall define the matter for which protection is sought in terms of the technical features of the invention. Wherever appropriate claims shall contain:

(a) a statement indicating the designation of the subject-matter of the invention and those technical features which are necessary for the definition of the claimed subject-matter but which, in combination, are part of the prior art;

(b) a characterising portion - preceded by the expression "characterised in that" or "characterised by" - stating the technical features which, in combination with the features stated in sub-paragraph (a), it is desired to protect.

⁴⁸ Siehe hierzu Entscheidungen der Großen Beschwerdekammer G 1/03, G 2/03 (Anhang I).

⁴⁸ See decisions of the Enlarged Board of Appeal G 1/03, G 2/03 (Annex I).

(2) Dans le cas prévu au paragraphe 1, lettre a), le nouveau dépôt est effectué auprès de l'autorité de dépôt qui a reçu le dépôt initial; dans les cas prévus au paragraphe 1, lettre b), il peut être effectué auprès d'une autre autorité de dépôt habilitée aux fins de la règle 28.

(3) Si l'autorité de dépôt auprès de laquelle a été effectué le dépôt initial n'est plus habilitée aux fins de la règle 28, soit totalement, soit à l'égard du type de matière biologique auquel l'échantillon déposé appartient, ou si cette autorité de dépôt a cessé, temporairement ou définitivement, d'exercer ses fonctions en ce qui concerne la matière biologique déposée, et si la notification mentionnée au paragraphe 1 n'est pas faite dans les six mois suivant cet événement, le délai de trois mois défini au paragraphe 1 commence à courir à la date à laquelle le Journal officiel de l'Office européen des brevets a mentionné cet événement.

(4) Tout nouveau dépôt est accompagné d'une déclaration signée par le déposant, certifiant que la matière biologique qui fait l'objet du nouveau dépôt est la même que celle qui faisait l'objet du dépôt initial.

(5) Si le nouveau dépôt a été fait conformément au Traité de Budapest sur la reconnaissance internationale du dépôt des micro-organismes aux fins de la procédure en matière de brevets du 28 avril 1977, les dispositions de ce traité prévalent.

Règle 29

Forme et contenu des revendications

*Art. 78, 84
R. 36*

(1)⁴⁸ Les revendications doivent définir, en indiquant les caractéristiques techniques de l'invention, l'objet de la demande pour lequel la protection est recherchée. Si le cas d'espèce le justifie, les revendications doivent contenir :

a) un préambule mentionnant la désignation de l'objet de l'invention et les caractéristiques techniques qui sont nécessaires à la définition des éléments revendiqués mais qui, combinées entre elles, font partie de l'état de la technique ;

b) une partie caractérisante précédée des expressions « caractérisé en » ou « caractérisé par » et exposant les caractéristiques techniques qui, en liaison avec les caractéristiques indiquées sous a), sont celles pour lesquelles la protection est recherchée.

⁴⁸ Cf. les décisions de la Grande Chambre de recours G 1/03, G 2/03 (Annexe I).

(2)⁴⁹ Unbeschadet Artikel 82 darf eine europäische Patentanmeldung nur dann mehr als einen unabhängigen Patentanspruch in der gleichen Kategorie (Erzeugnis, Verfahren, Vorrichtung oder Verwendung) enthalten, wenn sich der Gegenstand der Anmeldung auf einen der folgenden Sachverhalte bezieht:

- a) mehrere miteinander in Beziehung stehende Erzeugnisse,
- b) verschiedene Verwendungen eines Erzeugnisses oder einer Vorrichtung,
- c) Alternativlösungen für eine bestimmte Aufgabe, sofern es nicht zweckmäßig ist, diese Alternativen in einem einzigen Anspruch wiederzugeben.

(3) Zu jedem Patentanspruch, der die wesentlichen Merkmale der Erfindung wiedergibt, können ein oder mehrere Patentansprüche aufgestellt werden, die sich auf besondere Ausführungsarten dieser Erfindung beziehen.

(4) Jeder Patentanspruch, der alle Merkmale eines anderen Patentanspruchs enthält (abhängiger Patentanspruch), hat, wenn möglich in seiner Einleitung, eine Bezugnahme auf den anderen Patentanspruch zu enthalten und nachfolgend die zusätzlichen Merkmale anzugeben, für die Schutz begehrt wird. Ein abhängiger Patentanspruch ist auch zulässig, wenn der Patentanspruch, auf den er sich unmittelbar bezieht, selbst ein abhängiger Patentanspruch ist. Alle abhängigen Patentansprüche, die sich auf einen oder mehrere vorangehende Patentansprüche beziehen, sind soweit wie möglich und auf die zweckmäßigste Weise zusammenzufassen.

(5) Die Anzahl der Patentansprüche hat sich bei Berücksichtigung der Art der beanspruchten Erfindung in vertretbaren Grenzen zu halten. Mehrere Patentansprüche sind fortlaufend mit arabischen Zahlen zu nummerieren.

(6) Die Patentansprüche dürfen sich, wenn dies nicht unbedingt erforderlich ist, im Hinblick auf die technischen Merkmale der Erfindung nicht auf Bezugnahmen auf die Beschreibung oder die Zeichnungen stützen. Sie dürfen sich insbesondere nicht auf Hinweise stützen wie: "wie beschrieben in Teil ... der Beschreibung" oder "wie in Abbildung ... der Zeichnung dargestellt".

(7) Sind der europäischen Patentanmeldung Zeichnungen beigelegt, so sollen die in den Patentansprüchen genannten technischen Merkmale mit Bezugszeichen, die auf diese Merkmale hinweisen, versehen werden, wenn dies das Verständnis des Patentanspruchs erleichtert; die Bezugszeichen sind in Klammern zu setzen. Die Bezugszeichen dürfen nicht zu einer einschränkenden Auslegung des Patentanspruchs herangezogen werden.

(2)⁴⁹ Without prejudice to Article 82, a European patent application may contain more than one independent claim in the same category (product, process, apparatus or use) only if the subject-matter of the application involves one of the following:

- (a) a plurality of inter-related products;
 - (b) different uses of a product or apparatus;
 - (c) alternative solutions to a particular problem, where it is not appropriate to cover these alternatives by a single claim.
- (3) Any claim stating the essential features of an invention may be followed by one or more claims concerning particular embodiments of that invention.

(4) Any claim which includes all the features of any other claim (dependent claim) shall contain, if possible at the beginning, a reference to the other claim and then state the additional features which it is desired to protect. A dependent claim shall also be admissible where the claim it directly refers to is itself a dependent claim. All dependent claims referring back to a single previous claim, and all dependent claims referring back to several previous claims, shall be grouped together to the extent and in the most appropriate way possible.

(5) The number of the claims shall be reasonable in consideration of the nature of the invention claimed. If there are several claims, they shall be numbered consecutively in Arabic numerals.

(6) Claims shall not, except where absolutely necessary, rely, in respect of the technical features of the invention, on references to the description or drawings. In particular, they shall not rely on such references as: "as described in part ... of the description", or "as illustrated in figure ... of the drawings".

(7) If the European patent application contains drawings, the technical features mentioned in the claims shall preferably, if the intelligibility of the claim can thereby be increased, be followed by reference signs relating to these features and placed between parentheses. These reference signs shall not be construed as limiting the claim.

⁴⁹ Geändert durch Beschluss des Verwaltungsrats vom 13.12.2001, in Kraft getreten am 02.01.2002 (ABI. EPA 2002, 2 f.).

⁴⁹ Amended by decision of the Administrative Council of 13.12.2001 which entered into force on 02.01.2002 (OJ EPO 2002, 2 ff).

(2)⁴⁹ Sans préjudice des dispositions de l'article 82, une demande de brevet européen ne peut contenir plus d'une revendication indépendante de la même catégorie (produit, procédé, dispositif ou utilisation) que si l'objet de la demande implique :

- a) plusieurs produits ayant un lien entre eux,
- b) différentes utilisations d'un produit ou d'un dispositif,
- c) des solutions alternatives à un problème particulier dans la mesure où il n'est pas approprié de rédiger une seule revendication couvrant ces alternatives.

(3) Toute revendication énonçant les caractéristiques essentielles de l'invention peut être suivie d'une ou de plusieurs revendications concernant des modes particuliers de réalisation de cette invention.

(4) Toute revendication qui contient toutes les caractéristiques d'une autre revendication (revendication dépendante) doit comporter, si possible dans le préambule, une référence à cette autre revendication et préciser les caractéristiques additionnelles pour lesquelles la protection est recherchée. Une revendication dépendante est également autorisée lorsque la revendication à laquelle elle se réfère directement est elle-même une revendication dépendante. Toutes les revendications dépendantes qui se réfèrent à une revendication antérieure unique ou à plusieurs revendications antérieures doivent, dans toute la mesure du possible, être groupées de la façon la plus appropriée.

(5) Le nombre des revendications doit être raisonnable, compte tenu de la nature de l'invention dont la protection est recherchée. S'il existe plusieurs revendications, elles doivent être numérotées de façon continue en chiffres arabes.

(6) Les revendications ne doivent pas, sauf en cas d'absolue nécessité, se fonder, pour ce qui concerne les caractéristiques techniques de l'invention, sur des références à la description ou aux dessins; en particulier, elles ne doivent pas se fonder sur des références telles que : «... comme décrit dans la partie... de la description» ou «comme illustré dans la figure... des dessins».

⁴⁹ Modifié par décision du Conseil d'administration en date du 13.12.2001, entrée en vigueur le 02.01.2002 (JO OEB 2002, 2 s.).

*Regel 30*⁵⁰

Einheitlichkeit der Erfindung

(1) Wird in einer europäischen Patentanmeldung eine Gruppe von Erfindungen beansprucht, so ist das Erfordernis der Einheitlichkeit der Erfindung nach Artikel 82 nur erfüllt, wenn zwischen diesen Erfindungen ein technischer Zusammenhang besteht, der in einem oder mehreren gleichen oder entsprechenden besonderen technischen Merkmalen zum Ausdruck kommt. Unter dem Begriff "besondere technische Merkmale" sind diejenigen technischen Merkmale zu verstehen, die einen Beitrag jeder beanspruchten Erfindung als Ganzes zum Stand der Technik bestimmen.

(2) Die Entscheidung, ob die Erfindungen einer Gruppe untereinander in der Weise verbunden sind, dass sie eine einzige allgemeine erfinderische Idee verwirklichen, hat ohne Rücksicht darauf zu erfolgen, ob die Erfindungen in gesonderten Patentansprüchen oder als Alternativen innerhalb eines einzigen Patentanspruchs beansprucht werden.

Gebührenpflichtige Patentansprüche

(1) Enthält eine europäische Patentanmeldung bei der Einreichung mehr als zehn Patentansprüche, so ist für jeden weiteren Patentanspruch eine Anspruchsgebühr zu entrichten. Die Anspruchsgebühren sind bis zum Ablauf eines Monats nach Einreichung der Anmeldung zu entrichten. Werden die Anspruchsgebühren nicht rechtzeitig entrichtet, so können sie noch innerhalb einer Nachfrist von einem Monat nach Zustellung einer Mitteilung, in der auf die Fristversäumung hingewiesen wird, wirksam entrichtet werden.

(2) Wird eine Anspruchsgebühr nicht innerhalb der in Absatz 1 genannten Frist entrichtet, so gilt dies als Verzicht auf den entsprechenden Patentanspruch. Eine fällig gewordene Anspruchsgebühr, die entrichtet worden ist, wird nur im Fall des Artikels 77 Absatz 5 zurückgezahlt.

Regel 32

Form der Zeichnungen

(1) Auf Blättern, die Zeichnungen enthalten, darf die benutzte Fläche 26,2 cm mal 17 cm nicht überschreiten. Die Blätter dürfen keine Umrahmungen um die benutzbare oder benutzte Fläche aufweisen. Die Mindest-ränder sind folgende:

Oberer Rand: 2,5 cm
Linker Seitenrand: 2,5 cm

⁵¹ Zuletzt geändert durch Beschluss des Verwaltungsrats vom 07.12.1990, in Kraft getreten am 01.06.1991 (ABl. EPA 1991, 4 ff.). Siehe hierzu Rechtsauskunft Nr. 3/85 rev.

*Rule 30*⁵⁰

Unity of invention

(1) Where a group of inventions is claimed in one and the same European patent application, the requirement of unity of invention referred to in Article 82 shall be fulfilled only when there is a technical relationship among those inventions involving one or more of the same or corresponding special technical features. The expression "special technical features" shall mean those features which define a contribution which each of the claimed inventions considered as a whole makes over the prior art.

(2) The determination whether a group of inventions is so linked as to form a single general inventive concept shall be made without regard to whether the inventions are claimed in separate claims or as alternatives within a single claim.

*Rule 31*⁵¹

Claims incurring fees

(1) Any European patent application comprising more than ten claims at the time of filing shall, in respect of each claim over and above that number, incur payment of a claims fee. The claims fee shall be payable within one month after the filing of the application. If the claims fees have not been paid in due time they may still be validly paid within a period of grace of one month of notification of a communication pointing out the failure to observe the time limit.

(2) If a claims fee is not paid within the period referred to in paragraph 1, the claim concerned shall be deemed to be abandoned. Any claims fee duly paid shall be refunded only in the case referred to in Article 77, paragraph 5.

Rule 32

Form of the drawings

(1) On sheets containing drawings, the usable surface area shall not exceed 26.2 cm x 17 cm. These sheets shall not contain frames round the usable or used surface. The minimum margins shall be as follows:

top 2.5 cm

⁵⁰ Amended by decision of the Administrative Council of 07.12.1990 which entered into force on 01.06.1991; applicable to those patent applications which have been filed on or after 01.06.1991 (OJ EPO 1991, 4 ff.).

⁵¹ Last amended by decision of the Administrative Council of 07.12.1990 which entered into force on 01.06.1991 (OJ EPO 1991, 4 ff.). See Legal advice No. 3/85 rev.

Règle 30⁵⁰

Unité de l'invention

(1) Lorsqu'une pluralité d'inventions est revendiquée dans une même demande de brevet européen, la règle de l'unité de l'invention visée à l'article 82 n'est observée que s'il existe une relation technique entre ces inventions, portant sur un ou plusieurs éléments techniques particuliers identiques ou correspondants. L'expression «éléments techniques particuliers» s'entend des éléments techniques qui déterminent une contribution de chacune des inventions telles que revendiquées, considérée comme un tout, par rapport à l'état de la technique.

(2) Pour déterminer si plusieurs inventions sont liées entre elles de telle sorte qu'elles ne forment qu'un seul concept inventif général, il est indifférent que les inventions fassent l'objet de revendications distinctes ou soient présentées comme des variantes dans le cadre d'une seule et même revendication.

Revendications donnant lieu au paiement de taxes

(1) Si une demande de brevet européen comporte plus de dix revendications lorsqu'elle est déposée, une taxe de revendication doit être acquittée pour toute revendication en sus de la dixième. Les taxes de revendication doivent être acquittées au plus tard à l'expiration d'un délai d'un mois à compter du dépôt de la demande. Si les taxes de revendication ne sont pas acquittées dans les délais, elles peuvent encore l'être valablement dans un délai supplémentaire d'un mois à compter de la signification d'une notification signalant que le délai prévu n'a pas été observé.

(2) En cas de défaut de paiement dans le délai prévu au paragraphe 1 d'une taxe de revendication, le demandeur est réputé avoir abandonné la revendication correspondante. Toute taxe de revendication exigible et acquittée n'est pas remboursée, sauf dans le cas visé à l'article 77, paragraphe 5.

Règle 32

Forme des dessins

(1) La surface utile des feuilles contenant les dessins ne doit pas excéder 26,2 cm x 17 cm. Il ne doit pas être laissé de cadre autour de la surface utile de ces feuilles ou autour de leur surface utilisée. Les marges minimales sont les suivantes :

marge du haut : 2,5 cm

marge de gauche : 2,5 cm

Rechter Seitenrand: 1,5 cm

Unterer Rand: 1 cm

(2) Die Zeichnungen sind wie folgt auszuführen:

a)⁵² Die Zeichnungen sind in widerstandsfähigen, schwarzen, ausreichend festen und dunklen, in sich gleichmäßig starken und klaren Linien oder Strichen ohne Farben oder Tönungen auszuführen.

b) Querschnitte sind durch Schraffierungen kenntlich zu machen, die die Erkennbarkeit der Bezugszeichen und Führungslinien nicht beeinträchtigen dürfen.

c)⁵³ Der Maßstab der Zeichnungen und die Klarheit der zeichnerischen Ausführung müssen gewährleisten, dass eine elektronische oder fotografische Wiedergabe auch bei Verkleinerungen auf zwei Drittel alle Einzelheiten noch ohne Schwierigkeiten erkennen lässt. Wird der Maßstab in Ausnahmefällen auf der Zeichnung angegeben, so ist er zeichnerisch darzustellen.

d) Alle Zahlen, Buchstaben und Bezugszeichen in den Zeichnungen müssen einfach und eindeutig sein. Klammern, Kreise oder Anführungszeichen dürfen bei Zahlen und Buchstaben nicht verwendet werden.

e) Alle Linien in den Zeichnungen sollen mit Zeichengeräten gezogen werden.

f) Jeder Teil der Abbildung muss im richtigen Verhältnis zu jedem anderen Teil der Abbildung stehen, sofern nicht die Verwendung eines anderen Verhältnisses für die Klarheit der Abbildung unerlässlich ist.

g) Die Ziffern und Buchstaben müssen mindestens 0,32 cm hoch sein. Für die Beschriftung der Zeichnungen sind lateinische und, soweit üblich, griechische Buchstaben zu verwenden.

h)⁵⁴ Ein Zeichnungsblatt kann mehrere Abbildungen enthalten. Sollen Abbildungen auf zwei oder mehr Blättern nur eine einzige vollständige Abbildung darstellen, so sind die Abbildungen auf den einzelnen Blättern so anzuordnen, dass die vollständige Abbildung zusammengesetzt werden kann, ohne dass ein Teil der Abbildungen auf den einzelnen Blättern verdeckt wird. Die einzelnen Abbildungen sind auf einem Blatt oder auf mehreren Blättern ohne Platzverschwendung anzuordnen, eindeutig voneinander getrennt und vorzugsweise im Hochformat; sind die Abbildungen nicht im Hochformat dargestellt, so sind sie im Querformat mit dem Kopf der Abbildungen auf der linken Seite des Blattes anzuordnen. Sie sind durch arabische Zahlen fortlaufend und unabhängig von den Zeichnungsblättern zu nummerieren.

(2) Drawings shall be executed as follows:

(a)⁵² Drawings shall be executed in durable, black, sufficiently dense and dark, uniformly thick and well-defined, lines and strokes without colourings.

(b) Cross-sections shall be indicated by hatching which should not impede the clear reading of the reference signs and leading lines.

(c)⁵³ The scale of the drawings and the distinctness of their graphical execution shall be such that reproduction, obtained electronically or photographically, with a linear reduction in size to two-thirds would enable all details to be distinguished without difficulty. If, as an exception, the scale is given on a drawing, it shall be represented graphically.

(d) All numbers, letters, and reference signs, appearing on the drawings, shall be simple and clear. Brackets, circles or inverted commas shall not be used in association with numbers and letters.

(e) All lines in the drawings shall, ordinarily, be drawn with the aid of drafting instruments.

(f) Elements of the same figure shall be in proportion to each other, unless a difference in proportion is indispensable for the clarity of the figure.

(g) The height of the numbers and letters shall not be less than 0.32 cm. For the lettering of drawings, the Latin and, where customary, the Greek alphabets shall be used.

(h)⁵⁴ The same sheet of drawings may contain several figures. Where figures drawn on two or more sheets are intended to form one whole figure, the figures on the several sheets shall be so arranged that the whole figure can be assembled without concealing any part of the partial figures. The different figures shall be arranged without wasting space, preferably in an upright position, clearly separated from one another. Where the figures are not arranged in an upright position, they shall be presented sideways with the top of the figures at the left side of the sheet. The different figures shall be numbered consecutively in Arabic numerals, independently of the numbering of the sheets.

⁵⁴ Geändert durch Beschluss des Verwaltungsrats vom 11.12.1980, in Kraft getreten am 31.01.1981 (ABI. EPA 1981, 3).

marge de droite : 1,5 cm

marge du bas : 1 cm

(2) Les dessins sont exécutés comme suit :

a)⁵² Les dessins doivent être exécutés en lignes et traits durables, noirs, suffisamment denses et foncés, uniformément épais et bien délimités, sans couleurs ni lavis.

b) Les coupes sont indiquées par des hachures qui ne doivent pas nuire à une lecture facile des signes de référence et des lignes directrices.

c)⁵³ L'échelle des dessins et la clarté de leur exécution graphique doivent être telles qu'une reproduction électronique ou photographique effectuée avec réduction linéaire aux deux tiers permette d'en distinguer sans peine tous les détails. Si, par exception, l'échelle figure sur un dessin, elle doit être représentée graphiquement.

d) Tous les chiffres, lettres et signes de référence figurant dans les dessins doivent être simples et clairs. L'utilisation de parenthèses, cercles ou guillemets, en combinaison avec des chiffres et des lettres, n'est pas autorisée.

e) Toutes les lignes des dessins doivent en principe être tracées à l'aide d'instruments de dessin technique.

f) Les éléments d'une même figure doivent être en proportion les uns des autres à moins qu'une différence de proportion ne soit indispensable pour la clarté de la figure.

g) La hauteur des chiffres et lettres ne doit pas être inférieure à 0,32 cm. L'alphabet latin et, si telle est la pratique usuelle, l'alphabet grec, doivent être utilisés lorsque des lettres figurent sur les dessins.

h)⁵⁴ Une même feuille de dessin peut contenir plusieurs figures. Lorsque des figures dessinées sur plusieurs feuilles sont destinées à constituer une figure d'ensemble, elles doivent être présentées de sorte que la figure d'ensemble puisse être composée sans que soit cachée aucune partie des figures qui se trouvent sur les différentes feuilles. Les différentes figures doivent être disposées, de préférence verticalement, sur une ou plusieurs feuilles, chacune étant clairement séparée des autres mais sans place perdue; lorsque les figures ne sont pas disposées verticalement, elles doivent être présentées horizontalement, la partie supérieure des figures étant orientée du côté gauche de la feuille; elles doivent être numérotées consécutivement en chiffres arabes, indépendamment de la numérotation des feuilles.

⁵² Modifié par décision du Conseil d'administration en date du 21.12.1978, entrée en vigueur le 01.05.1979 (JO OEB 1979, 5 et 6).

⁵³ Modifiée par décision du Conseil d'administration en date du 10.12.1998, entrée en vigueur le 01.01.1999 (JO OEB 1999, 1 s.).

⁵⁴ Modifiée par décision du Conseil d'administration en date du 11.12.1980, entrée en vigueur le 31.01.1981 (JO OEB 1981, 3).

i) Bezugszeichen dürfen in den Zeichnungen nur insoweit verwendet werden, als sie in der Beschreibung und in den Patentansprüchen aufgeführt sind; das Gleiche gilt für den umgekehrten Fall. Gleiche mit Bezugszeichen gekennzeichnete Teile müssen in der ganzen Anmeldung die gleichen Zahlen erhalten.

j) Die Zeichnungen dürfen keine Erläuterungen enthalten; ausgenommen sind kurze unentbehrliche Angaben wie "Wasser", "Dampf", "Offen", "Zu", "Schnitt nach A-B" sowie in elektrischen Schaltplänen und Blockschaltbildern oder Flussdiagrammen kurze Stichworte, die für das Verständnis unentbehrlich sind. Diese Erläuterungen sind so anzubringen, dass sie im Fall der Übersetzung überklebt werden können, ohne dass die Linien der Zeichnungen verdeckt werden.

(3) Flussdiagramme und Diagramme gelten als Zeichnungen.

Regel 33

Form und Inhalt der Zusammenfassung

(1) Die Zusammenfassung muss die Bezeichnung der Erfindung enthalten.

(2) Die Zusammenfassung muss eine Kurzfassung der in der Beschreibung, den Patentansprüchen und Zeichnungen enthaltenen Offenbarung enthalten; die Kurzfassung soll das technische Gebiet der Erfindung angeben und so gefasst sein, dass sie ein klares Verständnis des technischen Problems, des entscheidenden Punkts der Lösung der Erfindung und der hauptsächlichsten Verwendungsmöglichkeiten ermöglicht. In der Zusammenfassung ist gegebenenfalls die chemische Formel anzugeben, die unter den in der europäischen Patentanmeldung enthaltenen Formeln die Erfindung am besten kennzeichnet. Sie darf keine Behauptungen über angebliche Vorzüge oder den angeblichen Wert der Erfindung oder über deren theoretische Anwendungsmöglichkeiten enthalten.

(3) Die Zusammenfassung soll aus nicht mehr als 150 Worten bestehen.

(4) Enthält die europäische Patentanmeldung Zeichnungen, so hat der Anmelder diejenigen Abbildung oder in Ausnahmefällen diejenigen Abbildungen anzugeben, die er zur Veröffentlichung mit der Zusammenfassung vorschlägt. Das Europäische Patentamt kann eine oder mehrere andere Abbildungen veröffentlichen, wenn es der Auffassung ist, dass diese die Erfindung besser kennzeichnen. Hinter jedem wesentlichen Merkmal, das in der Zusammenfassung erwähnt und durch die Zeichnung veranschaulicht ist, hat in Klammern ein Bezugszeichen zu stehen.

(5) Die Zusammenfassung ist so zu formulieren, dass sie eine wirksame Handhabe zur Sichtung des jeweiligen technischen Gebiets gibt und insbesondere eine Beurteilung der Frage ermöglicht, ob es notwendig ist, die europäische Patentanmeldung selbst einzusehen.

(i) Reference signs not mentioned in the description and claims shall not appear in the drawings, and vice versa. The same features, when denoted by reference signs, shall, throughout the application, be denoted by the same signs.

(j) The drawings shall not contain text matter, except, when absolutely indispensable, a single word or words such as "water", "steam", "open", "closed", "section on AB", and, in the case of electric circuits and block schematic or flow sheet diagrams, a few short catchwords indispensable for understanding. Any such words shall be placed in such a way that, if required, they can be replaced by their translations without interfering with any lines of the drawings.

(3) Flow sheets and diagrams are considered drawings.

Rule 33

Form and content of the abstract

(1) The abstract shall indicate the title of the invention.

(2) The abstract shall contain a concise summary of the disclosure as contained in the description, the claims and any drawings; the summary shall indicate the technical field to which the invention pertains and shall be drafted in a way which allows the clear understanding of the technical problem, the gist of the solution of that problem through the invention and the principal use or uses of the invention. The abstract shall, where applicable, contain the chemical formula which, among those contained in the application, best characterises the invention. It shall not contain statements on the alleged merits or value of the invention or on its speculative application.

(3) The abstract shall preferably not contain more than one hundred and fifty words.

(4) If the European patent application contains drawings, the applicant shall indicate the figure or, exceptionally, the figures of the drawings which he suggests should accompany the abstract when the abstract is published. The European Patent Office may decide to publish one or more other figures if it considers that they better characterise the invention. Each main feature mentioned in the abstract and illustrated by a drawing shall be followed by a reference sign, placed between parentheses.

(5) The abstract shall be so drafted that it constitutes an efficient instrument for purposes of searching in the particular technical field particularly by making it possible to assess whether there is a need for consulting the European patent application itself.

i) Des signes de référence ne peuvent être utilisés pour les dessins que s'ils figurent dans la description et dans les revendications et vice-versa. Les signes de référence des mêmes éléments doivent être identiques dans toute la demande.

j) Les dessins ne doivent pas contenir de texte, à l'exception de courtes indications indispensables telles que «eau», «vapeur», «ouvert», «fermé», «coupe suivant AB» et, dans le cas de schémas de circuits électriques, de diagrammes d'installation schématiques et de diagrammes schématisant les étapes d'un processus, à l'exception de mots clés indispensables à leur intelligence. Ces mots doivent être placés de manière telle que leur traduction éventuelle puisse leur être substituée sans que soit cachée aucune ligne des dessins.

(3) Les schémas d'étapes de processus et les diagrammes sont considérés comme des dessins.

Règle 33

Forme et contenu de l'abrégé

(1) L'abrégé doit mentionner le titre de l'invention.

(2) L'abrégé doit comprendre un résumé concis de ce qui est exposé dans la description, les revendications et les dessins; le résumé doit indiquer le domaine technique auquel appartient l'invention et doit être rédigé de manière à permettre une claire compréhension du problème technique, de l'essence de la solution de ce problème par le moyen de l'invention et de l'usage principal ou des usages principaux de l'invention. L'abrégé comporte, le cas échéant, la formule chimique qui, parmi celles qui figurent dans la demande de brevet, caractérise le mieux l'invention. Il ne doit pas contenir de déclarations relatives aux mérites ou à la valeur allégués de l'invention ou à ses applications supputées.

(3) L'abrégé ne peut, de préférence, comporter plus de cent cinquante mots.

(4) Si la demande de brevet européen comporte des dessins, le demandeur doit indiquer la figure du dessin ou, exceptionnellement, les figures des dessins qu'il propose de faire publier avec l'abrégé. L'Office européen des brevets peut décider de publier une autre figure ou plusieurs autres figures s'il estime qu'elle caractérise ou qu'elles caractérisent mieux l'invention. Chacune des caractéristiques principales mentionnées dans l'abrégé et illustrées par le dessin doit être suivie d'un signe de référence entre parenthèses.

(5) L'abrégé doit être rédigé de façon à constituer un instrument efficace de sélection dans le domaine technique en cause, notamment en permettant d'apprécier s'il y a lieu de consulter la demande de brevet elle-même.

Regel 34

Unzulässige Angaben

(1) Die europäische Patentanmeldung darf nicht enthalten:

a) Angaben oder Zeichnungen, die gegen die öffentliche Ordnung oder die guten Sitten verstoßen;

b) herabsetzende Äußerungen über Erzeugnisse oder Verfahren Dritter oder den Wert oder die Gültigkeit von Anmeldungen oder Patenten Dritter. Reine Vergleiche mit dem Stand der Technik allein gelten nicht als herabsetzend;

c) Angaben, die den Umständen nach offensichtlich belanglos oder unnötig sind.

(2) Enthält eine europäische Patentanmeldung Angaben oder Zeichnungen im Sinn des Absatzes 1 Buchstabe a, so schließt das Europäische Patentamt diese Angaben bei der Veröffentlichung aus und gibt dabei die Stelle der Auslassung sowie die Zahl der ausgelassenen Wörter und Zeichnungen an.

(3) Enthält eine europäische Patentanmeldung Äußerungen im Sinn des Absatzes 1 Buchstabe b, so kann das Europäische Patentamt diese Angaben bei der Veröffentlichung der Anmeldung ausschließen. Dabei gibt es die Stelle der Auslassung und die Zahl der ausgelassenen Wörter an und stellt auf Antrag eine Abschrift der ausgelassenen Stellen zur Verfügung.

Regel 35⁵⁵

Allgemeine Bestimmungen über die Form der Anmeldungsunterlagen

(1) Die in Artikel 14 Absatz 2 genannten Übersetzungen gelten als Unterlagen der europäischen Patentanmeldung.

(2)⁵⁶ Die Unterlagen der europäischen Patentanmeldung sind in drei Stücken einzureichen. Der Präsident des Europäischen Patentamts kann jedoch bestimmen, dass die Unterlagen in weniger als drei Stücken einzureichen sind.

Rule 34

Prohibited matter

(1) The European patent application shall not contain:

(a) statements or other matter contrary to "ordre public" or morality;

(b) statements disparaging the products or processes of any particular person other than the applicant, or the merits or validity of applications or patents of any such person. Mere comparisons with the prior art shall not be considered disparaging per se;

(c) any statement or other matter obviously irrelevant or unnecessary under the circumstances.

(2) If a European patent application contains prohibited matter within the meaning of paragraph 1(a), the European Patent Office shall omit it when publishing the application, indicating the place and number of words or drawings omitted.

(3) If a European patent application contains statements within the meaning of paragraph 1(b), the European Patent Office may omit them when publishing the application. It shall indicate the place and number of words omitted, and shall furnish, upon request, a copy of the passages omitted.

Rule 35⁵⁵

General provisions governing the presentation of the application documents

(1) Translations mentioned in Article 14, paragraph 2, shall be considered to be included in the term "documents making up the European patent application".

(2)⁵⁶ The documents making up the European patent application shall be filed in three copies. The President of the European Patent Office may, however, determine that the documents shall be filed in fewer than three copies.

⁵⁵ Geändert durch Beschlüsse des Verwaltungsrats vom 21.12.1978, in Kraft getreten am 01.05.1979 (ABI. EPA 1979, 5, 6), vom 11.12.1980, in Kraft getreten am 31.01.1981 (ABI. ⁵⁶ Siehe Beschluss des Präsidenten des EPA vom 15.11.2001 über die Stückzahl, in der die Unterlagen der europäischen Patentanmeldung einzureichen sind (ABI. EPA 2001, 563).

⁵⁵ Amended by decisions of the Administrative Council of 21.12.1978 which entered into force on 01.05.1979 (OJ EPO 1979, 5, 6), of 11.12.1980 which entered into force on 31.01.1981 (OJ EPO 1981, 3, 4), of 08.12.1988 which entered into force on 01.04.1989 (OJ EPO 1989, 1), of 13.12.1994 which entered into force on 01.06.1995 (OJ EPO 1995, 9 ff) and of 10.12.1998 which entered into force on 01.01.1999 (OJ EPO 1999, 1 ff).

Règle 34

Eléments prohibés

Art. 78, 93

R. 36

(1) La demande de brevet européen ne doit pas contenir :

a) des éléments ou dessins contraires à l'ordre public ou aux bonnes mœurs ;

b) des déclarations dénigrantes concernant des produits ou procédés de tiers ou le mérite ou la validité de demandes de brevet ou de brevets de tiers. De simples comparaisons avec l'état de la technique ne sont pas considérées comme dénigrantes en elles-mêmes ;

c) des éléments manifestement étrangers au sujet ou superflus.

(2) Lorsqu'une demande de brevet européen contient des éléments et dessins visés au paragraphe 1, lettre a), l'Office européen des brevets les omet lors de la publication en indiquant la place et le nombre des mots et des dessins omis.

(3) Lorsqu'une demande de brevet européen contient des déclarations visées au paragraphe 1, lettre b), l'Office européen des brevets peut les omettre lors de la publication de la demande. Dans ce cas, il indique la place et le nombre des mots omis, et fournit, sur demande, une copie des passages ayant fait l'objet de l'omission.

*Règle 35*⁵⁵

Art. 78, 84, 85

R. 36, 40

(1) Les traductions visées à l'article 14, paragraphe 2, sont considérées comme des pièces de la demande.

(2)⁵⁶ Les pièces de la demande de brevet européen doivent être produites en trois exemplaires. Toutefois, le Président de l'Office européen des brevets peut décider que les pièces doivent être produites en moins de trois exemplaires.

⁵⁵ Modifiée par les décisions suivantes du Conseil d'administration: décision en date du 21.12.1978, entrée en vigueur le 01.05.1979 (JO OEB 1979, 5 et 6), décision du 11.12.1980, entrée en vigueur le 31.01.1981 (JO OEB 1981, 3 et 4), décision du 08.12.1988, entrée en vigueur le 01.04.1989 (JO OEB 1989, 1), décision du 13.12.1994, entrée en vigueur le 01.06.1995 (JO OEB 1995, 9 s.) et décision du 10.12.1998, entrée en vigueur le 01.01.1999 (JO OEB 1999, 1 s.).

⁵⁶ Cf. la décision du Président de l'OEB, en date du 15.11.2001, concernant le nombre d'exemplaires à produire des pièces de la demande de brevet européen (JO OEB 2001, 563).

(3) Die Unterlagen der europäischen Patentanmeldung sind in einer Form einzureichen, die gewährleistet, dass eine elektronische sowie eine unmittelbare Vervielfältigung, insbesondere durch Scanning, Fotografie, elektrostatisches Verfahren, FotoOffsetdruck und Mikroverfilmung, in einer unbeschränkten Stückzahl vorgenommen werden kann. Die Blätter müssen glatt und knitterfrei sein. Sie dürfen nicht gefaltet sein und sind einseitig zu beschriften.

(4) Die Unterlagen der europäischen Patentanmeldung sind auf biegsamem, festem, weißem, glattem, mattem und widerstandsfähigem Papier im Format A 4 (29,7 cm mal 21 cm) einzureichen. Vorbehaltlich Regel 32 Absatz 2 Buchstabe h sowie des Absatzes 1 ist jedes Blatt in der Weise zu verwenden, dass die kurzen Seiten oben und unten erscheinen (Hochformat).

(5) Jeder Bestandteil der europäischen Patentanmeldung (Antrag, Beschreibung, Patentansprüche, Zeichnungen und Zusammenfassung) muss auf einem neuen Blatt beginnen. Alle Blätter müssen so miteinander verbunden sein, dass sie leicht gewendet sowie leicht entfernt und wieder miteinander verbunden werden können.

(6) Vorbehaltlich der Regel 32 Absatz 1 sind auf den Blättern als Mindestränder folgende Flächen unbeschriftet zu lassen:

Oberer Rand: 2 cm
Linker Seitenrand: 2,5 cm
Rechter Seitenrand: 2 cm
Unterer Rand: 2 cm

Die empfohlenen Höchstmaße für die vorstehenden Ränder sind folgende:

Oberer Rand: 4 cm
Linker Seitenrand: 4 cm
Rechter Seitenrand: 3 cm
Unterer Rand: 3 cm

(7) Die Ränder der Blätter müssen bei der Einreichung der europäischen Patentanmeldung vollständig unbenutzt sein.

(8) Alle Blätter der europäischen Patentanmeldung sind fortlaufend mit arabischen Zahlen zu nummerieren. Die Blattzahlen sind oben in der Mitte, aber nicht auf dem oberen Rand anzubringen.

(9) Auf jedem Blatt der Beschreibung und der Patentansprüche soll jede fünfte Zeile nummeriert sein. Die Zahlen sind an der linken Seite, rechts vom Rand anzubringen.

(3) The documents making up the European patent application shall be so presented as to admit of electronic as well as of direct reproduction, in particular by scanning, photography, electrostatic processes, photo offset and micro filming, in an unlimited number of copies. All sheets shall be free from cracks, creases and folds. Only one side of the sheet shall be used.

(4) The documents making up the European patent application shall be on A 4 paper (29.7 cm x 21 cm) which shall be pliable, strong, white, smooth, matt and durable. Subject to the provisions of Rule 32, paragraph 2(h), and paragraph 11 of this Rule, each sheet shall be used with its short sides at the top and bottom (upright position).

(5) Each of the documents making up the European patent application (request, description, claims, drawings and abstract) shall commence on a new sheet. The sheets shall be connected in such a way that they can easily be turned over, separated and joined together again.

(6) Subject to Rule 32, paragraph 1, the minimum margins shall be as follows:

left side: 2.5 cm
right side: 2 cm
bottom: 2 cm

The recommended maximum for the margins quoted above is as follows:

left side: 4 cm
right side: 3 cm
bottom: 3 cm

(7) The margins of the documents making up the European patent application, when submitted, must be completely blank.

(8) All the sheets contained in the European patent application shall be numbered in consecutive Arabic numerals. These shall be placed at the top of the sheet, in the middle, but not in the top margin.

(9) The lines of each sheet of the description and of the claims shall preferably be numbered in sets of five, the numbers appearing on the left side, to the right of the margin.

(3) Les pièces de la demande de brevet européen doivent être présentées de manière à permettre leur reproduction tant électronique que directe, en particulier par le moyen de la numérisation, de la photographie, de procédés électriques, de l'offset et du microfilm en un nombre illimité d'exemplaires. Les feuilles ne doivent pas être déchirées, froissées ou pliées. Un seul côté des feuilles doit être utilisé.

(4) Les pièces de la demande de brevet européen doivent être remises sur papier souple, fort, blanc, lisse, mat et durable, de format A4 (29,7 cm x 21 cm). Sous réserve de la règle 32, paragraphe 2, lettre h) et de la présente règle, paragraphe 11, chaque feuille doit être utilisée de façon à ce que les petits côtés se trouvent en haut et en bas (sens vertical).

(5) Le début de chaque pièce de la demande de brevet européen (requête, description, revendications, dessins, abrégé) doit figurer sur une nouvelle feuille. Toutes les feuilles doivent être réunies de façon à pouvoir être facilement feuilletées et aisément séparées et réunies à nouveau.

(6) Sous réserve de la règle 32, paragraphe 1, les marges minimales doivent être les suivantes :

marge du haut : 2 cm

marge de gauche : 2,5 cm

marge de droite : 2 cm

marge du bas : 2 cm

Le maximum recommandé des marges citées ci-dessus est le suivant :

marge du haut : 4 cm

marge de gauche : 4 cm

marge de droite : 3 cm

marge du bas : 3 cm

(7) Les marges des feuilles doivent être totalement vierges lors du dépôt de la demande de brevet européen.

(8) Toutes les feuilles de la demande de brevet européen doivent être numérotées consécutivement en chiffres arabes. Les numéros des feuilles doivent être inscrits en haut des feuilles au milieu, mais non dans la marge du haut.

(9) Les lignes de chaque feuille de la description et des revendications doivent en principe être numérotées de cinq en cinq, les numéros étant portés sur le côté gauche, à droite de la marge.

(10) Der Antrag auf Erteilung eines europäischen Patents, die Beschreibung, die Patentansprüche und die Zusammenfassung müssen mit Maschine geschrieben oder gedruckt sein. Nur grafische Symbole und Schriftzeichen, chemische oder mathematische Formeln können, falls notwendig, handgeschrieben oder gezeichnet sein. Der Zeilenabstand hat 1 1/2zeilig zu sein. Alle Texte müssen in Buchstaben, deren Großbuchstaben eine Mindesthöhe von 0,21 cm besitzen, und mit dunkler unauslöschlicher Farbe geschrieben sein.

(11) Der Antrag auf Erteilung eines europäischen Patents, die Beschreibung, die Patentansprüche und die Zusammenfassung dürfen keine Zeichnungen enthalten. Die Beschreibung, die Patentansprüche und die Zusammenfassung können chemische oder mathematische Formeln enthalten. Die Beschreibung und die Zusammenfassung können Tabellen enthalten. Ein Patentanspruch darf dies nur dann, wenn sein Gegenstand die Verwendung von Tabellen wünschenswert erscheinen lässt. Tabellen sowie chemische oder mathematische Formeln können im Querformat wiedergegeben werden, wenn sie im Hochformat nicht befriedigend dargestellt werden können; Blätter, auf denen Tabellen oder chemische oder mathematische Formeln im Querformat wiedergegeben werden, sind so anzuordnen, dass der Kopf der Tabellen oder Formeln auf der linken Seite des Blattes erscheint.

(12) Physikalische Größen sind in den in der internationalen Praxis anerkannten Einheiten anzugeben, soweit zweckdienlich nach dem metrischen System unter Verwendung der SI-Einheiten. Soweit Angaben diesem Erfordernis nicht genügen, sind die in der internationalen Praxis anerkannten Einheiten zusätzlich anzugeben. Für mathematische Formeln sind die allgemein üblichen Schreibweisen und für chemische Formeln die allgemein üblichen Symbole, Atomgewichte und Molekularformeln zu verwenden. Grundsätzlich sind nur solche technische Bezeichnungen, Zeichen und Symbole zu verwenden, die auf dem Fachgebiet allgemein anerkannt sind.

(13) Terminologie und Zeichen sind in der gesamten europäischen Patentanmeldung einheitlich zu verwenden.

(14) Jedes Blatt muss weitgehend frei von Radierstellen und frei von Änderungen, Überschreibungen und Zwischenbeschriftungen sein. Von diesem Erfordernis kann abgesehen werden, wenn der verbindliche Text dadurch nicht in Frage gestellt wird und die Voraussetzungen für eine gute Vervielfältigung nicht gefährdet sind.

(10) The request for the grant of a European patent, the description, the claims and the abstract shall be typed or printed. Only graphic symbols and characters and chemical or mathematical formulae may, if necessary, be written by hand or drawn. The typing shall be 1 ½ spaced. All text matter shall be in characters, the capital letters of which are not less than 0.21 cm high, and shall be in a dark, indelible colour.

(11) The request for the grant of a European patent, the description, the claims and the abstract shall not contain drawings. The description, the claims and the abstract may contain chemical or mathematical formulae. The description and the abstract may contain tables. The claims may contain tables only if their subject-matter makes the use of tables desirable. Tables and chemical or mathematical formulae may be placed sideways on the sheet if they cannot be presented satisfactorily in an upright position thereon; sheets on which tables or chemical or mathematical formulae are presented sideways shall be so presented that the tops of the tables or formulae are at the left side of the sheet.

(12) Physical values shall be expressed in the units recognised in international practice, wherever appropriate in terms of the metric system using SI units. Any data not meeting this requirement must also be expressed in the units recognised in international practice. For mathematical formulae the symbols in general use shall be employed. For chemical formulae the symbols, atomic weights and molecular formulae in general use shall be employed. In general, use should be made of the technical terms, signs and symbols generally accepted in the field in question.

(13) The terminology and the signs shall be consistent throughout the European patent application.

(14) Each sheet shall be reasonably free from erasures and shall be free from alterations, overwritings and interlineations. Non-compliance with this rule may be authorised if the authenticity of the content is not in question and the requirements for good reproduction are not in jeopardy.

(10) La requête en délivrance du brevet européen, la description, les revendications et l'abrégé doivent être dactylographiés ou imprimés. Seuls les symboles et caractères graphiques, les formules chimiques ou mathématiques peuvent être manuscrits ou dessinés, en cas de nécessité. Pour les textes dactylographiés, l'interligne doit être de 1 1/2. Tous les textes doivent être écrits en caractères dont les majuscules ont au moins 0,21 cm de haut, dans une couleur noire et indélébile.

(11) La requête en délivrance du brevet européen, la description, les revendications et l'abrégé ne doivent pas comporter de dessins. La description, les revendications et l'abrégé peuvent comporter des formules chimiques ou mathématiques. La description et l'abrégé peuvent comporter des tableaux. Les revendications ne peuvent comporter des tableaux que si l'objet desdites revendications en fait apparaître l'intérêt. Les tableaux et les formules mathématiques ou chimiques peuvent être disposés horizontalement sur la feuille s'ils ne peuvent être présentés convenablement verticalement; les feuilles sur lesquelles les tableaux ou les formules mathématiques ou chimiques sont présentés horizontalement, le sont de telle sorte que les parties supérieures des tableaux ou des formules soient orientées du côté gauche de la feuille.

(12) Les indications physiques doivent être exprimées en unités de la pratique internationale, et, si le cas d'espèce le justifie, selon le système métrique en utilisant les unités SI. Toute indication ne répondant pas à cette exigence devra en outre être exprimée en unités de la pratique internationale. Doivent être utilisés, pour les formules mathématiques, les symboles généralement en usage et pour les formules chimiques, les symboles, poids atomiques et formules moléculaires généralement en usage. En règle générale, seuls les termes, signes et symboles techniques généralement acceptés dans le domaine considéré doivent être utilisés.

(13) La terminologie et les signes de la demande de brevet européen doivent être uniformes.

(14) Aucune feuille ne doit être gommée plus qu'il n'est raisonnable ni comporter de corrections, de surcharges ni d'interlinéations. Des dérogations à cette règle peuvent être autorisées si l'authenticité du contenu n'est pas en cause et si elles ne nuisent pas aux conditions nécessaires à une bonne reproduction.

Regel 36

Unterlagen nach Einreichung der europäischen Patentanmeldung

(1)⁵⁷ Die Regeln 27, 29 und 32 bis 35 sind auf Schriftstücke, die die Unterlagen der europäischen Patentanmeldung ersetzen, anzuwenden. Regel 35 Absätze 2 bis 14 ist ferner auf die in Regel 51 genannten Übersetzungen der Patentansprüche anzuwenden.

(2)⁵⁸ Alle anderen als die in Absatz 1 Satz 1 genannten Schriftstücke sollen mit Maschine geschrieben oder gedruckt sein. Auf jedem Blatt ist links ein etwa 2,5 cm breiter Rand freizulassen.

(3)⁵⁹ Die nach Einreichung der europäischen Patentanmeldung einzureichenden Schriftstücke sind zu unterzeichnen, soweit es sich nicht um Anlagen handelt. Ist ein Schriftstück nicht unterzeichnet worden, so fordert das Europäische Patentamt den Beteiligten auf, das Schriftstück innerhalb einer vom Europäischen Patentamt zu bestimmenden Frist zu unterzeichnen. Wird das Schriftstück rechtzeitig unterzeichnet, so behält es den ursprünglichen Tag des Eingangs, anderenfalls gilt das Schriftstück als nicht eingegangen.

(4) Schriftstücke, die anderen Personen mitzuteilen sind oder die mehrere europäische Patentanmeldungen oder europäische Patente betreffen, sind in der entsprechenden Stückzahl einzureichen. Kommt ein Beteiligter dieser Verpflichtung trotz Aufforderung des Europäischen Patentamts nicht nach, so werden die fehlenden Stücke auf Kosten des Beteiligten angefertigt.

Rule 36

Documents filed subsequently

(1)⁵⁷ Rules 27, 29 and 32 to 35 shall apply to documents replacing documents making up the European patent application. Rule 35, paragraphs 2 to 14, shall also apply to the translation of the claims referred to in Rule 51.

(2)⁵⁸ All documents other than those referred to in the first sentence of paragraph 1 shall normally be typewritten or printed. There must be a margin of about 2.5 cm on the left-hand side of each page.

(3)⁵⁹ All documents, with the exception of annexed documents, filed after filing of the European patent application must be signed. If a document has not been signed, the European Patent Office shall invite the party concerned to do so within a time limit to be laid down by that Office. If signed in due time, the document shall retain its original date of receipt; otherwise it shall be deemed not to have been received.

(4) Such documents as must be communicated to other persons or as relate to two or more European patent applications or European patents, must be filed in a sufficient number of copies. If the party concerned does not comply with this obligation in spite of a request by the European Patent Office, the missing copies shall be provided at the expense of the party concerned.

Documents produits ultérieurement

Art. 78

R. 40

(1)⁵⁷ Les règles 27, 29 et 32 à 35 s'appliquent aux documents remplaçant des pièces de la demande de brevet européen. La règle 35, paragraphes 2 à 14, s'applique en outre aux traductions des revendications visées à la règle 51.

(2)⁵⁸ Tous documents autres que ceux visés au paragraphe 1, première phrase, doivent, en principe, être dactylographiés ou imprimés. Une marge d'environ 2,5 cm doit être réservée sur le côté gauche de la feuille.

(3)⁵⁹ A l'exclusion des pièces annexes, les documents postérieurs au dépôt de la demande de brevet européen doivent être signés. Si un document n'est pas signé, l'Office européen des brevets invite l'intéressé, dans un délai qu'il lui impartit, à remédier à cette irrégularité. Si le document est signé dans les délais, il garde le bénéfice de sa date. Dans le cas contraire, le document est réputé n'avoir pas été reçu.

(4) Les documents qui doivent être communiqués à d'autres personnes, ou qui concernent plusieurs demandes de brevet européen ou plusieurs brevets européens, doivent être produits en un nombre suffisant d'exemplaires. Les exemplaires manquants sont établis aux frais de l'intéressé, si celui-ci ne se conforme pas à cette obligation malgré l'injonction de l'Office européen des brevets.

(5)⁶⁰ Der Präsident des Europäischen Patentamts kann bestimmen, dass nach Einreichung der europäischen Patentanmeldung Unterlagen abweichend von den Absätzen 2 bis 4 beim Europäischen Patentamt auf andere Weise mittels technischer Einrichtungen zur Nachrichtenübermittlung eingereicht werden können, und die Bedingungen für deren Benutzung festlegen. Er kann insbesondere bestimmen, dass innerhalb einer von ihm festgesetzten Frist ein Schriftstück nachzureichen ist, das den Inhalt der auf diese Weise eingereichten Unterlagen wiedergibt und dieser Ausführungsordnung entspricht; wird dieses Schriftstück nicht rechtzeitig eingereicht, so gelten die Unterlagen als nicht eingegangen.

Kapitel III

Jahresgebühren

Regel 37

Fälligkeit

(1) Die Jahresgebühren für die europäische Patentanmeldung sind jeweils für das kommende Jahr am letzten Tag des Monats fällig, der durch seine Benennung dem Monat entspricht, in den der Anmeldetag für diese Anmeldung fällt. Die Jahresgebühr kann frühestens ein Jahr vor ihrer Fälligkeit wirksam entrichtet werden.⁶¹

(2)⁶² Die Zuschlagsgebühr gilt im Sinn des Artikels 86 Absatz 2 als gleichzeitig mit der Jahresgebühr entrichtet, wenn sie innerhalb der in dieser Vorschrift vorgeschriebenen Frist entrichtet wird.

(5)⁶⁰ Notwithstanding paragraphs 2 to 4 the President of the European Patent Office may permit documents filed after filing of the European patent application to be transmitted to the European Patent Office by other means of communication and lay down conditions governing their use. He may, in particular, require that within a period laid down by him written confirmation be supplied reproducing the contents of documents so filed and complying with the requirements of these Implementing Regulations; if such confirmation is not supplied in due time, the documents shall be deemed not to have been received.

Chapter III

Renewal fees

Rule 37

Payment of renewal fees

(1) Renewal fees for the European patent application in respect of the coming year shall be due on the last day of the month containing the anniversary of the date of filing of the European patent application. Renewal fees may not be validly paid more than one year before they fall due⁶¹.

(2)⁶² An additional fee shall be deemed to have been paid at the same time as the renewal fee within the meaning of Article 86, paragraph 2, if it is paid within the period laid down in that provision.

(5)⁶⁰ Le Président de l'Office européen des brevets peut décider que, par dérogation aux dispositions des paragraphes 2, 3 et 4, les documents postérieurs au dépôt de la demande de brevet européen peuvent être adressés à l'Office européen des brevets également par des moyens techniques de communication, dont il arrête les conditions d'utilisation. Il peut notamment décider qu'une pièce reproduisant par écrit le contenu des documents ainsi adressés et répondant aux prescriptions du présent règlement doit être produite dans un délai fixé par lui. Si cette pièce n'est pas produite dans les délais, les documents sont réputés non reçus.

Règle 37

Paiement des taxes annuelles

(1) Le paiement pour une demande de brevet européen des taxes annuelles au titre de l'année à venir vient à échéance le dernier jour du mois de la date anniversaire du dépôt de la demande de brevet européen. La taxe annuelle ne peut être valablement acquittée plus d'une année avant son échéance⁶¹.

(2)⁶² Au sens de l'article 86, paragraphe 2, la surtaxe est considérée comme ayant fait l'objet d'un paiement simultané lorsqu'elle est acquittée dans le délai prévu par ladite disposition.

(3)⁶³ Jahresgebühren, die für eine frühere Patentanmeldung bis zu dem Tag der Einreichung einer europäischen Teilanmeldung fällig geworden sind, sind auch für die Teilanmeldung zu entrichten und werden mit Einreichung der Teilanmeldung fällig. Diese Gebühren und eine Jahresgebühr, die bis zum Ablauf von vier Monaten nach Einreichung der Teilanmeldung fällig wird, können innerhalb dieser Frist ohne Zuschlagsgebühr entrichtet werden. Erfolgt die Zahlung nicht rechtzeitig, so können die Jahresgebühren noch innerhalb von sechs Monaten nach Fälligkeit wirksam entrichtet werden, sofern gleichzeitig die Zuschlagsgebühr nach Artikel 86 Absatz 2 entrichtet wird.

(4) Für eine nach Artikel 61 Absatz 1 Buchstabe b eingereichte neue europäische Patentanmeldung sind Jahresgebühren für das Jahr, in dem diese Anmeldung eingereicht worden ist, und für vorhergehende Jahre nicht zu entrichten.

Kapitel IV

Priorität

Regel 38⁶⁴

Prioritätserklärung und Prioritätsunterlagen

(1) Die in Artikel 88 Absatz 1 genannte Prioritätserklärung besteht aus einer Erklärung über den Tag der früheren Anmeldung und den Staat, in dem oder für den sie eingereicht worden ist, sowie aus der Angabe des Aktenzeichens.

(2) Die Erklärung über den Tag und den Staat der früheren Anmeldung ist bei Einreichung der europäischen Patentanmeldung anzugeben; das Aktenzeichen ist vor Ablauf des sechzehnten Monats nach dem Prioritätstag zu nennen.

(3) Die Abschrift der früheren Anmeldung ist vor Ablauf des sechzehnten Monats nach dem Prioritätstag einzureichen. Die Abschrift muss von der Behörde, bei der die frühere Anmeldung eingereicht worden ist, als mit der früheren Anmeldung übereinstimmend bescheinigt sein; der Abschrift ist eine Bescheinigung dieser Behörde über den Tag der Einreichung der früheren Anmeldung beizufügen.

(4)⁶⁵ Die Abschrift der früheren Anmeldung gilt als ordnungsgemäß eingereicht, wenn eine dem Europäischen Patentamt zugängliche Abschrift dieser Anmeldung unter den vom Präsidenten des Europäischen Patentamts festgelegten Bedingungen in die Akte der europäischen Patentanmeldung aufzunehmen ist.

⁶³ Geändert durch Beschluss des Verwaltungsrats vom 07.12.1990, in Kraft getreten am 01.06.1991 (ABI. EPA 1991, 4 ff.).

⁶⁴ Zuletzt geändert durch Beschluss des Verwaltungsrats vom 18.10.2001, in Kraft getreten am 01.07.2002 (ABI. EPA 2001, 488 ff.).

⁶⁵ Siehe hierzu den Beschluss des Präsidenten des EPA vom 22.12.1998 (ABI. EPA 1999, 80).

(3)⁶³ Renewal fees already due in respect of an earlier application up to the date on which a European divisional application is filed must also be paid for the divisional application and fall due when the latter is filed. These fees and any renewal fee falling due within a period of four months from the filing of the divisional application may be paid without an additional fee within that period. If payment is not made in due time, the renewal fees may still be validly paid within six months of the due date, provided that the additional fee under Article 86, paragraph 2, is paid at the same time.

(4) Renewal fees shall not be payable for a new European patent application filed pursuant to Article 61, paragraph 1(b), in respect of the year in which it was actually filed and any preceding year.

Chapter IV

Priority

Rule 38⁶⁴

Declaration of priority and priority documents

(1) The declaration of priority referred to in Article 88, paragraph 1, shall state the date of the previous filing and the State in or for which it was made and shall indicate the file number.

(2) The date and State of the previous filing must be stated on filing the European patent application; the file number shall be indicated before the end of the sixteenth month after the date of priority.

(3) The copy of the previous application must be filed before the end of the sixteenth month after the date of priority. The copy must be certified as an exact copy of the previous application by the authority which received the previous application and must be accompanied by a certificate issued by that authority stating the date of filing of the previous application.

(4)⁶⁵ The copy of the previous application shall be deemed duly filed if a copy of that application available to the European Patent Office is to be included in the file of the European patent application under the conditions laid down by the President of the European Patent Office.

DISPOSITIONS D'APPLICATION DE LA QUATRIÈME PARTIE DE LA CONVENTION

Chapitre I

Examen par la section de dépôt

Règle 39

Notifications faisant suite à l'examen lors du dépôt

Art. 90

Si la demande de brevet européen ne satisfait pas aux exigences de l'article 80, la section de dépôt notifie au demandeur les irrégularités constatées et l'informe que s'il n'y remédie pas dans un délai d'un mois, la demande ne sera pas traitée en tant que demande de brevet européen. Si le demandeur remédie dans le délai aux irrégularités constatées, la section de dépôt lui notifie la date de dépôt.

Règle 40⁶⁷

Examen de certaines conditions de forme

Les conditions de forme auxquelles doit satisfaire toute demande de brevet européen, en vertu de l'article 91, paragraphe 1, lettre b), sont celles prévues à la règle 27bis, paragraphes 1 à 3, à la règle 32, paragraphes 1 et 2, à la règle 35, paragraphes 2 à 11 et 14 et à la règle 36, paragraphes 2 et 4.

Règle 41

Correction d'irrégularités dans les pièces de la demande

*Art. 87, 88, 123
R. 38, 86*

(1)⁶⁸ Si l'examen prévu à l'article 91, paragraphe 1, lettres a) à d), fait apparaître des irrégularités dans la demande de brevet européen, la section de dépôt le signale au demandeur et l'invite à remédier à ces irrégularités dans le délai qu'elle lui impartit. La description, les revendications et les dessins ne peuvent être modifiés que dans la mesure nécessaire pour remédier aux irrégularités constatées et conformément aux observations de la section de dépôt.

(2) Les dispositions du paragraphe 1 ne sont pas applicables si le demandeur qui revendique la priorité a omis d'indiquer lors du dépôt de la demande de brevet européen la date ou le pays du premier dépôt.

⁶⁷ Modifiée par décision du Conseil d'administration en date du 05.06.1992, entrée en vigueur le 01.01.1993 (JO OEB 1992, 342 s.).

⁶⁸ Modifié par décision du Conseil d'administration en date du 20.10.1977, entrée en vigueur le 01.02.1978 (JO OEB 1978, 12 s.).

(3) Absatz 1 ist auch nicht anzuwenden, wenn die Prüfung ergeben hat, dass der bei Einreichung der europäischen Patentanmeldung genannte erste Anmeldetag um mehr als ein Jahr vor dem Anmeldetag der europäischen Patentanmeldung liegt. In diesem Fall teilt die Eingangsstelle dem Anmelder mit, dass kein Prioritätsanspruch besteht, wenn der Anmelder nicht innerhalb eines Monats einen berechtigten Prioritätstag angibt, der in das Jahr fällt, das vor dem Anmeldetag der europäischen Patentanmeldung liegt.

Regel 42

Nachholung der Erfindernennung

(1) Ergibt die in Artikel 91 Absatz 1 Buchstabe f vorgeschriebene Prüfung, dass die Erfindernennung nicht nach Regel 17 erfolgt ist, so teilt die Eingangsstelle dem Anmelder mit, dass die europäische Patentanmeldung als zurückgenommen gilt, wenn der Mangel nicht innerhalb der in Artikel 91 Absatz 5 vorgeschriebenen Frist beseitigt wird.

(2) Handelt es sich um eine europäische Teilanmeldung oder um eine nach Artikel 61 Absatz 1 Buchstabe b eingereichte neue europäische Patentanmeldung, so endet die Frist für die Erfindernennung nicht vor Ablauf von zwei Monaten nach der in Absatz 1 genannten Mitteilung; auf diese Frist wird in der Mitteilung hingewiesen.

Regel 43

Verspätet oder nicht eingereichte Zeichnungen

(1) Ergibt die in Artikel 91 Absatz 1 Buchstabe g vorgeschriebene Prüfung, dass die Zeichnungen nach dem Anmeldetag eingereicht worden sind, so teilt die Eingangsstelle dem Anmelder mit, dass die Zeichnungen und die Bezugnahmen auf die Zeichnungen in der europäischen Patentanmeldung als gestrichen gelten, wenn der Anmelder nicht innerhalb eines Monats beantragt, den Anmeldetag neu auf den Tag der Einreichung der Zeichnungen festzusetzen.

(2) Ergibt die in Absatz 1 genannte Prüfung, dass die Zeichnungen nicht eingereicht worden sind, so fordert die Eingangsstelle den Anmelder auf, die Zeichnungen innerhalb eines Monats einzureichen, und teilt dem Anmelder mit, dass der Anmeldetag neu auf den Tag der Einreichung der Zeichnungen festgesetzt wird oder, wenn die Zeichnungen nicht rechtzeitig eingereicht werden, die Bezugnahmen auf die Zeichnungen in der europäischen Patentanmeldung als gestrichen gelten.

(3) Jeder neu festgesetzte Anmeldetag wird dem Anmelder mitgeteilt.

(3) Paragraph 1 shall not apply where the examination reveals that the date of the first filing given on filing the European patent application precedes the date of filing of the European patent application by more than one year. In this event the Receiving Section shall inform the applicant that there will be no right of priority for the application unless, within one month, the applicant indicates a corrected date, lying within the year preceding the date of filing of the European patent application.

Rule 42

Subsequent identification of the inventor

(1) If the examination provided for in Article 91, paragraph 1(f), reveals that the inventor has not been identified in accordance with the provisions of Rule 17, the Receiving Section shall inform the applicant that the European patent application shall be deemed to be withdrawn unless this deficiency is corrected within the period prescribed by Article 91, paragraph 5.

(2) In the case of a European divisional application or a new European patent application filed pursuant to Article 61, paragraph 1(b), the time limit for identifying the inventor may in no case expire before two months after the communication referred to in paragraph 1, which shall state the time limit.

Rule 43

Late-filed or missing drawings

(1) If the examination provided for in Article 91, paragraph 1(g), reveals that the drawings were filed later than the date of filing of the European patent application, the Receiving Section shall inform the applicant that the drawings and the references to the drawings in the European patent application shall be deemed to be deleted unless the applicant requests within a period of one month that the application be re-dated to the date on which the drawings were filed.

(2) If the examination reveals that the drawings were not filed, the Receiving Section shall invite him to file them within one month and inform him that the application will be re-dated to the date on which they are filed, or, if they are not filed in due time, any reference to them in the application shall be deemed to be deleted.

(3) The applicant shall be informed of any new date of filing of the application.

(3) Les dispositions du paragraphe 1 ne sont pas davantage applicables si l'examen fait apparaître que la date du premier dépôt indiquée lors du dépôt de la demande de brevet européen est antérieure de plus d'un an à la date de dépôt de la demande de brevet européen. Dans un tel cas, la section de dépôt signale au demandeur qu'il n'existe pas de droit de priorité à moins que, dans un délai d'un mois, il n'indique une date rectifiée qui se situe au cours de l'année précédant la date de dépôt de la demande de brevet européen.

(2) Dans le cas d'une demande divisionnaire européenne ou dans celui d'une nouvelle demande de brevet européen au sens de l'article 61, paragraphe 1, lettre b), le délai pendant lequel l'inventeur peut encore être désigné ne peut en aucun cas être inférieur à deux mois à compter de la notification visée au paragraphe 1, qui doit mentionner la date d'expiration de ce délai.

(1) S'il résulte de l'examen prescrit à l'article 91, paragraphe 1, lettre g), que les dessins ont été déposés postérieurement à la date de dépôt de la demande de brevet européen, la section de dépôt notifie au demandeur que les dessins et les références aux dessins figurant dans la demande de brevet européen sont réputés supprimés à moins que le demandeur ne présente, dans un délai d'un mois, une requête aux fins d'obtenir une demande dont la date sera la date à laquelle les dessins ont été déposés.

(2) S'il résulte de l'examen que les dessins n'ont pas été déposés, la section de dépôt invite le demandeur à les déposer dans un délai d'un mois et l'informe que la date de la demande sera celle à laquelle les dessins auront été déposés ou que, si les dessins ne sont pas déposés dans le délai, les références aux dessins figurant dans la demande seront réputées supprimées.

(3) Toute nouvelle date de dépôt de la demande est notifiée au demandeur.

Regel 45

Unvollständige Recherche

Ist die Recherchenabteilung der Auffassung, dass die europäische Patentanmeldung den Vorschriften dieses Übereinkommens so wenig entspricht, dass es nicht möglich ist, auf der Grundlage aller oder einiger Patentansprüche sinnvolle Ermittlungen über den Stand der Technik durchzuführen, so stellt sie entweder in einer Erklärung fest, dass Ermittlungen nicht möglich sind, oder erstellt, soweit dies durchführbar ist, für einen Teil der Anmeldung einen europäischen Recherchenbericht. Diese Erklärung und dieser Bericht gelten für das weitere Verfahren als europäischer Recherchenbericht.

Regel 46⁷²

Europäischer Recherchenbericht bei mangelnder Einheitlichkeit

(1)⁷³ Entspricht die europäische Patentanmeldung nach Auffassung der Recherchenabteilung nicht den Anforderungen an die Einheitlichkeit der Erfindung, so erstellt sie einen teilweisen europäischen Recherchenbericht für die Teile der Anmeldung, die sich auf die zuerst in den Patentansprüchen erwähnte Erfindung oder Gruppe von Erfindungen im Sinn des Artikels 82 beziehen. Sie teilt dem Anmelder mit, dass für jede weitere Erfindung innerhalb einer von der Recherchenabteilung zu bestimmenden Frist, die nicht kürzer als zwei Wochen sein und sechs Wochen nicht übersteigen darf, eine weitere Recherchegebühr zu entrichten ist, wenn der europäische Recherchenbericht diese Erfindung erfassen soll. Die Recherchenabteilung erstellt den europäischen Recherchenbericht für die Teile der Anmeldung, die sich auf die Erfindungen beziehen, für die Recherchegebühren entrichtet worden sind.

(2) Eine nach Absatz 1 gezahlte Recherchegebühr wird zurückgezahlt, wenn der Anmelder im Verlauf der Prüfung der europäischen Patentanmeldung durch die Prüfungsabteilung einen Erstattungsantrag stellt und die Prüfungsabteilung feststellt, dass die in Absatz 1 genannte Mitteilung nicht gerechtfertigt war.

Regel 47

Endgültiger Inhalt der Zusammenfassung

(1) Gleichzeitig mit der Erstellung des europäischen Recherchenberichts bestimmt die Recherchenabteilung den endgültigen Inhalt der Zusammenfassung.

(2) Der endgültige Inhalt der Zusammenfassung wird dem Anmelder zusammen mit dem europäischen Recherchenbericht übersandt.

Rule 45

Incomplete search

If the Search Division considers that the European patent application does not comply with the provisions of the Convention to such an extent that it is not possible to carry out a meaningful search into the state of the art on the basis of all or some of the claims, it shall either declare that search is not possible or shall, so far as is practicable, draw up a partial European search report. The declaration and the partial report referred to shall be considered, for the purposes of subsequent proceedings, as the European search report.

Rule 46⁷²

European search report where the invention lacks unity

(1)⁷³ If the Search Division considers that the European patent application does not comply with the requirement of unity of invention, it shall draw up a partial European search report on those parts of the European patent application which relate to the invention, or the group of inventions within the meaning of Article 82, first mentioned in the claims. It shall inform the applicant that if the European search report is to cover the other inventions, a further search fee must be paid, for each invention involved, within a period to be fixed by the Search Division which must not be shorter than two weeks and must not exceed six weeks. The Search Division shall draw up the European search report for those parts of the European patent application which relate to inventions in respect of which search fees have been paid.

(2) Any fee which has been paid under paragraph 1 shall be refunded if, during the examination of the European patent application by the Examining Division, the applicant requests a refund and the Examining Division finds that the communication referred to in the said paragraph was not justified.

Rule 47

Definitive content of the abstract

(1) At the same time as drawing up the European search report, the Search Division shall determine the definitive content of the abstract.

(2) The definitive content of the abstract shall be transmitted to the applicant together with the European search report.

Recherche incomplète

Art. 92

Si la division de la recherche estime que la demande de brevet européen n'est pas conforme aux dispositions de la convention, au point qu'une recherche significative sur l'état de la technique ne peut être effectuée au regard de tout ou partie des revendications, elle déclare qu'une telle recherche est impossible ou elle établit, dans la mesure du possible, un rapport partiel de recherche européenne. La déclaration et le rapport partiel sont considérés, aux fins de la procédure ultérieure, comme le rapport de recherche européenne.

*Règle 46*⁷²

Rapport de recherche européenne en cas d'absence d'unité d'invention

Art. 92
R. 112

(1)⁷³ Si la division de la recherche estime que la demande de brevet européen ne satisfait pas à l'exigence concernant l'unité d'invention, elle établit un rapport partiel de recherche européenne pour les parties de la demande de brevet européen qui se rapportent à l'invention, ou à la pluralité d'inventions au sens de l'article 82, mentionnée en premier lieu dans les revendications. Elle notifie au demandeur que si le rapport de recherche européenne doit couvrir les autres inventions, une nouvelle taxe de recherche doit être acquittée pour chaque invention concernée dans un délai qu'elle lui impartit et qui ne peut être inférieur à deux semaines ni supérieur à six semaines. Verlängerung von Fristen

(1) Läuft eine Frist an einem Tag ab, an dem eine Annahmestelle des Europäischen Patentamts im Sinne von Artikel 75 Absatz 1 Buchstabe a zur Entgegennahme von Schriftstücken nicht geöffnet ist oder an dem gewöhnliche Postsendungen aus anderen als den in Absatz 2 genannten Gründen dort nicht zugestellt werden, so erstreckt sich die Frist auf den nächstfolgenden Tag, an dem alle Annahmestellen zur Entgegennahme von Schriftstücken geöffnet sind und an dem gewöhnliche Postsendungen zugestellt werden.

(2) Läuft eine Frist an einem Tag ab, an dem die Postzustellung in einem Vertragsstaat oder zwischen einem Vertragsstaat und dem Europäischen Patentamt allgemein unterbrochen oder im Anschluss an eine solche Unterbrechung gestört ist, so erstreckt sich die Frist für Beteiligte, die in diesem Staat ihren Wohnsitz oder Sitz haben oder einen Vertreter mit Geschäftssitz in diesem Staat bestellt haben, auf den ersten Tag nach Beendigung der Unterbrechung oder Störung. Satz 1 ist auf die in Artikel 77 Absatz 5 genannte Frist entsprechend anzuwenden. Ist der betreffende Staat der Sitzstaat des Europäischen Patentamts, so gilt diese Vorschrift für alle Beteiligten. Die Dauer der Unterbrechung oder Störung der Postzustellung wird in einer Mitteilung des Präsidenten des Europäischen Patentamts bekannt gegeben.

(3) Die Absätze 1 und 2 sind auf Fristen, die im Übereinkommen vorgesehen sind, in Fällen entsprechend anzuwenden, in denen Handlungen bei der zuständigen Behörde nach Artikel 75 Absatz 1 Buchstabe b oder Absatz 2 Buchstabe b vorgenommen werden.

(4)¹²⁰ Ist der ordnungsgemäße Dienstbetrieb des Europäischen Patentamts durch ein außerordentliches Ereignis, zum Beispiel eine Naturkatastrophe oder einen Streik, unterbrochen oder gestört und verzögern sich dadurch amtliche Benachrichtigungen über den Ablauf von Fristen, so können die innerhalb dieser Fristen vorzunehmenden Handlungen noch innerhalb eines Monats nach Zustellung der verzögerten Benachrichtigung wirksam vorgenommen werden. Der Beginn und das Ende einer solchen Unterbrechung oder Störung werden in einer Mitteilung des Präsidenten des Europäischen Patentamts bekannt gegeben.

Extension of time limits

(1) If a time limit expires on a day on which one of the filing offices of the European Patent Office in the sense of Article 75, paragraph 1(a) is not open for receipt of documents or on which, for reasons other than those referred to in paragraph 2, ordinary mail is not delivered there, the time limit shall extend until the first day thereafter on which all the filing offices are open for receipt of documents and on which ordinary mail is delivered.

(2) If a time limit expires on a day on which there is a general interruption or subsequent dislocation in the delivery of mail in a Contracting State or between a Contracting State and the European Patent Office, the time limit shall extend to the first day following the end of the period of interruption or dislocation for parties resident in the State concerned or who have appointed representatives with a place of business in that State. The first sentence shall apply mutatis mutandis to the period referred to in Article 77, paragraph 5. In the case where the State concerned is the State in which the European Patent Office is located, this provision shall apply to all parties. The duration of the above-mentioned period shall be as stated by the President of the European Patent Office.

(3) Paragraphs 1 and 2 shall apply mutatis mutandis to the time limits provided for in the Convention in the case of transactions carried out with the competent authority in accordance with Article 75, paragraph 1(b) or paragraph 2(b).

(4)¹²⁰ If an exceptional occurrence such as a natural disaster or strike interrupts or dislocates the proper functioning of the European Patent Office so that any communication from the Office to parties concerning the expiry of a time limit is delayed, acts to be completed within such a time limit may still be validly completed within one month after the notification of the delayed communication. The date of commencement and the end of any such interruption or dislocation shall be as stated by the President of the European Patent Office.

Prorogation des délais

Art. 120

(1) Si un délai expire soit un jour où l'un des bureaux de réception de l'Office européen des brevets au sens de l'article 75, paragraphe 1, lettre a) n'est pas ouvert pour recevoir le dépôt des pièces, soit un jour où le courrier normal n'y est pas distribué, pour des raisons autres que celles indiquées au paragraphe 2, le délai est prorogé jusqu'au premier jour suivant où tous les bureaux de réception sont ouverts pour recevoir ce dépôt et où le courrier normal est distribué.

(2) Si un délai expire soit un jour où se produit une interruption générale de la distribution du courrier, soit un jour de perturbation résultant de cette interruption dans un Etat contractant ou entre un Etat contractant et l'Office européen des brevets, le délai est prorogé jusqu'au premier jour suivant la fin de cette période d'interruption ou de perturbation pour les parties qui ont leur domicile ou leur siège dans cet Etat ou qui ont désigné des mandataires ayant leur domicile professionnel dans ledit Etat. La première phrase s'applique au délai prévu à l'article 77, paragraphe 5. Au cas où l'Etat concerné est l'Etat où l'Office européen des brevets a son siège, la présente disposition est applicable à toutes les parties. La durée de cette période est indiquée par le Président de l'Office européen des brevets.

(3) Les paragraphes 1 et 2 s'appliquent aux délais prévus par la convention lorsqu'il s'agit d'actes accomplis auprès de l'administration compétente visée à l'article 75, paragraphe 1, lettre b) ou au paragraphe 2, lettre b).

(4)¹²⁰ En cas de retard dans les notifications de l'Office européen des brevets portant indication de l'expiration de délais, par suite de circonstances exceptionnelles telles que catastrophe naturelle ou grève ayant interrompu ou perturbé le fonctionnement normal de l'Office, les actes devant être accomplis dans ces délais peuvent être valablement accomplis dans un délai d'un mois à compter de la signification de la notification effectuée avec retard. Le début et la fin de l'interruption ou de la perturbation sont indiqués par le Président de l'Office européen des brevets.

(b) where Article 133, paragraph 2, is not applicable, that the proceedings will be resumed with the applicant for or proprietor of the patent as from the date on which this communication is notified.

(4) The time limits, other than the time limit for making a request for examination and the time limit for paying the renewal fees, in force as regards the applicant for or proprietor of the patent at the date of interruption of the proceedings, shall begin again as from the day on which the proceedings are resumed. b) dans les cas autres que celui visé à l'article 133, paragraphe 2, la procédure est reprise avec le demandeur ou avec le titulaire du brevet européen à compter du jour de la signification de cette notification.

(4) Les délais en cours à l'égard du demandeur ou du titulaire du brevet européen à la date d'interruption de la procédure, à l'exception du délai de présentation de la requête en examen et du délai de paiement des taxes annuelles, recommencent à courir dans leur intégralité à compter du jour de la reprise de la procédure. (1) L'Office européen des brevets et les services centraux de la propriété industrielle des Etats contractants correspondent directement lorsque les communications qu'ils échangent découlent de l'application des dispositions de la convention. L'Office européen des brevets et les juridictions ou les autres administrations des Etats contractants peuvent correspondre par l'intermédiaire des services centraux de la propriété industrielle des Etats contractants.

(2) Les frais résultant de toute communication au titre du paragraphe 1 sont à la charge de l'administration qui a fait la communication ; ces communications ne donnent lieu à la perception d'aucune taxe.

Règle 98

(3) L'Office européen des brevets signale aux juridictions et ministères publics des Etats contractants, lorsqu'il leur transmet les dossiers ou copies de ces dossiers, les restrictions auxquelles est soumise, en application de l'article 128, paragraphes 1 et 4, la communication à des tiers du dossier d'une demande de brevet européen ou d'un brevet européen.

Règle 99

Procédure des commissions rogatoires

Art. 117, 131

(1) Chaque Etat contractant désigne une autorité centrale qui assume la charge de recevoir les commissions rogatoires émanant de l'Office européen des brevets et de les transmettre à l'autorité compétente aux fins d'exécution.

(2) Das Europäische Patentamt fasst Rechtshilfeersuchen in der Sprache des zuständigen Gerichts oder der zuständigen Behörde ab oder fügt den Rechtshilfeersuchen eine Übersetzung in dieser Sprache bei.

(3) Vorbehaltlich der Absätze 5 und 6 hat das zuständige Gericht oder die zuständige Behörde bei der Erledigung eines Ersuchens in den Formen zu verfahren, die ihr Recht vorsieht. Sie hat insbesondere geeignete Zwangsmittel nach Maßgabe ihrer Rechtsvorschriften anzuwenden.

(4) Ist das ersuchte Gericht oder die ersuchte Behörde nicht zuständig, so ist das Rechtshilfeersuchen von Amts wegen unverzüglich an die in Absatz 1 genannte zentrale Behörde zurückzusenden. Die zentrale Behörde übermittelt das Rechtshilfeersuchen, wenn ein anderes Gericht oder eine andere Behörde in diesem Staat zuständig ist, diesem Gericht oder dieser Behörde oder, wenn kein Gericht oder keine Behörde in diesem Staat zuständig ist, dem Europäischen Patentamt.

(5) Das Europäische Patentamt ist von Zeit und Ort der durchzuführenden Beweisaufnahme oder der anderen vorzunehmenden gerichtlichen Handlungen zu benachrichtigen und unterrichtet seinerseits die betreffenden Beteiligten, Zeugen und Sachverständigen.

(6) Auf Ersuchen des Europäischen Patentamts gestattet das zuständige Gericht oder die zuständige Behörde die Teilnahme von Mitgliedern des betreffenden Organs und erlaubt diesen, an vernommene Personen über das Gericht oder die Behörde oder unmittelbar Fragen zu richten.

(7) Für die Erledigung von Rechtshilfeersuchen dürfen Gebühren und Auslagen irgendwelcher Art nicht erhoben werden. Der ersuchte Staat ist jedoch berechtigt, von der Organisation die Erstattung der an Sachverständige und an Dolmetscher gezahlten Entschädigung sowie der Auslagen zu verlangen, die durch das Verfahren nach Absatz 6 entstanden sind.

(8) Haben nach dem von dem zuständigen Gericht oder der zuständigen Behörde angewendeten Recht die Beteiligten selbst für die Aufnahme der Beweise zu sorgen und ist das Gericht oder die Behörde zur Erledigung des Rechtshilfeersuchens außer Stande, so kann das Gericht oder die Behörde mit Einverständnis des Europäischen Patentamts eine geeignete Person mit der Erledigung beauftragen. Bei der Einholung des Einverständnisses des Europäischen Patentamts gibt das zuständige Gericht oder die zuständige Behörde die ungefähre Höhe der Kosten an, die durch dieses Verfahren entstehen. Durch das Einverständnis des Europäischen Patentamts wird die Organisation verpflichtet, die entstehenden Kosten zu erstatten; ohne ein solches Einverständnis ist die Organisation zur Zahlung der Kosten nicht verpflichtet.

(2) The European Patent Office shall draw up letters rogatory in the language of the competent authority or shall attach to such letters rogatory a translation into the language of that authority.

(3) Subject to the provisions of paragraphs 5 and 6, the competent authority shall apply its own law as to the procedures to be followed in executing such requests. In particular, it shall apply appropriate measures of compulsion in accordance with its own law.

(4) If the authority to which the letters rogatory are transmitted is not competent to execute them, the letters rogatory shall be sent forthwith to the central authority referred to in paragraph 1. That authority shall transmit the letters rogatory either to the competent authority in that State, or to the European Patent Office where no authority is competent in that State.

(5) The European Patent Office shall be informed of the time when, and the place where, the enquiry or other legal measure is to take place and shall inform the parties, witnesses and experts concerned.

(6) If so requested by the European Patent Office, the competent authority shall permit the attendance of members of the department concerned and allow them to question any person giving evidence either directly or through the competent authority.

(7) The execution of letters rogatory shall not give rise to any reimbursement of fees or costs of any nature. Nevertheless, the State in which letters rogatory are executed has the right to require the Organisation to reimburse any fees paid to experts and interpreters and the costs incurred by the procedure of paragraph 6.

(8) If the law applied by the competent authority obliges the parties to secure evidence and the authority is not able itself to execute the letters rogatory, that authority may, with the consent of the European Patent Office, appoint a suitable person to do so. When seeking the consent of the European Patent Office, the competent authority shall indicate the approximate costs which would result from this procedure. If the European Patent Office gives its consent, the Organisation shall reimburse any costs incurred; without such consent, the Organisation shall not be liable for such costs.

(2) L'Office européen des brevets rédige les commissions rogatoires dans la langue de l'autorité compétente ou joint à ces commissions une traduction dans la langue de ladite autorité.

(3) Sans préjudice des dispositions des paragraphes 5 et 6, l'autorité compétente applique les lois de son pays en ce qui concerne la procédure à suivre pour l'exécution desdites commissions rogatoires. Elle applique notamment les moyens de contrainte appropriés conformément aux lois de son pays.

(4) En cas d'incompétence de l'autorité requise, les commissions rogatoires sont transmises d'office et sans retard à l'autorité centrale prévue au paragraphe 1. Celle-ci transmet les commissions rogatoires, selon le cas, à une autre autorité compétente de cet Etat, ou à l'Office européen des brevets si aucune autorité n'est compétente dans ledit Etat.

(5) L'Office européen des brevets est informé de la date et du lieu où il sera procédé à l'instruction ou à toute autre mesure judiciaire, et il en informe les parties, témoins et experts intéressés.

(6) A la demande de l'Office européen des brevets, l'autorité compétente autorise les membres de l'organisme intéressé à assister à l'exécution et à interroger toute personne faisant une déposition soit directement, soit par l'intermédiaire de ladite autorité.

(7) L'exécution de commissions rogatoires ne peut donner lieu au remboursement de taxes ou de frais de quelque nature que ce soit. Toutefois, l'Etat dans lequel les commissions rogatoires sont exécutées a le droit d'exiger de l'Organisation le remboursement des indemnités payées aux experts et aux interprètes et des frais résultant de l'application de la procédure prévue au paragraphe 6.

(8) Si la loi appliquée par l'autorité compétente laisse aux parties le soin de réunir les preuves, et si ladite autorité n'est pas en mesure d'exécuter elle-même les commissions rogatoires, elle peut, avec le consentement de l'Office européen des brevets, en charger une personne habilitée à cet effet. En demandant le consentement de l'Office européen des brevets, l'autorité compétente indique le montant approximatif des frais qui résulteraient de cette intervention. Le consentement de l'Office européen des brevets implique pour l'Organisation l'obligation de rembourser ces frais ; s'il n'a pas donné son consentement, l'Organisation n'est pas redevable de ces frais.

Bestellung eines gemeinsamen Vertreters

(1) Wird eine europäische Patentanmeldung von mehreren Personen eingereicht und ist im Antrag auf Erteilung eines europäischen Patents kein gemeinsamer Vertreter bezeichnet, so gilt der Anmelder, der im Antrag als Erster genannt ist, als gemeinsamer Vertreter. Ist einer der Anmelder jedoch verpflichtet, einen zugelassenen Vertreter zu bestellen, so gilt dieser Vertreter als gemeinsamer Vertreter, sofern nicht der im Antrag als Erster genannte Anmelder einen zugelassenen Vertreter bestellt hat. Entsprechendes gilt für gemeinsame Patentinhaber und mehrere Personen, die gemeinsam einen Einspruch oder einen Antrag auf Beitritt einreichen.

(2) Erfolgt im Laufe des Verfahrens ein Rechtsübergang auf mehrere Personen und haben diese Personen keinen gemeinsamen Vertreter bezeichnet, so ist Absatz 1 entsprechend anzuwenden. Ist eine entsprechende Anwendung nicht möglich, so fordert das Europäische Patentamt die genannten Personen auf, innerhalb von zwei Monaten einen gemeinsamen Vertreter zu bestellen. Wird dieser Aufforderung nicht entsprochen, so bestimmt das Europäische Patentamt den gemeinsamen Vertreter.

Regel 101

Vollmacht

(1)¹⁴⁰ Die Vertreter vor dem Europäischen Patentamt haben auf Verlangen innerhalb einer vom Europäischen Patentamt zu bestimmenden Frist eine unterzeichnete Vollmacht einzureichen. Der Präsident des Europäischen Patentamts bestimmt, in welchen Fällen zur Einreichung einer Vollmacht aufzufordern ist.¹⁴¹ Die Vollmacht kann sich auf eine oder mehrere europäische Patentanmeldungen oder europäische Patente erstrecken und ist in der entsprechenden Stückzahl einzureichen. Ist den Erfordernissen des Artikels 133 Absatz 2 nicht entsprochen, so wird für die Anzeige über die Bestellung eines Vertreters und die Einreichung der Vollmacht dieselbe Frist gesetzt.

(2) Die Beteiligten können allgemeine Vollmachten einreichen, die einen Vertreter zur Vertretung in allen ihren Patentangelegenheiten bevollmächtigen. Die allgemeine Vollmacht braucht nur in einem Stück eingereicht zu werden.

Appointment of a common representative

(1) If there is more than one applicant and the request for the grant of a European patent does not name a common representative, the applicant first named in the request shall be considered to be the common representative. However, if one of the applicants is obliged to appoint a professional representative this representative shall be considered to be the common representative unless the first named applicant has appointed a professional representative. The same shall apply mutatis mutandis to third parties acting in common in filing notice of opposition or intervention and to joint proprietors of a European patent.

(2) If, during the course of proceedings, transfer is made to more than one person, and such persons have not appointed a common representative, paragraph 1 shall apply. If such application is not possible, the European Patent Office shall require such persons to appoint a common representative within two months. If this request is not complied with, the European Patent Office shall appoint the common representative.

Rule 101

Authorisations

(1)¹⁴⁰ Representatives acting before the European Patent Office shall upon request file a signed authorisation within a period to be specified by the European Patent Office. The President of the European Patent Office shall determine the cases where an authorisation is to be filed.¹⁴¹ The authorisation may cover one or more European patent applications or European patents and shall be filed in the corresponding number of copies. Where the requirements of Article 133, paragraph 2, have not been satisfied, the same period shall be specified for the notification of the appointment of a representative and for the filing of the authorisation.

(2) A general authorisation enabling a representative to act in respect of all the patent transactions of the party making the authorisation may be filed. A single copy shall be sufficient.

Représentation*Règle 100*¹³⁹

Désignation d'un représentant commun

Art. 59, 133

(1) Si une demande est déposée par plusieurs personnes et si la requête en délivrance du brevet européen ne désigne pas de représentant commun, le demandeur cité en premier lieu dans la requête est réputé être le représentant commun. Toutefois, si un des demandeurs est soumis à l'obligation de désigner un mandataire agréé, ce mandataire est considéré comme le représentant commun, à moins que le demandeur cité en premier lieu n'ait lui-même désigné un mandataire agréé. Ces dispositions sont applicables à des tiers intervenant conjointement pour former une opposition ou une requête en intervention ainsi qu'à des cotitulaires d'un brevet européen.

(2) Si, au cours de la procédure, un transfert de droits intervient au profit de plusieurs personnes et si ces personnes n'ont pas désigné de représentant commun, le paragraphe 1 est applicable. Si son application est impossible, l'Office européen des brevets invite les ayants droit à désigner ce représentant commun dans un délai de deux mois. S'il n'est pas déféré à cette invitation, l'Office européen des brevets désigne lui-même le représentant commun.

Règle 101

Pouvoir

Art. 134, 163

(1)¹⁴⁰ Les mandataires agissant devant l'Office européen des brevets déposent auprès de cet Office, sur sa requête et dans un délai imparti par lui, un pouvoir signé. Le Président de l'Office européen des brevets détermine les cas dans lesquels il y a lieu d'exiger le dépôt d'un pouvoir.¹⁴¹ Le pouvoir est donné soit pour une ou plusieurs demandes de brevet européen, soit pour un ou plusieurs brevets européens. Si le pouvoir est donné pour plusieurs demandes de brevets, ou pour plusieurs brevets, il doit en être fourni un nombre correspondant d'exemplaires. Si les exigences de l'article 133, paragraphe 2 ne sont pas remplies, le même délai est imparti pour l'avis de la constitution d'un mandataire et pour le dépôt du pouvoir.

(2) Toute personne peut donner un pouvoir général autorisant un mandataire à la représenter pour toutes les affaires de brevet la concernant. Ce pouvoir peut n'être déposé qu'en un exemplaire.

a) einer Vollmacht, die die Vertretung von Personen im Sinn des Artikels 133 Absatz 2 betrifft, und

b) einer allgemeinen Vollmacht bestimmen und im Amtsblatt des Europäischen Patentamts bekannt machen.

(4)¹⁴² Wird die Vollmacht nicht rechtzeitig eingereicht, so gelten unbeschadet anderer im Übereinkommen vorgesehener Rechtsfolgen die Handlungen des Vertreters mit Ausnahme der Einreichung einer europäischen Patentanmeldung als nicht erfolgt.

(5) Die Absätze 1 und 2 sind auf Schriftstücke über den Widerruf von Vollmachten entsprechend anzuwenden.

(6) Der Vertreter, dessen Vertretungsmacht erloschen ist, wird weiter als Vertreter angesehen, bis das Erlöschen der Vertretungsmacht dem Europäischen Patentamt angezeigt worden ist.

(7) Sofern die Vollmacht nichts anderes bestimmt, erlischt sie gegenüber dem Europäischen Patentamt nicht mit dem Tod des Vollmachtgebers.

(8)¹⁴³ Hat ein Beteiligter mehrere Vertreter bestellt, so sind diese ungeachtet einer abweichenden Bestimmung in der Anzeige über ihre Bestellung oder in der Vollmacht berechtigt, sowohl gemeinschaftlich als auch einzeln zu handeln.

(9)¹⁴⁴ Die Bevollmächtigung eines Zusammenschlusses von Vertretern gilt als Bevollmächtigung für jeden Vertreter, der den Nachweis erbringt, dass er in diesem Zusammenschluss tätig ist.

(3) The President of the European Patent Office may determine and publish in the Official Journal of the European Patent Office the form and content of:

(a) an authorisation in so far as it relates to the representation of persons as defined in Article 133, paragraph 2;

(b) a general authorisation.

(4)¹⁴² If the authorisation is not filed in due time, any procedural steps taken by the representative other than the filing of a European patent application shall, without prejudice to any other legal consequences provided for in the Convention, be deemed not to have been taken.

(5) The provisions of paragraphs 1 and 2 shall apply mutatis mutandis to a document withdrawing an authorisation.

(6) Any representative who has ceased to be authorised shall continue to be regarded as the representative until the termination of his authorisation has been communicated to the European Patent Office.

(7) Subject to any provisions to the contrary contained therein, an authorisation shall not terminate vis-à-vis the European Patent Office upon the death of the person who gave it.

(8)¹⁴³ If several representatives are appointed by a party, they may, notwithstanding any provisions to the contrary in the notification of their appointment or in the authorisation, act either jointly or singly.

(9)¹⁴⁴ The authorisation of an association of representatives shall be deemed to be authorisation of any representative who can establish that he practises within that association.

(5) Les dispositions des paragraphes 1 et 2 sont applicables à la révocation du pouvoir.

(6) Tout représentant qui a cessé d'être mandaté continue à être considéré comme l'étant, aussi longtemps que la cessation du mandat n'a pas été notifiée à l'Office européen des brevets.

(7) Sauf disposition contraire du pouvoir, celui-ci ne prend pas fin, à l'égard de l'Office européen des brevets, au décès du mandant.

Amendment of the list of professional representatives

(1)¹⁴⁵ Die Eintragung des zugelassenen Vertreters in der Liste der zugelassenen Vertreter wird gelöscht, wenn der zugelassene Vertreter dies beantragt oder trotz wiederholter Mahnung den Jahresbeitrag an das Institut der beim Europäischen Patentamt zugelassenen Vertreter bis zum Ende des Jahres, für das der Beitrag fällig ist, nicht entrichtet hat.

- (a) in the event of the death or legal incapacity of the professional representative;

(2)¹⁴⁶ Après l'expiration de la période transitoire prévue à l'article 163, paragraphe 1, et sans préjudice des mesures disciplinaires prises en application de l'article 134, paragraphe 8, lettre c), tout mandataire agréé ne peut être radié d'office que :

(1) If the application documents on which the European grant procedure is to be based comprise more than ten claims, a claims fee shall be payable for the eleventh and each subsequent claim within the period provided for in Rule 107, paragraph 1.

(2) Any claims fees not paid in due time may still be validly paid within a non-extendable period of grace of one month as from notification of a communication pointing out the failure to pay. If within this period amended claims are filed, the claims fees due shall be computed on the basis of such amended claims.

(3) Any claims fees paid within the period provided for in paragraph 1 and which are in excess of those due under paragraph 2, second sentence, shall be refunded.

(4) Where a claims fee is not paid in due time, the claim concerned shall be deemed to be abandoned.

(2) Wird die Priorität einer früheren Anmeldung in Anspruch genommen und ist das Aktenzeichen oder die Abschrift nach Artikel 88 Absatz 1 und Regel 38 Absätze 1 bis 3 bei Ablauf der in Regel 107 Absatz 1 genannten Frist noch nicht eingereicht worden, so wird der Anmelder aufgefordert, das Aktenzeichen oder die Abschrift der früheren Anmeldung innerhalb einer vom Europäischen Patentamt zu bestimmenden Frist einzureichen. Regel 38 Absatz 4 ist anzuwenden.

(3) Liegt bei Ablauf der in Regel 107 Absatz 1 genannten Frist ein nach Regel 5.2 der Ausführungsordnung zum Zusammenarbeitsvertrag vorgeschriebenes Sequenzprotokoll dem Europäischen Patentamt nicht vor oder entspricht es nicht dem vorgeschriebenen Standard oder ist es nicht auf dem vorgeschriebenen Datenträger eingereicht worden, so wird der Anmelder aufgefordert, ein dem vorgeschriebenen Standard entsprechendes Sequenzprotokoll oder ein Sequenzprotokoll auf dem vorgeschriebenen Datenträger innerhalb einer vom Europäischen Patentamt zu bestimmenden Frist einzureichen.

*Regel 112*¹⁶¹

Prüfung der Einheitlichkeit durch das Europäische Patentamt

Ist nur für einen Teil der internationalen Anmeldung von der Internationalen Recherchenbehörde eine Recherche durchgeführt worden, weil diese Behörde der Auffassung war, dass die internationale Anmeldung nicht den Anforderungen an die Einheitlichkeit der Erfindung entspricht, und hat der Anmelder nicht alle zusätzlichen Gebühren nach Artikel 17 Absatz 3 Buchstabe a des Zusammenarbeitsvertrags innerhalb der vorgeschriebenen Frist entrichtet, so prüft das Europäische Patentamt, ob die Anmeldung den Anforderungen an die Einheitlichkeit der Erfindung entspricht. Ist das Europäische Patentamt der Auffassung, dass dies nicht der Fall ist, so teilt es dem Anmelder mit, dass für die Teile der internationalen Anmeldung, für die keine Recherche durchgeführt worden ist, ein europäischer Recherchenbericht erstellt werden kann, wenn für jede weitere Erfindung innerhalb einer vom Europäischen Patentamt bestimmten Frist, die nicht kürzer als zwei Wochen sein und sechs Wochen nicht übersteigen darf, eine Recherchengebühr entrichtet wird. Rule 38, paragraph 4, shall apply.

(3) If at the expiry of the period provided for in Rule 107, paragraph 1, a sequence listing as prescribed in Rule 5.2 of the Regulations under the Cooperation Treaty is not available to the European Patent Office, or does not conform to the prescribed standard, or has not been filed on the prescribed data carrier, the applicant shall be invited to file a sequence listing conforming to the prescribed standard or on the prescribed data carrier within such period as the European Patent Office shall specify.

*Rule 112*¹⁶¹

Consideration of unity by the European Patent Office

If only a part of the international application has been searched by the International Searching Authority because that Authority considered that the application did not comply with the requirement of unity of invention, and the applicant did not pay all additional fees according to Article 17, paragraph 3(a), of the Cooperation Treaty within the prescribed time limit, the European Patent Office shall consider whether the application complies with the requirement of unity of invention. If the European Patent Office considers that this is not the case, it shall inform the applicant that a European search report can be obtained in respect of those parts of the international application which have not been searched if a search fee is paid for each invention involved within a period specified by the European Patent Office which may not be shorter than two weeks and may not exceed six weeks. The Search Division shall draw up a European search report for those parts of the international application which relate to inventions in respect of which search fees have been paid. Rule 46, paragraph 2, shall apply mutatis mutandis.

¹⁶¹ Die bisherigen Regeln 104b bis 106a wurden durch die neuen Regeln 106 bis 112 ersetzt. Beschluss des Verwaltungsrats vom 13.10.1999, in Kraft getreten am 01.03.2000 (ABl. EPA 1999, 660 ff.).

¹⁶¹ Existing Rules 104b to 106a were replaced by new Rules 106 to 112. Decision of the Administrative Council of 13.10.1999 which entered into force on 01.03.2000 (OJ EPO 1999, 660 ff.).

(2) Si la priorité d'une demande antérieure est revendiquée et que le numéro de dépôt ou la copie de la demande antérieure prévus à l'article 88, paragraphe 1 et à la règle 38, paragraphes 1, 2 et 3 n'ont pas encore été produits à l'expiration du délai fixé à la règle 107, paragraphe 1, l'Office européen des brevets invite le demandeur à produire le numéro de dépôt ou la copie de la demande antérieure dans un délai qu'il lui impartit. La règle 38, paragraphe 4 est applicable.

*Règle 112*¹⁶¹

Examen de l'unité par l'Office européen des brevets

Art. 82

Lorsqu'une partie seulement de la demande internationale a fait l'objet d'une recherche de la part de l'administration chargée de la recherche internationale, celle-ci ayant estimé que la demande ne satisfait pas à l'exigence d'unité d'invention et que le demandeur n'a pas payé toutes les taxes additionnelles visées à l'article 17, paragraphe 3), lettre a) du Traité de Coopération dans le délai prescrit, l'Office européen des brevets examine si la demande satisfait à l'exigence d'unité d'invention. Dans la négative, l'Office européen des brevets informe le demandeur qu'il peut obtenir un rapport de recherche européenne pour les parties de la demande internationale n'ayant pas fait l'objet d'une recherche en acquittant une taxe de recherche pour chaque invention concernée dans un délai qu'il lui impartit et qui ne peut être inférieur à deux semaines ni supérieur à six semaines. La division de la recherche établit le rapport de recherche européenne pour les parties de la demande internationale qui se rapportent aux inventions pour lesquelles les taxes de recherche ont été acquittées. La règle 46, paragraphe 2 est applicable mutatis mutandis.

¹⁶¹ Les règles 104ter à 106bis ont été remplacées par les nouvelles règles 106 à 112. Décision du Conseil d'administration en date du 13.10.1999, entrée en vigueur le 01.03.2000 (JO OEB 1999, 660 s.).

(PROTOCOLE SUR LA CENTRALISATION)

du 5 octobre 1973

(1)(a) Bei Inkrafttreten des Übereinkommens treffen die Vertragsstaaten des Übereinkommens, die gleichzeitig Mitgliedstaaten des durch das Haager Abkommen vom 6. Juni 1947 errichteten Internationalen Patentinstituts sind, die notwendigen Maßnahmen, um sicherzustellen, dass alle Aktiva und Passiva sowie das gesamte Personal des Internationalen Patentinstituts spätestens zu dem in Artikel 162 Absatz 1 des Übereinkommens vorgesehenen Zeitpunkt auf das Europäische Patentamt übertragen werden. Diese Übertragung erfolgt im Wege eines Vertrags zwischen dem Internationalen Patentinstitut und der Europäischen Patentorganisation. Die oben erwähnten Staaten und die anderen Vertragsstaaten des Übereinkommens treffen die notwendigen Maßnahmen, um sicherzustellen, dass dieser Vertrag spätestens zu dem in Artikel 162 Absatz 1 des Übereinkommens vorgesehenen Zeitpunkt angewendet wird. Die Mitgliedstaaten des Internationalen Patentinstituts, die gleichzeitig Vertragsstaaten des Übereinkommens sind, verpflichten sich ferner, ihre Mitgliedschaft am Haager Abkommen zum Zeitpunkt der Anwendung des Vertrags zu beenden.

(b) Die Vertragsstaaten des Übereinkommens treffen die notwendigen Maßnahmen, um sicherzustellen, dass die Aktiva und Passiva sowie das gesamte Personal des Internationalen Patentinstituts in das Europäische Patentamt nach Maßgabe des unter Buchstabe a erwähnten Vertrags übernommen werden. Das Europäische Patentamt übernimmt von der Anwendung dieses Vertrags an einerseits die Aufgaben, die dem Internationalen Patentinstitut am Tag der Auflage des Übereinkommens zur Unterzeichnung obliegen, insbesondere diejenigen, die es zu diesem Zeitpunkt gegenüber seinen Mitgliedstaaten wahrnimmt, wobei es unerheblich ist, ob diese Staaten Vertragsstaaten des Übereinkommens werden oder nicht, und andererseits die Aufgaben, zu deren Wahrnehmung es sich bei Inkrafttreten des Übereinkommens gegenüber Staaten verpflichtet hat, die in diesem Zeitpunkt sowohl Mitgliedstaaten des Internationalen Patentinstituts als auch Vertragsstaaten des Übereinkommens sind. Außerdem kann der Verwaltungsrat der Europäischen Patentorganisation dem Europäischen Patentamt weitere Aufgaben auf dem Gebiet der Recherche übertragen.

(c) Die oben genannten Verpflichtungen beziehen sich sinngemäß auch auf die gemäß dem Haager Abkommen geschaffene Dienststelle unter den im Abkommen zwischen dem Internationalen Patentinstitut und der Regierung des beteiligten Vertragsstaats vorgesehenen Bedingungen. Diese Regierung verpflichtet sich, mit der Europäischen Patentorganisation ein neues Abkommen, das das bereits bestehende Abkommen mit dem Internationalen Patentinstitut ablöst, zu schließen, um die Bestimmungen über die Organisation, die Tätigkeit und die Finanzierung der Dienststelle mit diesem Protokoll in Einklang zu bringen.

(1)(a) Upon entry into force of the Convention, States parties thereto which are also members of the International Patent Institute set up by the Hague Agreement of 6 June 1947 shall take all necessary steps to ensure the transfer to the European Patent Office no later than the date referred to in Article 162, paragraph 1, of the Convention of all assets and liabilities and all staff members of the International Patent Institute. Such transfer shall be effected by an agreement between the International Patent Institute and the European Patent Organisation. The above States and the other States parties to the Convention shall take all necessary steps to ensure that that agreement shall be implemented no later than the date referred to in Article 162, paragraph 1, of the Convention. Upon implementation of the agreement, those Member States of the International Patent Institute which are also parties to the Convention further undertake to terminate their participation in the Hague Agreement.

(b) The States parties to the Convention shall take all necessary steps to ensure that all the assets and liabilities and all the staff members of the International Patent Institute are taken into the European Patent Office in accordance with the agreement referred to in subparagraph (a). After the implementation of that agreement the tasks incumbent upon the International Patent Institute at the date on which the Convention is opened for signature, and in particular those carried out vis-à-vis its Member States, whether or not they become parties to the Convention, and such tasks as it has undertaken at the time of the entry into force of the Convention to carry out vis-à-vis States which, at that date, are both members of the International Patent Institute and parties to the Convention, shall be assumed by the European Patent Office. In addition, the Administrative Council of the European Patent Organisation may allocate further duties in the field of searching to the European Patent Office.

(c) The above obligations shall also apply mutatis mutandis to the sub-office set up under the Hague Agreement under the conditions set out in the agreement between the International Patent Institute and the Government of the Contracting State concerned. This Government hereby undertakes to make a new agreement with the European Patent Organisation in place of the one already made with the International Patent Institute to harmonise the clauses concerning the organisation, operation and financing of the sub-office with the provisions of this Protocol.

*Section I*¹

(1)(a) A la date d'entrée en vigueur de la convention, les Etats parties à la convention qui sont également membres de l'Institut International des Brevets créé par l'Accord de La Haye du 6 juin 1947, prennent toutes les mesures nécessaires pour que le transfert à l'Office européen des brevets de tout l'actif et de tout le passif ainsi que de tout le personnel de l'Institut International des Brevets s'effectue au plus tard à la date visée à l'article 162, paragraphe 1, de la convention. Les modalités de ce transfert seront fixées par un accord entre l'Institut International des Brevets et l'Organisation européenne des brevets. Les Etats susvisés ainsi que les autres Etats parties à la convention prennent toutes les mesures nécessaires pour que cet accord soit mis en application au plus tard à la date visée à l'article 162, paragraphe 1, de la convention. A la date de cette mise en application, les Etats membres de l'Institut International des Brevets qui sont également parties à la convention s'engagent en outre à mettre fin à leur participation à l'Accord de La Haye.

(b) Les Etats parties à la convention prennent toutes les mesures nécessaires pour que, conformément à l'accord visé à la lettre (a), tout l'actif et tout le passif ainsi que tout le personnel de l'Institut International des Brevets soient incorporés dans l'Office européen des brevets. Dès la mise en application de cet accord, seront accomplies par l'Office européen des brevets, d'une part, les tâches assumées par l'Institut International des Brevets à la date de l'ouverture à la signature de la convention, en particulier celles qu'il assume à l'égard de ses Etats membres, qu'ils deviennent ou non parties à la convention, d'autre part, les tâches qu'il se sera engagé à assumer lors de l'entrée en vigueur de la convention à l'égard d'Etats qui seront à cette date à la fois membres de l'Institut International des Brevets et parties à la convention. En outre, le Conseil d'administration de l'Organisation européenne des brevets peut charger l'Office européen des brevets d'autres tâches dans le domaine de la recherche.

(c) Les engagements visés ci-dessus s'appliquent également à l'agence créée en vertu de l'Accord de La Haye et selon les conditions fixées dans l'accord conclu entre l'Institut International des Brevets et le gouvernement de l'Etat contractant concerné. Ce gouvernement s'engage à conclure avec l'Organisation européenne des brevets un nouvel accord remplaçant celui déjà conclu avec l'Institut International des Brevets pour harmoniser les clauses relatives à l'organisation, au fonctionnement et au financement de l'agence avec les dispositions du présent protocole.

(2) Die Vertragsstaaten des Übereinkommens verzichten zu dem in Artikel 162 Absatz 1 des Übereinkommens genannten Zeitpunkt vorbehaltlich des Abschnitts III für ihre Zentralbehörden für den gewerblichen Rechtsschutz zu Gunsten des Europäischen Patentamts auf die Tätigkeit als Internationale Recherchenbehörde nach dem Zusammenarbeitsvertrag.

(3)(a) Zu dem in Artikel 162 Absatz 1 des Übereinkommens genannten Zeitpunkt wird in Berlin [...] eine Dienststelle des Europäischen Patentamts errichtet. Diese Dienststelle untersteht der Zweigstelle in Den Haag.

(b) Der Verwaltungsrat legt die Befugnisse der Dienststelle Berlin unter Berücksichtigung allgemeiner Erwägungen und der Bedürfnisse des Europäischen Patentamts [...] fest.

(c) Zumindest am Anfang des Zeitabschnitts nach der stufenweisen Ausdehnung des Tätigkeitsbereichs des Europäischen Patentamts muss der Umfang der dieser Dienststelle übertragenen Arbeiten eine volle Auslastung des im Zeitpunkt der Auflage des Übereinkommens zur Unterzeichnung bei der Dienststelle Berlin des Deutschen Patentamts beschäftigten Prüferpersonals ermöglichen.

Abschnitt II

Die Vertragsstaaten des Übereinkommens verzichten vorbehaltlich der Abschnitte III und IV für ihre Zentralbehörden für den gewerblichen Rechtsschutz zu Gunsten des Europäischen Patentamts auf die Tätigkeit als mit der internationalen vorläufigen Prüfung beauftragte Behörde nach dem Zusammenarbeitsvertrag. Diese Verpflichtung wird nur in dem Umfang, in dem das Europäische Patentamt nach Artikel 162 Absatz 2 des Übereinkommens die Prüfung europäischer Patentanmeldungen durchführen kann, wirksam; diese Wirkung tritt zwei Jahre nach dem Zeitpunkt ein, zu dem das Europäische Patentamt nach einem Fünfjahresplan, der die Zuständigkeit des Amts stufenweise auf alle Gebiete der Technik ausdehnt und nur durch einen Beschluss des Verwaltungsrats geändert werden kann, seine Prüfungstätigkeit auf die betreffenden Gebiete der Technik ausgedehnt hat. Die Einzelheiten der Erfüllung der genannten Verpflichtung werden durch Beschluss des Verwaltungsrats festgelegt.

(2) Subject to the provisions of Section III, the States parties to the Convention shall, on behalf of their central industrial property offices, renounce in favour of the European Patent Office any activities as International Searching Authorities under the Patent Cooperation Treaty as from the date referred to in Article 162, paragraph 1, of the Convention.

(3)(a) A sub-office of the European Patent Office [...] shall be set up in Berlin [...] as from the date referred to in Article 162, paragraph 1, of the Convention. It shall operate under the direction of the branch at The Hague.

(b) The Administrative Council shall determine the duties to be allocated to the sub-office in Berlin in the light of general considerations and of the requirements of the European Patent Office [...].

(c) At least at the beginning of the period following the progressive expansion of the field of activity of the European Patent Office, the amount of work assigned to that sub-office shall be sufficient to enable the examining staff of the Berlin Annex of the German Patent Office, as it stands at the date on which the Convention is opened for signature, to be fully employed.

(d) The Federal Republic of Germany shall bear any additional costs incurred by the European Patent Organisation in setting up and maintaining the sub-office in Berlin.

Section II

Subject to the provisions of Sections III and IV, the States parties to the Convention shall, on behalf of their central industrial property offices, renounce in favour of the European Patent Office any activities as International Preliminary Examining Authorities under the Patent Cooperation Treaty. This obligation shall apply only to the extent to which the European Patent Office may examine European patent applications in accordance with Article 162, paragraph 2, of the Convention and shall not apply until two years after the date on which the European Patent Office has begun examining activities in the areas of technology concerned, on the basis of a five-year plan which shall progressively extend the activities of the European Patent Office to all areas of technology and which may be amended only by decision of the Administrative Council. The procedures for implementing this obligation shall be determined by decision of the Administrative Council.

(2) Sous réserve des dispositions de la section III, les Etats parties à la convention renoncent, pour leurs services centraux de la propriété industrielle et au profit de l'Office européen des brevets, à toute activité qu'ils seraient susceptibles d'exercer en qualité d'administration chargée de la recherche au sens du Traité de Coopération en matière de brevets, dès la date visée à l'article 162, paragraphe 1 de la convention.

(3)(a) Une agence de l'Office européen des brevets est créée à Berlin [...], à compter de la date visée à l'article 162, paragraphe 1, de la convention [...]. Elle relève du département de La Haye.

(b) Le Conseil d'administration fixe la répartition des tâches de l'agence de Berlin, compte tenu de considérations générales et des besoins de l'Office européen des brevets [...].

(c) Au moins au début de la période suivant l'extension progressive du champ d'activité de l'Office européen des brevets, le volume des travaux confiés à cette agence doit permettre d'occuper pleinement le personnel examinateur de l'annexe de Berlin de l'Office allemand des brevets en fonction à la date d'ouverture à la signature de la convention.

(d) La République fédérale d'Allemagne supporte tous les frais supplémentaires résultant, pour l'Organisation européenne des brevets, de la création et du fonctionnement de l'agence de Berlin.

Section II

Sous réserve des dispositions des sections III et IV, les Etats parties à la convention renoncent, pour ce qui concerne leurs services centraux de la propriété industrielle et au profit de l'Office européen des brevets, à toute activité en qualité d'administration chargée de l'examen préliminaire international au sens du Traité de Coopération. Cette obligation ne prendra effet que dans la mesure où l'Office européen des brevets pourra entreprendre l'examen des demandes de brevet européen en vertu de l'article 162, paragraphe 2, de la convention ; cet effet intervient deux années après le jour où l'Office européen des brevets a commencé son activité d'examen sur les domaines de la technique en question, d'après un plan de cinq ans, étendant progressivement la compétence de l'Office à tous les secteurs de la technique et qui ne peut être modifié que par décision du Conseil d'administration. Les modalités de mise en application de ladite obligation sont déterminées par décision du Conseil d'administration.

PROTOCOL ON CENTRALISATION Section II

PROTOCOLE SUR LA CENTRALISATION Section II

(1) Die Zentralbehörde für den gewerblichen Rechtsschutz jedes Vertragsstaats des Übereinkommens, dessen Amtssprache nicht eine der Amtssprachen des Europäischen Patentamts ist, ist berechtigt, eine Tätigkeit als Internationale Recherchenbehörde und als mit der internationalen vorläufigen Prüfung beauftragte Behörde nach dem Zusammenarbeitsvertrag auszuüben. Die Inanspruchnahme dieses Rechts setzt die Verpflichtung des betreffenden Staats voraus, diese Tätigkeit auf internationale Anmeldungen zu beschränken, die von Staatsangehörigen des betreffenden Staats, von Personen mit Wohnsitz oder Sitz im Hoheitsgebiet dieses Staats, von Staatsangehörigen eines diesem Übereinkommen angehörenden Nachbarstaats dieses Staats oder von Personen, die in einem solchen Nachbarstaat ihren Wohnsitz oder Sitz haben, eingereicht werden. Der Verwaltungsrat kann der Zentralbehörde für den gewerblichen Rechtsschutz eines Vertragsstaats durch Beschluss gestatten, die genannte Tätigkeit auf solche internationale Anmeldungen auszudehnen, die von Staatsangehörigen oder von Personen mit Wohnsitz oder Sitz im Hoheitsgebiet eines Nichtvertragsstaats, der die gleiche Amtssprache wie der betreffende Vertragsstaat hat, eingereicht werden und die in dieser Sprache abgefasst sind.

(2) Im Hinblick auf eine Harmonisierung der nach dem Zusammenarbeitsvertrag vorgesehenen Recherchertätigkeiten im Rahmen des europäischen Patenterteilungssystems wird eine Zusammenarbeit zwischen dem Europäischen Patentamt und den nach diesem Abschnitt zugelassenen Zentralbehörden für den gewerblichen Rechtsschutz hergestellt. Diese Zusammenarbeit erfolgt auf Grund einer besonderen Vereinbarung, die sich zum Beispiel erstrecken kann auf Rechercheverfahren und -methoden, die Anforderungen für die Einstellung und Ausbildung von Prüfern, Richtlinien für den Austausch von Recherchen und anderen Diensten zwischen den Behörden sowie andere, zur Sicherstellung der erforderlichen Kontrolle und Überwachung notwendige Maßnahmen.

Abschnitt IV

Section IV

(1)(a) Um den nationalen Patentämtern der Vertragsstaaten des Übereinkommens die Anpassung an das europäische Patentsystem zu erleichtern, kann der Verwaltungsrat, wenn er es für wünschenswert hält, unter den nachstehend festgelegten Bedingungen den Zentralbehörden für den gewerblichen Rechtsschutz dieser Staaten, in denen das Verfahren in einer der Amtssprachen des Europäischen Patentamts durchgeführt werden kann, die Bearbeitung der europäischen Patentanmeldungen, die in der betreffenden Sprache abgefasst sind, übertragen, soweit nach Artikel 18 Absatz 2 des Übereinkommens in der Regel ein Prüfer der Prüfungsabteilung beauftragt wird. Diese Aufgaben sind im Rahmen des im Übereinkommen vorgesehenen Erteilungsverfahrens durchzuführen; die Entscheidung über diese Anmeldungen trifft die Prüfungsabteilung in ihrer nach Artikel 18 Absatz 2 vorgesehenen Zusammensetzung.

(1) The central industrial property office of any State party to the Convention in which the official language is not one of the official languages of the European Patent Office, shall be authorised to act as an International Searching Authority and as an International Preliminary Examining Authority under the Patent Cooperation Treaty. Such authorisation shall be subject to an undertaking by the State concerned to restrict such activities to international applications filed by nationals or residents of such State and by nationals or residents of States parties to the Convention which are adjacent to that State. The Administrative Council may decide to authorise the central industrial property office of any State party to the Convention to extend such activities to cover such international applications as may be filed by nationals or residents of any non-Contracting State having the same official language as the Contracting State in question and drawn up in that language.

(2) For the purpose of harmonising search activities under the Patent Cooperation Treaty within the framework of the European system for the grant of patents, co-operation shall be established between the European Patent Office and any central industrial property office authorised under this Section. Such co-operation shall be based on a special agreement which may cover e.g. search procedures and methods, qualifications required for the recruitment and training of examiners, guidelines for the exchange of search and other services between the offices as well as other measures needed to establish the required control and supervision.

(1)(a) For the purpose of facilitating the adaptation of the national patent offices of the States parties to the Convention to the European patent system, the Administrative Council may, if it considers it desirable, and subject to the conditions set out below, entrust the central industrial property offices of such of those States in which it is possible to conduct the proceedings in one of the official languages of the European Patent Office with tasks concerning the examination of European patent applications drawn up in that language which, pursuant to Article 18, paragraph 2, of the Convention, shall, as a general rule, be entrusted to a member of the Examining Division. Such tasks shall be carried out within the framework of the proceedings for grant laid down in the Convention; decisions on such applications shall be taken by the Examining Division composed in accordance with Article 18, paragraph 2.

Section III

(1) Le service central de la propriété industrielle de tout Etat partie à la convention, dont la langue officielle n'est pas l'une des langues officielles de l'Office européen des brevets, est autorisé à exercer une activité en qualité d'administration chargée de la recherche et en qualité d'administration chargée de l'examen préliminaire au sens du Traité de Coopération. Cette autorisation est subordonnée à l'engagement de l'Etat en cause de limiter cette activité aux demandes internationales déposées par les nationaux dudit Etat ou par les personnes domiciliées sur son territoire ainsi que par les nationaux ou les personnes domiciliées sur le territoire d'Etats parties à la convention et qui sont limitrophes de cet Etat. Le Conseil d'administration peut décider d'autoriser le service central de la propriété industrielle d'un Etat partie à la convention à étendre cette activité aux demandes internationales qui sont déposées par des nationaux ou des personnes ayant leur domicile ou leur siège sur le territoire d'un Etat non contractant ayant la même langue officielle que l'Etat partie en cause et qui sont rédigées dans cette langue.

(2) En vue d'harmoniser les activités de recherche au titre du Traité de Coopération dans le cadre du système européen de délivrance de brevets, il est établi une coopération entre l'Office européen des brevets et tout service central de la propriété industrielle autorisé à exercer une telle activité en vertu de la présente section. Cette coopération est fondée sur un accord spécial qui peut s'étendre, par exemple, aux procédures et méthodes de recherche, aux qualifications requises en ce qui concerne le recrutement et la formation des examinateurs, aux directives relatives aux échanges de recherche et d'autres services entre les offices, ainsi qu'aux autres mesures nécessaires au contrôle et à la surveillance.

Section IV

(1)(a) En vue de faciliter l'adaptation des offices nationaux des Etats parties à la convention au système du brevet européen, le Conseil d'administration peut, s'il le juge souhaitable, et dans les conditions définies ci-après, confier aux services centraux de la propriété industrielle de ces mêmes Etats, où l'on est en mesure de conduire la procédure dans une des langues officielles de l'Office européen des brevets, des tâches d'instruction des demandes de brevet européen rédigées dans cette même langue qui, conformément à l'article 18, paragraphe 2, de la convention, sont confiées en règle générale à l'un des examinateurs de la division d'examen. Ces travaux sont effectués dans le cadre de la procédure de délivrance prévue dans la convention; la décision relative à ces demandes est prise par la division d'examen dans sa composition prévue à l'article 18, paragraphe 2.

PROTOCOL ON CENTRALISATION Section III

PROTOCOLE SUR LA CENTRALISATION Section III

(b) Die nach Maßgabe des Buchstabens a übertragenen Arbeiten dürfen nicht mehr als 40 % der Gesamtzahl der eingereichten europäischen Patentanmeldungen betragen; die einem einzelnen Staat übertragenen Arbeiten dürfen nicht mehr als ein Drittel der Gesamtzahl der eingereichten europäischen Patentanmeldungen betragen. Diese Arbeiten werden für einen Zeitraum übertragen, der von der Aufnahme der Tätigkeit des Europäischen Patentamts an gerechnet 15 Jahre beträgt, und werden während der letzten 5 Jahre schrittweise (um grundsätzlich 20 % jährlich) bis auf Null verringert.

(c) Auf Grund des Buchstabens b beschließt der Verwaltungsrat über die Art, den Ursprung und die Anzahl der europäischen Patentanmeldungen, mit deren Bearbeitung die Zentralbehörde für den gewerblichen Rechtsschutz eines der genannten Vertragsstaaten beauftragt werden kann.

(d) Die vorstehenden Durchführungsbestimmungen werden in ein besonderes Abkommen aufgenommen, das zwischen der Zentralbehörde für den gewerblichen Rechtsschutz des betreffenden Vertragsstaats und der Europäischen Patentorganisation geschlossen wird.

(e) Ein Patentamt, mit dem ein solches besonderes Abkommen geschlossen worden ist, kann bis zum Ablauf des Zeitraums von 15 Jahren eine Tätigkeit als eine mit der internationalen vorläufigen Prüfung beauftragte Behörde nach dem Zusammenarbeitsvertrag ausüben.

(2)(a) Ist der Verwaltungsrat der Auffassung, dass dies mit dem guten Funktionieren des Europäischen Patentamts vereinbar ist, so kann er, um Schwierigkeiten abzuwehren, die für bestimmte Vertragsstaaten aus der Anwendung von Abschnitt I Nummer 2 erwachsen können, den Zentralbehörden für den gewerblichen Rechtsschutz dieser Staaten die Aufgabe übertragen, Recherchen für europäische Patentanmeldungen durchzuführen, sofern deren Amtssprache eine der Amtssprachen des Europäischen Patentamts ist und diese Behörden die Voraussetzungen erfüllen, um gemäß den im Zusammenarbeitsvertrag vorgesehenen Bedingungen als internationale Recherchenbehörde ernannt zu werden.

(b) Bei diesen Arbeiten, die unter der Verantwortung des Europäischen Patentamts durchgeführt werden, hat sich die betreffende Zentralbehörde an die für die Erstellung des europäischen Recherchenberichts geltenden Richtlinien zu halten.

(c) Nummer 1 Buchstabe b Satz 2 und Buchstabe d ist entsprechend anzuwenden.

(b) Tasks entrusted under sub-paragraph (a) shall not be in respect of more than 40% of the total number of European patent applications filed; tasks entrusted to any one State shall not be in respect of more than one-third of the total number of European patent applications filed. These tasks shall be entrusted for a period of 15 years from the opening of the European Patent Office and shall be reduced progressively (in principle by 20% a year) to zero during the last 5 years of the period.

(c) The Administrative Council shall decide, while taking into account the provisions of sub-paragraph (b), upon the nature, origin and number of the European patent applications in respect of which examining tasks may be entrusted to the central industrial property office of each of the Contracting States mentioned above.

(d) The above implementing procedures shall be set out in a special agreement between the central industrial property office of the Contracting State concerned and the European Patent Organisation.

(e) An office with which such a special agreement has been concluded may act as an International Preliminary Examining Authority under the Patent Cooperation Treaty, until the expiry of the period of 15 years.

(2)(a) If the Administrative Council considers that it is compatible with the proper functioning of the European Patent Office, and in order to alleviate the difficulties which may arise for certain Contracting States from the application of Section I, paragraph 2, it may entrust searching in respect of European patent applications to the central industrial property offices of those States in which the official language is one of the official languages of the European Patent Office, provided that these offices possess the necessary qualifications for appointment as an International Searching Authority in accordance with the conditions laid down in the Patent Cooperation Treaty.

(b) In carrying out such work, undertaken under the responsibility of the European Patent Office, the central industrial property offices concerned shall adhere to the guidelines applicable to the drawing up of the European search report.

(c) The provisions of paragraph 1(b), second sentence, and sub-paragraph (d) of this Section shall apply to this paragraph.

(b) Les travaux confiés en vertu de la lettre (a) ne porteront pas sur plus de quarante pour cent du total des demandes de brevet européen déposées ; les travaux confiés à un Etat ne devront pas excéder un tiers du total des demandes de brevet européen déposées. Ces tâches seront confiées pour une période de quinze ans à compter de l'ouverture de l'Office européen des brevets et seront réduites progressivement (en principe de vingt pour cent par an) jusqu'à devenir nulles au cours des cinq dernières années de ladite période.

(c) Compte tenu de la lettre (b), le Conseil d'administration décidera de la nature, de l'origine et du nombre des demandes de brevet européen dont l'instruction pourra être confiée au service central de la propriété industrielle de l'un des Etats parties susvisés.

(d) Les modalités d'application ci-dessus feront l'objet d'un accord spécial entre le service central de la propriété industrielle de l'Etat partie en cause et l'Organisation européenne des brevets.

(e) Un office avec lequel un tel accord spécial a été conclu pourra exercer une activité en qualité d'administration chargée de l'examen préliminaire international, au sens du Traité de Coopération, jusqu'à expiration de la période de quinze ans.

(2)(a) Si le Conseil d'administration estime que cela est compatible avec le bon fonctionnement de l'Office européen des brevets et en vue de pallier les difficultés pouvant résulter pour certains Etats contractants de l'application de la section I, paragraphe 2, il peut confier des travaux de recherche relatifs à des demandes de brevet européen aux services centraux de la propriété industrielle de ces Etats dont la langue officielle est l'une des langues officielles de l'Office européen des brevets, à condition que ces services possèdent la qualification requise pour être nommés administration de recherche internationale dans les conditions prévues au Traité de Coopération.

(b) En procédant à ces travaux, effectués sous la responsabilité de l'Office européen des brevets, les services centraux concernés doivent s'en tenir aux directives applicables en matière d'établissement du rapport de recherche européenne.

(c) Les dispositions de la présente section, paragraphe 1, lettre (b), deuxième phrase, s'appliquent au présent paragraphe.

PROTOCOLE SUR LA CENTRALISATION

Abschnitt V

(1) Die in Abschnitt I Nummer 1 Buchstabe c genannte Dienststelle ist berechtigt, für europäische Patentanmeldungen, die von Angehörigen des Staats, in dem die Dienststelle ihren Sitz hat, und von Personen mit Wohnsitz oder Sitz in diesem Staat eingereicht werden, eine Recherche in der ihr zur Verfügung stehenden Dokumentation durchzuführen, soweit diese in der Amtssprache dieses Staates abgefasst ist. Hierdurch darf jedoch weder das Europäische Patenterteilungsverfahren verzögert werden, noch dürfen der Europäischen Patentorganisation zusätzliche Kosten entstehen.

(2) Die in Nummer 1 genannte Dienststelle ist berechtigt, auf Antrag und auf Kosten des Anmelders eines europäischen Patents eine Recherche für die von ihm eingereichte Patentanmeldung in der unter Nummer 1 vorgesehenen Dokumentation durchzuführen. Die Berechtigung gilt, solange die in Artikel 92 des Übereinkommens vorgesehene Recherche nicht gemäß Abschnitt VI auf diese Dokumentation ausgedehnt worden ist; doch darf dadurch das europäische Patenterteilungsverfahren nicht verzögert werden.

(3) Der Verwaltungsrat kann die in den Nummern 1 und 2 vorgesehenen Berechtigungen unter den in den genannten Nummern vorgesehenen Voraussetzungen auch auf Zentralbehörden für den gewerblichen Rechtsschutz der Vertragsstaaten ausdehnen, die als Amtssprache keine der Amtssprachen des Europäischen Patentamts haben.

Abschnitt VI

Die in Artikel 92 des Übereinkommens vorgesehene Recherche wird grundsätzlich für alle europäischen Patentanmeldungen auf Patentschriften und veröffentlichte Patentanmeldungen sowie weitere einschlägige Dokumente von Vertragsstaaten ausgedehnt, die zu dem in Artikel 162 Absatz 1 des Übereinkommens erwähnten Zeitpunkt nicht im Prüfstoff des Europäischen Patentamts enthalten sind. Der Verwaltungsrat legt auf Grund der Ergebnisse einer Studie, die sich insbesondere mit den technischen und finanziellen Aspekten zu befassen hat, den Umfang, die näheren Bedingungen und den Zeitplan der Ausdehnung fest.

Abschnitt VII

Dieses Protokoll geht entgegenstehenden Vorschriften des Übereinkommens vor.

Abschnitt VIII

Die in diesem Protokoll vorgesehenen Beschlüsse des Verwaltungsrats werden mit Dreiviertelmehrheit getroffen (Artikel 35 Absatz 2 des Übereinkommens). Die Vorschriften über Stimmenwägung (Artikel 36 des Übereinkommens) sind anzuwenden.

Section V

(1) The sub-office referred to in Section I, paragraph 1(c), shall be authorised to carry out searches, among the documentation which is at its disposal and which is in the official language of the State in which the sub-office is located, in respect of European patent applications filed by nationals and residents of that State. This authorisation shall be on the understanding that the procedure for the grant of European patents will not be delayed and that additional costs will not be incurred for the European Patent Organisation.

(2) The sub-office referred to in paragraph 1 shall be authorised to carry out, at the option of an applicant for a European patent and at his expense, a search on his patent application among the documentation referred to in paragraph 1. This authorisation shall be effective until the search provided for in Article 92 of the Convention has been extended, in accordance with Section VI, to cover such documentation and shall be on the understanding that the procedure for the grant of European patents will not be delayed.

(3) The Administrative Council may also extend the authorisations provided for in paragraphs 1 and 2, under the conditions of those paragraphs, to the central industrial property office of a Contracting State which does not have as an official language one of the official languages of the European Patent Office.

Section VI

The search provided for in Article 92 of the Convention shall, in principle, be extended, in respect of all European patent applications, to published patents, published patent applications and other relevant documents of Contracting States not included in the search documentation of the European Patent Office on the date referred to in Article 162, paragraph 1, of the Convention. The extent, conditions and timing of any such extension shall be determined by the Administrative Council on the basis of a study concerning particularly the technical and financial aspects.

Section VII

The provisions of this Protocol shall prevail over any contradictory provisions of the Convention.

Section VIII

The decisions of the Administrative Council provided for in this Protocol shall require a three-quarters majority (Article 35, paragraph 2, of the Convention). The provisions governing the weighting of votes (Article 36 of the Convention) shall apply.

Section V

(1) L'agence visée à la section I, paragraphe 1, lettre (c), est autorisée à effectuer, pour les demandes de brevet européen déposées par les nationaux de l'Etat où est située cette agence et par les personnes domiciliées sur le territoire dudit Etat, des recherches dans la documentation dont elle dispose dans la langue officielle de cet Etat. Cette autorisation ne doit toutefois pas entraîner, d'une part, un retard dans le déroulement de la procédure européenne et, d'autre part, des frais supplémentaires pour l'Organisation européenne des brevets.

(2) L'agence visée au paragraphe 1 est autorisée, si le demandeur d'un brevet européen le requiert et en supporte les frais, à effectuer une recherche portant sur sa demande de brevet dans la documentation visée au paragraphe 1. Cette autorisation prendra fin lorsque la recherche visée à l'article 92 de la convention aura été étendue afin d'y inclure cette documentation, conformément à la section VI, étant entendu qu'il n'en résultera pas un retard dans le déroulement de la procédure de délivrance des brevets européens.

(3) Le Conseil d'administration peut étendre le bénéfice des autorisations prévues aux paragraphes 1 et 2, dans les conditions prévues auxdits paragraphes, aux services centraux de la propriété industrielle des Etats contractants qui n'ont pas comme langue officielle l'une des langues officielles de l'Office européen des brevets.

Section VI

La recherche prévue à l'article 92 de la convention est étendue, en principe, pour toutes les demandes de brevet européen, aux brevets et aux demandes de brevet publiées ainsi qu'à d'autres documents pertinents d'Etats contractants qui ne sont pas compris dans la documentation pour la recherche de l'Office européen des brevets à la date visée à l'article 162, paragraphe 1, de la convention. L'étendue, les conditions et le plan de mise en application de telles extensions sont fixés par le Conseil d'administration sur la base d'études qui doivent porter notamment sur les aspects techniques et financiers.

Section VII

Les dispositions du présent protocole prévalent sur celles de la convention qui s'y opposeraient.

Section VIII

Les décisions du Conseil d'administration prévues dans le présent protocole sont prises à la majorité des trois quarts (article 35, paragraphe 2, de la convention). Les dispositions concernant la pondération des voix (article 36 de la convention) sont applicables.

Die Vertragsstaaten teilen dem Europäischen Patentamt die Behörden mit, denen eine solche Zuständigkeit zugewiesen ist; das Europäische Patentamt unterrichtet die übrigen Vertragsstaaten hiervon.

(3) Als Vertragsstaaten im Sinn dieses Protokolls sind nur die Vertragsstaaten zu verstehen, die die Anwendung dieses Protokolls nach Artikel 167 des Übereinkommens nicht ausgeschlossen haben.
